500 stayed for show

1500 at turtle watch scare turtles, see one

JB--Some people just won't learn, or there were too many who didn't believe Jane Rice, but it was a people show, as an estimated 1,500 persons showed up for the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce "turtle watch" last Saturday night.

The people scared the turtles back into the surf, ruining a dramatic view for others as they scrambled around with lights trying to be the first to the turtles as they crawled up the beaches to lay their eggs. The turtles, frightened, turned around and headed back out to sea, to land elsewhere in a less congested area.

One brave turtle tried to land at the area in front of the Jensen Beach pavilion, but the crowd surged forward, armed with the turtle-scaring lights, and frightened the giant loggerhead back into the ocean. One turtle did land, though, shortly after 11 p.m.

It was to an area about a half mile north of the pavilion, and was discovered by Martin Patrolman Dan Byrd and watch chairman Don Wilkie. The two rushed back to the pavilion and over 500 rushed to the scene to watch nature's phenomena.

The small turtle, weighing about 150 pounds, placidly went about the business of digging the nest and laying about 75 eggs, giant tears rolling from her eyes. When the job was done, the momma turtle crawled back into the sea. It was near 1 a.m. when she finished.

Throughout the three-hour ordeal, June Rice kept a running commentary on the history of the turtles, their habits and the story of the turtle watch in Jensen Beach.

VOLLEY--Firing a volley to the memory of war dead are members of American Legion Post 126, Jensen Beach, honor guard. The honor guard fired three shots in the Memorial Day ceremonies at All Saints' Cemetery last Sunday.

FIRE--"Boots" St. Clair, a veteran of many Memorial Day ceremonies as sergeant at arms of the local Legion Post 126, commanded the honor guard as "Taps" as the salute to war dead was held last Sunday.

STAND UP--Here, Frank Stearns asked the people to stand up and be counted for God, as patriots, in the times of stress we are in, as he keynoted the Memorial Day services Sunday at All Saints' Cemetery.

MCSAC holds picnic at Youth Center

Stuart--The Martin County Senior Activities Club held its first outdoor picnic last Sunday at the park next to the Stuart Youth Center.

One new member was registered, Catherine Ek, who came with another new member of a week, Anna DeSalt.

Natalie Hackhart, membership, and originator of the picnic, took the registration.

Starting at 3 p.m., a short hour of patriotic and religious music was presented. The Sadler Brothers Quartet led the singing.

Only two members of the club's music group attended, Mrs. Bopp with her accordion and George Strong with his guitar.

Following the singing, the gathering enjoyed dinners of southern fried chicken.

The club plans to hold another picnic in the future, with the club preparing the meal in advance.

Miami man rescued at Hobe Sound

JB--The quick action of Martin County Lifeguard Billy Chadwick (18, very well) have saved the life of Mel Haber of North Miami Beach.

Last Monday, Haber had launched his boat at the Hobe Sound for an afternoon of fishing. After boating up and down the outside limits of the Hobe Sound beach, Haber started to bring his boat back in when a wave hit the back of the 18-foot aluminum vessel and flipped the boat over, with Haber being thrown from it.

Chadwick, age 20, swam out and with the injured man, rescued Haber and a companion from the surf.

Later, lifeguard Jeff Allman assisted and brought Haber's boat back in, according to Chief Lifeguard Jack Cammeras.

June's meeting will be on Monday, the 7th at 1 p.m.

JB--Bill and Maxine Bessemer returned to their home town of Akron, Ohio, for a visit recently after nine years. They accompanied a cousin who was towing a boat back north. The Bessemers drove their own car.

One of the highlights of the vacation trip, Mrs. Bessemer told The Mirror, was a ride on the last Baltimore and Ohio passenger train out of Akron.

County gets IIF bulkheading permit

Stuart- The permit to build a seawall that was already built arrived at the office of Martin County Administrator Jack Noble Tuesday. The overdue permit, issued by the state Department of Natural Resources, was for the bulkheading of the Ann Street Spur off Jensen Beach Causeway. Noble and Frank Ashby, county maintainer, proudly showed the permit when it arrived.

The bulkhead is almost complete, after only finishing the concrete cap on the top of the project.

The dredging of the almost filled area, just south of the causeway will return much of the eroded causeway material back to the place that tides and rains deposited it from. The county has been planning to make the fifty foot wide, five feet deep, to clear the way for the ocean.

The emergency permit, applied for in April, after work on the project was stopped by the marine patrol for lack of the permit, was filed on April 29, but took until June 1 to arrive at the courthouse.

Sowder defends health to county

...ents was needed, Sowder countered with the fact that Martin County bathing beaches had been tested, but none had permits.

"I think too much is being made of the permits," Sowder said.

"I think it all boils down to communications," Wachs said, "and this is just an example of it....we passed a good resolution, unanimously, when it was hard to get a unanimous decision on any board, that the state health department be asked to...its attorney to prosecute any and all health code violations in the county without exception."

Sowder said he didn't recall having heard of such a resolution, adding, "This is the first letter of 47 counties that I've received. We pleased quite...but I consider the...requests some more important."

"I think the permits represent the symptom, not the sickness but the symptom...it's not the entire ball of wax, but it's something that is not being done," Commissioner Myers said.

The discussion followed into Jupiter Island, with Myers telling Sowder that the Town of Jupiter Island had let an health survey made by a private firm "...because they feel they can get better service from the health department" after Sowder stated that a survey was in the health department records.

Wachs asked if the health department or the county commission was responsible for finding health violations. Sowder said, "You put up the money and we'll hire the people and see that every home in the county gets a good looking into."

At Sandspit Park, Myers said he wished to know if the health department should have told him to close the park when the water was found to be not potable. Dr. Elmer Stenger, consultant, said it was a "judgmental matter."

Sowder admitted that not having the park closed was "an error on the part of local people."

Dick Campbell, editor of The Mirror, then spoke, and called for the county commission to declare "...no confidence in the present administration of the Tri-County Health Department ...," and asked Dr. Sowder to "replace the administrators of the Tri-County Health Department," and ...ierated his effort to get the governor to reevaluate the health department "on every strata of the encrusted layers of bureaucracy," and asked for a Florida Senate investigation of health law enforcement.

Campbell pointed to the recent health investigation by a Senate Committee on Health in which it was reported that two of thirty-six counties were in compliance with restaurant statutes, and hailed the report of Dr. Stenger on The Mirror series a "whitewash." (Campbell's comments are reprinted in...page 4.)

Willard Bowman, Jensen Beach fireman and vice-president of the Martin County Anglers' Club, said he spoke for himself, and told of an incident when he had to fight a fire in Jensen Beach, slipping and falling under a restaurant through "stinking slime" from a septic tank.

Bowman said, "I will immediately eliminate the excuse of lack of funds and lack of personnel because if they are busy spending their money and using their personnel on more flagrant violations than Poor Bob's was, we are in worse condition than I think we are."

He cited "lack of knowledge, lack of interest" and the "fear he has his hands tied behind him by those above us by politics" as reasons for present conditions existing, "there's always the possibility of double payment."

Worth speaking included Dr. W. Dwendell, who said he would appreciate the funding problems of the health department, George Irving, who spoke in defense of the rivers, and fireman county commissioner Bill Bowman, who asked what the responsibility and authority to stop violations.

None of the members of the Tri-County Health Department take during the meeting, leaving the explanations and interpretations of law up to the state officials, who included Sowder, Herbert...Dr. James Stapleton, chief of local health services, and Stenger.

The meeting ended with an appeal by Myers for consideration of a local health department, and a comment by Sowder that he would appreciate telephones call when the county couldn't get action.

Sowder also criticized The Mirror editor, calling him "fast...objective," saying some of the articles "border on slander...I think that slander should be stopped."

Dr. Stapleton distributed a proposed budget for both a local county health department and a budget for a tri-county unit. He then disputed a comment by Bowman that three doctors told him "we are on the verge of a serious epidemic because of the health situation in this county," saying, "I state my reputation that we are not on the verge of an epidemic."

Following the meeting, Dr. Myers, asked what he thought was accomplished by the meeting, said, "They admitted their laxity in health law enforcement. They blamed it on lack of money and personnel. They feel that the legislature has not listened to their problems.

"I feel that lines of communications have been opened with the state, but the basic problem of health surveillance of violations is still unsolved. My only solution at first blush is our own county health department, controlled by this commission with its interests and initiatives," Myers concluded.

Second floor auditorium planned for First Federal

Jbi—A second floor will be added to the present First Federal Building in downtown Jensen Beach, tied to the new First Federal building to offer auditorium meeting space to the people, according to James A. Garvey, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County.

The meeting room auditorium will feature seating capacity of an average 200 persons, with capacity up to 400 in the air-conditioned room, making it the largest facility of its kind in Jensen Beach.

Access to the auditorium will be from the ultra-modern circular building being constructed on SR 707 and Commercial Street.

"We want the people to be able to use the room, and older folks can use the elevator to get up there, rather than have to climb the stairs," Garvey said.

There will be an overpass from the new building to the auditorium, passing over the landscaped side of the new First Federal building. The two buildings will be "architecturally compatible" with the old building remodeled on the front and side to meet standards of the new building.

At present, the building houses The Mirror, Jensen Beach Travel, Joan's Beauty and the offices of First Federal.

The meeting room will cover the entire top floor of the former Fredriksen Building, about 70' deep by 50' wide. There are provisions for large rest rooms, a stage, and storage areas on the second floor of the building.

The entire meeting room will have an acoustic ceiling, and air conditioning units will be installed so that no outer noise will enter the auditorium.

County may pay for US 1-SR 707 light

Stuart—The traffic light for Us. 1 and SR 707, proposed for installation between November and January by the Department of Transportation, received a boost Tuesday when county commissioners voted to advertise for bids and get specs on the light to learn if the county could install the light.

On a motion proposed by Commissioner Frank Wacha, it was decided to ask the DOT if county secondary road funds would cover an earlier installation by the county. It is estimated that the light and installation will cost approximately $16,000.

Bids will be returnable on July 13, pushing possibility of the light by six months.

In other actions, the county commission:

OFFERED to meet with St. Lucie County Commissioners on June 29 when it was learned that Commissioner Wacha would not be able to make a suggested date of June 21 by the St. Lucie County Commission.

PAID $750 for pipe to be installed at Sandspit Park for water to the park, accepting a bid after the fact. The pipe needed to be installed before the Memorial Day weekend, according to Jack Noble, administrator. Six hundred and fifty feet of two-inch pipe was to be installed, and 300' of one-inch pipe, plus capping of rusted pipes already there but found unacceptable by the county health department.

ASKED for bids on paving two sections of the county courthouse parking lot, returnable on July 13.

GAVE permits to use fireworks to the various areas that would have fire department controlled displays at Fourth of July events.

Garbage permits given to seven

Stuart—Enforcement of garbage franchise rules of the county ordinance will begin in two weeks, affording to action of the county commission Tuesday.

Upon recommendation of Lester Scherer, mosquito control director, the county commission issued franchises for Community Sanitation, Mowes and Sons, Industrial Company, Edward Fettay, Brocks Garbage Service, Cooks Garbage Service and Lasende Village.

Franchises were withheld from Lonny Langston, who has purchased Dalton Henry's garbage service, with continuing litigation by the water table in the area affecting use of existing wells.

Stated that in the past few weeks has been able to build up the water table to hold back the salt water from the electric wells, according to those who have been testing privately.

"Well, I really don't know. I haven't caught one yet. I'm still trying to find out what they like!"

The Martin County commission praised the work of Troop 800 of the Boy Scouts of America at a meeting of the commission at Stuart Tuesday, and commissioner Wacha said that he knew that a number of scouts from the troop had helped in civil defense work during the hurricane of 1960. Small boat billfish tournament is growing

Stuart--The new offshore small-boat billfish tournament being sponsored June 19 and 20 by the Stuart Sailfish Club seems to be striking a responsive chord both locally, and across the state, according to latest information from Bob Pelosi, chairman of the event. Official announcement was made only two weeks ago, and already entries, requests for applications and inquiries from individuals and sportfishing clubs have poured in.

Entries have been received from Tampa, Pompano, Melbourne, Cocoa, Miami and Fort Lauderdale, as well as Stuart. Several boat manufacturers plan to enter craft and anglers. Requests for quantities of application blanks have been received from the Florida Sportfishing Association at [illegible] several; McKinnell Douglas Yacht Club of Merritt Island; and fishing clubs from Winter Haven, Palm Beach, Indian Beach, North Miami and other points on the east and west coasts of Florida. More than 1300 applications have been distributed, [illegible] to inquirers.

Publicity across the state has been excellent, and so far as is known, this is the first distinctly billfish tournament designed and sponsored specifically for boats of 20 feet and under.

Unlike most billfish tournaments, which allow any boat to be entered in a point basis for certain offshore species, the Sailfish Club event will be restricted to white marlin, Spanish sailfish, the angler and [illegible] points for dolphin, in a similar vein for the [illegible] points, prizes are set up for the largest billfish of each species caught that day, namely kingfish, bonita, dolphin, tuna, and barracuda. Release of the billfish, and other species not retained for prize competition, is encouraged.

There are also special prizes for the junior anglers under 16 years of age scoring the most points, and for the most unusual catch as determined by the judges.

Headquarters have been established at the Fishhouse, where a pre-tournament briefing meeting will be held by E.C. Ernst, club president at 6 p.m. Friday, the night before the tournament. Fishing is from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day, and contestants will report into the Fishhouse each afternoon at the completion of the day's fishing.

A flag [illegible] will be [illegible] at the Fishhouse, prepared by the Boca Raton Chapter of the Organized Fishermen of Florida. The flag [illegible] will be presented with each boat entry [illegible] [illegible] entry covers the [illegible].

DAY--The fish were hitting last week for this girl (no proud) her 30 lb. Wahoo, six dolphins and three barracudas at the Francis Outrigger Marina last week, after a long Fisherman's Day. The group spent the day on the Carol Ann III with Harold Holmes as captain. Left to right are, M.K. Peacock, Ft. Lauderdale, Judy Chapman, and her husband, Lt. John Chapman. The couple are from Loughlin Air Force Base in Texas and are vacationing here in Scott Harbor.

Boys take 'Over 30' league lead with win

JB--Bright's Boys came from behind to smash the hopes of Dick's Dudes for a second win of the two week old "Over 30" slow pitch softball league last Friday night. The win placed the Boys in firm control of first place, with two wins and no losses.

The Dudes began the game with a ten run second inning, passing by the Boys with their two run start. It looked like a walk-away for the Dudes as they scored two runs in the third, to one for the Boys, making the score 12-3.

But then the roof caved in. The Boys put it all together, with six runs in the fourth, six runs in the fifth, one run in the sixth and two in the seventh, and the Dudes couldn't recover from the avalanche and were unable to score more than one run in the last four innings of play.

The final score was 18-13.

The Dudes are now tied for second with Klein's Kids, who soundly trounced hapless Gould's Gang, 21-12 in the second game.

The Kids started off with seven runs in the first. The Gang came back with two in the first and three in the second, leaking like a sieve.

But the Kids were not to be caught. The team scored five runs in the third as the Guys scored three, making the score 12-8.

The fourth inning saw the Kids score six runs as they blanked the Guys, and capped it off with three runs in the sixth, to a two run bid of the Guys. The final score of the game, as the two teams limped off the field, was 21-10.

Next week, in the regular Friday night doubleheader, the Boys play the Guys, and in the second game the Kids play the Dudes.

Thank you

Thank you all our friends for your expressions of love when we lost our dear Jean. Your flowers, fruit, cards, floral donations, money contributed to the Miami Heart Institute for research, and your kind words of remembrance will never be forgotten. The memorial service from the All Saints' Episcopal Church with Fr. F. Alexander was beautiful and so consoling. Jean did not die in vain; vital organs were removed for research and study. Four more separate shots of love are shared in. Our love for our many friends came with these tributes.

Legislative health committees respond to county meeting plea

Tallahassee -- The committee chairmen of the powerful health committees of the Florida House of Representatives and Senate have agreed in principle on meeting in Martin County at the request of the Martin County Commission to look into tax health law enforcement. It is estimated that it will be late in July or August before the meeting can be held.

Various members of the legislative bodies took time out from the opening days of the special finance and taxation sessions of the legislature last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to meet with Mirror editor Dick Caswell to discuss the action of the Martin County Commission last week asking for special legislative committee meetings on health problems in the county and the tri-county area.

Dr. Richard S. Hodes, highly respected health tax authority in Tallahassee, and chairman of the House Health and Rehabilitative Services committee, said he would call an "ad hoc" committee meeting in Stuart at the request of the county commissioners. He added the fact that the meeting should be in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate.

Hodes received a copy of the county commission minutes of a special meeting with officials of the Florida Division of Health, a copy of the tax health law enforcement series of articles, editorials and columns run by The Mirror over the past fifteen weeks, and other materials to study from The Mirror editor.

Hodes did not name the ad hoc committee that would be coming to Martin County, but said he would "work it out" so that the house and senate committees would be able to meet when "it is convenient to the members of the committees."

The only local representative serving on the house Health committee is Rep. Donald Hazelton, a freshman legislator representing Martin and Palm Beach Counties.

Sen. Kenneth M. Myers, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Welfare and Institutions, named Sen. Beth Johnson and Sen. Phil Lewis with himself as the ad hoc committee of the Florida Senate to investigate the health tax enforcement problem in Martin County.

Myers is a Miami attorney and is highly praised as a health law authority in the legislature. Sen. Lewis represents Palm Beach County and is a former county commissioner there, and Sen. Johnson, a Brevard County housewife, represents all the counties in the tri-county health district of Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee counties. Both serve with Myers on the health committee.

Myers expressed concern over health law enforcement in the state, producing a newly staged eighty-eight page report of its committee on the application of food inspections in Florida. Highlight of the report, publicized in the press several weeks ago, indicated that only two of thirty-six counties in the study were in compliance with U.S. Public Health Service standards in regard to sanitation of food service establishments.

The report was highly critical of the overlapping authority of the many inspection services in various state agencies, and cited the failure to pinpoint responsibility for law enforcement in the agencies.

Sen. Myers said, "I look for word this coming to Martin County to hear the county officials and the county commissioners." Lewis said that the problems with health law enforcement in Palm Beach and Martin counties were similar to many counties and said that the two committees should work together in bring about proper reforms.

The Mirror editor flew to Tallahassee Wednesday when it was learned that the legislative session for taxation and finance would probably be recessed, and legislators would return to their districts to await the outcome of a conference committee settling differences between the two finance and taxation bills of the two houses.

While there he met with senate President Jerry Thomas concerning health law problems, receiving encouragement from the legislature in the activities of The Mirror in health law enforcement investigation.

New tests at 200 ppm

Intrusion confusion

...An independent testing unit, not a completely scientific device, but used to measure salt content of water, was used to test Jensen Beach water Tuesday, and the test indicated over 200 parts per million in water.

The test showed tap water at The Mirror office to contain 250 ppm of salt.

Tests on the line at Jensen Beach Causeway indicated, at the woman's rest room, 200 ppm, at the Firemen's Pavilion tap, 150 ppm, at the Department of Natural Resources Building at Machado Bridge, 150 ppm, and at the fish cleaning table, near the west end of the causeway, 100 ppm.

Experts seem to be unable to agree on the amount of salt water intrusion that the current drought has brought to wells in the shoreline areas of the St. Lucie and Indian Rivers.

Health Department officials have fended that tests of marine scientist Ross Witham are properly reflecting the saline count in area wells. Witham reported last week high counts of salt in water at the Jensen Causeway, where he operates a Department of Natural Resources laboratory, and along both rivers.

Tests ranged from 500 to 2,000 parts per million of salt in various wells. The Jensen Causeway reflected between 1,000 to 1,500 ppm in two tests.

A health department official said that Witham had tested the water and found 25 ppm on the causeway and from 22 to 35 ppm along the river, and up to 183 ppm in a Port Salerno well.

The possible explanation offered by scientists is that with any rain, any change of tides and the upsurge of the aquifer, the tests would reflect differently.

For example, tests made at Stuart recently revealed that the health department test showed 25 ppm and the Ross Witham test showed a zero reading on the testing device, while both tests taken the same day.

It is entirely probable that the intrusion will reverse as soon as adequate ground water forces the salt water back to the ocean.

In Miami, over a period of fifty years, salt water intrusion moved up the streams and canals to a point 8,000 feet inland, moving under the surface water, according to an ecological author of "Life in the Everglades."

The intrusion was created to a great extent, according to the report, by the canals that drained the surface water and aquifer.

This is the first offshore sailfish tourney headquartered and sponsored specifically for ...

Editorial

Apology for fact?

The "Salt Water Intrusion" article in The Mirror last week has seemed to stir up a hornet's nest in Martin County, and it was followed the 24, Pierce News Tribune corroborated the article, adding other facts; the Stuart News called the article a "rumor" and cited the health department as saying it was "false," and Norman Becker, Jensen attorney, has demanded "...either immediate a full and fair correction, apology and retraction in as conspicuous a place and type as the original article."

It is unfortunate that our information, provided by an unimpeachable source, Ross Witham, a marine scientist with the Department of Natural Resources, has caused the health department to deny that it existed.

Witham and Dick Starr, regional engineer with the bureau of sanitary engineering, about it on or about June 1. Starr went immediately to the county administrator, Jack Noble, and told him that the Jensen Beach Causeway well was endangered by salt. Starr seemed to take the word of a marine scientist as proper. For the health department to deny it, when tests they were asked to make in the early part of June are not yet ready, seems suspect.

For the Stuart News to jump into the picture with a front page article calling the report of a marine scientist "rumor" seems more the intent to discredit. The Mirror article, The News Tribune article of Friday, June 11, not only corroborated The Mirror article, but added depth to it with more reports of salt intrusion.

And for Norman Becker to call the article "false and defamatory" without a proper test of the water, and to demand an apology, a correction and a retraction, threatening suit, and holding The Mirror liable for "any and all damages suffered by them as a result of your article" leaves much to be desired, for the article reported fact as presented to us by a reputable marine scientist, Ross Witham, who seems to know what he is doing and is recognized as an authority in marine science in this area.

We cannot apologize for news presented in fact by a recognized authority.

The problem, it seems, is that the drought in Jensen Beach has caused some wells to show a higher degree of salt content, according to the State Board of Conservation, Florida Geological Survey Manual, entitled "The water Resources Monitoring and Research Program in Florida," "Salt water encroachment has occurred in some areas, ... in Southeast Florida, and it is a problem of great concern in most areas where water levels are lowered by ... ground water withdrawals or by over-drainage..." In other words, salt water intrusion occurs in a drought period.

As the saline counts in parts per million change with the ... time and the amount of rainfall, the recent rains have changed any prospective counts of salt content.

The best example of this was shown in the day that, after ... inch rain, tests were made by both Witham and the Health Department at Jensen Causeway. Witham's test showed no salt content, and the health department showed a minor ... parts per million. The rain itself washed all salt content out of the well system.

So, this is all a tempest in a well field, with everyone ... wearing his feelings on his sleeve. We'll go with the scientist.

But, for safety sake, we urge the county commission to have an independent agency) test the water...All over the county, and, for heaven's sake, give the results to the Stuart News so that they do not feel that they have to dispute the story on the basis that they were beaten getting it.

New engineer, agent on job

Stuart - Martin County has a new county agent, replacing retired Levi Johnson, and a new county engineer, replacing one-half of the job Tim Slider did before his resignation. They are Robert H. Ashby, former assistant county agent of Suwanee County, and Jack A. Berger, former Deerfield Beach city engineer.

Both took their positions on Monday, Ashby in the county agriculture building and Berger in the county road department building.

Berger lives on Isle of Palm Beach Road in Stuart with his wife and two children. Ashby has a wife and four children, and lives at Indian Town, west of Stuart.

Police auxiliary in Martin plans

Stuart -- Establishment of an auxiliary police force in Martin County was instituted recently, with the first duty proposed for the new force by July 4, according to Sheriff Ray Baker.

Baker said Tuesday that a confer- ...ording prepared by Indian River Community College to train the 25 who have registered for the auxiliary, and added that 18 had been fingerprinted and were "checked out" for duty.

"I have asked for some money in the next budget for the auxiliary, and we'll have to go hinds slow between now and then. We have uniforms for five of six, and Deputy Ray Healy is in charge of the division," Baker said.

The eventual force will be composed of 25 men, who will ride on patrol with deputies and "back them up."

Baker said that he would have some of the auxiliary on duty for traffic control at Jensen Beach for the fireworks ...

Small boat tourney will be this weekend

Stuart - About 100 entries are expected in the Offshore Small Boat Tournament set for Saturday and Sunday, June 19 and 20, sponsored by the Stuart Sailfish Club, according to Bob Pakal, chairman of the tournament committee.

This is the first offshore sailfish tourney headquartered and sponsored specifically for boats of 25 feet and under.

Boats must have at least two anglers, each fishing from one of the ... Mar- 50-pound test line. To provide safety, a Florida vessel safety will be employed, to which two boats will fish together. Attempts will be made to pair radio and non-radio equipped boats, and to match craft of similar size and speed, all boats must carry regular Coast Guard equipment and Stuart fishing flares.

The U.S. Coast Guard has assigned a 40-foot rescue boat to the area, and members of the local Civil Air Patrol will fly a sundown search patrol each day. Other patrol craft have been recruited from among club members and the local charter fleet, in case of bad weather, the contest may be postponed until the following weekend.

Headquarters have been established at the Fisherboil where a pre-tournament briefing will be held by E. G. Ernst, club president, at 6 p.m. Friday. Fishing is from 8 a.m. to ... each day, and contestants will report into the Fisherboil each afternoon at the conclusion of the day's fishing.

Prizes will be awarded on a point basis for offshore species: 100 for blue marlin, 75 for white marlin, 50 for sailfish, 10 for kingfish, 10 for cobia and 5 points for dolphin. In addition to awards for total points, prizes will be given for the largest billfish of each category, and the largest kingfish, cobia, dolphin, bonita and barracuda. Release of all billfish and other species not retained for prize competition is encouraged.

In addition to Pakal and Ernst, committee members include Don Olsen, Pat Kenney and Andrew Ferra- ...

'Over Thirty' league tied as Dudes win, Boys lose

Port Salerno's Boys lost a squeaker to Gould's Guys 9-8 in the last half of the seventh inning to move from a dominant first place league lead to a tie for the top spot as, in the second game of the night, Dick's Dudes led all the way in a 17-13 win over Klein's Kids.

The Boys started off with a one-run first inning, were tied by Gould's Guys in the bottom half of the first, and then Gould's team went ahead in the second with two runs while blanking the Boys. The Guys added to their lead in the third with one run, making the score 4-1 in a game that was sparked by few errors.

It was in the fifth inning when the Boys exploded for five big runs, making the score 6-4, but the Guys came back in the bottom of the fifth with one run, making it 6-5.

The Boys went ahead 7-5 in the sixth, but the Guys were not to be denied, scoring two runs in the bottom half of the sixth to tie the score 7-7.

The Boys came back again in the top of the seventh to go ahead by one run, but the Guys recovered and pushed over two in their last chance to win the game.

In the Dudes-Kids game, the Kids started off with a two-run spurt in the first, and the Dudes took over in the bottom of the inning and were never touched after that. The Dudes scored two more in the second, four in the third, three in the fifth and five in the sixth as the Kids were blanked in the second, scored one in the third, were blanked again in the fourth, challenged with a spurt of six runs in the fifth, and could come up with only one in the sixth and three in the last inning.

The victory by the Dudes tied the Boys in two wins and one loss for both teams, in third place are the Guys with two losses and one win, and the hapless Kids have yet to win their first game.

The eight-week season continues Friday night with a doubleheader between the Guys and the Dudes in the first game, followed by the Kids versus the Boys in the nightcap.

Aluminum cans are being collected every Tuesday and Thursday from 9 to 5 p.m. at Universal Brands, Inc. 600 S. Third Street, Fort Pierce. Telephone number is 461-8227.

Everyone has talent

Art's the thing

By RUTH BOWMAN

JB--Art classes don't start until 7 o'clock on Wednesday nights, but long before that time eager and enthused students begin arriving at Tropical Acres recreation building in Jensen Beach. Their enthusiasm almost matches that of Mrs. Madelene Rehelser, art instructor for the community services program of Indian River Community College.

The early birds set up easels in choice positions in the spacious, well-lighted room, or sit at small picnic tables with benches. In no time palettes glisten with bright spots of reds, blues and greens surrounding a mound of zinc white oil paint. Pupils are encouraged to mix their own colors from the primaries, rather than buy ready-mixed tubes of color.

The group was formed about two months ago for beginners in oil painting. Twenty-three signed up for the course, and between 18 and 20 attend regularly. "I can't believe you're all beginners," Mrs. Rehelser says to the class.

True, all are not novices in the art of oil painting. Many have been away from the field for a number of years, others have never had professional instruction, but all are interested in learning. Some are housewives, some are retirees, a few are retired, others are in business.

R. Christine Currier of Stuart, secretary at Jensen Beach Bank, is taking the course for relaxation and for her own personal satisfaction. "It's stimulating," Mrs. Currier said.

"I enjoy it muchly. I'm interested," said secretary Ann Miller of Stuart, Secretary-bookkeeper Dayle A. Marshall, a resident of Tropical Acres, was coaxed by friends into attending classes. Now she admits she is enjoying it very much and is "amazed at how much I've learned to appreciate colors."

Housewives Ruth Williams and Joyce Belcher were curious to see what they could do with oils and said they would like to paint, and Ann Gelnett says the course is "pure pleasure" to her.

Dental assistant Patty Buel is one of the first to arrive and set up her easel. Patty, who had two years of high school art instruction, says she has a great interest in art and enjoys it very much. She always saves a spot next to her for friend and fellow worker, Marianne Prestage, dental hugienist. The two work for Dr. Dennis Rinaldi.

"I enjoy the freedom of self-expression the course allows, and I'm taking it to improve myself," Marianne said. "It's lots of fun." She drives from Hobe Sound each Wednesday evening.

Yvette R. Klager, owner of Rio Trailer Park, has attended other night classes in art. She said she is seeking new techniques and the incentive to paint. Mrs. Klager shares a table with Mary Vorsal, also of Rio Trailer Park. After working in an office during the day, Mary wonders "If I have any ability for painting." She does, and is learning more all the time.

"I want to learn more about art," says Betty Semerk, another office worker. This is echoed by this reporter, who has had no previous experience in oil painting other than a paint-by-number set many Christmases ago.

One of the most loyal art students is Mrs. E. Iano. She attends three of Mrs. Rehelser's art classes: Monday at Elliott Museum, Tuesday at the Stuart Youth Center, and Wednesday night's class at Tropical Acres.

"And guess what I do when I get home?" she asks. "I paint." Mrs. Iano, who has four children, assisted her husband in his business until he retired in 1969 and they moved to Stuart.

Housewife Hazel R. Berkey says she enjoys every minute in class and is taking the course for relaxation, pleasure, and because "I like people." The course is free and will continue all summer.

Another Rehelser art student, who says she is interested in art, is Mrs. Estelle Johnson. She identifies Mrs. Rehelser as "a most inspired teacher with remarkable ability of making students feel they can paint... and we do."

Melba Lee, the most professional "student" in the class, attended evening classes at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N.Y., Art Students League in New York, and studied with Robert Blackman.

"I like to meet with people who paint," she said, adding that she hopes to study abstract painting and learn to use more imagination.

Mrs. T. Garrett of Jensen Beach, registered nurse, says the course is a challenge. She sums it up for all hopeful artists when she says the Wednesday evening course "is made interesting by a good teacher."

Mrs. Rehelser is not only an artist. She has been a professional dancer, choreographer, costume designer, and registered nurse, graduating in 1957 from Pilgrim State Hospital School of Nursing. She received her B.S. FROM Adelphi University where she also studied painting with Frances Avery. She and her husband moved to Florida in 1964 from Long Island. In addition to private duty nursing and teaching, Mrs. Rehelser is an award-winning artist.

In the first eight weeks, students have learned how to handle oils, how to care for brushes, and how to mix colors. They have painted basic forms, a landscape, still life, animals, and the color wheel. They learn by doing, not watching, and are treated to a constant friendly lecture by Mrs. Rehelser while working. Every night each student carefully carries a wet canvas to her car, knowing that a bump or a wrong move can smear the big yellow apple into bananas for us.

"Everyone has talent," the "good teacher" repeats every week. "I don't expect to make great artists out of each of you...I'll be satisfied if I can make you see. Look at a leaf as if you've never seen one before. Study it. Look at the sky...pick out all the colors in the sky and the clouds. Clouds are not just white," she says. And her class is looking, and studying, and seeing, and it's a woman who sees and can inspire others to see.

SOUTHPAW--Mrs. T. Garrett, Sunview Road, Jensen Beach, southpaw artist, paints bright green eyes on her cat, last Wednesday's assignment at the art class held at Tropical Acres.

LOCAL ARTISTS--Hopeful artists from Jensen Beach, Rio and Stuart avail themselves of the community services program sponsored by Indian River Community College, attending oil painting instruction at Tropical Acres each Wednesday evening, concentrating on the subject are, at rear above, Ruth Bowmar and Estelle Johnson, foreground, Ruth Williams, all of Jensen Beach; a retired draftsman, and Sidney Powell of Skyline Drive, Jensen Beach.

Vandals force picnic removal

JB--Potential vandalism forced the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce to move its new picnic tables in the Jensen Beach Causeway from the pine grove at the beach on Hutchinson Island, according to a request of beaches committee chairman John Heyburn Monday night.

Heyburn said that three new picnic tables built by the committee would be safer from "crooks" if they were installed on the causeway at the Jensen Chamber pavilion. He said that Chief Lifeguard Jack Cammack concurred in the move.

Heyburn also said that motorcycle gangs congregate at the grove of trees behind the beach, making policing almost impossible in vandalism cases. "This will stop the gooks from breaking them up," he said.

The tables are part of a project by the Chamber committee to provide more picnic area for residents and visitors. They are being built by Ham Wade, Oscar Deiss and Larry Farwell, of the Community Church Men's Brotherhood.

Barbeque pits for the various pavilions on the causeway were also suggested, rather than placing them on the ocean beach picnic area.

Heyburn reported to Chamber directors that he was planning to meet with the new county engineer to discuss future plans for the beach park area.

NEW TABLES--The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce recently made new picnic tables for its pavilion on Jensen Causeway, just in time for the annual Fourth of July celebration. The tables are made of treated wood, which will not warp or rot. Above, Ralph Russell, John Heyburn, vice-president of the Chamber; Ham Wade, a director, and Richard DeLasy load the new tables on a truck to transport them to the causeway.

TESTING--A chloride testing device was used Tuesday on the Jensen Beach Causeway that indicated not more than 200 parts per million salt water in the causeway well system. Above, the test operations were made in the presence of The Mirror photographer. The test indicated that causeway water was suitable for drinking, as a maximum of 250 ppm of salt are needed before the water is considered unsafe.

PARADE--The First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach kicked off its annual Vacation Bible School program with a parade Monday night. The group, headed by a police escort and a truck from the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, drove through Legion Heights, out Skyline Heights area, then to south Jensen Beach. VBS will continue this week from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday will be homecoming Sunday when former pastors will join the congregation at a basket dinner at noon at the church. A musical program will follow.

TeenPower seeks jobs

JB--Ten teenagers have registered with the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce for summer jobs under the Teen Power program.

However, unless local residents and businessmen list their needs with the Chamber, the youngsters will have no opportunity to work.

So far teenagers Paul Knuff, Steven McCrain, Mike Boechino, Ellen Boechino, Jan Marie Hunter, Joan Carberry, Mary Jo Newson, Mike Newson, Jeff Bailes and Debbie Carlon have registered with the Chamber. They have offered to do yard work, typing and baby sitting, but other work may be included in the list.

Only two requests for help have been received, according to Chamber executive secretary John Power. The Chamber is cooperating with the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club in the Teen Power Club program.

Island research of plant will take five years

By DENNIS DOYLE

JB--The Marine Research Lab of the Department of Natural Resources in St. Petersburg is conducting an ecological survey in the Atlantic Ocean off the shores of Martin and St. Lucie Counties. The survey will determine what state the marine life is in now, and is required by the Atomic Energy Commission before the Florida Power and Light Company nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island begins operation.

Bob Gallagher, one of the zoologists conducting the survey said, "The survey will be a good foundation or base line to see what state the marine life is in now. After the nuclear power plant has begun operation, we will test the same area to see if there has been any change on the survival rate and habitat."

"Without the information we're gathering now, once the plant opened, we wouldn't be able to tell if the marine life was affected by the plant or not," he added.

The last ecological survey in Martin County was done in 1967 by Robert Routa, who did the survey for the Department of Natural Resources. "We need a more detailed study now because of the power plant," said Gallagher.

The survey began in April and will take five years before completion. After the nuclear power plant begins operation, the tests done previously will be repeated. The data from each study will be compared to see if there has been any affect from thermal effluent.

The state requires this survey and the final data must meet the state and local requirements concerning radio activity.

The team of biologists and zoologists has already begun working with turtles, checking the survival rate by staking out nests and tagging the turtles. "No final data will be gathered for some time," said Gallagher.

Future areas to be covered by the team will be plankton toe organisms, bottom dwelling animals in the ocean, migratory fish, and water chemistry.

BLAZING INFERNO--The thirty-foot "Terry Lou" turned out of control as it drifted toward the entrance to Frances Langford's Outrigger Marina Monday. Flames and smoke engulfed the sport-fisherman, forcing the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brewer, and their two children, to jump into the Indian River to save their lives.

Family leaps into river as 'inferno' guts 30' boat

BY DENNIS DOYLE

An idyllic afternoon of fishing fun turned into a nightmare of flaming horror as the Ernest Brewer family and their poodle pulled their thirty-foot inboard "Terry Lou" from Frances Langford's Outrigger Marina Monday afternoon at 2 p.m.

A sudden explosion created what was described by eye-witnesses as "an inferno, with flames from the front to the back of the boat," when the boat was thirty yards from the Marina.

Ernest Brewer, his wife, Frances, and their two children, Randy, 12, and Connie, 8, of Merritt Island, Fla., jumped for their lives, swimming to a channel marker and clinging as they screamed for help. Mrs. Brewer, badly burned on her back and legs, found a new height of pain in the salty, brackish water of the Indian River.

The flames and smoke were seen immediately by Capt. Pete Robertson, his mate, Gene Steele, and customers in the Outrigger Restaurant. Robertson started the engines on the "Fran I," was joined by Tom Wyatt, Jensen Beach, and Bob Adams, captain of the Barca, and rushed to aid the victims, who they thought were still on the boat.

Once outside the marina, Wyatt saw the family clutching the marker piling, jumped overboard, found the water shallow enough to wade, and waded to the Brewer family as Robertson turned the boat around. Wyatt helped the family onto the "Fran I," and they were taken back to the marina.

As soon as the family was ashore, Robertson saw the drifting boat, still blazing, with black smoke pouring skyward, drifting toward the entrance to the marina. He couldn't pass the boat, as it had drifted sideways into the marina channel entrance.

Robertson cast off, pulled the boat to the entrance, turned it around, and threw a line to Jensen Fireman Gene Oliver, telling him to tie it tight to the piling. He then faced his engines in forward, throwing a prop wash that held the blazing boat at the entrance to the marina. Jack Scranton, Outrigger manager, and Oliver managed to get a boat hook on the burning craft and pull it to the seawall.

"There was no way to get a line on the boat," said Wyatt. "The flames would have burned the line in a couple. Pete was great. He knew just what to do."

Backs Wacha claim

County finds 1961 plea for health enforcement

By DICK CAMPBELL

JB -- The document that Dr. Wilson T. Sowder, director of the Florida Division of Health, said he had never seen, and that Sidney Berkowitz, sanitary engineering chief of the state, said he couldn't remember hearing of, was found in the county records recently.

The document is a plea from the Martin County Commission, a resolution passed onNovember 28, 1961, asking the then Florida State Board of Health to enforce health laws of the state in Martin County.

In an exchange between Sowder and Commissioner Frank Wacha, at the June 1 special meeting of the county commission looking into lax health law enforcement, Wacha told Sowder that the problem of 1971 was one of communications. He said that in 1961 the board of county commissioners had, in a time when a unanimous vote was "unconvinced", passed such a resolution.

Sowder told Wacha he didn't remember the document, and was backed up by Berkowitz, who said he didn't recall such a resolution, said that it wasn't until 1963-64 that the Division of Health had an attorney, and said that Martin County was only one in 67 that needed attention.

Wacha pressed the point that all five commissioners had signed the resolution, and Sowder again said he knew nothing of it, but would like to see a copy of it.

The resolution was designed to combat the number of outfalls in the rivers of the county, especially those along the Indian River, and was an outcome of a survey of the county showing numerous pollutions sources in the rivers.

The resolution mentioned that the county did not have "the facilities, equipment and trained personnel to cope with the elimination of this pollution problem, and,..the State Health Department does have such facilities, equipment and trained personnel, and,..the State Health Department will, upon the request of the Board of County Commissioners of Martin County, take over this project and eliminate any and all unwarranted pollution in the waters of Martin County,..."

The resolution asked, "...that the State Health Department be, and is hereby requested, to use its facilities, equipment and trained personnel to eliminate any and all unwarranted pollution of the waters of Martin County, and to assert its authority as granted to it by the hereinabove mentioned chapters (of the law) ..."

The resolution was sent to Albert S. Hardy, M.D., acting state health officer, Florida State Board of Health in Jacksonville, and to H. Nelli Miller, Director of the Martin County Health Department.

Signing the resolution were Wacha, Marvin Rowell, Jack Sunderson, Charles Leighton and Jack Williamson, then the five commissioners.

Camping fees up

Tallahassee -- Camping fees at Florida's state parks will be increased from $2.50 to $3.50 (plus tax) per day effective July 1, according to a recent announcement by Randolph Hodges, executive director of the Department of Natural Resources.

Hodges said the increase in rates is necessary in order for the parks to have sufficient funds for operating expenses.

All requests for camping reservations received before June 30 for camping dates after July 1 will be confirmed at the old rate of $2.50 (plus tax) per day.

The family camping permit allowing Florida residents to camp in state parks will be honored for the remainder of 1971, Hodges said. After the first of the year, however, it probably will be increased from $35 (plus Tax) to $50 (plus tax).

Electricity fees will remain 50 cents per day.

Gator aid is effective

Tallahassee-- The Florida alligator will receive an additional measure of protection as a result of legislation enacted during the 1970 session. The 1970 law which prohibits the sale of products made from alligator or crocodile hides will take effect July 1, 1971.

The possession of alligator products in store warehouses, manufacturing firms or retail places of business will be prohibited after July 1, according to Mayo Hartley, resident, chief, law enforcement division of the game and Fresh Water Fish commission.

Typewriters would be about $150 each, and the copying machine about $500. County administrator Jack Nobles said, "We're taking steps to make the building more secure." Nobles said, "We'll be back," Altman warned, "The thief heard."

New rates as proposed by the MCGCC board would become effective Oct. 1 and would be $200 for resident single membership, instead of $120 a year currently; double resident membership $300 instead of $180; non-resident single from $350 to $450; non-resident double $525 to $700; winter greens fees $7, Sept. 1 to May 1, and $5 for summer greens fees. Fishing licenses

Tallahassee — Florida fresh water fishing licenses for 1971-72 are currently available at the office of all county judges and authorized license agents, according to an announcement by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"The new fishing license is not required until July 1," according to Commission Director Dr. O. E. Frye. "However, the new license will be required by wildlife officers starting June 15. The new license will be valid through June 30, 1972."

Sportsmen are also reminded that they may purchase a combination hunting and fishing license that will be valid throughout the 1971-72 season, and will allow hunting and fishing statewide.

"Buying a license does not prevent either sportsman at a later date when a sportsman may decide on a whole trip and find he has no license," Frye said.

License fees are: $10 resident statewide combination hunting and fishing; $5.00 resident statewide fishing; $5.50 resident statewide hunting; $2.00 resident county hunting; $4.50 resident hunting other than home county; $5.00 wildlife management area state hunter under 15; $5.50 hunting on licensed hunting preserve only; $7.00 statewide archery hunting permit; $8.00 non-resident annual fishing; $25.00 non-resident annual hunting; $5.25 non-resident 14-day fishing; $11.50 non-resident 10-day hunting; $2.25 non-resident 7-day fishing.

New ... entrance is opened at Federal

... Motorists using the parking lot behind First Fed... eral Savings and Loan Association of Martin County must enter from Indian River Drive, just south of the building site of the new building.

The former entrance, on the east side of the Fredricksen Building, will be closed to permit heavy construction equipment to work in the area, and to permit the building of the overpass from the new building to the Fredricksen Building.

The exit from the parking lot will remain the same, on the west side of the Fredricksen Building.

PROGRESS--The new First Federal Savings and Loan Association's building located on the corner of Commercial Street and Indian River Drive in Jensen Beach continues to take on its round shape week by week. Last Friday workmen began installing the concrete beams which were delivered on huge trucks. Commercial Street was off-bounds to traffic while the beams were being unloaded.

Venture Out News

By HARRY HAUSMAN

The Venture Out Mobile Home Group is happy to be a part of Hutchinson Island and a new growing community near Jensen Beach. Our objectives are to improve our relationship with the community as well as make this a more beautiful and harmonious park, potentially one of the best in the area.

The new manager of Venture Out and Holiday Out Park, Rick Keller, and his wife Patricia, were guests of the Venture Out Mobile Home Group at a buffet at the home of Everett and Isabelle Shipman. The entire group extends a warm welcome to Pat and Rick.

Rick Keller was born in North Carolina in 1944 and spent his early childhood in that area. He attended school in many states and in 1967 graduated from college at Hillsdale, Mich. with a B.S. Degree in Political Science.

Rick taught high school for about a year, then decided to try South America. He went to British Honduras as general manager of the Keller Caribbean Sports Club, Fishing Lodge from 1969 to 1970.

After returning to United States, he settled in Venice, Fla. where he managed the Royal Coachman Resort from 1970 to early 1971. In May this year he assumed the position of manager here, the present responsibilities include operation of the Venture Out Mobile Home and Trailer Park as well as the sales and rental aspects of Holiday Out Trailer Park.

Rick and his wife, Pat with their two children, James Cooper and Craig, are temporarily residing in a mobile home in Venture Out.

Most of Rick's time is now devoted to getting acquainted with us.

A meeting of the Mobile Home Group, Inc. was held May 19. In attendance were: E. Shipman, A. Gerard, R. LaVinet, C. Bleach, J. LaVinet, C. Bleach, J. Kaiser, L. Jones, M. Armenaleli, H. Hurwit and H. Hausman.

As an aid to future planning between Venture Out and the Mobile Home Group a list of suggested items was compiled and presented to the park manager for the improvement and entertainment of the Mobile Home Park.

Betty and Al Jones have been busy since their arrival. Their mobile home looks a lot different with the screened porch and all the landscaping they have been doing.

Isabelle and Ernest Hayner entertained Pat and Rick Keller, and Ida and Harry Hausman at their mobile home Sunday evening, June 6.

Michelle Greenleaf from Frenchtown, Ohio has been visiting with Betty and Al Jones for the past ten days.

Did you ever hear of the Rhea Bird Way. Betty Jones received a Rhea Bird egg from her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jean Sharpe of the J. C. Penney Co. Betty decorates these eggs and we are looking forward to seeing this one completed.

Donald Thacker, son-in-law of Betty and Charles Bleach, Debbie Bleach's husband, just returned from active service in Vietnam.

Who is the fisherman in the mobile home park? George Chambers has been doing pretty well at fishing in the surf at Holiday Out beach. He has been catching pompano and whiting between 7 and 9 lbs. each.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clemens of Montvale, N.J. visited with Vita and Art recently. The Clemens were vacationing in Jensen Beach for the past week and stopped in to see Venture Out.

Many cards have been received from Ruth and Ted McPhail, and it seems that they miss Venture Out and all their friends along with the good times they left had. They would like to hear from their friends.

A letter from Thac and Bruce Slagle extends their best regards to everyone. They say they miss Venture Out and are counting the days until they will be back here.

A recent letter from Catherine and Hank Higgins says everything is well, and their daughter is coming along satisfactorily after her automobile accident.

Letters also have been received from Helen Fredricksen and Ella and Richard Cook. They are looking forward to returning here.

We are looking forward to the return of Leetta and Andy Girard and Barbara and Bill Osterag.

We are sorry to hear of Roy Williams' recent illness and hope for a speedy recovery.

Bob (Doc) Smythe received a favorable report on his recent checkup, and we wish Bob and Kay many years of continued good health.

Recently the St. Lucie Co. Sheriff's patrol car has been seen at night patrolling Venture Out and Holiday Out. It is good to know we have protection, and we compliment the Department.

Incidentally, this is the first Venture Out Mobile Home news bulletin, and will be the last until September. Ida and I are leaving shortly for a cruise to the Orient. Our itinerary takes us to Yokohama, Kobe, Hiroshima, Hong Kong, Kowloon, Nagoya, Shimizu and possibly Honolulu on the return trip. This is a new experience for us and we are looking forward to a very enjoyable and relaxing voyage.

Until later, keep gathering the news for the bugle, issues, and I am sure we will be seeing certain members Out and all our friends to relate our experiences and show pictures of our travels.

Renegade players sponsor workshop

Stuart-- The Renegade Players of Martin County will offer a workshop in the theatre to interested persons free of charge. The workshop will begin in June, and is the first summer program of the group, started three years ago.

The winter season this year will consist of five productions, "The Fantastiks," "A Man For All Seasons," "Tom Jones," "You Can't Take It With You," and "Dracula."

The group plans to form a Board of Directors to make all major decisions regarding policy, finances, and selection of plays. Each membership includes two season tickets to the 1971-72 season of five plays. The purchase of a membership also will entitle the member to admission to a ballet performed by Chela Jacobo Dance Studio and a childrens' theatre performance, both of which will be announced and presented during the 1971-72 season.

Regular season tickets are also available at $10 each.

Fabulous fireworks are promised for Fourth

JB -- "This year's fireworks display will surpass even last year," promises Bill "Boom-Boom" Yurillo, Yurillo stopped in the office of The Mirror Friday to discuss plans for the annual Fabulous Fireworks Exhibit on the Jensen Beach Causeway set for Sunday, July 4.

"We have two pieces we made here in Jensen Beach which I feel are real good," Yurillo said. "We have a water fountain and a flaking pelican. We're going to have the super-fan wheel again this year and the aluminum star wheel, and a titanium five-wheeler.

"We'll have aerial shells with multi breaks going up to six, then jump to 15, then jump to 27, to 32, and to 24, then on to 36 breaks," the fireworks chairman promised. There will be Japanese chrysanthemums, six changing color, and a special yellow gold magnesium base shell which will spread about 100 feet, Yurrillo said. "This is real bright."

"We have a criss-cross comet, a shell of shells with a spider report, and another shell, a magnesium pillbox that will fall at least 500 feet in the sky. It's only a five inch shell but it will break bigger than any eight inch shell made by any other factory," he said. Yurillo gets the supplies and some fireworks from Ed Colliset of the Sebring Fireworks Factory.

"Colliset goes all out to make these special big shells for us, then comes here on the Fourth of July to help us put them off," he explains. "For that matter the whole fireworks factory personnel and their families will be here for the weekend. Our show to them is a hobby because we'll take the biggest shells they can make. Nobody else will buy them."

Yurillo continued, "Of all the 40 shows they supply on the Fourth, they come here because they know we have the best."

There will be surprises, even for Yurillo, Colliset is making two eight-inch surprises which will be delivered here July 3, Yurillo thanked the fireworks committee which has "worked real hard."

"It's going to be a great show. There's nobody in the state that has anything like it," Yurillo promises.

Firemen plan food

JB--Chicken, cooked on the outdoor grill, basted with a special sauce, will head the menu of goodies to be served by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department and its Auxiliary on Sunday, July 4. Serving will get under way at 12 noon, according to Will Bowman, food chairman. The chicken will be served on a first come, first served basis.

Other food to be served until 6 p.m. will include hamburgers, hot dogs, baked beans and French fries. There will be coffee, milk and cold drinks.

The food will be prepared at the firemen's pavilion on Jensen Beach Causeway. Tables will be available at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce pavilion.

Anglers join in effort to seek better health law enforcement

JB-- The Martin County Anglers Club joined the effort of The Mirror in bringing about better health law enforcement last week with a program of letter-writing that will seek support of Governor Reubin Askew, Senators Beth Johnson and Cliff Reuter and the members of the House of Representatives of Florida for the program.

In a letter to The Mirror, J. Howard Rundle, president of the conservation group, notified the editor that the organization was "writing to our board of county commissioners, state senators, and representatives and to Governor Askew requesting their support of this most important investigation and then taking such action as is required to correct whatever weaknesses are revealed."

Rundle pointed to "...the weak defense by our leading Division of Health officials at the June 14 special meeting of our county commissioners..." as the reason for the county commission requesting an "investigation of our health department." The reference was to the appearance of the top officials of the Florida Division of Health at a special meeting of the county commission to answer the concern of the commissioners for health law enforcement in Martin County.

In the letter on the health law enforcement series, the Anglers' Club editor wrote, "The Martin County Anglers Club wishes to thank and congratulate The Jensen Beach Mirror for its efforts in publicizing the many violations of our health laws and the lack of law [illegible] Division of Health personnel to correct the situation.

"We wish you success in your efforts and sincerely hope that everyone interested in ending this unnecessary pollution joins your crusade."

Rundle concluded his letter, writing, "With the very rapid growth that is occurring in this community, very serious health problems will be created if this laxity in health law enforcements not corrected as soon as possible."

Pioneer Center to revise finances

Stuart - A completely revised bookkeeping system for the Pioneer Occupational Center is being planned by its management committee, according to Robert Batterman. The move was taken recently by the board of directors when it received a report of an investigation made into the management and financial records of the Center for the handicapped.

The report of the finance committee showed a lack of adequate and complete records. The center is in need of more than $20,000 to continue operation until October. It was revealed, of face a shut-down for its thirty clients and workshop employees.

Batterman was appointed chairman of the management committee, assisted by Wesley Klinger. A third member will be named.

The Mirror pinpointed the problems of Pioneer Occupational Center in an editorial June 10, citing the hard work, dedication and effort of the many persons who have developed the facility established in 1964, and calling for reforms to bring the budget back in line.

Batterman said the management committee will take complete control of finances and the financial records, make cost studies of each work project and department operated at the center, and determine which departments will be continued.

REPLACING POLES- Florida Power and Light Company is replacing all the wooden poles on the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (Commercial Street) with pre-stressed, steel reinforced concrete poles. The 45-foot high poles will be dropped into place and wiring transferred to add power coming from the FPL Jensen substation to the homes and businesses in Jensen Beach over the three-mile route from U.S. 1. A foreman on the job, subcontracted to Commonwealth Electric, said the poles would be replaced all the way to Indian River Drive.

$401,503 for for county schools

Tallahassee- An analysis of the supplemental education appropriations bill, passed by the Legislature last week, will mean $401,503 in new state aid for Martin County public schools, according to Sen. Cliff Reuter (R) of Vero Beach.

Reuter, who opposed earlier budget proposals which provided "substantially less funding" to local schools, said the total state contribution to the Martin County K-12 program next year will be $3,660,311.

This budget funds 295 instructional units, an increase of 24 units over the current year, providing for 346 new students, extra exceptional children, vocational and technical education and kindergarten programs, he said. There are five counties in Reuter's district.

The Legislature has also voted to fully fund junior college programs next year from general revenue resources, thus remove the requirement that local school boards contribute three-tenths of a mill in property taxes for this purpose, Reuter said. This change will mean an added $69,473 for Martin County's K-12 program next year.

The state will also fully fund kindergarten units next year meaning an additional savings to the local school district of $17,300.

Conserve Electricity, U.S. Urged

Government Sees Summer Blackouts

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The federal government, predicting an electric power crisis in some areas this summer, has announced a nationwide campaign to conserve electricity.

A report issued by the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness indicated that brownouts and blackouts are likely to occur in some areas, as they have in other recent summers.

"The electric power supply situation in parts of the United States appears to be worse than last summer," the report said.

ELECTRIC generating capacity is too low for adequate safety margins in most areas except the West Coast it said, and such safety margins as do exist depend largely on new equipment that could be delayed and on old equipment prone to breakdowns.

Fuel supplies appear adequate, the report said, but the generating capacity isn't there, and breakdowns coupled with summer heat waves may overtax the system.

"At the present time," the report said, "the most feasible way to avoid an emergency power situation this summer is an extensive conservation program to be executed by the government, industry and the public during the critical summer months."

IT SAID conservation during times of peak usage is the key to avoiding major power interruptions this summer.

George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, said power conservation has received little attention until now.

"We could be

How you can help us help you.

Conservation of electricity during times of peak usage is the key to avoiding major power interruptions this summer, advises the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness.

As the nation's fastest growing major state, Florida is one of the places where this national problem could be most critical.

At FPL we are adding more new electric customers than any utility in the nation. So we must plan and build years in advance to keep ahead of your needs.

Contracts for our first nuclear unit at Turkey Point were awarded back in 1966 — six years ago. But today operation of the unit is already a year behind schedule due to a harrowing number of problems and delays.

As the many customers who have called us recently to forecast when the unit will be in operation continuously, perhaps the most needed power we face the prospect of a tight power supply during the coming months.

Meanwhile, we're doing our best and there are ways you can help.

Use your electricity wisely.

You can help by limiting the use of electric appliances especially air conditioning, during peak periods. Peak periods are times of greatest electricity usage. They usually occur between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m. during the hot summer months. Here are some specifics on what you can do:

Electric Cooking. Plan meals which require a minimum of cooking, use as few cooking elements as possible, avoid oven use for cooking or baking, cook before or after peak periods.

Electric Air Conditioning. Use as few rooms as possible during peak periods, don't overcool, maintain moderate temperature setting.

Household Washing & Drying. Wash laundry clothes and dishes at other than peak periods.

Electric Water Heating. Keep to a minimum the amount of hot water used for baths, showers and other uses during peak periods.

Electricity, like all of America's resources, should be used wisely. Whether we have enough electric power to go around this summer is up to us. Both of us

A family Fourth in Jensen

In the typical, home-town fashion, it will be family picnic day at the Jensen Beach Causeway on Sunday, July Fourth, Independence Day, with many games for and the fabulous fireworks display.

Various organizations have joined forces to bring about something that will attract and please all the home town folks. There will, therefore be kept off the highways where the usual carnage that goes with a holiday: accidents and deaths, will be avoided.

Members of the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee were over in Sebring last weekend to pick up the prize fireworks displays for the hour-long show on Sunday night. Bill Varble has designed another sound and skyfield display of pyrotechnics that should outdo the one last year and reach heights of 1,000 feet. Multi-colored ground displays promise to awe the viewers, estimated to number 10,000.

The Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations plan races and games for the children all day long, and there will be picnic food prepared and served by the firemen.

It is a family day for everyone, "all come out and enjoy yourselves,"

...and at Port St. Lucie

The "Parade of Patriotism" that kicks off the Port St. Lucie Independence Day celebration on Saturday, should be a great one, for there are exciting floats, color guards, clowns, and bedecorated bikes that will stir the patriotic spirit of all who witness the parade which will begin promptly at 10 a.m. event along Prima Vista Boulevard.

Games for the kids are planned at the Port St. Lucie Marina and there will be bake sales, a white elephant sale, and food served throughout the day.

Afternoon finds an art show a "Bride-to-be" contest and a basketball shooting contest will keep local residents busy through the day.

Then the climax, an evening of dancing, a concert by the Ft. Pierce "Sing-out" group, a variety youngsters, and a fireworks show will bring a happy and pleasant to this day of registration of the independence of our Nation.

It is good to live in an area that so carefully plans events to retain the spirit of participation in our society. We take pride in being here.

Prayers for Raymond

Raymond Hatter, to know for six months from the hospital, he will continue under the care of his family as he proceeds in an uphill battle for life and health.

The eleven-year-old lad is fighting for his life and has the spirit and the drive to make it. He needs the prayers and the concern of all residents of the Jensen Beach area.

The comfortably responded as it usually does, when the youth was involved in an accident last December while riding his bicycle, a fund was established to help defray hospital bills that could have cost him his life.

It was the skill of the surgeons at Good Samaritan Hospital that brought him out of the initial phases of the accident and an outpouring of love and concern of his family and friends throughout the area that brought him this far in recuperation.

In a recent note Raymond has responded to treatment and familiar atmosphere, making a marked recovery, the still has a long trip to become full well, and the permission of the doctors is lacking to settle? but feels he has not learned the optimism of his family, who believe that he will go "all the way" to recovery.

Raymond said his first word, "Dad" last week.

There will be more words in that long road uphill to recovery, we side all to pray that the recovery is hastened.

Obsolete laws litter books

Obsolete and ridiculous laws litter the statute books of our state and its municipalities, according to James Scarpanaka a history teacher at Lockport (Ill.) West High School.

Legislative bodies pass laws and never bother to repeal them after they have served their purposes—if they ever had one. Consequently, these legislative relics are subjected to numerous customs and common sense as well as human nature. Examples of these obsolete laws follow:

It is against the law to speak "English" in Ill. (1819--Ill. Statutes). It is illegal to mispronounce the name of the city of Joliet. (Like a long O, and don't forget the T).

In Romeoville, no person shall ride, leap or drive any horse, cow, or animal on any iron or wooden bridge within the village limits, at a faster pace than an ordinary walk or a $5.00 fine will be imposed on the guilty person.

In Lockport, anyone starting a big fight or word or gesture will be fined.

In Homer, it is against the law for anyone but a police officer to carry a sling shot.

In Elgin, it is against the law to fish naked.

Recently, a woman served five days in a Chicago jail for shop-lifting.

In Joliet, it is against the law to put cats in a trouble jar.

An Illinois law passed about 1907 states that "... every person who shall manufacture, sell or give away any cigarette containing tobacco shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $100."

Women in Joliet can be jailed for trying on more than six dresses in one store.

You can be jailed in Chicago if you throw away your street car transfer.

In Wheaton, it's the law that every person entering the courthouse must remove his shoes and leave them outside.

An Aurora ordinance states: "No person shall drive along any public street more than five head of cattle."

Women's bathing suits must have quarter-inch sleeves at south Park Beach in Chicago.

In Zion, an ordinance prohibits teaching household pets to smoke cigars.

Oak Park has a law which states that roosters may not crow before 6 a.m.

It is against the law in Decatur to drive your car without a steering wheel.

Zion City has an ordinance making it a crime to make ugly faces at a friend.

It is unlawful for a "monster" to enter the city limits of Urbana.

Lake Forest requires that every automobile on the street shall be preceded by a bicycle.

In Mt. Pulaski, boys are forbidden to throw snowballs at trees within the city.

The sale of ice cream sodas on Sunday is forbidden by law in Evanston.

In Normal, it's against the law to make faces at dogs.

In Peoria, a married man can be fined for arguing with his wife in public.

In Illinois, it is illegal to use or rent a barbershop as a sleeping room.

It's time to buy

Failure of Mayor Norman Worden's proposed ordinance to make referendum on beach acquisition has hopefully cleared the way for action.

The mayor wanted the voters to endorse a restriction which existed in the approved bond issue referendum of 1970. The restriction makes the future tract of beach to north, lately north of the city's South Beach the only practical land to acquire.

Worden felt that such a restriction limited the city in its negotiations to buy the property, while there was some justification for that belief the mayor failed to convince his fellow councilmen.

One of the points which became clear in the Tuesday night council meeting debate on the proposed referendum was that the city should not be looking for the cheapest beach it can find, but the best and most useful.

If the Schine tract, which is contiguous to the existing South Beach, is the beach to buy, it is time to get moving on it. And it seems that by a 3-2 vote, that is the belief of the councilmen.

The possibilities of the city going to court to condemn the property and the court determining the price the city will pay, is still very strong.

The proper route to take is one at this point the city should promptly enter negotiations with the Schine interests and determine whether a negotiated purchase can be closed at a mutually acceptable price.

If not, it should be decided promptly and the court be allowed to decide.

The most important consideration is that there should be minimum delay. As we have said so often here, beachfront land is limited. There isn't any more. And the price isn't going to go down.

The sooner that beach bond money is invested in municipal beach, the better.

About 720,000 old bottles and jars took the place of the gravel and stone usually mixed with paving asphalt. Result of the legislation the citizens of this nation have paid over $200 million in dangling taxes... "The British... [illegible] their old currency system and moved to a decimal system where a pound is worth 100 pennies. We have they have better luck [illegible] if that way than we had keeping a dollar worth 100 cents."

Kneath: I learned that I am not a good cook, and can't prepare the beautiful dishes one finds on the front page of food sections—not without a staff of test cooks to help. But I did come one thing; I discovered a new and exciting dish.

It all started when I tried to make the Hot Peaches Vinaigrette.

The recipe called for two cans (2½ cans, really) of sliced peach halves, one cup of bottled Italian dressing, two tablespoons of finely sliced green onions.

Then, the recipe said, "Drain peaches."

"Drain peach halves and onions and proceed. Pour dressing over all. Let stand one hour and peaches are heated throughout, about 20 minutes."

Now, below the vegetable salad that went with this, I found the heading "Dressing," so I knew that

It called for 1 3 cup olive oil (I had to use Crisco), three tablespoons of lemon juice, two tablespoons of sour cream, one teaspoon of Italian seasoning, one teaspoon of horseradish mustard and a pinch of salt.

"Combine all ingredients in jar. Cover and shake well." I did that, putting it in the blender to mix it faster.

Then I looked back at the peaches recipe, optimistically, where onions and peaches were to be heated together. I ignored that.

Down below the vegetable salad that went with this, I found the heading "Dressing," so I knew that,

Then I looked back at the peaches recipe, optimistically, where onions and peaches were to be heated together. I ignored that.

"Drain peach halves and onions and proceed. Pour dressing over all. Let stand one hour and heat in oven at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes."

Now, I'm not a fool. I know that you don't heat oil and vinegar dressing, so I ignored the directions and put the bottom of the skillet, and poured the dressing over it. Then I put the skillet on the stove with it, I turned the element up to "low" (you asked for it) and let it cook a few hours, but there wasn't anything wrong with getting it out fast, was there?

Yes, there was.

Lighting the blazing flame on the grill and trying to make the sauce, I suddenly heard the peaches boiling. I jabbed the skillet from the flame and turned off another element, on which

Up to this point, I had been the unsatisfying perfect I am in the kitchen, but now we separate the men from the boys, the chefs from the staff, the inventors from the copiers.

When I turned the fish on the grill, it didn't look at all like the picture in the newspaper. It was delicious, but it didn't look like that that it was supposed to look like.

I read through the recipe again and again, I had done it right, I had followed the recipe. Then I let Cea read it.

She had had tears in her eyes from laughing, watching me try to keep up with four different dishes in one kitchen, and had bailed me out at the last minute by making the salad and opening the package of buttered corn as I got the steak off the blazing pyre.

When she read the recipe again she started laughing [illegible]

You can see that again, there's one that makes sense. "The best executive in the one who has sense enough to pick good men to do what he wants done, and self-restraint enough to keep from meddling with them while they do it."

And along the same line is the story about a certain supervisor who was trying to encourage his men to act on their own initiative. So, one day he received a call from a worker whom he had already given full authority to proceed on his own.

"Chief, I finish this job, or go on to the next one?" the fellow asked.

"Yes," replied the supervisor, and hung up.

I like that.

Social Security

[illegible] I think you [illegible] Social Security card and don't know what my number was, though I [illegible] years ago.

Q. Does you have been assigned a number one ever, you really have to have. You really have to problem, just fill out another application for a duplicate security account number, giving us the same information you gave originally and checking the box that applies to a lost card. We'll do the rest. You should receive a new card with the same number you had originally. The applications are available at any Social Security office and most post offices, or you can get one by calling or writing a social security office.

Q. My son, age 20, who used to get Social Security, has worked for the last two years. He now wants to finish his schooling. Could he get social security again?

A. He certainly can. If he qualifies as a full time student and is not married, he can be paid until age 22 or he finishes school, whichever comes first. File another application, or have him do so through us soon as he knows definitely that he will return to work.

Q. I draw a Social Security check each month and have Medicare. I read in the newspaper recently that the cost of Medicare was going up, but when my check came Jan. 3, it was the same amount as my December 1 check. Could you tell me if the paper made a mistake?

A. No, the newspaper account was correct. The Social Security Administration announced in December that premium for the medical insurance part of Medicare would be increased from $5.30 to $5.60 a month effective during July 1, 1971. This increase was necessary due to the rising costs of medical treatment.

Q. How long must I wait before I start receiving benefits? I stopped working June 15 and filed an application with my social security office on July 10. I have heard nothing as yet.

A. The disability law provides a full six calendar months waiting period with no benefits payable for that time. Your waiting period would be July through December. And if your claim is approved your first check would be for the month of January and each month to February. No benefits are payable for the six months' waiting period.

Q. I have not kept a record of my earnings during the years I have worked under social security, how will my benefit under social security be figured when I retire?

A. The Social Security Administration maintains these records for each worker. If your employer has reported your number and wages correctly, you will be properly credited with earnings. Benefits are based on this record.

Conservatives won tax increase battles

(A political appraisal)

By DICK CAMPBELL

The Florida Legislature has adjourned, to the relief of the people of Florida, and the pocketbooks of the people are only $115 million poorer. It could have been worse, much worse.

To those who criticized the regional hearings of the Florida Senate, which Senate President Jerry Thomas called "taking government to the people," the session should have given them a change of mind. The Senate reacted to the public demand for holding the line in increasing taxes, and the Senate program, half as much as the speedthrift House would have appropriated, was adopted.

Thomas kept his people together in the battle, a bitter one that should have future political ramifications in relations between the two houses.

Those who criticized the special session of the legislature can also have second thoughts, for the special session saved the taxpayers about one-hundred million dollars, a giant sum when compared to the $4,000 a day of the special session.

It was a great time for the bi-cameral system of government, and must have put the unicameral drive of some in Florida to its resting place. The people had the ear of their senators and didn't have the ear of the representatives. The tax-tax-tax policy of the House, led by Miami's Richard Pettigrew, Ralph Turlington and Marshall, was something to see.

One bad thing that came out of the legislature was the failure to enact laws covering the billboards of the state. It will cost Florida $14 million in lost federal funds that could have been put toward the completion of I-95 down the coast.

The confrontation between the House and Senate was a bitter one, one that left scars.

One senator commented to this reporter, when the committees on compromising the two different appropriations bills met, "I don't care what kind of appropriations bill comes up, just as long as it is our (the Senate) bill. We won't take anything more."

The bills were compromised, and the Senate, in the main, won its fight for fiscal responsibility.

People who would criticize for the failure to enact appropriations for this or that forget that money must be obtained to pay for the programs. Everything costs money. The people pay the money in taxes. This year the people will pay $115 million more. It is as simple as that.

What really was accomplished in the session? The following was a part of the overall progressive program:

Putting the corporate profits tax proposal...key to Askew's tax reform program ...on the ballot for an early vote in November.

Taxing for the first time phosphate and other industries which extract minerals from the earth. The severance tax was coupled with tax credits for reclamation of land scarred by strip mining.

Capping at current levels the equal distribution of part-mutuel tax funds to the 67 counties without regard to population or need. Increases in revenue will go to the state's general revenue fund. This tax has long been the symbol of rural domination of the Legislature.

Providing civil rights for the mentally ill and reorganizing the state's mental health code.

Forcing religious, charitable and fraternal organizations to pay tax on property they use for commercial purposes.

Eliminating partisan elections for judges.

Permitting private citizens to go into court to halt pollution.

Banning detergents containing pollutants and establishing rules against noise pollution.

Creating machinery, which, within a period of years, will eliminate the public drunkenness laws and provide for medical treatment, not jail, for alcoholics.

Eliminating the State Racing Commission and the Land Sales Board, giving their duties to the Board of Business Regulation, which already had the power to review all their decisions.

Opening the way for effective mass transportation by freeing part of the gas tax for that use.

The new plant is not affected, he said although the company with headquarters in Bethpage, New York, plans to consolidate a number of small facilities.

During the past two years employment at the plant has been reduced from a 1,000 to about 300. The reduction was caused by a federal cutback in the part of government contracts for aerospace programs.

Salestax collections up eleven percent

Tallahassee— Collections from Florida's sales and use tax during May brought in $69,238,263 to the state's general revenue fund, Comptroller Fred O. (Red) Dickinson, Jr. said recently.

The amount represented an 11.3 per cent jump over sales and use taxes collected for the same month last year.

Gasoline taxes reported during May brought in nearly $21 million in revenue for an 8.4 per cent increase as compared with $19 million for May, 1970.

The railroad and telegraph license tax has dropped to $72.2 million since the beginning of the fiscal year. This is 1.8 per cent down from similar taxes for the same period last year.

All other taxes collected during the first eleven months of this fiscal year showed increases with motor vehicle special fuel tax adding $12.5 million to collections, or 11.2 per cent over last year, and the estate tax adding $17.2 million to collections for an 18 per cent increase over collections for the same period last year.

Other revenue sources showing gains for this fiscal year over the 1970 period are the occupational license tax, 5.7 per cent; the corporation capital stock tax, 8.9 per cent; the intangible tax, 15.1 per cent; the water and sewer tax, 62.6 per cent; the insurance premium tax, 66.4 per cent, the utilities tax, 12.6 per cent, and the gas and oil production tax, 46.1 per cent.

Sales taxes collected in Martin County amounted to $154,941,02 for this fiscal year, as compared to $155,295,16 last year.

St. Lucie County collected $402,254.93 in May 1971, compared with $368,579.88 collected in May, 1970.

Final game Friday in Over-30 league

By Dr. R.G. Penick

JB--All players are urged to be present for the finals of League play, Friday, July 2. With a loss to the Kids in the contest to start at 7:30 p.m., the League-leading Dudes, managed by Mirror editor Dick Campbell, could end up their season in a tie with Bright's Boys, if this team downs Gould's Guys in the night of races, necessitating a play-off.

Feelings were high during the two June 25 ball games, and many contributing factors took all fun from the evening. Rain threatened play right up to starting time, and many players failed to appear.

Groundsmen failed to dress the field, and because were available, Umpires were forced to fill in to round out teams, and willing boys proved eager, but unexperienced and unstable.

If grey dark and lights were locked till late. Rumblings were soon audibly expressed and grown men argued like sandlotters. Exercise there was, for many who played, played both games as fill-ins, but fun had flown.

The first game ended 15-8 as Gould's Guys held off a surging late inning rally by Klein's Kids, minus their sick leader Al, and their ace hurler, Ron Allison, to keep in the running for the league awards. They are now tied for second place with Bright's Boys, who lost in the last inning of the twilight contest to the Dudes.

Both teams went into Friday's game boasting identical win-loss records of 3-1. Score remained tied at 1-1 through the second inning. In the third, the Dudes put across two runs, and the Boys, one. The Dudes were scoreless during the fourth and fifth, while the Boys hammered in four, to lead 6-3. Dudes pushed over two in the sixth and entered the final inning behind, 6-5.

A long, booming triple, over the head of the Boys' center fielder, Ron Oeler, off the bat of the Dudes' 50-year-old, 128 pound pitcher, Dr. Dick Penick, with two on board, put the Dudes out in front. Four more runs were to score in the top of this last inning.

Not to be outdone, the Boys went to bat and smashed in three runs and got another by a bases loaded walk of Sterling Bright. A pop-up ended the inning, and the game, and put the Dudes in front running for League honors.

Standings are: Dudes, 4-1; Boys, 3-2; Guys, 3-2; and Kids, 1-4.

The exhibits will be on display at the First National Bank and Trust Company, Bank of Stuart and Jensen Beach Bank. Uniformed members of the Squadron will be in attendance at the exhibits to explain safety features and to answer questions. First day for the Regatta is Friday, July 2, beginning at 8 p.m.

Sharing responsibility for the squadron's project are William F. Eschenbach, chairman of the Boat Show Committee, and Floyd L. Genter, Safety Committee chairman. Other members of the cooperating committees are Edwin Gustafson, Emerson Healy and John Wesley.

Ten safety rules are being stressed during National Safe Boating Week. Know your boat. Don't overload. Keep a good lookout. Operate at safe speeds. Respect the weather. Take sufficient fuel. Keep your boat in shape. Carry necessary equipment. Insure your boat properly. Own the law.

GROUNDBREAKING--The new Ocean East Mall is underway, and the walls are beginning to rise on what will be 130,000 square feet of air-conditioned mall being developed by Buma Corp., Inc. on East Ocean Blvd. Taking part in the groundbreaking Friday morning were, left to right, Bob Smith, supervisor of store operations, TG&Y; J. L. Price, district manager of store operations, TG&Y; Jim Poulos, vice-president and division general manager, Grand Union; Bill Lewis, real estate manager, Grand Union, and developers Bill Matheson, Leslie Rogers and Ralph Hartman. A November 1 opening is planned.

November opening

Ocean East Mall started

By DICK CAMPBELL

Stuart--Hoping for a November opening, the giant Ocean East Mall began construction last week with three major chain stores signed and others "under consideration."

Groundbreaking for the mall was held Friday morning at the site, with a spade of earth turned by representatives of the two largest stores in the operation.

J. L. Price, district manager of store operations, TG&Y; Jim Poulos, vice-president and division manager, Grand Union, held the symbolic shovel that launched Martin County's first mall, the 130,000 square foot Ocean East Mall, located on East Ocean Blvd., just west of Vista Pines and Cedar Pointe Condominiums.

With them were the developers of the shopping center mall, Bill Matheson, Ralph Hartman, Jr., and Leslie Rogers, all of whom are represented by Buma Co., Inc.

Grand Union is a major supermarket chain with many Florida stores. A 24,000 square foot store is planned by Grand Union on the site just four miles south of Jensen Beach.

TG&Y's Family Center is new to the area. One store is already open in the state, located at Pensacola. A small store in Orlando is now being enlarged to handle the entire family store line.

In Martin County, TG&Y plans a 32,000 square foot store at Ocean East Mall. Price, with Bob Smith, supervisor of store operations, described the variety store as "offering just about everything the family needs." The company has over 700 stores throughout the United States, and ranks sixth in the Nation in variety store sales, with $274 million in sales in the 1969 calendar year.

In addition to the major variety and supermarket, the mall has signed a Liggett Drugs outlet with 10,000 square feet, and a Maytag Automatic Laundry that will occupy 2,000 square feet of space.

Rogers said he is negotiating with other national chain stores for leases in the new mall, but was not able to name them until the leases are firmed.

"This is one of the most exciting things to come to Martin County in my memory," said pioneer Realtor Ralph Hartman, Jr. "I am happy to be a part of it."

Approval delayed on East PSL

Stuart- The possibility of endangering the Jensen savannas was one reason for the delay of approval for a plat presented to General Development Corporation for L. Port St. Lucie.

County engineer Jack Borger said last week at a meeting with the Water Management Advisory Board that a series of canals planned by GDC on the 895-acre tract along the Martin St. Lucie County line might reduce the water in the savannas.

Borger is now awaiting information from GDC engineers on tests of the proposed drainage project.

Variety will be the spice of Mirror Cooking Show

JB- Take three specialists in cooking, home demonstration experts from Florida Power and Light Company, add recipes of famous chefs in Florida citrus, the exciting fashions of Mr. de Lis, blend in an ample helping of prizes and surprises, including free Anita Bryant cord albums, many food certificates, recipe and scrapbook hints booklets and new subscriptions to The Mirror.

When the pot is boiling, an outstanding display of new appliances, outdoor appliances, and all the little knick-knacks that make living so much more comfortable for the housewife.

This is just a part of the recipe for the 1971 Eighth Annual Mirror Cooking Show, planned for next Thursday, July 15 at St. Lucie Country Club Convention Hall. The two sessions will begin at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., with the appliance display opening at 1 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

The show, now a regular part of the social calendar of Martin and St. Lucie Counties, is sponsored by The Jensen Beach Mirror, The Port St. Lucie Mirror, with the cooperation of Florida Power and Light Company, Publix Markets, and General Development Corporation.

This year, Susan Reed, veterans Barbara Benson and Saundra Hensley, all home demonstration experts of FP&L, will conduct the cooking demonstration s at the show. Publix meat expert Jim Morgan will explain the Pro-ten beef concept of meat preparation, and Cissy Radabaugh will narrate the fashion segments of the show.

The theme of the show this year is "Get into the swing of summer," and Mirror Editor Dick Campbell will be master of ceremonies. Over $700 in prizes will be given away at the two sessions, with a $100 grand prize food gift certificate being awarded at the end of the second session.

"This will be the largest show in our history," Campbell said. "Our only problem has been in the withdrawal of appliance displays due to busy schedules or other commitments, but they are being replaced with other displays in the trade show."

Several new highlights will include the appearance of "Miss O.J. Break," the Florida citrus representative, and her famous "rolling orange" and the first-time appearance of a "novelty bank" from Melbourne. The band will play during the pre-show periods.

MacArthur Dairies will provide free ice cream to those attending.

All attending the show will be asked to register for prizes at the entrance, and once inside the convention hall will get into the swing of summer with the biggest and best-ever Mirror Cooking Show.

EERIE DESIGN--Al Walker, groundskeeper at the Jensen Beach Independence Day Fireworks Festival on July 4, watched the eerie spectacle of flashing, twisting and screaming special effects in pyrotechnics designed by local firework volunteers. Walker was joined by over 12,000 spectators at the show held on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Perfect day for picnic

Over 12,000 took part in July 4 celebration

JB--It was another banner year in the Jensen Beach family picnic day that celebrated the 195th anniversary of the Nation, and over 12,000 persons were suitably fazed, feasted, treated and chicken hamburgers, or picnic lunches and watched a fabulous fireworks display that was termed as the finest in Florida.

July 4 was Independence Day, and the event kept 12,000 people off the highways, adding to the safety of the four-day holiday.

It all went together to burn just the right number of pounds of charcoal for the fireworks show, to start the three hours early to get in a preferred position to see the show. The new sheriff's department auxiliary proved itself in the traffic control that moved cars and people easily in and off the causeway.

The Jensen Fireworks Committee worked through the afternoon to set up the many ground displays, firming ground mortars for aerial shots and vetting up the exciting show, a show that lasted over an hour. Throughout the afternoon, individual shots reminded the many on the causeway of the impending show.

Jensen Volunteer firemen and their auxiliary reported that over 600 chicken dinners were served with the chicken being sold out before 5 p.m., and a crowd that hadn't been expected, Volunteers worked overtime to keep up with the firemen's pavilion feeding the mass of people with hot dogs and hamburgers from noon on.

Other volunteers from the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, the V.F.W., the American Legion, and social units worked through the day.

A show organized by Mrs. Hazel Heritage, sponsored by the Jensen Beach Women's Association, kept a community sing going during the early evening hours. Taking part were Theresa Wittmeyer at the piano, Don Wells, Margie Nelson, and the McGahee sisters Sylvia, Debbie and Cookie.

County Commissioner Frank Wachs and Al Walker kept a busy patter as master of ceremonies for the entire day.

It was a community effort of which all could be proud, including the afternoon races of the Jensen Lions and the water melon eating contest of the V.F.W.

There were a few minor incidents, one broken leg from a fall, and several scrapes that brought first aid from the Samaritan Ambulance.

A few sunburns and happy memories resulted from the celebration. It was a very good day.

Jensen-Salerno bows to Stuart-Palm City, 4-0

JB- The area champion of the Jensen Beach-Salerno All Stars had the only hit in Monday's Boys League All Stars game at Langford Park, Jensen-Salerno bowed to the All Stars of Stuart-Palm City-Hobe Sound 4-0 in what Jim Driscoll, scorekeeper, called "a well pitched game."

George Dickerson of Hobe Sound was the winning pitcher, giving up one hit in the seventh inning. Dickerson struck out 14 Jensen Beach batters and walked only four.

Rick Isom, of Crane's Seafood, took the loss. He was relieved by Rod Phillips.

The Stuart-Palm City-Hobe Sound team scored one run in the first inning without benefit of a hit, and got three hits in the second, scoring three runs. There were no other runs.

Other games are scheduled for Tuesday (no late for press time) and Wednesday.

Times argument in Mirror window

JB - A full two-page transcript of the oral argument in the case of The New York Times and Washington Post before the Supreme Court is on view in the window of The Jensen Beach Mirror.

The two pages from The New York Times, covers the classification of documents discussed at hearings in the Supreme Court. The issue is dated June 27.

Pay raise in doubt

Stuart - A pay raise, requested by Martin County Judge Mallory Johnson is in question. Johnson had asked the Florida Legislature for a raise from $19,500 to $25,000 and State Sen. Bert Johnson introduced a bill approving the request.

Johnson testified that an amendment has been added to the bill by the legislature requiring that judges making over $17,400 annually give up their private practices.

Johnson, who has been a judge here since 1964, said his private practice is limited due to the heavy court case load and private practice helps to shares tax office facilities with County Solicitor [illegible].

Now, Johnson has asked the governor to veto the bill, and Judge Johnson has indicated he will decide next year whether to run again for the office of county judge or return to private practice.

Anglers...thanks

The support of the Martin County Anglers for The Mirror series on lax health law enforcement is the first acknowledgement of any conservation organization of the five-month drive of The Mirror for better health law enforcement. We thank them for their interest and sincere support of our effort.

Support of groups interested in better health law enforcement is needed at this critical time, when we have attained the support of the Martin County Commission and state legislative committees for our dilemma. Only through such support can we bring about the much needed shakedown and restructuring of the Florida Division of Health.

That is what it is going to take, we must point out. Those in power in the Division of Health showed their contempt for the people of Martin County in their refusal to accept responsibility for any of the many violations of law, and their failure to respond to requests for enforcement by the Martin County Commission indicates their contempt for that group.

We believe that Florida has passed the Florida Division of Health, leaving it about ten years behind the times. The leaders of the Division, and its various county and area agencies, are not capable to keep up with a fast moving state, or with the growth of the state.

For this reason, we believe that the leaders should be replaced with men who are interested in the law and what it can mean to the people and the land upon which we live. Laws passed by the Florida Legislature, and signed by the governor carry meaning that cannot be ignored, not even with the weak excuses of lack-of-funds and personnel that the Florida Division of Health espouses.

We thank the Anglers Club for their effort, for writing to the Martin County Commission, the legislative delegation and the governor in asking the continuation of investigation and correction of weaknesses in law enforcement wherever both occur.

We believe that this issue should be the major issue of all conservation-minded organizations in the state. The laws of Florida were enforced over half the pollution of our waters and our land would be ended. That is what we seek.

They did it again

The fireworks were wonderful, and the year-long drive of the Jensen Beach Fireworks Association begins again for next year. "Bigger and better than the year before."

Well, they did it again.

How the fireworks group was able to outshine the 1970 show we will never know. But they did it again. Nineteen-seventy-one was brought into patriotic greatness as the people of this area, and thousands from throughout South Florida, gathered at the Jensen Beach Causeway to celebrate the Independence of our Nation.

But the big day was not for fireworks alone. It was for all who worked to make the day a success, organizations too numerous to mention, volunteers too numerous to name. The entire day was a family day, a day that renewed the family unit is that which we have built the Nation around. It was a great day. They did it again. Wait 'til next year.

Oceanfront for people

The recent move of the Fort Pierce Board of Realtors is supporting St. Lucie County acquisition of oceanfront is a move in the right direction. Oceanfront should be kept for the people, those who will like our inland area to a depth of twenty miles in the future.

But those lands must be paid for by the people, and therein lies a problem. That the citizens of today must pay for the land that will be developed and used by tomorrow's people is certainly a bit unfair, but it is something that must be done.

By bond issue, cooperation with state funding, or by adding more the tax rolls to meet the need. Oceanfront must be purchased now and at a price that will only go higher as the years increase.

The Martin County commission has, for the past few years, given up service and little land to the oceanfront need. A few small acquisitions have been made, but nearly enough to meet the need of tomorrow.

In the meantime, oceanfront prices have moved from $25 per front foot and lower to over $600 a front foot and higher. They can only increase, and increase, as land becomes more and more valuable. In Eau Gallie this week, oceanfront land is selling for a minimum of $1,000 a foot.

The time will come when the people will "run out of land" on the beaches as building booms ever upward and the demand for oceanfront finds that price is the object, and price will be paid.

Efforts to purchase as much as the coffers of St. Lucie County will withstand must be continued, and the assistance offered by the St. Lucie Realtors will help a great deal in this search. The time for such purchase is now, and the public deserves the government's support of their commission, which help they seem to be getting.

We can't agree that the theory of a lost tax base due to the public ownership of the lands will hurt the community. More and more public beachfront will increase the value of lands to the west immeasurably. That added tax base will more than offset the loss of a few acres of land that would hold only so many homes.

One need look to the south to see the frightening aspect of no public beach ownership. The concrete walls of Fort Lauderdale and Miami shield the public from the beach, and those walls are driving more and more residents of that area of Florida to the north.

The exodus of Fort Lauderdale residents to the quiet and peace and beauty of Martin and St. Lucie County acreage is now being felt strongly, and Chambers of Commerce indicate that more and more dominance of southern Florida people, rather than the northerners, is taking place.

We urge all governmental officials in both counties to protect the future by buying all possible beach lands now, while the price is as low as it is going to be. It is an investment in a sound future for the area, an investment that will firm high interior land values, and offer a place for the people, who have a right of access tomorrow to the beautiful ocean we enjoy today.

School's out

The young people are on the streets. Drive carefully.

Bicycles will start out from every bush, every corner.

Young boys and girls will suddenly appear, walking one way, looking another.

Drive carefully.

The mini-bikes dart faster than the bicycle. Two cycles, a main road, and play "chicken" with motorists.

Drive carefully.

It is summer, and school is out.

Drive carefully.

"It should not be forgotten ...that as far as some potential workers are concerned--the handicapped, the aged, those with less than average competence and the young---a minimum wage is far from an unmixed blessing. It condemns many thousands to idleness, as employers cannot afford to pay the wages required for what these people can accomplish. The record has established that every time the minimum wage goes up more fringe workers lose their job opportunities. Messenger, Fort Dodge, Ia.

Making a fool of man

Before the summer is out, there is likely to be a new understanding of the word abundance. This year, nature could easily teach the nation that abundance in food, as well as other material blessings, is not something that should ever be taken for granted. According to late reports, farmers fear a return of the corn blight that made serious inroads on corn production in 1970. As things stand now, no one knows for certain how hard the 1971 corn crop will be hit.

If the corn blight cuts average corn yield as low as 60 bushels per acre, a serious corn shortage will ensue. If it does, housewives, for example, are going to find fresh meat in short supply and prices higher. Chances are also excellent that if the nation's breadbasket is threatened with crop failure, of a substantial nature, there will be far less talk of ecology and far more talk of how to boost farm production with every aid possible. But, more important, the people of the U.S. may learn as one farmer observed, "Mother Nature can still make a fool out of a man if she takes a notion."

LIVE ....and love it

by Dick Campbell

Herb Klein has to swallow hard sometimes. He is both a highly respected and knowledgeable newspaperman and is President Nixon's press chief.

Klein swallowed especially hard while under the grilling of newspaper publishers in Rochester, New York, recently. The subject: Government versus The New York Times.

The Times case is history now, with the public right-to-know protected by the United States Supreme Court. The case will be a landmark in the continuing fight of those who oppose the government censorship and suppression of news.

Perhaps the most telling question asked of Klein in the hour-and-a-half session was one by an editor who asked, "Mr. Klein, when do you think it would be possible, without endangering national security, to release the 900 classified documents from the Civil War?"

Funny though it may seem, there are more outlandish cases of government censorship and suppression of news, of documents having no earthly value to the national security.

Take the story about the Pentagon official, one of the chiefs of staff, who looked into the matter of classifying all documents. His research revealed that much of that material that was classified had no need to be classified.

So, the admiral wrote a letter to the joint chiefs, asking that we end all this garbage of classifying every document.

You're right. Stamped across the top of the letter was the classification, "Top Secret."

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird made a point recently in a New York speech that there "has been too much classification in this country," His speech did not reflect in the section of his office implying dirty dirt--instances if the Pentagon Papers were released.

All public records should be kept public, so that the people will have the right to know, and will know what the government is doing with their money, and with the course of government affairs.

That the people of the United States have been duped by past administrations is evident. Public access to those papers could have stopped the country from being fooled by presidents and by administrators of this land.

The same could be true of local affairs. We have been seeking certain information for a long time that would show what happened to certain documents of the Tri-County Health Department. They are somewhere, indicating illegally high bacteria counts in seafoods served at a restaurant. We cannot say that they exist until we have more proof of their existance.

There are other areas of constant search by local constant search by local newsmen, where revelation of materials are the only way to maintain faith in our county government. Most county officials comply fully with the disclosure concept of the local press.

But the right to know is supreme in this land. The Supreme Court has held it so in one of the most far-reaching decisions of this era.

That right must prevail.

One of the most compelling comments of The Times versus Government case was made by Judge Murray I. Gurfein, who upheld the right of The Times to print the Pentagon Papers.

"The security of the Nation is not at the ramparts alone. Security also lies in the value of our free institutions. A cantankerous press, an obstinate press, a ubiquitous press must be suffered by those in authority in order to preserve the even greater values of freedom of expression and the right of the people to know..."

The label machine

I'm sure you've seen them in the stores.

Labeling machines. Those little gadgets that print a label that you can stick on things in case you forget what they are. Handy little things, right?

Well, I don't want one. It's not that they're expensive. Not any more. They used to be pretty crude and well-made and cost a lot. But now you can buy poorly-made ones that cost only a few bucks and will last until you get tired of the whole idea. Which will probably be in about an hour.

It's not that they're so hard to use, either. The pistol grip gadget shoots out embossed words on a piece of plastic which comes in all kinds of pretty colors. Like orange. You just dial the letters, keep pulling the trigger, and eventually an orange word comes out of the gun. Then you cut off the strip, peel off the backing, and stick it on something. When it will stay for up to 18 seconds before it falls off.

I remember seeing an advertisement for these labeling machines that showed a man operating the thing. As he struggled with the gun, a word came out. It was the word "PHT" I'll tell you. The word was "EMBOSSED," Which is pretty silly. Was he going to stick the word on something that was embossed, or what? It might have been funnier if the tape had said "BANG." But it didn't. It said, "EMBOSSED."

Wonderful.

The same advertisement showed an electric drill nearby. And it, too, had a label on it. But, did the label say, "ELECTRIC DRILL"? No. It said, "JIM WRIGHT" which must be the owner's name. And should be handy if old Jim was suddenly struck with amnesia while drilling a hole in something. Close by the drill was a clear glass jar filled with assorted wood screws, and it was labeled, "ASSORTED WOOD SCREWS."

Yeah. Right.

Of course, these labels do have a use around the house. Like when you can't see inside an old coffee can. It saves you the trouble of wrenching the top off looking for your collection of rusty nails. And just finding old coffee.

Naturally not everything can be labeled because a lot of those treasures you won't throw out are hard to describe in short, neat, embossed words. For example, there's that cigar box on the end of my workbench. Now I know what's in it. But how do I make a label that says, "MISCELLANEOUS PARTS LEFT OVER AFTER I FIXED THE ELECTRIC FAN AND ALSO SOME RUSTY LOCKS WITHOUT KEYS"? Not only would people laugh a lot when they saw my label, but making it would make my hand hurt.

People save all sorts of things for reasons known only to themselves, and it's really just as well that these things shouldn't be labeled either. Such collections as "DEAD FLASHLIGHT BATTERIES," KEYS THAT DON'T FIT ANY LOCKS AROUND HERE," and "OUT OF FOCUS PICTURES OF THE KIDS" should not be exposed to the prying eyes and sneers of your friends.

And after you've brought one of these labeling gadgets home and have spent a few glorious minutes shooting out such things as "HAMMER," "SAW," RUSTED FISH HOOKS," and "PERSONAL - KEEP OUT," you sort of run out of things to say.

No, labeling machines may be handy for some people but, like I said, I don't want one.

Or, to be really honest, I don't want another one.

Because I have one.

And it's still around here somewhere.

But I can't find it.

Because I put it into a box with a lot of other junk that was cluttering up my workbench.

And I forgot to label the box.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the editor:

One would think that when a group of children,...a dozen perhaps, no more,...are supposedly supervised by three adults that they could effectively control and curb the natural exuberance, yelling and shouting and boisterousness of these children, especially between the hours of 4:30 and 5:30 A.M.

This occurred early Monday morning, July 5, preparatory to their leaving on a bus outing from the First Baptist Church of Jensen Beach parking lot on Commercial Street.

Apparently their biblical teachings only apply at their church services, and are certainly not shown in the form of consideration, courtesy and respect for their residential neighbors.

I most assuredly do not call that being good Christians!!!

Weiss' report from Las Vegas

JR- A report that Florida's John Balbo was elected third vice-president of Lions' International was sent to The Mirror this week by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Weiss, Jensen Beach, who attended the Lions convention at Las Vegas recently. Balbo will become president of Lions' International in 1972, according to Weiss, who said Balbo won by fewer than 100 votes.

In his letter, Weiss wrote:

"We did have a good time at the Lions' International convention in Las Vegas with over 30,000 Lions attending from 146 countries, we were greeted by the mayor of Las Vegas and the governor of Nevada, met a lot of friends from Japan, Alaska and other places we had visited, traded lots of pins, and have about 20 new banners from foreign countries to give to the Jensen Beach Lions Club. We believe with these banners the Jensen Beach Club will have the largest collection in Florida.

"We attended several interesting meetings on Lions eye sight work; flag raising ceremonies where each country in the world of Lionism presented its flag, 146 of them, and it was very impressive. We saw several good shows including the Pat Boone dinner show where his wife and children appeared with him for the first time. Of course, it was outstanding, talking with them, etc.

"Robert J. Uplinger of Syracuse, N.Y., becomes president automatically for 1971-72.

"In his speech, Uplinger challenged the Lions to develop enthusiasm, vision and faith for the new year. Lionism is commitment.

"Another highlight of the closing session was a speech to the Lions by Dong Jo Kim, ambassador of Korea to the U.S. He compared Korea's goals to the goals of Lions, that is, of gaining peace in the world.

"The ambassador said Korea learned from the war "the preciousness of freedom and the importance of all freedom living peoples, whatever their ethnic or historical backgrounds, to join together in friendship."

"For together all of us, whether citizens of Korea or members of Lions, must have a sustained effort to construct a global partnership based on social justice and human dignity and which reconciles differences among peoples. There was much more but this was actually the meat."

Harold Long appointed assistant state attorney

Stuart--Harold W. Long, Jr., 32, has been appointed assistant state attorney for the 19th Judicial Circuit, it was announced last week by State Attorney John Brancato of Fort Pierce. Long has been Small Claims Court Judge in Martin County, elected last November to a four-year term.

Long succeeds attorney James F. Littman of Stuart, who resigned as of July 1. Long will be primarily in charge of handling state attorney's duties in Martin County, Brancato said.

Long, his wife, Carole, and their three sons moved here in January of 1969 from Savannah, Ga.

I AM A SICK AMERICAN...

There are those who claim ours is a "sick" society; that our country is sick, our government is sick; that we are sick. Well, maybe they're right. I submit that I'm sick . . . and maybe you are, too. I am sick of having policemen ridiculed and called "pigs" while cop killers are hailed as some kind of folk hero.

I am sick of being told that religion is the opiate of the people, but marijuana should be legalized.

I am sick of commentators and columnists canonizing anarchists, revolutionaries and criminal rapists, but condemning law enforcement when such criminals are brought to justice.

I am sick of being told that pornography is the right of free press, but freedom of the press does not include being able to read the Bible on school grounds.

I am sick of paying more and more taxes to build schools while I see some faculty members encouraging students either to tear them down or burn them.

I am sick of Supreme Court decisions which turn criminals loose on society — while other decisions try to take away my means of protecting my home and family.

I am sick of pot-smoking entertainers deluging me with their condemnation of my moral standards on late-night television.

I am sick of being told that policemen are mad dogs who should not have guns — but that criminals who use guns to rob, maim and murder should be understood and helped back to society.

I am sick of being told it is wrong to use napalm to end a war overseas . . . but if it's a molotov cocktail or a bomb at home, I must understand the provocations.

I am sick of . . . not being able to take my family to a movie unless I want to have them exposed to nudity, homosexuality and the glorification of narcotics.

I am sick of riots, marches, protests, demonstrations, confrontations, and the other mob temper tantrums of people intellectually incapable of working within the system.

I am sick of hearing the same phrases, the same slick slogans, the cries of people who must chant the same thing like zombies because they haven't the capacity for verbalizing thought.

I am sick of those who say I owe them this or that because of the sins of my forefathers — when I have looked down both ends of a gun barrel to defend their rights, their liberties and their families.

I am sick of cynical attitudes toward patriotism. I am sick of politicians with media-itis.

I am sick of permissiveness.

I am sick of the dirty, the foul-mouthed, the unwashed.

I am sick of the decline of personal honesty, personal integrity and human sincerity.

Most of all, though, I am sick of being told I'm sick. I'm sick of being told my country is sick — when we have the greatest nation that man has ever brought forth on the face of the earth. Fully fifty per cent of the people on earth would willingly trade places with the most deprived, the most underprivileged among us.

Yes, I may be sick, but if I am only sick, I can get well. I can also help my society get well — and help my country get well.

Take note, all of you . . . you will not find me throwing a rock or a bomb; you will not find me under a placard; you will not see me take to the streets; you will not find me ranting to wild-eyed mobs.

But you will find me at work, paying taxes, serving in the community where I live. You will also find me expressing my anger and indignation to elected officials.

You will find me speaking out in support of those officials, institutions and personalities who contribute to the elevation of society and not its destruction. You will find me contributing my time, money and personal influence to helping churches, hospitals, charities and other establishments, which have shown the true spirit of this country's determination to ease pain, suffering, eliminate hunger and generate brotherhood.

But most of all, you'll find me at the polling place. There — if you listen — you can hear the thunder of the common man. There, all of us can cast our vote — for an America where people can walk the streets without fear.

PROGRESS- The concrete cap is being poured on the new First Federal building in Jensen Beach. The unique two-story building is almost ready for the glass installation, and seems built like a fort on the Commercial Street-SR 707 site. Work also continues on the second story of the old First Federal Building, redesigning it to make it compatible with the new building.

Navitsky questions state funding of local schools

Stuart- State aid to the amount of $401,503 for Martin County public schools was announced last week by Sen. Cliff Shuler (R) of Vero Beach, according to an analysis of the supplemental education appropriations bill passed recently in Tallahassee.

Total state contributions to the Martin County K-12 program next year will be $3,660,311 Shuler said.

Not so, claims Superintendent of Schools V. James Navitsky.

In a release to The Mirror, Navitsky said the state appropriated funds from the Minimum Foundation Program will be $2,244,005. Martin County will receive $141,129 less than their entitlement in the area of school construction, he said.

"The state is providing less revenue per pupil in the Martin County school system," Navitsky said. "Financial requirements for continuing programs, increases in cost, and improvements must be borne by the increase in the local value of the mill."

The receipt of the 1970-71 Minimum Foundation Program funds of $2,070,989 were based on average daily attendance of 20,178 students, Navitsky said. This means that the total funds available per student from MFP were $360.11 per pupil. The 1971-72 MFP financing of $2,244,005 will support 6,306 students, which would bring in an estimated revenue of $355.87 per pupil.

"This is a decrease of [illegible] per pupil," Navitsky said. He based his figures on information from the State Department of Education.

Martin County has had an increase of 341 pupils in average daily attendance, he said.

Money had said, there would be $85,477 added for Martin County's K-12 program for next year and that the state would fully fund kindergarten units.

VISITORS--Returned on vacation are former Jensen Beach residents Bob and Caryl Crowder. The Crowders are now living at Annapolis Maryland. They plan to visit here for several weeks and are staying at Frances Langford's Outrigger Resort.

Bettys are back

Hi...Have you an idea how many people come in buying a wounded member of the family who has walked through a glass door? And then wait for ads to prevent it from happening again. But when those bright, large, colorful decals that don't easily [illegible] pale but fully visible designs, [illegible] suppose they also have a secret hope their husbands, coaches-in-law, and Sags will walk through the glass doors again?) Please wait [illegible] we'll have "it" ready for you the decor" tomorrow. It would be healthier to have little decals than to use those bitsy decals. The main purpose of these neat decals is to prevent an accident as well as cancellation of our insurance. Or could it be you really want the bear and tad to break his nose the next time he's in his classes. That's enough lecturing for the moment. While you wait a big, beautiful, stained bevel for your glass doors, we have quite an assortment. From 40¢ to $3.

HERE'S SOME GOOD NEWS: Our boxed christmas cards are starting to come in and we have no place to store them. If you buy other boxed Christmas cards now, you will get a 20% DISCOUNT. This will save you enough to have them imprinted or give you time to hand-sign your name. (Doe! you really think handsigning is friendlier?)

Can't promise to remember which pink that pink but on your Limoges china with our candles, but we have at least 100 colors in stock from 10 in all shapes and sizes. From time-to-time we've carried all the candle lines but nothing, in our way of thinking, can beat the Colonial Candles from Hyannis. And for [illegible] and candles, we have most of Carolina's marvelous line, together with their handmade old-fashioned holders. We've put together a few combinations of candleholders, candles and flower rings that are very gay. For real show-off the most lavish one we concocted is $7.50 all the way down to 60¢.

By the way, we leave on our semi-annual buying trip July 21st. Leaving the shop in the capable hands of Laura Neal. Want anything special? Let us know, and we'll try our best to get it.

Milwaukee was 'Just too hot'

JB - A vacation trip to their old home town of Milwaukee, Wis., was cut short by the Harney Johnsons because of the hot weather there.

"It was just too hot," Mrs. Johnson told The Mirror reporter. "We were astonished at the amount of fog around the big cities we drove through," she said. "We didn't see any really blue sky until we returned to Florida."

The Johnsons, of Jeannette Ave., visited relatives and friends for more than two weeks.

"In comparison, we have it made here," Mrs. Johnson said, adding that she was glad to be back home.

Sheriff asks 79% budget increase

Sheriff A. J. Hosea has requested a budget increase that would raise his budget by $437,000. The proposed budget provides for $13,200,700 for the sheriff's salary, $466,100 for salaries of deputies and other assistants, $251,100 for other expenses, $89,750 for equipment, $8,500 for investigations, and $20,000 for contingencies.

Reacting upon instructions from the Martin County Commission at a budget hearing last year, reduced the existing shifts of deputies to eight-hour periods in April. He employs about 25 deputies, six clerical assistants, five dispatchers, three jailers, plus part-time employees.

A breakdown of proposed expenses has been requested of the sheriff by County Commissioner Thirer Powers, indicating the county cannot afford the 79 per cent increase.

Cleaning up visual pollution: electricity is part of the solution.

What happens to once-faithful flivvers when they're too old for the road? Too often they become junk, great ugly piles of rusting metal. But modern American wants to live in a beautiful, clean environment.

And electricity is helping.

Electric compactors crush junked cars into almost-solid blocks of metal which are melted down and shaped into useful new products. Visual pollution is reduced. And our society's resources are wisely recycled.

At FPL we're busy planning and building to provide the electricity for your needs as well as for the important job of improving the environment. Cleaning the air, cleaning the water, treating sewage, converting the ugly junkpiles: electricity is part of the solution!

BLOWN UP- It looks like County Commissioner Frank Wacha is being blown up by this quadruple exposure of fireworks taken behind him, (at left). The photo was a series of exposures of a series of shots. Wacha was co-chairman of the fireworks show.

TENTING--Scouts of Boy Scout Troop 811, Jensen Beach, set up a tent at one of the booths on the causeway Sunday, taking part in the Independence Day festivities. One member of the troop was on duty at all times to discuss scouting with interested visitors.

FOUNTAIN OF LIGHT--A huge fountain of light lighted the Jensen Beach Causeway and Indian River Sunday evening during the hour-long fireworks exhibit by the Jensen Fireworks Committee. The men in the foreground are dwarfed by the brilliant radiance, enjoyed by the thousands of persons who jammed the causeway and surrounding roads. This was just one of many ground display pieces set off in the annual fabulous fireworks exhibit.

GOOD TASTING- This young tyke found the watermelon eating contest to her liking. She didn't win, but that didn't matter to her on a hot Independence Day afternoon on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Gilmans arrive

JB -- Offers from brand new neighbors to help with community projects are few and far between. However, the Edward Gilmans of 341 Silver Maple Road are off to a good start.

Mrs. Gilman called The Mirror Friday to offer her services as a Brownie leader in Jensen Beach when she learned the Brownies had been discontinued because no leader could be found.

"I was a Brownie leader in Vero Beach," she said, "and I'll be glad to help out here." All phases of scouting are important, she pointed out, asking if help was needed in the Cub Scout field.

Mrs. Gilman and her husband, who is superintendent of Anglers Cove on Hutchinson Island, have three children: Susan 2, Virginia 7 and Peter 8. "And two dogs," she added. They are from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, and moved in over the June 26 weekend.

Mirror Cooking Show is Thursday

JB--Over 1,500 persons are expected to attend the two sessions of the Eighth Annual Mirror Cooking Show at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 15, at St. Lucie Country Club Convention Hall.

Over $1,000 in prizes will be given away at the two sessions, ranging from a $100 food gift certificate to appliances and bags of oranges, ice cream, recipe books and record albums. The theme, "Swing Through Summer," will be carried out through the program, expected to last just over two hours, according to Mirror Editor Dick Campbell, master of ceremonies.

Co-sponsored by Florida Power and Light Company, Publix Markets and General Development Corporation, the show will feature many firsts, including the appearance of Miss O.J. Break, the Florida Citrus Queen, and her "Rolling Orange."

This week in The Mirror is spotlighted a section devoted to recipes, many of which will be featured in the show, stories and advertisements on the latest appliances and cooking ideas used by the modern homemaker.

Chamber elated

SR 707 traffic rerouting completed

JB - Chamber of Commerce officials were elated at the completion of striping, stop signs and traffic guards at SR 707 and Sewall's Point Road last weekend. The project, one of the Chamber's, begun last fall, saw a final link to traffic safety completed.

Last year the Chamber established a traffic committee that was directed to seek the redesigning of the Sewall's Point Road-SR 707 intersection, the widening of Warner Creek Bridge, and the solution to a jam up of traffic at the intersection of SR 707 and Commercial Street.

In the spring of this year the widening of Warner Creek Bridge was completed, the curve there was reduced in degree of difficulty and road markings and warning signs installed.

Later the marking of SR-707 at Commercial Street and at Nicou Blvd. provided left turn storage lanes to relieve the traffic building along the busy highway. Detailed rights-of-way by Tilson, Inc. enabled widening the road to provide for the extra lanes.

The completion of the Sewall's Point Road-SR 707 intersection, which makes southbound traffic into Sewall's Point Road free flowing, and makes northbound SR 707 traffic stop, does not end the traffic project. There is still one problem area left.

The Department of Transportation solution to traffic jams at the Commercial Street intersection of SR 707 is a left turn storage lane for eastbound traffic. This has not yet been installed.

But Dave Decl, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce who lives at Crossroads Hill, was elated with the completion of the traffic solution to that intersection.

"This is the first time I have felt safe in pulling out of our road, it is great," Decl said.

Chamber officials Monday agreed to write a letter to Arnold Hanlon, District engineer of the D-7, thanking him for the work, and seeking completion of the Commercial Street storage lane.

NEW WAY--Stop signs dominate the newly designed intersection at Sewall's Point Road and SR 707, known as the "crossroads." The painting of the stripes and installation of walking posts and signs were completed last weekend by the Department of Transportation road crew.

Pitchford dump closed

JB--A private dump in Jensen Beach, operated by the Pitchford family for years, has been closed at the request of the Florida Department of Air and Water Pollution, A bulldozer recently finished burying all the remains of years of trash accumulation at the dumpsite, just off Skyline Drive.

"We had the full cooperation of Mr. Pitchford," said AWP inspector Paul Closer. "He asked our advice on what to do with it, how to properly dispose of the dump, and has cooperated for the disposal of the future trash of the Pitchford Camp."

Pitchford's dump was illegally operated for years, though a private camp, lack of sanitary covering of the trash and garbage materials placed the dumpsite in an illegal capacity.

"Mr. Pitchford kept us informed of his progress on it and we feel that he has handled the violation as it should be handled, with full cooperation with the department," Closer added.

Praises county effort

CofC backs Health fight

JB- The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will ask the Florida Legislature's health committees to investigate "...the place of the (Florida) Division of Health in the administration of health law" and to define "the responsibilities of that legislature in the health needs of the State and the qualifications of its personnel."

In an action taken at the meeting of the board of directors Monday, the Chamber board passed a strongly worded resolution that empowered the action of the [illegible] committee in calling a meeting of the legislative health committees to hear complaints of the [illegible] concerning the health law enforcement by the Division's Health Department and the Florida Division of Health.

The resolution, to be sent to the county legislative delegation and to Governor Reubin Askew, as well as a list of Florida officials urges that "the action requested and recommended herein may soon be taken."

The Chamber is the second public group to join the fight for better health law enforcement. Two weeks ago, the Martin County Anglers Club joined in the battle with strongly worded letters to the county and state-wide health officials.

The resolution will be signed officially by members of the Chamber board of directors.

"I feel that the general tone of the wording of the resolution or this resolution will help much more," said Chamber President David [illegible] during its passage.

The resolution praised The Jensen Beach Mirror initiative "...in finding and publishing facts instrumental in stopping [illegible] law enforcement of the health laws and regulations."

The text of the resolution follows:

WHEREAS: The public health is of prime concern to good government at all levels, and particularly to that of the State of Florida as evidenced by the laws and regulations created to protect and promote the health of the rapidly growing population; the enforcement of which has been vested in the executive department of Health and Rehabilitative Services; and

WHEREAS: There is much evidence of confusion as to legal interpretations of the laws and regulations, their particular intent in statutes having been disputed and brought to the courts area and published by "The Jensen Beach Mirror" as a public service; and

WHEREAS: Principal examinations of the division of Health, at the meeting with the Board of Commissioners of Martin County, at the latter's request failed to explain the facts adequately or to offer any remedial programs;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the undersigned members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, Inc., hereby:

(1) Recommend the institution of "The Jensen Beach Mirror" in the policing and publishing facts instrumental in enforcement of the health laws and regulations;

(2) Endorse the move by the Board of Commissioners of Martin County to seek a public hearing with the health committees of the Florida Senate and House of Representatives to examine the facts in the matter;

(3) Recommend to said committees of the Legislature, first, a reevaluation of the place of the Division of Health in the enforcement of health laws; and second, a determination of the responsiveness of that Department to the health needs of the State and the qualifications of its personnel;

(4) Direct that a copy of this RESOLUTION be sent to the Governor of Florida, to the Martin County Legislative delegation, to the health committees of the Florida Legislature, and to the Martin County Commission and all other interested parties, in hopes that the action endorsed and recommended herein may soon be taken.

Doctor Joe Chang is coming to Jensen Beach

[illegible] have [illegible] some doctors for the multi-thousand residents of the area.

[illegible] Martin County [illegible] people of the area [illegible] the real [illegible] the past three days.

Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Chang signed a lease with the Skyline Professional Center and located a house on Linda Drive to rent after the facility is moved to the area.

Chang, his wife and two-year old daughter are from Virginia. They were accompanied on the trip to Jensen Beach by Dr. John Hentges, evangelist of the Chamber and to Dr. & Mrs. Alexander. The Changs were feted Monday night for dinner at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant by the Hentges and Dr. and Mrs. Richard [illegible] Fenick.

Fenick said that Chang was impressed with the facilities of Martin Memorial Hospitals, and added that Chang "is an outstanding cardiologist."

It was Fenick who approached the Chamber executive [illegible] "GP's" for Jensen Beach. The doctor also provided the Chamber with a list of prospects, all doctors, who have indicated an interest in practicing medicine in Florida, and who have passed their Florida tests.

Dr. Chang is now working in the emergency room of a 525 bed hospital as an emergency physician and surgeon. He has a background in internal medicine.

DOCTOR- The scarcity of doctors in the Jensen Beach area will be alleviated with the arrival of Dr. Joseph Chang, Dr. Chang, his wife and daughter, visited here this week at the invitation of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, and will establish a medical practice in Jensen Beach. He has a background of internal medicine and is an outstanding [illegible].

Fireworks tourney starts on Thursday

JB- "All the games will be exciting," promises Frank Wacha, chairman of the upcoming Fifth Annual All Florida Invitational Slow Pitch softball Tournament which gets under way Thursday, July 15, at Langford Park. The first game will start at 7:30 p.m.

"But one of the best will be Frances Langford's Outrigger team versus Atlas (Widows of Miami)," he said. The two teams met Memorial Day weekend in a lively game in which the Outrigger team hit three consecutive home runs in the last inning to win the game.

"These boys are really up for this game," Wacha said. They will play Friday at 8:45 p.m., so what is expected to be a full house.

Thirty-eight teams will compete in the tournament, sponsored by the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee. A total of 56 games will be played on the first weekend in the double-elimination tourney, sanctioned by the F.A.S.A.

The 16 teams still in the running after the first weekend (eight undefeated and eight with one loss) will compete in the finals starting on Saturday, July 24 at 11:45 a.m. All games will be played on the three fields at Langford Park, SR 707.

This week's games will be played Thursday at 7:30 and 8:45 p.m., and Friday at the same times. Saturday's games will start at 10:30, 11:45 a.m., 1:00, 2:15, 3:30, 4:45, 6:00, 6:15 and 7:30 p.m. Those in the losers' bracket will play Sunday, July 18, starting at 10:30, 11:45 a.m., 1:00, 2:15, 3:30, 4:45, 6:00, 6:15 and 7:30 p.m.

Winners will compete on Saturday, July 24, and the finals will be held Sunday, July 25, with trophies awarded for sponsors of teams in the first three places plus individual trophies and one to the most valuable player.

Local teams include the Outrigger, Krauss & Crane, Mike Piper, Steve's Pizza Filling and Sulzer's Union 76.

Teams will be coming from Hialeah, Opa-Locka, Miami, North Miami, Coral Springs, Fort Lauderdale, Pompano, Boca Raton, Lake Worth, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach Gardens, Vero Beach, Melbourne, Satellite Beach, Cocoa, Rockledge, Merritt Island, Orlando, Winter Park and Jupiter.

Competition will be keen, Wacha said, pointing out that many of the teams are tops in the state. "And all proceeds will go to the Fireworks Fund," he said.

Causeway camp end

JB--Camping overnight on the Jensen Beach and Stuart Causeways will be halted, and signs are being installed to stop camping on the causeways.

In a letter from county officials, it was pointed out that camping on a state road right of way is against the law, that signs would be posted to halt overnight camping, and that the sheriff's deputies would patrol and enforce the law.

Question of the week

What do you think of women's Lib?

"I'm not for it, but I'm not against it."
Bonnie Haire

"They would accomplish more by just working for what they want instead of talking so much about it."
Lil Driscoll

"In some ways I'm for it, in others, I'm not. I think we should have equal rights, however, I believe it could be accomplished with less demonstrations."
Lynn Lantz

"I think they've carried it too far. I'm very happy with my status."
Joyce Tilton

JB--Mr. and Mrs. Bill Heger of North River Shores returned recently from a trip to Dallas and San Antonio, Texas, where they visited their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hibbs.

YOUTH CAMP--Boys from the United Methodist Children's Home in Enterprise, Fla., recently attended a youth camp program held by the Youth Fellowship of Trinity United Methodist Church of Jensen Beach. The Fellowship Hall at the church was turned into dormitories for the boys, members of the church loaned cots and bed linens for the program. Rev. Neil M. Gunsalus and Mike Townsend spent one of the days with the boys swimming at Jensen Beach. Other activities included hikes, tours of the Elliott Museum and House of Refuge, a trip to Pirate's World, morning devotions, evening worship services and Bible stories.

Martin-St. Lucie bites Vero bugging

Stuart-- "Don't bug me," seemed to be the attitude of officials of Martin and St. Lucie Counties last week in reply to complaints of Indian River County mosquito controllers.

Claiming that the mosquito control practices are sending the pesky prowlers north into the Indian River County area, Julian Lowenstein, mosquito control director of that county, brought biting comments from elected and appointed officials who were stung by the remarks.

Les Scherer, Martin's mosquito leader, said that the little needlers can fly 20 to 25 miles, and added his complaint that some people in Martin County are being bitten by the St. Lucie kind, coming from the Florida Power and Light nuclear power plant (a new complaint about the dangers of nuclear power?) seven miles north in the Hutchinson Island swamps.

Dr. Bill Myers, chairman of the Martin County Commission, asked the larvae-laden Lowenstein to identify his attackers as coming from Martin.

Eugene Lemire, director of St. Lucie mosquito control, told St. Lucie Commissioners that Indian River County had as much problem as St. Lucie in unfilled areas that breed mosquitos.

Lemire's complaint was that the taxpayers of Indian River County were having to pay a big tax bite for control, while the two counties to the south were not getting their taxpayers bitten as hard monetarily.

Beach Club denied fill permit

JB — A dredge and fill permit for Beach Club Colony on Hutchinson Island was denied last week by the St. Lucie County Commission.

The permit was denied improperly influence. The Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund considered a request for the use of submerged land in the area.

The permit asked that a 100-foot wide boat channel be dredged from the inlet approved into the Indian River and that spoil be used to fill back of the state-approved bulkhead line. A hearing of applications has been held in the office of the bulkhead in Tallahassee.

What's cookin'

The eighth annual Mirror Cooking Show is on the way ready to go on this Thursday, July 15, at St. Lucie Country Club. It should be the largest event in the history of The Mirror both in attendance and in prizes.

The cooperation of the many who help to promote better living for our people has been outstanding. Florida Power and Light Company has placed all its home demonstration facilities at our command. Publix Markets jumped in with everything from the foods being prepared to the grand prize, and many other prizes.

The St. Lucie Hilton has provided the finest facilities in the area, the massive convention hall, and the advice and help of the staff of the country club and convention facility. And, McArthur Dairy has again provided the many items and services that help to make the show something special to all homemakers.

One new feature this year is the cooperation of the Florida Citrus Commission, with Miss Florida C.J. Break and the famed Rolling Orange, plus a fifteen-minute film on famous chef recipes using Florida citrus.

The Mirror Cooking Show will be a great one. We invite all to the free show. It will be exciting and informative.

Fireworks tourney draws the best

Jensen Beach is becoming known as one of the finest tournament towns in Florida for the slow pitch softball fans and teams. And, rightfully so, the community deserves the honor. If there is any doubt, we invite the people to attend some of the games that will be played in the Fireworks Tournament this weekend and next weekend.

Florida's finest teams will be playing in the two-weekend tournament. They come to Jensen Beach knowing that the competition is best here, and that they will be in among Florida's finest slow pitch teams.

The state champions, plus all the runners-up that played in the finals, will be playing in the Fireworks till.

The Fireworks Tournament has all the makings of a great event. And, when it is realized that the tournament proceeds will be put in the fireworks fund for the 1972 Independence Day celebration on Jensen Beach Causeway, we find added impetus to the tourney.

Putting it all together is that dedicated team of men and women who are always behind the promotion of sports and civic events. The trophies will be the largest, the organization will be the best, and the tournament will thrill the sports fan.

Last year seven home runs were hit in one game, and one other game had four home runs hit in one inning. It is sparkling play, and the players are colorful and professional in their avocation.

One of the local prides is the Frances Langford's Outrigger Team, a team that has become a state contender in just one year. The men who play on the Outrigger team travel to all parts of Florida, spending nights and weekends away from home just to play ball three or four times a week. They enjoy their play, and play well.

We wish all the teams well in the Fireworks Tournament, and advise the sports fans. If they want to have the time of their lives, and enjoy good softball, to see the games....all of them.

Hendry's home

The people came from far and near last Sunday to attend the open house of A. A. "Buck" Hendry and his wife, Ollie. The Hendrys have moved back to Jensen Beach, and done so in style.

Recently, Buck Hendry purchased the old Chenev Fredricksen home on Sunview Road. The house was a landmark, constructed in the latter part of 1890, and hadn't been touched in many, many years.

Hendry completely rebuilt the house, removing the weakened areas and replacing some materials, adding a porch and renovating the inside and outside of the building.

It remains a landmark, for it was saved by Hendry, but it is a beautiful building.

The grounds around the residence are landscaped, and grass and plantings have replaced the wild tropical confusion that existed on the property a few months ago.

The Hendrys, after living in Jensen Beach for many years at what was known as Hendry's Place, now the site of Ocean Breeze Park's north section, moved to Port Salerno after the sale of the property. They lived there only a few years.

Last Wednesday morning, "Buck" was digging a post hole in his front yard to install a new post office box for deliveries. "I guess this means we are permanent," he said, smiling.

We welcome "Buck" and Ollie back to Jensen.

The St. Lucie study

Hopes that General Development Corporation will allow the St. Lucie River's North Fork to remain in its natural state received a boost recently with the published report of a biological and ecological study being conducted by the University of Miami's Dr. Howard Teas.

The company has long promised that it would do nothing to harm the St. Lucie, a picturesque river that winds its way down to the mile wide North Fork area in front of the St. Lucie Country Club. Efforts of the state to develop a preserve have met with success, and the preserve will extend from White City to Lighthouse Point.

But the preserve does not take land areas into account; only the areas that are from shoreline to shoreline are affected by the preserve for the water and the river bottom are considered area owned by the people of Florida.

General Development's President Fredrick Roach made a promise to the people of Port St. Lucie in a speech. He promised that GDC would not harm the lands along the St. Lucie so that they would mar the natural beauty of the river.

The study being conducted by Dr. Teas will verify what we all believe; that the St. Lucie's North Fork should be preserved for mankind.

The investment of valuable properties into a non-revenue producing preserve is not an item that should be taken lightly by anyone. We are certain that General Development is as serious as it can be about the investment it will be making.

Brush with chaos

New Yorkers very likely know better than anyone else what it is like to live without essential services and necessities. One of their recent brushes with chaos came in the form of a strike of 1,600 truck drivers and warehouse workers who handle about 85 percent of the metropolitan area's gasoline supply. Service stations throughout the city were forced to post out-of-gas signs. The police department, hospitals and ambulances were faced with an emergency situation. Gasoline is another of those necessities that everyone seems to presume will always be available in abundant supply, come what may.

A few hundred strikers demonstrated more effectively than all the statistics and arguments in the world exactly what energy means to an energy-based society such as that of Twentieth Century America. Let this flow of energy dwindle or cease, even momentarily, and civilization would collapse in a shapeless mass of unwashed, starving humanity.

Children knows

Four U.S. senators watched from the fifth floor of a Harlem hospital. A 16-year-old boy, who looked about 10, bought the tube Harlem inspection trip for the members of the Senate Subcommittee on Alcoholism and Narcotics had known how to spot peddlers and could map the dens of users in their territory, why the arresters and rehabilitators of society could not also know their way about.

It is both strange and tragic when children in the cities can lead a nation's lawmakers through the seamy byways of life in their midst.

LIVE ....and love it

by Dick Campbell

The only way

When I put on the white helmet and sat down on the mini-bike, I knew that I was the wisest of all, for I was about to beat the traffic on the Jensen Beach Causeway for the first time in my life.

Every year that we have had fireworks there, I have had to be right up in front, taking pictures. When the event ended, I was the one who came out last...all the way in the back, taking an hour to get the five blocks to my home.

Last year I decided to do it differently. I parked the car at Al Marts' Jensen Motel. I walked out from the causeway and found myself lugging the camera and strobelight and stuff. It was too much.

So, this year I told my son, Rick, to take the boat out to see the fireworks. (That should keep him out of the way, I thought.)

Then, about five in the afternoon, I drove Kate, put a set of saddlebags on the mini-bike, put on my helmet, put the cameras and tripod in the saddlebags, and got on the bike.

It wouldn't start.

Again and again I jumped up and down on the kick-starter. Again and again it didn't start.

Suddenly I saw Mark Hendry working in his grandfather's yard.

"Mark!!!" I shouted. "Come over here and start this ... thing."

Mark came over, took one kick at the kick-starter, and away the machine went. It was then that I felt the machine was something I didn't...and so did Mark. He smiled that silly smile that makes an old man feel foolish and walked away.

I drove over to the gas station and told the attendant to "Fill her up."

It took eight cents worth of gas to "fill her up." And that didn't make me feel too bright, either.

Anyway, I drove down to the causeway, set up the cameras and had a good time shooting the fireworks and crowds.

When it was all over, I missed some of the shots because Don Wilkie told me that "the next shot is the most beautiful," and I ended up missing the finale...one negative short on my cameras.

As all the cars started zooming off the causeway, some going east, some going west, I started creeping down the beach, then as the autos clogged up and the lines froze, as it always does, I began driving down the middle of the road, between cars. I passed the fire chief's car as a call came through.

"Hey, Campbell," yelled Chief Randolph Spinney, "see if you can get the cars to pull over to let the ambulance out."

I turned the bike around and started telling all the car drivers to pull over to the right so that the ambulance could get through. It was a long and tedious process, because I had to start up the bike and stop it for each car, and my tennis shoe was near a blowout when I got back to where the ambulance had been when I started my journey.

There was no ambulance.

"Where is the ambulance?" I asked incredulously.

"Oh, they went the other way. They couldn't make it out through this stackup of cars," someone said.

I turned the bike around. Spinney was already gone, off the causeway and on his way home. I was back at the end of the line again.

I think that I was ahead of about five cars when I finally made it off the causeway. And, I had a mighty thin tennis shoe.

Next year I'm going to try something else. Maybe a mini-bike that becomes invisible, or, maybe I'll take the boat and give my son the mini-bike. Yes, that's it. I'll give my son the mini-bike and take the boat.

It will probably sink.

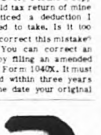
Diet dodging



You know, there's one thing I'm getting tired of hearing.

Actually, that's not true. There are many things I'm getting tired of hearing. But one comment stands out among all the rest.

"Putting on a little weight, aren't you, Bill?"

Maybe it wouldn't be so bad, if it weren't so true. I am putting on a little here and there. (Mostly there.) But, of course, I'm not going to admit it. Not in public anyway.

But that doesn't stop my so-called friends from making cracks. Usually in a crowded room and with a voice about as quiet as a ringmaster announcing the trapeze act.

"Putting on a little weight, aren't you, Bill?" The line's always the same, and generally followed by a loud snicker, and a playful punch in my well-padded ribs.

Hooboy. One of these days.

Yeah.

One of these days I'm going to start on a diet, and stick to it.

Yessir.

And nobody's going to talk me out of it once I start.

Which may be today.

But...which one should I start on? Seems that every day there's some new miracle diet printed in the newspapers and magazines.

It's even worse for the ladies.

Every issue of every woman's magazine comes forth with a new miracle diet designed to strip inches off their bodies and melt away pounds of flab.

Sometimes in the wrong places. But, that's their problem.

Of course, every issue that I've seen also carries, in addition to their latest diet, page after page of horribly high caloric goodies all illustrated with big, juicy color photographs which would probably paste at least ten pounds on you if you just ate the page.

Sigh.

But there's one diet that looks sort of interesting. At least to the ladies.

It's called, for want of a better name, the Elizabeth Taylor Hot Pants Diet.

And it may be bigger than all of us.

It all started some weeks ago when Lovely Liz, whose torso has been known to puff a bit from time to time under the terrible pressures of champagne living, appeared at a press conference wearing cocktail shorts which were about a centimeter longer than Pampers.

Well, let me tell you, flash bulbs popped all over the room, and the picture appeared in just about every newspaper from here to Oshkosh.

But while the effect of the photograph was galvanizing, the caption under it was even more so. For it disclosed that Liz' baby had melted down her chassis by following a diet of steak, grapefruit juice and vitamin B.

Needless to say this has caused a rush on those three magic items, although family economy in some cases made some of the participants substitute ground round or chopped chuck.

Also, the newspaper stories failed to give the portions or the dosage, but that didn't spoil the great diet game. Players simply made up their own as they went along.

At this very moment, I know more women who are on this combination of steak, grapefruit juice and vitamins than there are in hot pants. Because, after all, you can start on a diet like this right away, with no advance preparation beyond a few words of prayer. But, at least for some, getting psychologically ready for the naughty-named short-shorts takes a little bit od doing.

But, as popular as this diet may be, I don't think it would work for me.

It's not that I dislike steak, grapefruit juice and vitamin B.

It's just that I don't think I would look very good in hot pants.

No, I'll have to look around and find some other diet more to my liking.

And, I'm going to stick to it, and nobody's going to talk me out of it once I start.

Which may be tomorrow.

Taxpayers Questions

Q. My son is planning to deposit his earnings from a summer job in the bank in order to pay for college. Do I count these earnings when I figure his total support to see if I can claim him as a dependent?

A. If your son keeps his earnings in the bank for the year, his earnings are not counted as support for that year. If he saves but also spends the money to support items, such as education, this year, then these funds have to be taken into account in computing his total support and his contribution to that support for 1971.

To meet the support test, you must provide over one-half the cost of providing your son's total support, including food, shelter, clothing, medical and dental care. Educational expenses are also included.

Q. While cleaning out my desk drawer I found a copy of an old tax return of mine and noticed a deduction I neglected to take. Is it too late to correct this mistake?

A. You can correct an error by filing an amended return, Form 1040X. It must be filed within three years from the date your original return was filed, or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever was later. If you filed your original return early, the three-year-rule applies from the due date for that year.

Q. Where should I write about a delayed refund?

A. If it has been at least ten weeks since you sent your return and you have received no word about it, the write the IRS service center where you sent your return. The IRS will need to know approximately when your return was mailed, your Social Security number, name, and present address.

Q. How can I tell if I'm going to need more tax withheld from my paycheck?

A. The taxpayers most likely to need more withholding are:

Employees who expect to earn more than $11,500 in 1971 and intend to claim the $1,500 standard deduction or itemize deductions totaling less than 13 percent of their salaries, or;

Single employees who expect to earn $15,000 or more in 1971, or;

Married employees who expect to earn $25,000 or more this year and whose spouses are not employed; and,

All working couples.

If you think that you may fall into one of these categories, estimate the amount to be withheld during 1971 from the tables IRS has provided to your employer. Compare this estimate with the amount of tax liability you expect for 1971. If more withholding is necessary, you should file a new withholding certificate (Form W-4) with your employer, claiming fewer exemptions or asking to have additional amounts withheld.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the editor:

After reading the Letter to the Editor from Virginia Nordheim, it made me wonder why anyone would get so worked up to put in print a complaint about children who are associated with church, when there are so many people who are equally upset with teenagers of today. Maybe, and just maybe, if more would volunteer to help out at the 1st Baptist Church where I am sure you are needed and wanted, you may begin to understand children better.

You may think that 4:30 and 5:30 are unGodly hours. But just maybe God was there, God gave us children to laugh and play with, and enjoy. Have you reached the time in life of forgetting your childhood?

Do you know what a Christian is? It's being "Christ like." He himself laughed and played, and probably between the hours of 4:30 and 5:30.

The Biblical teachings go to all. Have you tried them?

Mr. and Mrs. Bob West

To the editor:

We have not received our copy of the July 1 edition of The Mirror. Will you kindly send us one at your earliest convenience?

It seems that the service we are getting from the P.O. Dept. is getting worse and worse with every passing year. First class letters from our friends and relatives up in New England now take at least four days and in many instances, five. When we first moved to Jensen Beach in 1950 we got delivery of such letters in 2-3 days, also 3-4 mail deliveries a day seven days a week, 365 days a year at our P.O. in Ocean Breeze Park. Now it is one delivery) a day all over the country, I believe. I was a Federal Civil Service employee for 30 years prior to 1950 and all departments gave the public much better service with salaries a fraction of what the present workers receive.

Very truly yours,
Kirk K. Stimson

P.S. I want to congratulate you on your efforts to get the state and local traffic enforcement agencies to take action on the numerous violations in Martin County.

To the editor:

Monday morning, July 12, at 5:30 a.m., there were excited boys who were getting their way to a Christian Camp to spend a week. I will admit that they were happy and perhaps a little loud about going. Look at the results of that week. There were nine boys from my church and all nine made decisions for Christ. Two of these boys were called to preach the Gospel and both of our boys answered the call to become Foreign Missionaries. The other boys gave their lives to the Lord in whatever way the Lord wants to use them.

There were 175 teens in camp and out of this number 26 became Christians. There were 16 called to be missionaries and 15 called to church-related work. All open decisions were for the Lord. There were 38 who rededicated their lives. Some of the boys made several decisions and 147 out of 175 wanting to follow the Lord. I think this speaks well for one Christian camp and the boys who were excited about going.

Also at the camp there were 18 of the most dedicated young men who work on the staff. I can only say to God for the results of this camp even if one person was disturbed about their leaving.

Thank you.

They love to cook

FPL experts plan swing through summer cooking

By DICK CAMPBELL

The preparation of meals for the home is an area everyone knows, and most housewives are somewhat offended when they are referred to a "cooking expert." Well, The Mirror Cooking Show is not a school, and most housewives who have attended the annual Mirror event, held for the past eight years, know that they are going to get entertainment and some mighty good hints on cooking in the process.

Assisting the cooking are three Florida Power and Light Company "home service representatives," young ladies who have been professionally trained in home economics, who know the latest methods used in cooking and many shortcuts to a more attractive setting in the dining room.

Mrs. Susan Reid will direct the activities of the three demonstration crews in keeping the audience informed through specified menus. The recently named home service representative of Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties for the Palm Beach Division, Mrs. Reed is a graduate of Auburn University where she received her B.S. degree in home economics. She is a member of Omicron Nu, National Home Economics Honorary, and is a native of Alabama. This is her first Mirror Cooking Show.

The veteran of the group is Miss Barbara Benson who participated in her first Mirror Cooking Show in 1966, five years ago. The 1971 show will be her sixth.

Miss Benson has been associated with Florida Power and Light Company, on the home service representative staff, for the past nine years. Previous to that she was training supervisor of Jordan Marsh in Miami. She attended Michigan State University and gained her BS in home economics at the University of Miami.

Miss Benson is active in Home Economics in Business Association (HEIB) and the American Home Economics Association (AHEA). She was general chairman of the 1970 FHEA convention in Palm Beach County, and is co-editor of the HEIB Gold Coast Newsletter.

Miss Saundra Hensley is starting her second Mirror Cooking Show and assisted last year in the show. She has been with FPL since July, 1969, and is a graduate of Tennessee Technological University with a BS in home economics.

Miss Hensley is a member of HEIB and is co-editor of the HEIB Gold Coast newsletter.

"The thing I like about the cooking shows put on by The Mirror is the easy pace of them. No one is uptight about the show, and we have a lot of fun," said Miss Benson.

"We love to cook, and the new appliances that are on the market make cooking so much easier. Our idea is to give those who attend The Mirror Cooking Show a few ideas on easy meals, and a few hints on how to use their appliances to make cooking easier for the cook."

He deals in trivia as his work of life

FPL Dustin Carpenter has a life that is as strange as the trivia that has become his life work. It is a story of astounded bemusement over adversity.

His part in the program of The Mirror Cooking Show will be a "quickie trivia quiz," an entertaining yet educational moment that it appears years of effort to bring the knowledge of words to the people of the world.

The well known lecturer was born in Hungary of American missionary parents and at age three he was orphaned, being the only survivor of an unbelievable crash that took the lives of his parents.

The tragedy of such a beginning was extended when he lived with his aunt and uncle in Canada. His uncle, who lost a leg fighting the Bolshevik forces in North Africa perished in a house fire. He just later died in New York of cardiac[illegible] contracted in India while a Red Cross missionary.

A specialist worked to support his two cousins as a library clerk at Columbia University and married the daughter of a professor there, a noted etymologist.

When the professor died Carpenter vowed to carry on his work, to spread the knowledge of words, [illegible] a nationwide speech tour and originated "[illegible]" as a word game.

"Dustin is one of the most exciting talents I have known," said Gene Billingsley, director of advertising for Publix Markets. "He can hold an audience spellbound, is humorous and yet has something to say. It is a shame we cannot have him make his regular presentation of the cooking show, but he will give a fine program in our allotted time and he will be a refreshing addition to an already outstanding program."

One of the highlights of the show will be the appearance of Miss G.J. Break, the Florida Citrus representative with her famous "Rolling Orange", recipe books on Florida citrus preparation and bags of oranges, who will assist in the program and in the showing of a special fifteen minute film of famous chef recipes using citrus.

A fashion show in two segments, by Fleur de Lis, will be narrated by Cissy Balabanoff and will feature summer fashions at the popular resort shop.

A newcomer to the show will be Hungarian-born Dustin Carpenter, a lecturer on "The Unique World Around Us," who will humorously present some of the interesting facts in trivia.

The first show will open at 2 p.m. with the audience, expected to total over 1,500 at both shows, being welcomed by Mayor Eugene Kavenaugh of Port St. Lucie.

Following the two-hour show, prizes will be awarded. A display of home ideas will be held, featuring the experience of those attending the show.

Enjoy Good Eating in Your Own Backyard

Grand way to treat chicken for enjoyable summer eating puts the rotisserie basket to work over the grill, adds flavor via an orange sauce. Team the chicken with corn-on-the-cob, spread with onion-parsley butter. Add salad, rolls, butter and milk to complete the meal.

Barbecue cheddar family steak

2 to 4 lb. top round steak, cut 2 inches thick (or use bottom round, heel of round, round bone chuck, rump or sirloin tip)
Seasoned instant meat tenderizer
1/2 C. grated cheese
1 medium, green onion, finely chopped (tops and all)

Slash fat edges of steak to prevent curling. Prepare all surfaces of the meat, one side at a time, as follows: 1. Thoroughly moisten the meat with water - pat the water on from the faucet with your fingers or use a wet pastry brush across the surfaces. 2. Sprinkle seasoned instant meat tenderizer evenly, like salt, over the entire surface of the meat. Use about 1/3 teaspoon per pound of meat. Use no salt. 3. To ensure penetration and retain meat juices, pierce meat deeply and thoroughly with a kitchen fork at approximately 1/2 inch intervals. Meat is ready for cooking immediately. 4. Place steak on barbecue grill set two inches above hot coals. Coals are ready when gray, shot with a ruddy glow. Allow approximately 25 minutes total cooking time, depending upon desired degree of doneness. Turn steak frequently. During the last 5 minutes of cooking, sprinkle steak with grated cheese and chopped onion; continue cooking until cheese melts. 5. To serve, carve steak in thin diagonal slices across the grain at about a 30 degree angle, instead of perpendicular to the board. These thin, more slices make a generous serving. 6 to 8 servings.

A quartet of fruit flavors - orange, grapefruit, lime and banana - harmonizes with smooth-whipped cottage cheese. They make beautiful after-dinner music together in Tropical Cheese Pie.

Elegant dessert loaf for chocolate lovers

Until the middle of the 17th century, chocolate was produced by hand. The early procedure of grinding the cocoa beans, heating them, and regrinding before adding spices was improved upon by the Dutch where the windmills did the work. Now modern machinery does the work, and further technological developments have made it possible for you to enjoy a vast assortment of convenience dessert products flavored with chocolate.

Whipped dessert mix is just such a convenience product. It's the principal ingredient in a delicious treat for chocolate lovers, Spiced Chocolate Dessert Loaf. A hint of cinnamon complements the chocolate flavor whipped dessert mix, this mixture is layered in a loaf pan with ladyfingers which have been spread with orange marmalade. It takes but a few minutes to assemble, yet is elegant enough to serve on special occasions.

This versatile mix is equally delicious when made into Peanut Butter Dessert. In this case, crunchy peanut butter is simply blended into the prepared chocolate flavor whipped dessert.

1/2 cup orange marmalade
Water
12 ladyfingers, split
1 package chocolate flavor whipped dessert mix
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon

Line an 8x4 inch loaf pan with wax paper. Stir marmalade to soften and blend in a small amount of water until of spreading consistency. Spread over ladyfinger halves. Arrange ladyfingers on bottom and sides of pan, reserving 5 halves. Combine dessert mix and cinnamon; then prepare as directed on package. Spoon half of the dessert mixture over ladyfingers in pan. Arrange reserved ladyfingers on top; add remaining dessert mixture. Chill 2 hours. To serve, unmold onto serving dish and remove wax paper. Garnish with prepared whipped topping and additional orange marmalade, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Macaroons in the French manner

No matter how much a busy housewife may rely on convenience foods, there's one area where the old traditions are still followed—and that's baking a batch of cookies "from scratch." There's a lot of satisfaction in the making, just as there's a lot of good taste in the eating. And to see the happy smiles on the faces of the cookie eaters is a generous reward for the extra effort.

A good cookie recipe is often the start of a reputation as a good cook. And French Macaroons are the kind of cookie that could easily become a specialty of the house. The macaroons feature cinnamon flavor raisin bran, ground almonds, and a delicious combination of chopped citron, chopped candied orange peel, lemon rind, and other flavorings.

These cookies are special enough to give with pride and make a friendly greeting for a shut-in, a birthday celebration, or a business...

1 cup cinnamon flavor raisin bran
1 1/2 cups unsifted confectioners' sugar
1 cup blanched almonds, ground (may be ground in the electric blender)
1 tablespoon chopped citron
1 tablespoon chopped candied orange peel
1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
Dash of salt
3 egg whites

In a large bowl, combine cereal, confectioners' sugar, ground almonds, citron, orange peel, lemon juice, lemon rind, vanilla, and salt; mix well. Beat egg whites until soft rounded peaks will form. Fold in cereal mixture. Drop dough from tablespoon, shaping into mounds, onto greased and floured baking sheets, flake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pan and cool on wire racks. Makes about 2 dozen cookies.

Hot Orange Butter

...one half pound melted butter ...add a sauce pan. Heat and stir ...one-fourth pound all purpose flour. Cook slowly for five minutes while stirring. Add ...one quart hot fresh orange juice and stir briskly with a wire whip until sauce comes to a simmer. Add 8 oz. granulated sugar and 2 oz. fine Julienne orange peel. Simmer five minutes more, serve with sauce hot over hot pancakes from the griddle.

Peaches Vinaigrette

2 cans (16 oz. each) ripe peach halves or
1 can (29 oz.) peach halves
1 cup bottled Italian dressing
2 T. green onions, finely sliced
2 T. pimiento, finely sliced

Drain peaches. Toss peach halves into salad greens. Mix with remaining ingredients. Pour dressing over all. Cook over low heat until peaches are well heated through, about 20 minutes.

Exchange student visits Jensen Beach

JB--Masayoshi Okayama, an exchange student from Japan, arrived in Florida on Monday for a six-week visit with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Rehelser of Jensen Beach.

Okayama will be staying with the Rehelser family in an exchange program sponsored by Lions International, while the Rehelser son, Girard, stays with a Japanese family in Nagoya, Japan.

Girard left for Japan last Thursday, first flying to San Francisco, then leaving the next day for Japan via Alaska.

Okayama, 22, is a medical student and attends Nippon Medical College in Tokyo. His doctor father, mother, brother and two sisters live in Nagoya, the city Girard will be visiting.

Okamaya describes Nagoya as "a modern city with a population over two million." The city is the third largest in Japan and is located between Tokyo and Osaka.

Sports and cars are Okayama's main interests. At the medical college in Japan, he is captain of the rugby football club. During his visit to the United States, Okayama hopes to make a side trip to Mexico, if he has time.

FEC asks close of X-ing for Rio

JB--Efforts to open the crossing at Rio's Martin Blvd. hit the expected snag with a response by the Florida East Coast Railroad last week asking that up to nine other crossings be closed in exchange.

Contacted by County Commissioner Frank Wacha, J. E. Corbett, vice-president of the F.E.C., offered to open the crossing if other crossings, considered inadequately protected or little used, would be closed.

Included in those is the crossing at County Line Road, the only link to Indian River Drive for the people who live in the Mars Hill community.

In his letter to the county attorney, Corbett suggested that Skyline Drive be signalized and used for access to Mars Hill.

Other crossings in Stuart, Port Salerno, Golden Gate and Hobe Sound, not signalized, were suggested to be closed.

In addition to the closing of the nine crossings, Corbett said that those waiting at the new Rio crossing would have possible long waits to cross, for the area of track is a double lane passing track, and sometimes "Traffic would be subject to delay occasioned to passing trains in the immediate vicinity. This is important to the railroad's operations, and we cannot consent to a crossing at this site unless it is agreed that road traffic can be delayed for undeterminable periods of time necessary to meet and pass trains."

The new crossing would open SR 707 in Rio to the new South Savanna Road.

Corbett offered the county a deal whereby the railroad would have to pay 50 percent of the cost of the signalization if one or more crossings were closed, a cost of approximately $17,500. The total cost of the crossing installation would be $35,000.

The three crossings that the county could choose from for credit purposes would be County Line Road near SR 707, Seminole Avenue at Port Salerno, and a crossing in Hobe Sound.

Tuesday meet on GDC plat

Problems with specifications of roads and drainage will be discussed at a special workshop meeting of the Martin County Commission and representatives of General Development Corporation next Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the county courthouse.

The meeting was set up by Commission Chairman Bill Myers at the request of Jack Sheridan, general manager of Port St. Lucie, GDC uses a soil cement process in building roads at PSL and plans the same type of road in Martin County where GDC has platted an area from the Jensen Cutoff Road north of the county line.

Also, fears of drainage of portions of the Jensen Savannas have been expressed in the waterways contemplated by GDC in its plat. Land drainage is expected to be west to the St. Lucie River.

Wacha's woes 11 years old

JB--"I haven't even seen the letter, but I'll bet I can get one out of my file from eleven years ago and see the same thing," said County Commissioner Frank Wacha.

"Every time we ask the Florida East Coast Railroad for a crossing, they ask us to close all the other crossings along the line," Wacha added.

The commissioner referred to present negotiations with the F.E.C. for a crossing from South Savanna Road to Rio, at Martin Blvd. A request for a crossing brought a request to close other crossings, calling them unsafe.

"I am tired of this pure nonsense. If unguarded crossings are a problem to the F.E.C. we might as well require a four-way stop sign at every crossing.

"I suggest we instruct the county attorney to tell the F.E.C. that we have $9,000 set up in a fund for each crossing. That $9,000 can be spent for a crossing or for attorney fees to take them to court," Wacha said impatiently.

The other commissioners agreed.

Newspaper pickup is this Saturday

JB- The monthly newspaper collection will be held this Saturday, July 17 at Jensen Beach Bank parking lot from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Bundles newspapers will be picked up during those hours only. The project is sponsored by the Martin County Audubon Society and is supported by other conservation organizations.

Park projects plan presented by Wacha

...B--The Jensen Beach ...nity Club asked for pro... ...t ideas, and got a batch ...them from county com... ...issioner Frank Wacha ...nday. Wacha spoke at the ...ular luncheon meeting of ...anis at Frances Lang... ...ey's Outrigger Restaurant, ...outlining the growth of ...ford Park. Wacha said ...d he was proud that "so ...y things in the Jensen ...ch area are done by the ...ple, not by government," ...sted the development of ...ford Park as an ...mple, and said there was ...t yet to do.

Four projects were suggested by Wacha for Kiwanis consideration.

They included, the completion of the recreation hall kitchen and panelling, the enclosure of the basketball courts with a roof and siding, construction of two new tennis courts, construction of a swimming pool, and development of a convention hall facility for the park, possibly over the swimming pool.

Pointing to an $800 investment in the recreation building by the county, and the value of the building of about $20,000, Wacha said all work and building materials, except the roof, was donated.

"The building is not yet complete, it needs painting and kitchen facilities," Wacha said.

The new base on the basketball courts alongside the recreation building makes it possible to enclose the courts with first a metal roof, for shelter and all-weather play, and then a metal, or pre-fabricated siding to make it more weather-proof, according to Wacha.

The commissioner hopes that in the future the youth basketball leagues every fall and winter can be held right in Jensen Beach, rather than having to take the youngsters all the way to Murray Ninth Grade in Fort Salerno.

Another short-range addition could be two more tennis courts. Present courts, Wacha said, will be lighted soon, with the poles being installed and lights being affixed by volunteer labor and a trade agreement with the power company.

Long range planning of Wacha on the master plan of the park includes a swimming pool, but Wacha pointed out that the pool would be a high-maintenance cost fixture, and would be costly in that the installation would be of major financial investment.

He added the convention facility to the long-range planning, possibly having it built above the pool and used for community activities as well as for conventions and mass meetings.

Pointing to the volunteer ...ilding ...ounds ...ing ...ar, Wacha said that the shuffleboard courts were constructed and maintained by the Shuffleboard Club of Jensen Beach.

He also said that the United Fund had helped with playground equipment, and over $4,000 in twelve large pieces and many small pieces of playground equipment was in the park.

"The United Fund is also paying for the lights for the tennis courts," Wacha added.

He said the local V.F.W. built a giant barbecue pit and praised several who have helped at the park in construction and manning of the little league fields and concession booths.

"The $400 donated by Kiwanis recently is paying for a part of the new bleachers being installed by Joe Moseley," Wacha said. He also outlined the development of the third softball field, and plans for a football field and a one-fifth mile track.

"We played on the new softball field last weekend. It is ready, and will be playable," he told the Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanis President Bob Smith told Wacha that the board of directors of the club would select a project from those suggested and notify the commissioner of the area to be developed.

Building Permits

Smith to enclose screen porch, builder Jack Addey, SPS, Inc., Jensen Beach, cost, $1,200.

Andrew Smith to build Florida Room, builder same, Beau Rivage East, cost, $900.

Roof is rotten, new one coming

JB--The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce building will have a new roof, and directors are making plans for a future building fund for the growing Chamber of Commerce.

After hearing a report on the condition of the leaking roof, the directors Monday voted to have the roof replaced with a new tar and gravel roof.

Also, hearing that the Chamber was more and more pinched for space, President Dave Deel named Dick Campbell and Dick Neeson co-chairmen of a future planning building development committee. The committee will look into the feasibility of establishing a capital expenditure building fund for the Chamber.

DEATHS

William Dean

JB--William Rann (Bill) Dean, 43, of Hutchinson Island, died Thursday at Martin Memorial Hospital. He was born in Kentucky and came here six years ago from North Palm Beach. He was a graduate of Carlisle Military Institute, Carlisle, S.C.

A real estate broker and teacher of real estate law, he developed Fisherman's Villages in Stuart and North Palm Beach, Fisherman's Paradise and Hideaway in Stuart, and Fisherman's Haven in Jensen Beach. Also Seaside Condominium on Hutchinson Island.

He was co-owner of Stuart Aero, Inc., a commercial pilot, veteran of World War II, member of the Stuart Chamber of Commerce and the Martin County Builders' Association.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; a son, Stephen William; two daughters, Linda Susan, all of North Palm Beach, and his father Delmar R. Dean.

Funeral services were held Friday at Aycock Funeral Home with the Rev. Clinton C. Marlowe, pastor of First Baptist church of Stuart, officiating. Burial was in Nichols, S.C.

The legislative inquiry committees have already indicated that at the committees would come to Martin County to Martin Indian Riverside. The committees would [illegible] at the first legislative session in June 8 while the other was in the state capital.

The text of Myers' letter to Reps. Richard S. Bolen, chairman of the House committee on Health and the Rehabilitative Services, and to Sens. Kenneth H. Myers, chairman of the Senate committee on Health, Welfare and Institutions follows:

"At the regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners of Martin County on June 8, 1971, a resolution was passed unanimously, in which the respective members offered concerning public health of the House and Senate of the health situation in Martin County.

"The Board of Commissioners of Martin County has, for the past several years, had a running controversy with the local Tri-County Health Department over lack of health facilities, [illegible] and [illegible] health. We have had numerous meetings with these officials with absolutely no response. Attempts to meet up, or strengthen their [illegible] are impossible.

As you already know the Fair has one have received copies. Richard Campbell, editor of the Jensen Beach Mirror, published a series of articles spotlighting these areas of ex health law enforcement and in fact brought this controversy to a smouldering head. As Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners of Martin County, I invited the State Health officials to attend a meeting on June 8, 1971 to discuss these particular problems. The minutes of this meeting are enclosed [illegible] page.

"The intent of the resolution passed on June 8 was to point out the fact that there are problems existing in the health field, which the Health Department is unable to fill by way of lack of personnel, and is actually allotted to some of the deficiencies that have been pointed out. Some excuses or contrivances were also used to answer other problems, what could not be explained on the lack of funds or personnel. This is to tell that an invitation to these committees to come to Martin County to investigate our health problem and perhaps the health problems of the entire District, would be of a first order priority. Therefore, as Chairman of the Board of Commissioners of Martin County, I would like to invite you to come to Martin County at your pleasure, and that we will all be at your disposal, in order to ascertain the true underlying problems of enforcement of health regulations in this District and perhaps in the whole State.

Sincerely yours,
s/ William G. Myers, M.D.
Chairman."

Poor Bob is poorer, safe stolen

JB- Poor Bob's safe isn't safe any more. For the second time in 5 months the safe has been taken from the restaurant on Dollar Bill Drive at the Jensen Beach causeway.

This time $3,480 in cash was in the safe, which itself was valued at $300.

In March of 1970, the same safe, containing $3,500, was stolen. It was recovered in St. Lucie County's sheriff's [illegible].

Collections poor at tourney

JB- Passing the "hat" at the Jensen Beach Fireworks Slow Pitch Softball Tournament last weekend wasn't as lucrative as was expected, according to the collectors.

The "hat" is a bright red plastic container and is passed by volunteers for donations from the crowd to defray the expense of the Fourth of July fireworks exhibit on the Jensen Beach causeway each year.

"We collected just a little over $20 last Saturday night from a huge crowd," one of the volunteers lamented.

The double weekend tournament is the main money-making event for the Jensen Beach fireworks committee.

"The games are exciting and interesting," an official said. "Where can anyone go for so much action? This tournament is worth holding money," he said.

The letter from the St. Lucie County officials also stated that they were advised that the residents of Stuart and the east beaches of Jensen Beach have been receiving poor service from the City of Fort St. Lucie. That the county has been forced to come to the City of Fort St. Lucie. The county has no contract with the fire services as an incorporated municipality," Kavanaugh said.

Dr. Richard Peters, one of the founders of the Samaritan Ambulance service in Jensen Beach said, "When you have cities use the ambulance service, it becomes a money making project, (a blood mine), and the ambulances fight for it. That is why I am in favor of the Samaritan volunteers. There should be more like them."

David Lee, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce told The Mirror on Monday, "It certainly is a sad state of affairs when a government body with [illegible] considerations affects the life of a human being.

"Time is life and a minute is two is the difference in living for an emergency patient.

"We have been working to get more doctors to serve the people of Jensen Beach, Rio, and the people of the southern part of St. Lucie County. Until we increase the number of physicians in the area we are going to have problems for the people who are ill in St. Lucie County." Of course, Lee said.

Dr. Peters, who is also a member of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, said that the Samaritan Ambulance service was formed because the city of Fort St. Lucie, and the county [illegible] did not want to serve the people who are ill in St. Lucie County." Of course, Peters said.

"It's news to me."--Gravely

Yes, Virginia, there is an Admiral Gravely

By Ed Dodge

JB- The long-sought Rear Admiral Samuel L. Gravely, Jr., USN, is alive and well and is stationed in the Pentagon, according to a letter received from him by The Mirror last week. The letter ended a 13-month search by this reporter for the man for whom the South Beach pavilion was named.

The plaque on the ocean pavilion at Jensen Beach was intriguing. It read, "Lt. Cdr. S. L. Gravely, Cabana," but no one could shed light on the who, what, when, where and why of the plaque. Dozens of telephone calls were made, letters written and persons interviewed.

Information jigsawed together showed that the pavilion had been dedicated in 1966 to the first Negro Navy Commander, with the dedication sponsored by the Sylvester G. Clark American Legion Post 176 of Stuart. Gravely had been a commander of a liberty ship, had been a senior officer on the Navy guided missile cruiser U.S. Jouett, and his last tour of duty was head of Telstar Satellite in the Pentagon.

With letters unanswered, this reporter gave up the ship until the end of April this year when the name Gravely floated to the surface. President Nixon nominated Samuel L. Gravely, Jr., as the first black Rear Admiral in the history of the United States, Chula Vista, California, was the home of the Gravely family, the announcement said.

The paste-board story was taken out of mothballs, dusted off and written for the May 6 issue of The Mirror with a copy sent to Gravely in Chula Vista, "Pay dirt," this reporter thought.

A week later the letter was returned unopened and stamped, "Insufficient Address."

Discouragement or stubbornness. After a year of wondering who and where Gravely was, stubbornness won out, "One more time," this reporter thought and wrote to Gravely in care of Chief of Naval Personnel in Washington, D.C.

"The naming and dedication of the cabana is complete news to me," the new Rear Admiral wrote on July 8. The letter had been delivered to him the day before when he reported as Commander, Naval Communications Command, at his new address in the Pentagon.

"I regret that it took such effort on your part to contact me and for me to then state that I can be such little help in shedding light on this mystery," he continued.

"Please let me know if you learn anything further concerning this matter." the long-lost Rear Admiral Gravely concluded, offering his assistance in any way. Gravely has been found.

Resources Board pushes planning

Stuart--"All planned progress in Martin County is at a standstill until the master plan is completed," said Dick Campbell, president of the Martin County Resources Development Board, last Tuesday. Campbell made a plea to the Martin County Commission for action on the stalled master planning at the direction of the resources board.

Reading a letter in support of action, Campbell said that the failure of the master planner, VTN of Orlando, to complete the timetable of delivering the plan, and the failure of VTN to deliver the completed first phase of the plan "indicates that our planning is indeed in unqualified hands."

Campbell said the county had lost a year of the value of the materials in the plan, and said, "We do not believe that Martin County can wait any longer for guidelines to growth."

Commission Chairman Bill Myers told Campbell that the final instrument prepared by VTN was received, but that he did not feel it contained all the material available to VTN. He said that the county attorney would look into legal action to gain other materials in the possession of VTN.

"I am embarrassed personally, because I recommended VTN for the job," Myers said, but added, "They are off my list."

The planning committee will have a report at the July 29 meeting according to Myers.

Raymond Klings are proud parents

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Patterson of Vero Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kling of Jensen Beach are the paternal grandparents. This is their first grandchild.

Meeting is cancelled

Stuart -- The August 10 meeting of the Martin County Commission has been cancelled. The action was taken due to the fact that a quorum of the commissioners will not be present on the meeting date.

NOVELTY BAND--The Goldtones, a novelty band from Melbourne, entertained before each show of The Mirror Cooking Show last Thursday at St. Lucie Country Club. They used tin cans, maracha, tubs and horns, and the music was great.

REGISTRATION--Handling registration for the eighth annual Mirror Cooking Show last week at St. Lucie Country Club were Mrs. Betty Callen and Carl Bridges of Florida Power and Light Company. Registrants were eligible for prizes donated by those who participated in the show.

Kiwanis plans events

JB- A family reunion day will be held on August 8, according to Ham Wade, chairman of a church support committee of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club. The event will take place at Langford Park.

Designed to "get the family together and bring them out to the park for a picnic-like day," the family reunion day is a part of the national Kiwanis program that will be held on August 8, according to Wade.

Efforts are being made to gain the cooperation of the Stuart Kiwanis Club and local churches in the day-long event of sports and social gathering.

ICE CREAM--It was free, and all persons attending The Mirror Cooking Show last week got a cup of McArthur Dairy ice cream from district manager Russ Perdue.

HUNTED HULK — Sitting in an area that will soon be inundated by the rainy season, this rusting hulk adds nothing to the beauty of Savanna Park, its head lying where the fishermen left it. The new park, not yet developed, seems to be getting off to a good start on the bitter side. The county plans to remove old trash and garbage to return the park area to its natural beauty. The littterers were called "pigs" by County Commissioner Frank Warha.

Mystery shrouds Jensen car fire

JB- Mystery surrounded the car fire Saturday night off the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road. The fire call was received by Civil Defense at 9:23 p.m. from passersby who said they had seen a Cadillac speeding away from the burning vehicle.

"The car, a 1968 Chevrolet, was a mass of flames when I arrived," said Fire Chief Randolph Spinney of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department. "We suspected that the car was stolen."

Deputy Sheriff Mike Quinn, who was off duty, and Spinney extinguished the fire in the car, located about fifty feet north of the Cutoff Road on Savanna Park Road. The vehicle carried 1970 Ohio license plates K-4973-V.

"Two deputies came while we were there and checked the motor number," Spinney said.

Checking with the Martin County Sheriff's Department Monday, The Mirror learned that the car was owned by Frank DeBartolo of Hobe Sound. He reported Friday night to the Stuart Police Department that his 1968 Chevrolet had been stolen from the Mayfair Shopping Center parking lot.

Deputy Sheriff Melvin Waldron discovered the burned car at 12:05 a.m. on Monday while making his rounds. At that time it was parked about 400 yards north of the Cutoff Road, headed south, according to an employee of the Sheriff's office. "The tags were missing, tags were removed as if someone was going to take the wheels, and a chain had been attached to the car," the employee said.

Waldron reported the destroyed car to the Sheriff's department and learned that it was DeBartolo's car, Valued at $1,000, the car was a total loss, Waldron's report said.

The burned vehicle was towed away by Amity Buick Pontiac of Stuart Sunday night.

ABANDONED-- This is the license number of the automobile that burned and was abandoned by its operator on the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road Saturday night. Tags were missing Monday when Deputy Sheriff Melvin Waldron checked the car and found the tags missing and a chain tied to the vehicle which had been moved several hundred yards by persons unknown. The car had been reported missing Friday night in Stuart by owner Frank De Bartolo of Hobe Sound.

BURNED OUT- This car was burned out Saturday night, and left by its operator when firemen arrived from the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department. Witnesses told of several youths in a Cadillac speeding away from the scene when the fire department chief arrived at the fire on Savanna Park Road just off the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road. Owner Frank De Bartolo of Hobe Sound had reported the 1968 Chevrolet missing in Stuart Friday night.

Picture contest set

JB--Color transparencies of Jensen Beach scenes are being sought in a contest being sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. The contest seeks photo transparencies that can be used in the new 1972 Jensen Beach Resort and Fishing Guide.

Three prizes will be awarded for the transparencies, $25 first prize, $15 second and $10 third prize.

Deadline on the contest is August 1, and only transparencies will be accepted. No color slides, or color photos are acceptable, according to the rules. The grand prize winner will be featured on the cover of the new guide, with other photos featured in inside pages.

Honorable mention awards will not have prizes, but will be used in the guide, according to Neeson.

Ladies play low net

Stuart--A low net tournament on the first nine holes was Tuesday's play for the ladies group of Martin County Golf and Country Club.

Marion Hoole and Jane Grant tied at 35 for the championship class, Class A winner was Irene Heemsath with 36, Class B, Eileen Elliott, 35, and Class C, Kay Bishop, 36.

Martha Culbertson had the only chip in.

Are roads by county or state?

Stuart-- Martin County has a choice of signing a contract with the State Road Department for maintenance of county secondary roads, or doing its own maintenance, according to a report given ... Commissioner Frank ... acha at Tuesday's Martin ... County Commission meeting. ... h encompasses 49 miles ... roads, according to the SRD estimate, and two bridges, Arundle and Jensen Beach," Wacha said. Cost for SRD maintenance for the next nine months would be $70,000, with the county presenting a check for $24,000 upon signing the agreement. A decision must be reached by October 1, Wacha said.

Commissioners discussed getting estimates or joining with neighboring counties in buying equipment to maintain the roads. The subject will be discussed at a later meeting.

If the county does not enter into the agreement by October 1, it is precluded for five years. It can sign for one year for SRD maintenance, but if the agreement is terminated at the end of the year, the county would again be on its own for the next five years, Wacha explained.

"We will now receive the entire penny of the seven cents gasoline tax," he said. Eighty percent will be returned directly to the county for its county budget disbursement or $185,000.

Opposition grows

Aquatic preserve hearing is set for Thursday in Ft. Pierce

PSL- Plans to extend the ... preserve in the North ... of the St. Lucie River ... met with rough opposition ... public hearing Thursday with at 7:30 p.m. ... St. Lucie County Courthouse.

Conservation forces will ... headed by citrus and ... interests and the ... bodies of St. Lucie ... in their efforts to ... the areas north of ... White City Bridge.

The county government, ... various measures the extension, fear that ... lucrative citrus industry ... be hard hit by the extension ... the White City Drainage District empties into the North Fork, and that drainage district is the key to the agricultural community.

The Central and South Florida Flood Control opposes the extension as an intrusion into their flood control and drainage of the area to the west in St. Lucie County.

At present, the preserve extends from Lighthouse Point near Stuart to the White City Bridge.

General Development Corporation has controlover the banks of much of the North Fork as it winds in pristine beauty to the north. The company is conducting studies through the University of Miami to discover the proper way to protect that beauty, and there are hopes that the river will be made a sanctuary for future generations.

The North Fork, north of the mile-wide portion of the river at St. Lucie Country Club, is considered one of the most beautiful stretches of wilderness river in the Nation.

The White City Drainage District has come under fire from conservationists, and from the Department of Air and Water Pollution.

AWP contends that the proposed storm water drainage plan of the county, without consideration of adverse all drainage plan, would, in the case of floods, dump a heavy load of herbicides and pesticides into the North Fork.

AWP has asked for a comprehensive plan, fearing that the discharge of flood waters containing contaminents would "result in further degradation of the estuary."

The anti-pollution agency has called for sanitary sewers and proper treatment and disposal of wastes before the water is dumped into the North Fork.

Some General Development officials have expressed concern over the qualities of the water that would flow through the miles and miles of winding St. Lucie River from the drainage district to the north. Preserving the North Fork would be excellent, they say, but what can be preserved if the headwaters are so polluted that all along the shoreline is contaminated or killed by discharges over which the preserve has no control.

County opposition comes mainly from the fear that shoals caused by flood-water dumping of the drainage district could not be removed. A permit is required to remove such shoals, and the state is rather hesitant to grant those areas preserved by aquatic preserve status.

NEW BARBECUE PITS- John Hestrin, vice-president of the Jensen Beach Garden Club Committee, and Charles Dibble of the beach committee, light three new barbecue pits at the chamber's pavilion on Jensen Beach Causeway last week. The charcoal units, like many of the other pits on the causeway, have been destroyed by vandals.

VANDALISM- This demolished barbecue pit, located on the Jensen Beach causeway, is just one of many pits destroyed by vandals in the past few months. Many have been destroyed time after time, only to be repaired and replaced just recently. ... in some instances, have been destroyed, ... vandals are beginning to panic the park's battle of pits and benches. Here, a last unit is being dismantled.

Golf increase approved

Stuart- An increase up to 25 percent in the fees at Martin County Golf and Country Club was approved in a 4-1 vote by the Martin County Commission Tuesday morning. Commissioner Paul Bryant voted No. The request was made by Evans Geary, Jr., attorney for the club.

Martin County residents will be eligible to purchase a numbered punch-card for $10 which will entitle them to play 30 rounds per year at a green fee charge of $4, beginning October 1. Winter ... fees will be initiated ... November and be ... $5. Students may play ... a $30 annual fee. Resident singles will be raised ... be raised from $12 to $15; resident doubles, from $180 to $225; non-resident single presently $18, will be increased up to 25 percent, and non-resident double will be raised from $22 to $28. There are no initiation fees.

"We can try the various ... keys for a year," Chairman ... Myers said, "and if it doesn't work out, it will be discontinued."

Bryant questioned the need for the increase in fees. "This is a non-profit club," and was told by Geary that an automatic sprinkler system was needed, plus more money for wages and maintenance.

John Metcalf received no answers to two questions when he asked, "If you eliminate the initiation fees, will the initiation fees finally end? Or refund it?" and "If the club has no ... left-ships, how can it state an adequate increase?" However, he said he would go along with the 25 percent increase.

Chairman William G. Myers asked county attorney Bill Scott to prepare detailed papers for the increase.

Myers pointed to the need for another public golf course in Martin County, saying that the county has 140 acres in Fort Salerno just south of Dixie Road. "I think some thought should be given to a future county golf course," he said. "Martin County is growing, the county ... are getting crowded, and we must plan for the future."

Stuart Chamber for I-95 east

Stuart- "Please reconsider your recommendation of the location of I-95 through Martin County," was the plea of Larry Buchanan at Tuesday's meeting of the Martin County Commission.

Buchanan spoke as president of the Stuart Chamber of Commerce in asking again that the controversial Interstate 95 be located east of the Florida Turnpike. He listed many local organizations as supporting the eastern route, including the M.C. Resources Development Board, Freeholders' Association, City of Stuart, M.C. Board of Realtors, Town Council of Jupiter, Village Council of Tequesta, Loxahatchee area government, Stuart Chamber and Palm Beach Technical Coordinating Committee.

Buchanan said that polls were taken at the Martin County Fair in the Republican and Democratic booths. In the Republican booth, 389 persons favored the route east of the turnpike, 192 were for the western route. In the Democratic booth, 447 favored the eastern route, 179 the western.

"The entire motion by the board was that the commission endorsed a western route with a spur into Stuart," Dr. Wm. G. Myers, chairman stated. Unfortunately, the "with a spur" portion was not stressed by the press when it reported the motion, Myers said, "I support the turnpike route." He went on, explaining that he was told by government officials that the route for I-95 was going to be west of the turnpike "whether or not we wanted it, even if an ... ed it in the west."

Buchanan said the chamber "strongly urged" the ... Myers said the ... should still have the plea under ... work.

Question of the week

What is your opinion of the latest Apollo flight?

"Approve of the program, but I disapprove of playing politics with it."

J.J. St. Clair

"I can think of better ways to use our money."

Mrs. Harry Lowe

"It's foolish--the money should be used for cancer research or to help people of our own country."

Charles Pope, Jr.

"It's a waste of money that could more sensibly be used for medical research and cleaning up the environment. I hope the astronauts get back safely."

Mrs. Chris Christensen

CONSTRUCTION- The cap on the top of the new First Federal Building in Jensen Beach has been completed, and roofing will proceed next week. Construction of the second floor auditorium on the present building at left continues apace. The floor was poured on Tuesday, and work on the bridge from one building to another (center) is progressing.

St. Joseph is refinanced

JB- St. Joseph College of Florida, Inc., recently completed the refinancing of the college's existing indebtedness after it borrowed $2,225,000 from Merchants' Bank of Miami.

The concluding of this refinancing is a stabilizing factor for the future of the college, according to a notice from the college. Head Start program ends

...mmer pro... for Head Start in ...County ended last ... according to Dr. ... H. Boat, director. ... the five years in which ... the Martin County Community Action Committee has served as the county agency of the Office of Economic Opportunity in the federal anti-poverty program, we have been unable to obtain funds to set up an office and employ managing personnel, at least a director, with secretarial help," Dr. Boat said in a release to The Mirror. Because of not having adequate overhead management, the program has not been able to obtain funds for any of the anti-poverty projects other than Head Start, he said. The local organization must now change from a multi-purpose CAC to a single-purpose organization. Martin County Head Start Council, Dr. Boat explained.

"While limiting us to the one program, they have restricted our funds for that program to little more than the amount given at the beginning, and this year it was cut $800," he said.

In spite of this, the local program is a successful one, according to Dr. Boat. This year, as planned by Quilly McHardy, Head Start director, Mrs. Grace Canfield was added as a nurse, and Mrs. Gertrude Pettway as curriculum specialist. "And work with the parents of Head Start children has been extended and strengthened," Dr. Boat pointed out.

County dunes to be surveyed

Stuart- Martin County's 21 miles of beaches along the foreshore islands will be surveyed according to Jack Noble, administrator. The request was made by Martin County Commissioners of the State Cabinet.

Martin County's priority for the study could be number one in the state, Dr. William G. Myers, chairman of the commission was told by William Carlton, director of the Shores and Erosion Division of the State Department of Natural Resources.

Preparation for the study, which will be done at no direct cost to the county, started early this week when state officials arrived to look over the shores.

County building laws call for a 25-foot setback from the top of the dune. State laws call for a 50-foot setback from the mean high water line, but do not set the line.

Dr. Powell injures hand

JB- An accident kept Dr. Sidney W. Powell of Skyline Drive from speaking to the congregation of Jensen Beach Community Church Sunday morning.

Dr. Powell fell from a ladder on Saturday, injuring his hand. Mrs. Powell told The Mirror, "Stitches were required on one finger and four in another," she said. Bed rest was required on Sunday, she said.

Dr. Robert Miller filled in for Dr. Powell, who was substituting for Rev. Donald E. Johnson. "It was a day of surprises," said Dr. Richard G. Penick, who conducted the service and sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Arlene Woodruff who was filling in for Mrs. Violet Chapman.

Conserve Electricity, U.S. Urged

Government Sees Summer Blackouts

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — The federal government, predicting an electric power crisis in some areas this summer, has announced a nationwide campaign to conserve electricity.

A report issued by the President's Office of Emergency Preparedness indicated that brownouts and blackouts are likely to occur in some areas as they have in other recent summers.

The electric power supply situation in parts of the United States appears to be worse than last summer, the report said.

ELECTRIC generating capacity is too low for adequate safety margins in most areas except the West Coast it said, and such safety margins as do exist depend largely on new equipment that could be delayed and on old equipment prone to breakdowns.

Fuel supplies appear adequate, the report said, but the generating capacity just isn't there, and breakdowns coupled with summer heat waves may overtax the system.

"At the present time," the report said, "the most feasible way to avoid an emergency power situation this summer is an extensive conservation program to be exercised by the government, industry and the public during the critical summer months."

IT SAID conservation during times of peak usage is the key to avoiding major power interruptions this summer.

George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, said power conservation has received little attention until now.

18-year vote okay

[illegible]B—The official information on the right of eighteen to twenty-year olds to vote in city, county and state elections came down the pike recently with a ruling of Attorney General Robert L. Shevin.

The eighteen and above can now register to vote and vote in general elections. The right was guaranteed with the ratification of the twenty-sixth amendment to the U.S. Constitution, according to Shevin.

In an opinion issued by the City of Kissimmee, Shevin wrote that the state constitution and city charters need not be amended since the U.S. Constitution is supreme and all laws contrary would be void.

Shevin also said that initially that would refuse the right to register or vote to anyone eighteen to twenty would be holding an election that would be possibly invalid.

The opinion opens the door to registration of many young people, a registration that was denied to them in the past general election when such an amendment was voted down by the people.

The twenty-sixth amendment is as follows:

"Section 1. The right of citizens of the United States, who are eighteen years of age or older, to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State on account of age.

"Section 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Apollo 15 after thunderous liftoff

By DICK CAMPBELL

Cape Kennedy - Three astronauts cruised silently through space on their way to a rendezvous with the moon, and the world watched and waited for word of their safe journey today as David R. Scott, 39; James B. Irwin, 41, and Alfred Worden, 39; took Apollo 15 on the first lunar journey designed for entirely scientific purposes.

The flawless blastoff of the 36-story rocket began with a thunderous roar as 3,400 gallons of liquid fuel per second burned, was a storybook affair to a 1,000 viewers in the press and VIP sections, three and one-half miles away.

★★★★★★

Editor Dick Campbell was a guest of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at the launching of Apollo 15 Monday through the courtesy of Gannet Newspapers.

from the launching pad.

More than a million people in the Cape Kennedy area were witnesses to the dramatic spectacle as Scott, Irwin, and Worden were launched into space on the most ambitious mission in the history of manned space flight.

"Good luck and Godspeed," said the launch director at blastoff, and the rumbling, ear-shocking thunder of the rocket took fifteen seconds to cross the marshes, causing grasses to lean and thrusting back the spectators who stood in awe of the power.

"I wanted to cover my ears and lie down on the ground," said one. "My God, my God," another kept saying as he photographed the scene.

"Go, go, go," shouted the people and the rocket rose.

Scattered applause rose from the grandstands generated by veteran rocket-watchers, and others hushed as the reverberations lessened as the Apollo rose skyward.

The day was perfect, with only the slightest haze. Light, feathery clouds offered no obstruction to the viewers, and the bright, orange flame hypnotized the people as it pushed the spacemen on their way.

From the 9:34 liftoff, it took only twelve minutes to get to the orbital 101 miles high. The 107,500 pound vehicle then twisted into orbit, later to blastoff in space on a twelve-day trip to the moon and back.

Now the people watch, and wait, and pray.

taxpayer relief

Martin budget is $3.5 million

[illegible] completed work of two months on a $3.5 million budget for fiscal 1971-72 Saturday. The final budget will mean a decrease of .74 mills over the millage figure of this past year, but that figure won't be much comfort to property owners.

The decrease is, in most part, offset by increases in assessments, and was designed to reflect a drop to keep the burden on taxpayers about the same.

A final figure of 6.56 mills in general fund, with 1.18 mills for the health division, reflects an overall .825 mill tax decrease over the previous year.

The figures reflect General Fund, $2,739,211; Road and Bridge, $722,370. The sheriff's budget was cut $144,645 back to $756,165 from his original request for $870,150.

In a major policy decision, the board budgeted funding of a possible single-county health unit and a renewed cooperative effort in the tri-county health department. The decision on whether or not to establish a single-county health unit will be made later when more facts on costs are revealed.

Comparison figures between the two departments are being compiled by Tri-County Health director Dr. Nelli Miller.

School board budget is 10 mills, $7.4 million

Stuart: Final approval of a $7.4 million budget was gained Friday by the Martin County School Board after months of study. The budget is an increase from the present fiscal year $6.88 million or up $600,000.

There was no drop in the millage due to possible reassessment of property values. Superintendent of public instruction James Navitsky said recently that the only factor in the roll was due to growth of the county, not increased assessments, and said that County Assessor "[illegible]" Schortmann had told him that properties had not been reassessed, but values increased based upon county growth.

Three school board members were present at the final meeting on the budget, Joe Greenlees, Frank Dewhurst and Barbara Britton passed the budget unanimously.

Two other members had been present at planning sessions but missed the final one. Howard Way and Charles Covington did give preliminary approval to the budget at the previous hearing.

Included in the budget are raises for teachers and administrators. $824,000 for new construction of which over $650,000 is under way, the addition of 35 new teaching positions, and life and health insurance increases for school personnel.

Re-exam hints offered drivers

Tallahassee - A list of hints for the one million Florida drivers who face re-examination when renewing their drivers licenses this year was issued by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles recently.

Drivers born in odd-numbered years whose names begin with letters A through M are being retested.

Drivers are told to study the Florida Driver's Handbook and upgrade their sight and hearing if needed. If this is done, nearly every driver can pass on his first trial and not have to return, according to Ralph Davis, Executive Director of the department.

Re-examination will include tests of eyes and hearing, and a 10-question test of the driver's recognition of road signs. Retested will be given, but some drivers may be asked to return later to demonstrate their driving safely.

Drivers receive an official re-examination notice through the mail one month before they are due for re-checking. The re-exam will cost $3, and in addition, the regular operator's license will be $5 for a total of $8. The chauffeur license is an additional $5, for a total of $8.

In 1972, drivers to be re-tested are those born in even-numbered years whose last names begin with letters A through M; in 1973 those born in odd-numbered years N through Z, and in 1974, even years N through Z.

In 1975 the cycle will start anew with another re-examination of those tested in 1971.

Trailer smokes, no fire

...Where there's smoke there's fire, was unforeseen early the truth in the case of Ray Black of Tropical Acres Trailer Park.

Black was on his way to a fishing trip when he noticed smoke coming out of his trailer. He went back into the trailer and found a charred switch box in a bedroom.

Black put in a call to the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department and Fire Chief Randolph Spivey answered the call for assistance. He brought along Eugene Poak, an electrician.

Spivey said damage was confined to the switch box because of Black's quick action, but cautioned viewers of Tiffany Trailers to check out the electrical outlets in their trailers. Black's trailer was only two weeks old.

Weisbecker-Riley vows exchanged

JB- Miss Debra Sue Riley became the bride of Anthony Joseph Weisbecker at an evening ceremony on Friday, July 16, at Jensen Beach Community Church. The Rev. Donald E. Johnson, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Riley of 33 Charlotte St., Jensen Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony James Weisbecker of 315 Hyline Drive, Jensen Beach, are parents of the groom.

Large floral arrangements of white gladi, large yellow mums and yellow and white daisies decorated the church. The aisle streamers were of rainbow hues and a large memorial candle, surrounded by yellow and white daisies, was placed in the narthex.

Organist Mrs. Fred Chapman accompanied soloist Kraig Johnson who sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin peau gown with Chantilly lace trim, an empire waistline, A-line skirt and a high neckline. The gown had bishop sleeves of Chantilly lace, and her mantilla veil was of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies with yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Lela A. Riley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow peasant-style gown with flower trim and a matching veil.

Bridesmaids were Miss Katherine M. Riley, another sister of the bride, who wore an aqua gown matching that of the maid of honor. Another sister, Judy K. Riley, chose a matching green gown. All carried yellow sweetheart roses bouquets.

Deanna Drew, a cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a pink dress with matching veil, a corsage of miniature red roses, and carried a basket of red rose petals.

Gerard Weisbecker of Long Island, N.Y. was best man, and ushers were Pat Beagle and Arnold St. Clair. Leslie Riley, brother of the bride, was candlelighter, and ringbearer was Samuel Mahoney of Jensen Beach.

For the ceremony, the mother of the bride chose a blue lace dress with silver accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The groom's mother wore an aqua chiffon dress with aqua accessories. She, too, wore a white orchid corsage.

At the reception in Fellowship Hall, a tiered wedding cake, decorated in yellow and white, centered the bride's table. Yellow and white flowers adorned the punch table.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Betty Maxey, Mrs. Malinda Overby, Mrs. Judy Cullen and Mrs. Nancy Weisbecker. Mrs. Arlene Ross and Mrs. Fran Weisbecker were in charge of the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Freeport, Bahamas, the newlyweds will be at home at 10 Hermosa St., Spanish Lakes, Port St. Lucie.

For her wedding trip, the new Mrs. Weisbecker chose an aqua pantsuit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Martin County High School and is employed in Stuart. The groom attended Martin County High School and is also employed in Stuart.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Concil, Mr. and Mrs. James Cullen of Carpentersville, Ill; Mr. and Mrs. James Weisbecker, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Weisbecker, all of Long Island, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Krause and Mr. and Mrs. William Heintz, of Boca Raton; Mr. and Mrs. G. Schloenlever and daughter and son of Palmetto, Fla.; Col. and Mrs. K. King, K.Y.; E., Tampa.

Alligators bite hands that feed

WPB - Recent alligator attacks on humans in Florida have preoccupied officials of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District to issue a warning against feeding 'gators near recreation sites.

Because of the extended period of low water many alligators have become concentrated in areas frequented by people. But this would not be much of a problem if people did not feed the alligators according to Walter Dineer, chief FCD biologist.

"It's really a people problem, not an alligator problem. People outrage wild animals," Dineer stated, adding "It's the semi-tame alligator not the wild 'gator that is really dangerous."

He pointed out that wild animals have a natural fear of humans, but lose much of this fear when they are fed.

"An alligator that is used to eating ham sandwiches out of a man's hand doesn't care whether he gets a bit of the hand, also," Dineer said.

Two clinics scheduled for horse vaccination

JB--On Wednesday, August 4 (today) Drs. Robert Kuhn and Roy Upton will hold clinics for the vaccination of all horses in Martin County. All Martin County horse owners are asked to call the Agricultural Center, 287-1828 and give their name, address, phone number, and the number of horses they own.

Dr. Kuhn will conduct his clinic at the Martin Fair Grounds from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Dr. Ralph Hyatt will conduct one at the rodeo bowl at Indiantown from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Horse owners should call the vet in charge of each clinic to see how many horses he will bring. Each doctor can only check out enough vaccine for the horses he has scheduled.

It is essential that each horse owner have his horses haltered and tied for the veterinarians prior to his visit. All horses in Martin County have to be vaccinated as quickly as possible. The vaccination is free.

Florida will be under quarantine for 120 days beginning August 3. Horses will be quarantined to their individual farms for 14 days following the vaccination, and will have complete immunity at the end of those two weeks. Horses should not be worked for four days following their vaccination.

For further information, horse owners can contact Bob Whitry, County Extension Director, at the Martin County Agricultural Center.

Lifestyles '71 for FBI gals

PSL- A bevy of models, many of the new Sears "Neumiks" for 1971-72, opened the fashion season for the wives and guests of thirty members of the FBI retraining session this week at St. Lucie Hilton Resort and Country Club.

Offering a break from law enforcement, the ladies were entertained by the Carl Greco Trio as the models waffed 121 different styles and outfits across the stage of the convention hall.

Mike Chris McNeil, fashion consultant for Sears, moderated the show and swim suits, jump suits, dresses, shorts sports outfits, hot and short pants drew the comments of the viewers as coordinating outfits were interspersed to bring about a well balanced program.

A short skit, involving a toupee "J. Edgar," and the opening fashion segment of "potpourri," in which assistant stage manager Kevin Thomas used a spy glass to seek the latest fashions under trench-coat-covered models, added humor to the presentation.

Homer Battle, assistant manager of Sears, handled the welcome, and there was entertainment by the Four Coins, members of the Treasure Coast Chapter of Sweet Adelines.

FOUR COINS- Close harmony with a barbershop beat was shown in the presentation of the Four Coins, members of the "Sweet Adelines" Treasure Coast Chapter, at the Sears' fashion show for FBI wives Tuesday at St. Lucie Country Club Convention Hall.

NATIONAL CHAMPION- First place winner of the Model A Restorer's Club of America annual meet in Columbus, Ohio, recently, was Rick Carroll's 1929 Model A Town Car pictured with eight of nine in the world. Carroll won over 200 "blue ribbon" cars in the competition.

Toughest competition

Model A wins first place in national

Jensen Beach car buff scores in what was described as "the toughest Model A competition in the country."

Rick Carroll, local old car enthusiast, who has won a number of awards during his few years as a collector, entered the 1929 Model A Ford Town Car in the Model A restorers' hall of America's national trophy meet in Columbus, Ohio. The car was first place winner.

The competition was at a peak with 255 cars entered, only nine cars were given "blue ribbon" status, and Carroll's car was judged most perfectly restored of the group.

Carroll said it took 3,600 hours to restore the car, a job that was going on for over two years in the collector's specially built garage on SR 707 in South Jensen Beach. The work came to a climax on July 23, when the car was trailered in the Rick Carroll hauling van to Columbus for the competition.

Asked how much it cost to restore the car, Carroll said, "We don't talk about that!"

Asked how much the car would be worth, Carroll said, "We don't talk about that either."

The three-foot high national meet trophy goes into the collection corner of Carroll's insurance office, along with other national regional and state awards that the insurance man has won over the years.

Deadline will be the picture contest sponsored by the Jensen Chamber of Commerce.

The grand prize winner will be featured on the cover of the new guide with other photos featured in the guide.

Homeowners pay highest tax

By DICK CAMPBELL

JB- The assessment of land at market value, a blast at school system millage and sympathy for over-taxed homeowners were topics of a wide-ranging speech by Martin County Tax Assessor E. "Dutch" Schnurbusch to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday.

Schnurbusch said that the assessment rolls mounted 16% this year as the county headed toward a realistic 100% valuation based upon "market value." The roll was $193 million in 1969, $214 million in 1970 and $250 million in 1971.

Of the increase, ten percent was for new growth and six percent was reflected in bringing evaluations of properties up to their "market price, Schnurbush said. He added that personal property was up from $24 million to $30 million.

The colorful assessor hit hard at the Martin County School Board for not reducing millage from the ten mill ceiling, saying that "the school board won't get anything from the people so they are going to take it. They'll never drop from two mills. This year it meant their funding was up $600,000."

Schnurbusch said, "The county commission is criticized by the people and the commissioners are conscientious people. They budget their funds, and cut back this year.

"The school board won't do this because the people are apathetic about school funding. I know of three-bond issues in one county that failed because the people don't want to pay for schools.

"All you've got to do is cut out the fancy frills for the kids, and school millage will drop four or three mills," Schnurbusch said. He identified the "fancy frills" as things in the floors, air conditioning, and administrative people.

"In our school system I can remember when a good science teacher was made a principal. It didn't work out so they made him a supervisor and paid him $18,000 a year," Schnurbusch said, adding, "I get $12,000 a year and if I ask for more they call me stupid."

The assessor promised that the back county area of Martin County will receive market valuation in the 1972 assessment.

"Under the green belt law we can only assess agricultural land at $200 an acre. In the case of Rotonda, we assessed them at $400 an acre in 1969, $800 an acre in 1970 and $1400 an acre this year.

"Rotonda is a subdivision selling land for up to $5500 an acre. They are protesting our assessment of $1400. Their average sale was $4400 an acre, and we are supposed to be at 100% market value. They promise no benefits unless the buyer pays for them and they charge six percent interest.

"There is a market for Rotonda land, and they are selling it," Schnurbusch said.

The plight of the homeowner was explained by the assessor, who said the people who own homes and condominiums pay 100% on their value, while businesses and farmers pay only 25% of the value of their lands.

"This is because they have a string down a Tallahassee," he said, adding, "Like the bees, the homeowners do all the work and the queen (farmers and businessmen) enjoy the benefits."

Schnurbusch said that condominium owners paid a high comparative tax due to the fact that so much is collected from so small an area. "You get much more tax money from a condominium than from a subdivision," he said.

The growth of the county was reflected in the 3,000 additional applications for homestead exemption this year, according to Schnurbusch, who predicted more than three thousand new applications in the coming year.

Schnurbusch pointed to the increased value of properties as a reason for the increased roll. In Ishmarie's Village, properties have increased from $9,000 to $15,000 in value, adding to the taxable value of Martin County.

Schnurbusch suggested a suggestion from Kiwanian Jim Wyatt, who suggested spreading the tax base by having the first $2,000 of value taxable, and the five thousand dollar homestead exemption effective on the next five thousand in value.

"You are talking like a sensible person," Schnurbusch said.

TALKING- Jensen Beach Kiwanis President Bob Smith talked with Martin County Tax Assessor "Dutch" Schnurbusch following the speech made by Schnurbusch at the Monday meeting of Kiwanis at Frances Langford's Hutchinson restaurant.

CofC plans changes, constitution update

JB- A completely revised constitution of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce making radical revisions in election procedures and updating much of the document, was presented to directors of the Chamber for study at a meeting Monday night.

The new constitution would allow the president and other executive officers of the group to be elected by the board of directors instead of by the members. The directors would be elected by a mail ballot of the membership.

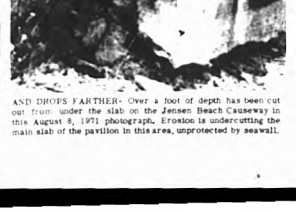
New classes of members would be established, redefining the Jensen Beach-Rio area as the active class of member, and allowing the directors to establish new classes for businesses not located in the Jensen Beach area, identified as the postal service area.

The new constitution would also allow the designation of honorary memberships, but sets a time limit of five years on the honorary status unless renewed by the board.

Election of new board and officers will take place so that the new date of assumption of office of the January 1 is to correspond with the fiscal year.

Jensen Causeway erosion continues at a fast clip

SLAB DROPS- This early photo shows how far the slab at the main pavilion of Jensen Beach Causeway Park had broken and fallen in January, 1971.



AND DROPS FARTHER- Over a foot of depth has been cut out from under the slab on the Jensen Beach Causeway in this August 8, 1971 photograph. Erosion is undercutting the main slab of the pavilion in this area, unprotected by seawall.

By DICK CAMPBELL

JB - The giant concrete slab that forms a walkway around the main pavilion of the Jensen Beach Causeway had cracked and dropped six inches in soil-filled base undermined by the storms and tidal action of the Indian River.

Now that slab is hanging loose, a full foot down from the main slab. More erosion has made the concrete slab dangerous to pedestrians who walk around the pavilion, with jagged edges waiting to scrape shins or break legs that might inadvertently step into the opening.

Watching from their home atop the hill, Babcock said that slow-moving cars drove past his home about the same time.

A spokesman said that the sheriff's department had investigated but could gather no information.

WONDERS- The shallows of Jensen Beach Causeway hold many wonders for a young boy, and Tommy Driscoll, one of the newspaper helpers and carriers of The Mirror, found some of the wonders while enjoying The Mirror picnic Saturday on Jensen Beach Causeway.

Edwin Millers enjoy vacation

JB- An automobile trip of almost a month was enjoyed recently by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Miller of Skyline Drive.

"We had a marvelous time," Mrs. Miller told The Mirror on Monday. First stop was to visit a niece, Mrs. Gladys O'Sullivan in Atlanta, Ga., where they were entertained at the Polaris Roof of the Regency Hyatt Hotel plus a tour of the city.

Son Edwin, Jr., his wife and daughter, Christine 19, were next on the list for a visit in Cranford, New Jersey. Next came a trip to stay with friends in Scarsdale, New York, where they were entertained at Westchester Country Club. Other friends were visited in Sommerville and Plainfield, New Jersey.

"We stopped to see Mike Friedrichs at her home in St. Leonard, Maryland," Mrs. Miller said. The group went to visit the Solomon Island atomic energy plant and were entertained at the Solomon Island Country Club by friends of Mrs. Friedrichs.

"It was a nice trip," Mrs. Miller said, "but it's nice to be home again."

Ransom Tiltons return home

JB- Mr. and Mrs. Hanson Tilton of River Court returned recently from a ten-day vacation trip visiting friends and relatives.

The Tiltons drove to see their daughter, Susan at the Brevard Music Camp, North Carolina, spending two days with her. They then drove to Charlotte and flew to Boston, whe they were met by Dudley Wiegand, son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert J. Wiegand of Jensen Beach. Then on to Topsfield and Wolfeboro, New Hampshire for a five-day visit with Dr. and Mrs. Wiegand.

The Tiltons then flew back to Charlotte to pick up their car for the return trip.

"The White Mountains were just beautiful," Mrs. Tilton told The Mirror.

The resolution was passed unanimously by the board.

The resolution calls the ocean beaches "an invaluable recreational asset to our residents and visitors and a prime factor in attracting tourists and new residents, thus contributing to the economy of Martin County."

It also cites the lack of access to the new ocean park on Long Island, and estimates a population growth of 20% in the past year as adding to the need for more public beaches.

Fearing increasing land prices, which have jumped in the past five years from as low as $250 per front foot on the island to $1,000 per foot, the Chamber noted the demand for beachfront, "...making the acquisition of such properties even more expensive."

Martin County allocated $50,000 for beachfront in its new budget.

In other business, the Chamber directors:

NAMED Mirror editor Dick Campbell and Treasurer Richard Needam co-chairmen of the building committee of the Chamber, with a mandate to design a plan for a new Chamber of Commerce building. Campbell reported progress on planning for a future Chamber building on its present site.

APPLAUDED the announcement that Outdoor Resorts of America, Waterbird, Inc., and LFI Saints, Inc. as new members of the Chamber.

CALLED for a meeting of all local organizations to bring more power into citizen requests for action from governmental bodies.

NAMED Ham Wade, chairman, Eva Caulder and Faye Gay a committee to conduct a membership drive.

TABLED, for the third month, action on a Chamber position related to population density and high rises.

HEARD Richard Neesen, chairman of the resort and fishing guide, report that the guide would close for advertising on August 20. Neesen said there were many changes in the book this year and said he enjoyed the project because "you meet so many nice people."

The semi... which began August 8 and ended August 11, drew 150 delegates from 41 high schools throughout the state. All students who attended are juniors or seniors in high school.

"Together We Can" was the theme of the statewide Civitan group, but according to moderator Ronald McKibbney, the main purpose of these sessions was to hear what the students had to say and to try to build good citizenship.

McKibbney said "We hope the students will take back to their local groups what we have discussed here."

Governor of the Florida District Civitan International group, Joe Holmes, said, "Each local Civitan Club chooses its own delegate because we felt the club would know who could best represent the club."

During the four-day seminar delegates listened to various speakers, then, the 150 students broke into 10 groups of 15 and discussed what the speaker said, returning to the speaker the delegates told him what they felt about what he had said, and continued with a question and answer "rap" session.

Guest speakers attending the seminar were Quentin North, a member of the Indian County Human Relations Team; Harris T. Hoelzel, traffic representative in the industrial development division of Seaboard Railroad; Ronald McKibbney, director of youth activities with the Florida District of Civitan International, assigned to LBJ.M. DITCHED--Erosion by the Indian River is a steady and continuing process, and water now laps at areas that once was wide, sandy beach. A coquina rock barbeque pit on Jensen Beach Causeway is near collapse as a ravine caused by water rushing off the state highway deepens. Over a foot of soil and ten feet of beach has been lost since last January in the unprotected areas of the beach.

BARBEQUE CRACKS--The strain of the weight of Jensen Beach Treasure's pavilion barbeque pit on Jensen Beach Causeway against the eroded causeway section west of the newly bulkheaded area has caused the giant pit to crack. In this photograph, taken Sunday, the pit blocks show loosened from their mortar, and over a foot of the fill soil washed away from the side of the pit.

Stuart- Frank and Marie Percuoco topped the North-South field with 82 points at the Monday session of the Pelican Duplicate Bridge Club. Second with 81, were Mr. and Mrs. T.D. Kelly; third and fourth tied at 73, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Hendrickson and George Knoll and Ray Blue.

Vera Jackson and Fran Wilson were first in the East-West division with 75 1/2; second, Jack Alger and Fred Dumond, 70; third, Ruth and Bill Banan, 69 1/2.

Thirty-four teachers and 600 students will begin classes at Murray Ninth at Port Salerno on August 30. The only new route added to the curriculum is retail engine technology according to Joel Seward, assistant principal. "The students will work with cash registers," he said.

The ten new teachers assigned to Murray Ninth are V. M. Johnson, mechanical drawing; Miss Nancy Hebert, English; Mrs. Betty Drauchon, English; Jack Ingley, special education; Bill Wilson, work experience coordinator; Pat Wilfong physical education; Tim Mueller, Spanish and English; Alvin Smith, math, and Richard Osterlieder, counselor.

J. C. Williams, assistant principal at Martin County High School, reported that the only change in its curriculum will be in the expansion of the vocational courses. The high school will have 1300 to 1400 students this year, he said. Thirteen new teachers have been added to the existing 57 faculty members.

Vocational training set at old Jensen School

JB- The old Jensen Beach Elementary school on Indian River Drive is sporting a new coat of paint and has had considerable work done inside and out, according to V. James Savitski, superintendent of schools.

"Because of crowded conditions at Martin County High School, the old Jensen Beach School will be reopened as the Martin County High School Annex," Savitski told The Mirror. It will house the vocational programs including office practice, home economics, masonry and brick-laying classes. A work study program will be based there with the high school special education program."

Pupils will be transported back and forth to the school which will be staffed with instructors, Savitski explained.

Over Thirty slow-pitch to begin

JB- They are at it again, those over-weight over-age young men who work out every Friday playing slow-pitch softball.

Organizing as "Over Thirty Choose-Up-Sides League" replacing the "Over Thirty League", softball players begin practice-play on Friday night at Langford Park. The speedsters will meet at 7:30 p.m. for practice.

"We are going to take care of all the mistakes we made in organizing the first Over Thirty League," said Dr. Richard Penick, league president.

Penick cited the problems with the fact that the four teams in the first league were mainly made up of members of other teams who filled out each team that was lacking members.

"We ended up choosing sides anyway, so we'll start off that way this time," Penick said.

Penick also refused to accept the title of president of the new league, saying the league was disorganized as it was, and adding that he didn't want to be responsible for a league that just had fun playing ball, though he liked the idea, and would play.

Players will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday night. Penick didn't announce who would choose up the sides.

Jensen-Rio Rubella Sunday drive is launched for kids

By DICK CAMPBELL

JB- A drive to get all young people who have not yet had Rubella Disease inoculations to go to Parker Elementary School next Sunday for the free shots was begun Wednesday night in Jensen Beach.

The drive is important to the participants, as the disease is dangerous to young pre-schoolers, aged one through five. To those who were not able to take their shots last year when they were given in the schools, and especially to pregnant women, who face deformed or stillborn babies if they contract the disease.

Jim Thompson, representing the Florida Division of Health, explained the procedure to representatives of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund, Jensen Beach Kiwanis club, Jensen Boy Scout Troop 401 and the Stuart Jaycees who met Monday at The Mirror office.

All organizations will have a part in turning out the young people for the shots on Sunday at Parker Elementary.

The Scouts began the work Wednesday, taking literature explaining the disease and its implications, and information relative to Rubella Sunday, August 22, to deliver on Thursday to all homes in the Jensen Beach, Rio, Sewall's Point, Walsingham and Eden areas.

Jensen Beach Kiwanians in the meantime will be putting up posters in the areas to attract attention to the drive to get the children out for the shots. Parents needing transportation can call 287-4882 for a car and driver to...

The United Fund canvass of various organizations will follow up on the delivery by contacting all families with children to make sure pre-school age of the area is encouraged to take their children to Parker Elementary School in Stuart at 9:00 a.m. on Sunday.

For those needing transportation, the United Fund has a plan in between and if you're really in need, Parker Elementary Schools is giving children for the shots. Emergency there is many parents.

A new experimental painless method of delivering the vaccine is being used. It is a jet injector unit, using no needles. The unit delivers the vaccine under pressure of 1200 pounds per square inch into the skin to be carried to the area of the body.

Two nurses from the Martin County Health Department will be on hand to inoculate the children, and with the new unit no needle will frighten children per hour.

The shots are

70 new teachers join school system

Stuart- Seventy new Martin County Public School System teachers will be given the chance to see the area from the sky on Wednesday. For the fifth consecutive year, new teachers will be given an air tour by Harold Strauss and his pilots at St. Lucie Skyways.

Flights began at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday (today).

The flights are part of the orientation program to Martin County and are free. Strauss received a personal commendation from Martin County School Board last year.

When asked if the flights would be scheduled this year, Strauss replied, "Let's take it legendary."

Lake water level to be raised two feet

WPT--A proposal to raise water levels by two feet to flood thousands of acres of marshes in the Kissimmee Basin was approved recently by the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

There are now about 10,000 acres of impoundments above the five-farm on the Kissimmee River, north of Lake Okeechobee. The plan calls for acquisition of three more feet of land contour in each impoundment area, according to Don Morcan, FCD Planning and Resource-use director.

The District's engineering staff will now develop plans to change operational procedures and computations of extra acreage that will be required. Other plans to enhance wildlife habitat in marshes of the Upper St. Johns River Basin are being developed. Plans and proposals will be submitted to the Army Corps of Engineers next month.

No green turtles

Tallahassee -- Green turtles are out of bounds, according to a recent change in the Florida Statutes. Florida Marine Patrolman Gordon A. Haldee reported to The Mirror Monday that no green turtles may be taken on the East coast of Florida from the Georgia border to the Dade-Monroe county line.

Legal size limits of fish were also changed. The new ruling is four trout per person, with no bag limit. Replacing the former four trout per person, twenty bag limit. Legal measurement for pompano was six 2 inches from tip of nose to the fork of tail. Now the measurement is 9-1-2 inches from the tip of the nose to the end of the tail.

Claws of stone crabs just measure 4-1-4 inches now instead of the former four inch measurement, and no females are to be caught at any time.

Martzes return from Europe

JB--Mr. and Mrs. Aloise Martz of Jensen Beach Motel returned recently from a seven-weeks' trip to Europe visiting relatives and friends.

"We went to Switzerland, Venice, to Bavaria to see my wife's family, and to France to visit my sister," Martz told The Mirror.

This time the couple flew on the 240-foot Super Jet which, was "really something," according to Martz. "It scares you to look at it," he said, "it's so big. But once you're in it, it's really a nice ride, as if you were sitting in an easy chair in your own home."

The Martzes have visited Europe many times before, usually flying via the 707 jet. "But that's not in it with the Super Jet," Martz said.

Kleines return from vacation

JB-- Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Kleine of 325 South Street returned recently from a month's vacation trip to New York.

The Kleines stayed for three weeks with their son, his wife and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kleine, Joanne, Kathy and Gene, and spent time visiting relatives and friends.

The Eugene Kleines live in Massapequa, Long Island.

An annual reunion was held during with five other couples, Mrs. Kleine told The Mirror. "We've been attending these reunions for about 20 years and really have a fine time with our old friends."

The Kleines are the parents of Mrs. Pete Lopiano of 210 Jeannette Avenue.

Pine School opening set

Stuart- Opening exercises at The Pine School for the 1971-72 school year have been set for August 30 at 8:30 a.m., according to Micheal Stevenson, headmaster of the school. Enrollment interviews are being scheduled over the next two weeks with parents and children who have applied during the summer for enrollment in the first seven grades of the independent elementary school.

Enrollment will remain open until classes start Aug. 30, Stevenson said that limited vacancies are available in all seven grades. He added that eighth grade will be added in the 1972-73 school year.

This year will be the first year of the school's bus service, Routes are being scheduled based on answers from parents who have been questioned by the administration to determine their interest in bus service, Stevenson said. Parents who desire bus service for their children should contact the school secretary.

Faculty workshop and special orientation for new teachers will be conducted by Stevenson the week of Aug. 23. An increased teaching staff will be on hand to help added instruction in the Middle School, which now includes fifth, sixth, and seventh grades.

Youthful voters fail to appear

By ALICE HICKEY

The Teenage voter registration is off to a lagging start in Martin County, according to Isabelle Smith, Supervisor of Elections. To date 124 of the Youth Class (the 18 year olds who have come of age to fulfill their recently imposed obligations as full-fledged citizens.

There are approximately 5,000 eligible registrants in Martin County including 18 to 20 year olds living in the county, in non-consumer districts.

Jensen Beach ranks third in the number of young registrants with 25; the Stuart area is 31; Palm City, 33; Hobe Sound-Port Salerno, 17; and Indiantown, 10.

Of those registering, 52 are Democrats, 46 are Republicans and other parties registered 2.

"The ones who have registered are not taking the matter lightly," said Mrs. Smith, assistant to the supervisor of elections. "They seem to know what they are doing and show a sincere interest."

"We have been given a responsibility and an opportunity to prove ourselves," said 19 year old Mike Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis, 10 left. "I feel happy with the court decision and I think we deserved the right to vote.

"Like most others, I have the opinion that if we are not enough to be drafted, then surely we are old enough and capable enough to have some voice in our nation's future by helping to elect those I feel is most suited for the office and I suppose that decision will be influenced mainly by television debates and discussions."

Another interview with Sara Lockwood, 19 year old daughter of Mrs. Marie Lockwood of Jensen Beach, brought forth the following comments: "I think since the 18 year olds have the right to vote, we should take advantage of it. Frankly, I feel I am as competent as the next person to voice my opinion and if we do not speak up, we have no one to blame for the outcome of any issue but ourselves.

"Certainly, voting for what you want or don't want is a lot more mature and orderly than campus rioting. The news media carries a lot of weight and I am sure my vote will be influenced more along these lines than by parents, teachers or friends.

"I wish more young people would turn out to register, but I don't think voter registration drives are the answer. If a person is interested, he will register on his own."

Skip Shipes, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Shipes of Jensen Beach, feels this is serious business.

"I was happy with the decision and I believe I was among the very first to register. I feel young people should have a say in our government and I am grateful for this privilege," he said.

Accompanying Skip to the office of elections and also registering was his fiancee, Ellen Mattoe, who shared the same views.

Still another young registrant was Marie Yackovich, 20, who said, "We have been given a real responsibility. I think we are obligated to read as much as possible on all issues and candidates prior to voting. We must be well informed. To just walk into the booth on election day and pull the levers without a thorough knowledge could be dangerous."

The Supreme Court last September once again overpowered the rights of the individual states in determining the qualifications of the voters. The 18 to 20 year olds were granted the right to vote in national elections and more recently the privilege of voting in state and local elections as well. The ruling by the Supreme Court was made a law by Congress...a law by which all must abide.

Who are the majority of potential young voters shaping fate? Why the apathy? Are they not interested in their government or do they not realize the responsibility that hail their way with this ruling? Every effort must be made by these young voters from "dropping out" of the fundamental process of voting at a universal exercise of democracy.

The young people must be declared to exercise their constitutional privilege. They must earn the right by showing their responsible voting nature, and the first step is to register.

If each individual were to cast one ballot, the world would be a much brighter place, if each eligible voter would register and cast one vote, they could truly have a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

Young people can register to vote at the office of the supervisor of elections located in the Martin County Court House, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The books will be open for the registrants through October 2, 1971, they will be closed from then until five days following the November 2 elections.

REGISTRATION—Mrs. Isabel Evans Smith, supervisor of registration in Martin County, checks the rolls of the 18-year olds who have registered to vote. Registration is the first step in assuming the responsibility of citizenship, Mrs. Smith contends. "Many persons register but do not vote. Only by voting or re-registering as the rolls are cleared can one keep his voting status established," she said. The easy way is to vote regularly in all elections.

Split vote

$17,100 increase in Sheriff budget

... a compromise increase of $17,100 in the budget of the Martin County Sheriff's Department was approved by the Martin County Commission on a split vote on Tuesday. Voting for the increase were Commissioners Frank Wacha, Paul Owens and Bill Owens. Voting against the motion was Chairman Dr. Bill Myers. Commissioner Timer Powers was absent.

The move cancels a previous appeal by Sheriff Ralph C. Baker before the state Board of Administration in Tallahassee set for Thursday afternoon.

Commissioners had approved a budget of $756,165 for the sheriff's department. Baker countered with a compromise of $773,265 listing his requirements.

The increase will provide for two deputies to be added by October 1 to the staff, after they have completed 200 hours of training with the Sheriff's appeal. "Even $17,100 makes it hard for me to operate," Myers added.

Wacha pointed to the need for more deputies, especially in Jensen Beach. "A deputy had to come all the way from Stuart to Jensen Beach in the time when we had a fire here," Wacha said, "when we had a deputy on duty 24 hours a day, the population warrants it," Wacha said.

"This is a fine compromise," Baker said. "I would personally have made it if I were the Sheriff," said Wacha, voting yes.

A LITTLE BOY'S WORLD

A little boy's world is a place to have fun in..
To climb on, dig into, jump over, and run in..
As venturesome as the games he plays,
And as timeless as each of his carefree days.

It's filled with the everyday things he likes.
Puppies, ice cream, baseballs and bikes.
Things that roll or crawl or fly,
Paths to explore, "double dares" to try.

It's a place to learn what he needs to know,
To laugh, to think, to watch and grow;
For a little boy's world, as small as it seems,
Is as broad as the future, as high as his dreams'

Barbara Kunz

LITTLE GIRL'S WORLD

Blue jeans and sneakers, hair tightly curled,
One little girl and a make-believe world,
Adores playing house or shopping downtown,
Make believe weddings, a lace curtain gown.

She's trying to learn to cook and to sew,
All the things a young lady should know,
But more efficient, as folks will agree
At skipping a rope or climbing a tree

She faces each day with a smile on her face
And leaves happy memories time can't erase.
The future is shaped with the feminine art
From dreams that lie in a little girl's heart.

Sandpiper was fire bombed

JH- Three Molotov cocktails made from wine bottles filled with gasoline and rags were thrown against the Sandpiper Restaurant on the Jensen public beach just after midnight Friday morning.

Night watchman John Wright, who lives behind the restaurant in a trailer, said he heard the bombs go off at around 12:45 a.m. Wright and his 15-year old son John ran out and began throwing sand on the fire, blazing 10 feet above the top of the building.

"The Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department was here within five minutes of my call," reported Wright.

One bomb was thrown at a beach-front side window near the entrance to the building but the window screen prevented it from entering. The second landed on top of the building in the beach-front side, and the third just below it, scorching the front and breaking the windows.

John Hoch, owner of the restaurant, was high in praise for the prompt action taken by the seven firemen and two trucks that answered the call. Hoch said, "If it it ones it arrive were the fire department."

Damage to the building was estimated at $200. Answering the call were Sheriff's investigator Robert Kenny and Deputies Kilkenny and Dick McCoy.

FIRE BOMBING: Early last Friday morning the Sandpiper Restaurant at the Jensen public beach, Hutchinson Island, was fire bombed with three Molotov cocktails made of wine bottles with gasoline and rags. Hanging out of the broken and scorched window is the screen that prevented the fatch from entering the building. Above the window are the burned wires from the torch that ignited on the roof and sent flames on that area of the building.

C of C to discuss

Hurricane refuge for island talked

JB-- Ernesto Ravinet believes in planning ahead. The retired resident of Ventura Out on Hutchinson Island wants a place to wait out a storm if the island is hit by a hurricane.

Rather than wait until the wind is blowing and palm fronds are flying, Ravinet contacted The Mirror to place a classified advertisement seeking a place to stay, inland from the ocean, when and if the blow comes the way of Jensen Beach.

"I saw the damage done by Hurricane Camille and saw what water can do to a home. Even brick buildings were torn down by the water. It was a twenty-foot high wall of water, and that is a lot of power," Ravinet said.

He wants to make arrangements with a local home to have a place for himself, his wife and their little poodle during a storm, and he wants to make those arrangements now, not later.

"I know the power of the hurricane, and while I don't expect one to hit the area, I would feel safer if my wife and I and the dog had somewhere to go."

Civil Defense has plans for hurricanes, with shelters that will house people but not pets. The shelter at Jensen Beach School will not accept animals. So, the ravinets, and people like them, will have to seek shelter at other places.

Richard Neesen, treasurer of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, was in The Mirror office at the time Ravinet and his wife appeared to ask for the advertisements. He suggested that the Chamber make a project of the item, using the Chamber offices to register both those looking for inland places and those who will provide people with places to stay.

"I'll be glad to," Ravinet said.

"I can't see that. After all, we're neighbors," said Neesen.

The Chamber official said he would take up the subject at a special meeting of the Chamber board of directors tonight (Wednesday) at the Chamber office.

Ambulance runs listed

JB-- Tuesday, Aug. 17, was a busy day for the Jensen Beach Samaritans Ambulance Service. Hazel Vincent of 37 North Drive was taken to the Martin Memorial Hospital by A. Theobald and W. Hudik; Mrs. E. Tressler of Sunny Acres #6, was taken to the hospital by A. and B. Hardern, and Mrs. Ann Langford was transferred from a West Palm hospital to Martin Memorial by J. Johanson and D. Carlin.

Mrs. Leah Anderson of Sewall's Point was taken to the hospital Aug. 18 by A. and B. Hardern, and on the 19th, Theodora Soloman of 127 Melba Drive was taken to the hospital by M. and F. Jones and W. Hudik.

Bowling Leagues to hold meetings

JB-- A Fraternal League meeting will be held Wednesday (tonight) at 7:30 p.m. at Jensen Lanes, according to Bill Hulick, president.

"We again welcome the 16 teams in this league last season, and other teams of fraternal organizations, churches as four lanes have been added," Hulick said.

Bowling starts Sept. 8 for the four-man teams.

Friday Scratch League will meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the lanes. This is an 832 five-man scratch league, according to Hulick who is secretary-treasurer.

The Orange Coffee League will hold its first business meeting of the season on Wednesday, Sept. 1 at 9:30 a.m. at Jensen Lanes.

Members who cannot attend are asked to call the secretary, Floretta Bartlett, at 287-1108.

Declaration of address

JB-- A. M. Harding, formerly of Tewksbury Township, N.J., has declared Jensen Beach as his new address.

Louise Barton, also from Tewksbury Township, N.J., has filed a declaration of address in Jensen Beach.

Later in the afternoon, another resident, at 4:30 P.M., was threatened by a bridgetender who had opened the bridge "when a tug was far down the river and hadn't even signaled yet," for blowing his horn.

The bridgetender had lowered the bridge again, before the tug had arrived to let traffic through, since the tug was still too far away. When asked by the local real estate man why he had opened the bridge with a tug so far away, the bridgetender said, "It's none of your damned business."

He also reported that there was no response to the number of the Ft. Pierce bridgetender's office.

Dailey's return home

Ob- The Walter Dailey's, accompanied by Walter's mother, Nellie Dailey, their daughter Patty and her husband, Andy Carter and son David, returned on Aug. 15 after a three week vacation in Pa. Their son Rick drove up in his own car and joined the family.

They visited Walter's Aunt and a cousin in Bedford County, and tried their luck at Brook Trout fishing. From Ambler, Pa. Myrtle visited her mother, Mrs. Velma Fellows and with a sister who lives in Baltimore. Myrtle took her mother to Georgetown, Delaware to visit her brother George Rousch, in Central City, Pa. Myrtle took Patty and family to see her girlhood home.

Ricky had to leave before the rest of the family and his cousin Billy Chetiote, aged 17, returned with him. They boys stopped in Blair, Pa. to visit Rick's friend, David Tweedy. David and his sister Gay were on vacation from college. David is the son of Rev. Tweedy, a former pastor of the Jensen Beach Community Church. Rick tells us that Joy Tweedy is married and lives some distance from her parents.

Since returning, Rick has bought a boat, and he and Billy are enjoying the three week visit. Billy is planning to spend in Florida. He thinks this is a great State.

SASKATCHEWAN'S MOUNTAIN- As many of you know, Tom and Nellie Cook come from Saskatchewan, Canada, which has no mountains. The younger generation, which loves winter sports, decided to build a mountain under the direction of Laurie Robertson, a neighbor of the Cooks at Birch Hills, Sask. All through the summer of 1970 heavy machinery was at work at a coulee near Saskatoon. Before freeze-up Saskatchewan had its first mountain and a generous snowfall last winter made it possible to hold the first ski meet. It was so successful that plans are under way to have a modern ski lift and other conveniences for next winter.

Night-time is trouble-time

Lisle calls for evening youth activities

JB- A young man told it like it is to the members of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, and his message got through. X.O. "Buddy" Lisle, a second year student at Indian River Community College, told Kiwanians they were in areas who could stop teen troubles.

"You never hear of a kid getting in trouble during the daytime; it is always at night. And that is why you must provide something for the youth to do at night," Lisle said.

The energetic youth leader didn't leave it there, as most have done. He was a specific request for things to do.

"Once the sun goes down, there is nothing for the kids to do. You provide little leagues and park leagues, but that is where it stops. There is nothing for the young people between fourteen and eighteen.

"The basketball courts are not lighted. The tennis courts are not lighted. Jaycees and starting Kiwanettes.

He called for Kiwanians the leaders of the community, "and we challenge you to help the kids. Make some basketball courts and you can use that money to light the tennis courts and the basketball courts. Anyone can do that, get the courts with the most night."

"Just a little light over the basketball court would help."

X.O. "Buddy" Lisle

He asked that all Kiwanians who read people if they didn't know something was in a paper cup and she put it in the water and bubbles came up."

Cindy Lee Hi ward

"Who will be the next president and how?" "I'm not interested in politics."

At U.S. 1 - Walton

Industrial park is begun at PSL

PSL - With small golden shovels, officials of General Development Corporation symbolically broke ground on the first stage of a garden-type industrial park at Walton Road and U.S. 1 in St. Lucie County.

Digging into the white sand in a golden wheelbarrow with the spoon-size shovels were Fredrick Roach, president of GDC; Jack Sutter, director of industrial development; Jack Sheridan, Port St. Lucie general manager, and Port St. Lucie Mayor Eugene Kavanaugh.

The ceremonies were held in the dining room of the St. Lucie Country Club at a special press reception. Plans are to have the first building built and leased by January, 1972, and an immediate beginning on a second speculative building.

A new four-lane landscaped boulevard just north of Walton Road will provide access to the first 178 acre stage of the garden-type industrial park for the park to encompass approximately 750 acres.

Roach said the company is also constructing a 20,000 square foot building, which will be available to industry meeting the strict standards of the park. Constructed from modernistic tilt-up concrete panels, the building is designed so that it can be subdivided for multiple tenants.

Zoning and deed restrictions will insure maintenance of a true parklike setting, Roach said. These include a limit on the amount of ground space each building may take, and the clustering of buildings within each block.

Under this concept the clustered buildings will form a courtyard for several areas. Parking will be sheltered by landscaping so when seen from the main streets open green areas will predominate.

"To insure the maintenance of a pollution-free environment," Roach stressed, "industry will be required to control all by-products within the site itself."

Plans for the industrial park were developed by the company's environmental design and planning department, headed by William C. Kreidt. Kreidt also designed the St. Lucie Hilton Inn and General Development's Miami headquarters building.

THANK YOU

I wish to thank all our friends for their prayers, flowers, cards and food while my wife, Minnie, has been sick. She is improving slowly but surely.

The first fall meeting of the Associates will be in October at the Agriculture Center rather than Elliott Museum. Details will be announced later this month.

Dangers mount as boaters complain

JB- "I'm going to move my boat to Ft. Pierce until the thing is cleared up," said George Dell. The boater was complaining about the condition of the St. Lucie Inlet and wanted to know how to properly protest the condition.

Referred to the county commission, which last week passed a resolution to the U.S. Corps of Engineers asking quick action on inlet dredging, Dell said he would carry his complaint as far as he could.

"Something has got to be done. The water has to access with head north at one point, and swells catch the boat sheer. You have the danger of getting swamped," Dell said.

He was backed up not only by the action of the county commission but also by the comments of local skippers.

"There is less than two feet at some spots," said veteran skipper Will Bowman. "The Carole Ann III draws forty inches. I have never touched bottom but at one point, proceeding slowly with my passengers in the bow, at of near low water I stir up sand."

"Captains have to know which way to go. You can stay within the buoy markers and get down to two feet in some places. But if you know where to go in the channel, and stay in the right places, you can just make it," said the captain who goes out about four times a week.

"To get out, you have to run a little east of north at one point, and during the run smaller boats could have difficulty if there was a heavy sea and they had to ride in the trough," Bowman said.

Commissioner Frank Wascha said Monday that the county was doing all it could to try to bring the Corps of Engineers to the inlet for dredging as soon as possible. The Corps recently announced that it would "survey" the inlet in September and dredge in November.

NEW RESIDENT- Miss Janice Joy Witmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Witmer, has come from Farmington, Mich. to live with her parents at Windmill Village by the Sea on Hutchinson Island. Miss Witmer will be teaching fourth, fifth and sixth grades Language Arts at Hobe Sound Elementary.

Kiwanis sets meet and installation

JB- Installation of officers of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club will be held on Friday, September 24 at the Crow's Nest Restaurant, it was reported to the membership Monday.

Ralph Norkin, reporting on absent Tom Wyatt, said the members will have a dinner dance to celebrate the installation of new officers.

President Bob Smith reported that the next regular meeting of Jensen Kiwanis would be next Tuesday at the Outrigger Restaurant, rather than Monday, Labor Day. He said that the monthly meeting of the board of directors would be that Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Jensen Beach Bank.

Birthday greetings

JB- Happy birthday wishes are extended to Virginia Munro, Curtis Coulter and Edie Curran who will celebrate their birthdays on Sept. 4; to Shirley Hunter and Bill Thompson on the 5th; Signe Peters, Elsie Dean and Mrs. Esther Dowler, 6th; David White, 7th and Paul Kenny and Willard Sopper on Sept. 8.

Send birth dates to The Mirror for publication.

Lauzons are back

JB- Two things took the H. Lauzons of Sandra Drive up north last month, according to Mrs. Lauzon. One was to attend his granddaughter's wedding in Wayne, N.J., and the other was to visit with her son and his wife who live in Montvale, N.J.

"We made our headquarters in my son's new home," Mrs. Lauzon told The Mirror. Son is Bruce Shannon. "From there we visited with friends for about two and a half weeks."

The Lauzons enjoyed golf with Paul and Babe Wisely, Stuart residents, who are spending the summer in Terre Haute, Ind. "We met their friends in Terre Haute and had a good time partying," Mrs. Lauzon said.

But there was too much traffic up north and the travelers decided, after about five weeks, that they couldn't wait to get back to Jensen Beach. "It's good to be home," they agreed.

Wiedows killed in auto accident

Palm City--Four persons, including two former Jensen Beach residents, were killed Sunday evening in a head-on collision on Loop Road near Moore's Dairy.

Dead on arrival at Martin Memorial Hospital were Russell K. Wiedow, 50, and his wife, Charlotte M. Wiedow, 50, both of Ranchhead Estates, Stuart.

Identified at the scene by Justice of the Peace Harvey Files, acting as coroner, were William L. Aard, 54, and his wife Mary, of 4952 Pineapple Lane, West Palm Beach.

The Aledos car, traveling south on the two-lane road on which there was almost no traffic, missed another truck and veered into the northbound lane, slamming headon into the pickup truck in which the Aards were driving, according to Lt. Deputy Sheriff Slater Grose, who headed a task force of investigators. The Wiedow car appeared to be out of control as it approached the Aard truck.

There were five witnesses to the accident, Grose said.

Fire departments and ambulances were rushed to the scene, including the Jensen Beach Suburban Ambulance. Bodies were taken to the hospital and Arvon Funeral Home.

Wiedow, born in Chicago, Ill., had been a resident of this area for nine years, coming from St. Cloud, Fla. He was employed as a distribution clerk at Stuart Post Office for about eight years, prior to that time he was with the Jensen Beach Post Office. He was a former resident of Barbara, Fla.

He was the first commander and founder of Maurice K. Laughery VFW Post 10066 of Jensen Beach, a member of American Legion Post 126 of Jensen Beach, member of Stuart-Jensen Elks Lodge 1850 and the United Federation of Postal Clerks.

He is survived by his wife, Russell K. Wiedow II, two daughters, Mrs. Allen Schommer of Jensen Beach and Roberta Wiedow of Stuart; one grandson and one sister.

Charlotte Marcelle Wiedow, born in Elgin, Ill., came here nine years ago from St. Cloud. She was a member of the VFW Auxiliary 10066 of Jensen Beach. She is survived by one son, Russell K. Wiedow, II; two daughters, Mrs. Allen Schommer and Roberta; one grandson, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jolley of St. Cloud; two brothers and the sisters.

Funeral services for the Wiedows will be held Thursday, Sept. 2 at 2 p.m. at Aycock Funeral Home with Rev. Donald F. Schnell, pastor of the Lake Baptist Church, officiating.

Interment will be in All Saints' cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday, Sept. 1 from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. at Aycock's.

Following the committal service all will be invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Schommer, 2 Cypress Lane, Jensen Beach.

Pallbearers will be Jack Bullock, Bob Bullock, Bill Beach, Charles Hebert, Jack Hebert, Jr., Jerry Hebert and Jerry Beach.

Honorary pallbearers will be Mrs. Julia Lucia of Jensen Beach.

Flower services will be conducted at Aycock's Chapel on Monday, Sept. 6 at 8 p.m. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Cemetery.

Vincencia Hilliard

Directors approve

New constitution goes to Chamber membership

...with sweeping changes that takes the selection of directors to the membership ballot and the election of officers to the executive directors, a new constitution and by-laws of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce was approved ... to be submitted to the Chamber membership last week.

In a spirited debate that eventually saw unanimous approval of the document, with only past president Don Wilkie abstaining, the remodeled constitution and by-laws passed the vote of the board.

The document changes the operational year of the Chamber board and officers to coincide with the fiscal year of the Chamber, January 1 to December 31. It sets the membership on the board to "at least ten members," opening the way for a larger board, and allows the Chamber directors to select officers from either the board itself or from the general membership.

Election dates will be in November, with the new board taking office in January.

Under our present system, the president has to live with the budget of his former president for seven months. He has no opportunity to plan his year, budget his year and operate as he should," said David Beck, president, in his support of the new document.

A new membership classification authorizes the directors to award an annual or lifetime membership for service to the community. In the history of the Chamber, only one person, Fadina Price, received such an honor.

Duplication of the corrected and amended document, which took two hours to refine in the special meeting last week, is under way, and printed copies will be mailed to the membership for consideration at a special meeting to be called in the middle of September.

INDUSTRIAL PARK — The first building to be built in the new Fort St. Lucie Industrial Park is outlined in this rendering of planned development in the park's first phase. Under a concept for clustering buildings within each section, with a central courtyard. Extensive landscaping will maintain a botanical atmosphere throughout the park, located at Walton Road and U.S. 1.

BUILDING CAPPED — The second floor of the newly remodeled First Federal Building in Jensen Beach received a cap this week to match the architecture of the new construction at left. The new second floor will hold a community meeting room, construction officials asked that the public observe the no trespassing signs when the saw horses are placed in front of the building due to falling debris in the job.

Danger is cited in construction

JB—Local residents pay no attention to the "Watch Your Step" signs that blocked off the front of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association construction site this week and building contractor Jack Murray is concerned but their safety.

Murray pleaded that the construction signs be observed after three tons of concrete fell from the northwest corner of the building, splashing a new Cadillac with the concrete.

"Someone could have been hurt badly. There is always something that accidentally falls with construction in high places, and we want to protect the residents," Murray said.

Murray said that his crews in contract on street would be setting away from the front of the building for at least a month, and said the "Watch Your Step" warning of danger would be placed around areas where there is danger.

"All we ask for is that people watch out and respect the larger areas during construction. The signs are for their safety," he said.

Murray also said that a new parking area on the river side of SR 707 has been completed for parking of construction workers and people who are associated with the ...

Unpublished school phone is 283-1262

JB—The telephone operator said "after words," that that number is unpublished. "It means that even if you listed it?" The Mirror editor asked.

"Yes, sir, unpublished. That means that the number ... from the directory. It is also unlisted and unpublished," the operator said.

"Gosh," said the editor.

The actual listed number of the new Martin County School Administration Center on Jensen Beach Blvd. also rotary, is 283-1262, but is unpublished and therefore will not appear in the directory or on file in the office for the public school system. Also, it is important to note that there is a single area code for all of Martin County.

Hurricane protection is a purpose of FCD part, low-flying, squally ects, the harbingers of storms, began to ural in over the south shore

Lake Okeechobee the morof September 16, 1928, turned out to be per-the darkest day in Flo-
's history.
The residents of the agricultural communities on the muckiands south of the lake were not unduly ssed over the weather ge at first—even though had received vague re-rts of a hurricane churnin the Atlantic off the utheast coast of Florida.

According to radio and newspaper reports, the hurricane, which had already taken 275 lives in Puerto Rico, was not expected to strike the South Florida mainland.

But as the day wore on the winds increased steadily and rain squalls became more numerous and vicious. That night, Lake Okeechobee, already swollen by heavy August and September rains, broke through the muck levee on the southeast shore of the lake and virtually leveled almost every one of the farm communities.

"It was the last day of life for almost 2,000 people," wrote Lawrence E. Will, an eyewitness to the tragedy, in his book, "Okeechobee Hurricane." Will, authour and historian, now lives in West Palm Beach.

In loss of life, the Lake Okeechobee hurricane ranks as the third worst disaster in American history. It was surpassed only by the hurricane of 1900, which destoryed the island city of Galveston, Texas, killing between 5,000 and 6,000 people; and the Johnstown, Pa., flood which took a toll of 2,000 to 2,200.

Peak sustained winds in the Lake Okeechobee hurricane were estimated at 160 m.p.h. by a weather observer at Canal Point. Checking the area after the storm, engineers found that the crest of the wave that rolled over and through the levee had been 11.8 feet above the ground in many places.

The hurricane also caused great damage on the coast—especially in the West Palm Beach area, which was in the path of the killer storm. The Barograph reading in West Palm Beach was 27.43, the lowest barometer reading ever recorded until that time.

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District was created by the Florida Legislature in 1949. Although water management is its purpose, to store water during the rainy season and discharge it during the dry season, rapid removal of flood waters during tropical storms is a prime goal.

A master plan was formed to meet the challenge of rapid removal of water whenever necessary. Complicating the problem is the fact that much of the 18-county district contains some of the flattest land on earth. There is an average of only three-quarters of an inch per mile of fall to the land from the Lake Okeechobee area southward to Florida Bay.

The FCD operates a system of 1,400 miles of levees, and there will be more in the future. The FCD project is only about 55 percent completed. The levees running north-south on the east side of the three FCD Everglades conservation areas are major works in preventing flooding in coastal and suburban areas.

More than 100 major spillways and dams, and 14 large pumping stations afford additional protection in times of hurricane or flood. Most of these pumping stations are capable of moving over one million gallons of water per minute.

The pumping station west of West Palm Beach at 20-Mile-Bend, the largest low-level pumping station in the world, can pump two and a half million gallons per minute.

Briefly, this is the way the FCD system functions to protect life and property when a storm threatens:

Each year, instructions for emergency operations are issued to FCD personnel from Kissimmee southward to Homestead. When a hurricane alert is announced, all field men know what to do automatically.

Orders are issued from FCD headquarters in West Palm Beach by telephone and a two-way radio communications system. Emergency crews are ready to roll if needed. In addition, the entire FCD system has independent power sources to enable the works to remain in operation in any storm.

The FCD watches each storm closely. There is a teletype weather service tied in with the National Hurricane Center in Miami in addition to telephone contact with the Center.

Twenty-four hours before the estimated time of arrival of a storm, FCD personnel go into action. Some spillway gates are opened, some closed.

The levels of canals are drawn down to provide storage space for the torrential rains that usually accompany a hurricane. This is accomplished by opening coastal spillways and discharging to tidewater, and closing the gates on the perimeters of the FCD reservoirs.

Pumping stations take water from the canals and pump it into the three inland conservation areas and Lake Okeechobee, when the storm threat is past, gates on the coast are closed and water is dumped from Lake Okeechobee and the three conservation areas back into the canals to reestablish the water table.

Although the FCD works and strict building codes minimize the danger of a hurricane toll, precautions must still be taken by the citizenry to protect life and property. Any doubt of this was erased by last year's Camille, the super hurricane that wreaked devastation on the upper Gulf Coast.

Precautions to take before a hurricane

The following list of hurne precautions are suged by the Insurance In-rmation Institute.
FORE the hurricane.....
1. Leave low-lying areas
ch may be inundated.
2. If your home is safe
m high water and flash ds, remain inside.
3. Don't leave lying about
y objects such as lawn rniture or garden tools at might be blown against indows or through win-
ws. Make sure garage
ors, awnings, and storm
tters are secured.
4. Secure boats from the
ks. If possible, Other-se have them strongly and curely moored.
5. Be sure your automo-
e is on high ground and in a spot where trees may ll down on to it.
6. Keep a full tank of s in your car. If you must use your car, be on the lookout for fallen wires, fallen trees and flash flooding.
7. Have a flashlight in good working condition and a supply of extra batteries.
8. Stock a generous supply of drinking water in clean sealed containers to guard against contamination.
9. Keep on hand a supply of food that does not require refrigeration or cooking.
10. Keep a window opened slightly on the side of the building opposite the side from which the wind is blowing. This will prevent certain types of wind damage and provide ventilation.
11. Keep your radio or television on. A battery-powered radio will prove useful in case of power failure.
12. If, in the midst of the hurricane, there is a sudden lull, be cautious. The eye of the storm is probably passing directly over your area. Remain inside, because the wind will return from the opposite direction.

Hurricane watches mean a hurricane may threaten an area within 24 hours. Hurricane warnings mean a hurricane is expected to strike an area within 24 hours.

If the calm storm center (the eye of the hurricane) passes directly overhead, there will be a lull in the wind lasting from a few minutes to half an hour or more. Stay in a safe place unless emergency repairs are absolutely necessary. But remember, at the other side of the eye, the winds rise very rapidly to hurricane force, and will come from the opposite direction.

Use Check List
When Blow Nears

Here, in brief is a suggested check list which should be filled before the big blow hits. Pasted to a small piece of cardboard and hung in the kitchen it will provide an immediate reference during the rush-around period the day before a hurricane hits.

( ) Battery radio, with spare batteries
( ) Flash lights (2) with spare batteries
( ) Electric lantern, with spare batteries
( ) Three to five gallons of water per person
( ) Canned meats, soups, etc.
( ) Canned fruit juices
( ) Special foods for babies, the aged, and invalids
( ) Can opener - not electric
( ) Dried cereals

( ) Milk, powdered and evaporated
( ) Sterno or other self-operating stove
( ) Matches
( ) Mops, rags and buckets
( ) Up to date and "refreshed" first aid kit
( ) Paper plates (to conserve water)
( ) Small tools (brought in from carport) such as screwdrivers, pliers, nails and hammer

In the event the storm is of such intensity that your family decides to take shelter in a Disaster Center, take with you:

( ) Cot or sleeping bag (there may not be enough to go around if the shelter is jammed)
( ) Flashlight or lantern of your own
( ) Any special foods and the utensils to prepare them
( ) Small quantity of water
( ) Change of clothing

Take non-essentials, except such things as a favorite doll or a toy for the children. Leave the "portable" TV set at home. There won't be enough power for it and you might find you enjoy talking to your family or neighbors.

EGAL NOTICE

Jensen school is high school annex

JB--The old Jensen Beach Elementary School, long lamented as falling down, has a new coat of paint, some new electrical connections, and has been transformed into the new Martin County High School Annex.

The school will be site of home economics classes of the high school, and three-two-hour classes per day will be held in the old cafeteria, remodeled for the classes, Mrs. Charlotte Buck is in charge.

In another room there will be Vocational Office Education classes, (VOE), that will feature three hour secretarial training classes with advanced typing, second year shorthand, of ice skills (machinery), business English, and record keeping. The English requirements of the high school will be met in the classes.

A two-hour office education class, with emphasis on clerical training will be taught by Mrs. Euclede Fennel, also. Those classes will exclude shorthand.

In other classrooms are the Diversified Cooperative Training (DCT) classes of Ed Norten and Alvin McHardy. In those classes the students will meet and be advised, go to work in the morning hours, attend classes at MCHS in the afternoon. The program is for seniors and develops personality and business principles in the young people.

A new format for skills training will be a Cooperative Distributive Training (CDE) class conducted by Richard Wells. The students in that class will be learning skills in cooperation with the St. Lucie Hilton, working in landscaping, greenskeeping, and hotel and restaurant work.

Don Knott, former football coach, will teach a tenth grade work experience program. He will work with students who will be headed for work forces, counseling them to make them aware of the necessity for high school diploma achievement.

The new classes will be held through the year in the old elementary school, indicating the need for new high school facilities for students in the Stuart plant.

SONS OF NORWAY PICNIC- Jensen Beach and Fort Pierce members of the Gulfstream Lodge of the Sons of Norway met Sunday at Jensen Beach Causeway for a picnic-meeting. Enjoying the day's outing are Grant Shaeffer, Bay Leif, president of the local lodge, Hans Kleyjer and Norma Wold.

FUN-TIME- It was fun-time Sunday for the Sons of Norway youngsters who played in boats and swam during the afternoon picnic of the local lodge on Jensen Beach Causeway. The young fry enjoyed the water, the sun and recreation facilities on the causeway.

THE LAST DAY--This young man stares pensively at the Indian River as he faces the first days of school. His "last fling" on Sunday gave him a moment of reflection over past summer activities.

Over 30 on Friday

JB--Games are expected to be played this Friday night in the third week of practice for the Over Thirty League at Langford Park according to Dr. Richard Fenick acting president.

There is still room on the two teams being formed for "those who want to exercise and have fun," Fenick said. The baseballers meet at 7:30 p.m. at the park on fieldone.

JB--A week's vacation in Marathon was enjoyed last week by Mr. and Mrs. Skip Leonard and daughter, Traci, of Carrol Court, according to Mrs. Leonard.

"We swam and rested," she said, explaining that her husband went skin diving, fishing and boating, also.

Lopilato family returns from north

JB--Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lopilato of Jeannette Ave. examined a lot of interesting things into their recent two-weeks vacation. They and their children, Linda, Jane, Lois, Johnny, Laura and Johnny drove to New York where they stayed with his parents at Sound Beach, Long Island.

"We took in some stock theatre in Bellport, saw two Broadway shows and ate at some of our favorite restaurants," Mrs. Lopilato told The Mirror. In between times the family visited with friends and relatives including Phyllis' brother on Long Island.

The children especially enjoyed seeing the lobster boats on at Montauk Point, and had fun picking apples upstate.

NEW PAVILION--Designed to give rest and shade to parents as their children play in the Langford Park playground, this new pavilion is one of four planned at all corners of the playground. Park supervisor Horace Dewey puts the finishing touches on the installation of the pavilion.

Readers spent $46 million on goods, services in 1970

JB Readers of The Jensen Beach Mirror and The Port St. Lucie Mirror had more and spent more in 1970 than they did in 1969, according to an exclusive report to The Mirror by the Institute of Modern Marketing.

The report, an annual update of The Mirror Market survey by the Institute, indicated that families reading The Mirror spent $46,113,000 in 1970 for retail items, personal services, of which $3,324,000 was in savings and debt reductions.

For the first time in Stuart residents of Martin county had a greater income than people who live in St. Lucie county.

Martin residents increased their household income 9%, moving up from $8,774 to 1969 to $9,554 in 1970, for a dollar increase per household average of $882.

Both counties were under the state average of 11% increase to $486 with the state average household increase of $9,888 in 1969 to $9,174 in 1970.

Mirror readers spent $6,064,000 on food in 1970 and $5,918,000 on automobiles. They spent $4,274,000 for general merchandise in 1970 and over the counter drugs and sundries $2,013,000.

Almost two million dollars were spent at gas stations, $1,681,000, and $1,294,000 was spent on apparel. Other new expenditures of Mirror families of $1,126,000 and $1,067,000 was spent by Mirror families on outdoor building materials and hardware, other retail expenditures accounted for $2,903,000.

In retail purchases, the people of Mirror territory spent $28,444,000 in the Martin-St. Lucie County areas. They spent only $2,512,000 outside the two county area.

Personal services, another category of the survey information, drew $13,785,000. Personal services are considered insurance, repair, facilities, home and auto services, beauty salons, barber shops, doctors, dentists, etc.

Anyone want a project?

Basketball court roofing will provide gymnasium

This is the third in a series of articles on projects [illegible] could [illegible] groups can take at Langford Park to improve [illegible] there.)

By DICK CAMPBELL

Dr. Lake is the afternoon [illegible] of young people gathering several basketball [illegible] at Langford Park, [illegible] bouncing, jumping shooting basketballs, [illegible] so until the last of light has faded, turning the basketball court to [illegible].

The play will near long, [illegible] the day is excellent [illegible], both mental and [illegible].

"The days are there, they [illegible] in the streets. Shoot a basketball is a lot [illegible] shooting some[illegible] with like [illegible]," said County Commissioner Frank Watcha.

The courts are part of the community effort to build a recreation facility that is second to none in the county. The boys themselves, [illegible] reached by volunteers, helped with the roofing that makes the basketball courts a cushioned, non-skid surface.

Every fall, just as football ends, the basketball leagues get organized, with teams sponsored by local businesses and civic clubs. It is an active league, for juniors and seniors, and all ages get a chance to play.

The only major problem is that the games must be played at Main Jr. High Grade School, down in Port Salerno. If in a major problem handing the young people from Langford Park to the school every Saturday morning, and the scheduling of the school officials makes more than one period a week almost impossible.

A project for some group of church group, or some interested group of citizens would be to install the basketball courts and finish off the side walls to enclose the basketball courts.

Then, with proper lighting, games could be played year around, with no more rain, weather, scheduling of officials and transporting young people to and from other places.

"We have the steel posts and the steel frame," Watcha said. "Then we can just order the 'sail' and have some kind of protection against the elements.

"We'll be able to have basketball leagues, volleyball leagues, badminton and any other sport that would be played in an enclosed area. That's what it will be a gymnasium.

"Later, as the people get more time and dollars, we'll enclose the sides and make the gymnasium a complete facility, and tie it to the field house so that the two might be tied together and complement each other."

Watcha looked at the asphalt courts where boys were dribbling, passing, shooting and jumping. There were three games going on at the same time, a smaller boys had started one game, playing on half a court. The taller, older boys were shooting in a half court game in the second court, and over to the side, two boys bounced and passed to one another under a basket.

"This would be a great project for someone, some club or organization," he said, "Then could begin with the steel posts. That would be a beginning and would be more than is there now."

It is this way at Langford Park. They do what they can when they can, and it is all volunteer labor and materials donated by a people who would rather do it themselves that have the county charge their taxes to do it.

Langford Park is perhaps the most classic example of the American way of life. The people will do for themselves, and leave to government what they cannot do.

The people are doing at Langford Park.

Does anyone want a project? Langford Park has many, and just now is the roofing of the basketball courts, to start. Frank Watcha can tell anyone how to go about doing the job. That is his job at the park, [illegible] [illegible]

Savannas to be protected

By Plans for a causeway [illegible] that will provide access to the spoil areas [illegible] by county commissioners [illegible] [illegible] last week by Martin County Engineer Ward Marshall Reynolds.

Speaking before the Martin County Board of County Commissioners [illegible] the Martin County holdings of only [illegible] Reynolds told the commissioners engineering [illegible] Bluem, told the board that all measures to insure the protection of the valuable [illegible] would be taken.

He outlined a high road that would [illegible] like to hold the waters of the savannas in place, and said that [illegible] for canals for subdivisions would be by a series of canals into the North Fork of the St. Lucie River, and that the Howard Creek, a major waterway that would be navigable to small boats.

Howard Creek crosses [illegible] near the Martin county [illegible] and has been designated by environmental [illegible] as important [illegible] the wide portion of the St. Lucie River just south of the new [illegible] bridge.

We'll take the high road

Preservation of the Jensen Savannas by General Development Corporation is a welcome sign of the cooperative nature of the giant development firm. Fears for the future of the savannas, the string of fresh water lakes along the coast, had been expressed.

Now GDC has proposed a high road to be built from the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR 707A) through to Walton Road, seven miles of highway that would also be a dike. The road would separate the savannas from the GDC East Port St. Lucie sections in Martin and St. Lucie Counties.

That high road will also open some of the most beautiful land, and finest bass fishing areas, to the public, as well as protect the savannas.

It is planning like this that makes local residents appreciate the conservationist attitudes of GDC. Other developers might dragline and strip the land to develop their subdivisions, but GDC, with a commitment to conservation, moves to protect.

In developing the land for the over 7,800 homes in the area east of U.S. 1 and between Walton Road and the Cutoff Road, GDC plans for the future, maintaining the scenic beauty and the ecological advantages of the area.

There are details to be worked out, but the principles are laid down and the company is committed. We appreciate it, and feel that GDC will be a good neighbor in Martin and St. Lucie Counties.

Anti-litter litterer

It was certainly a welcome sight to see, the lady, walking along the Indian River, on the shoulder of the road. She had a shopping bag in her hand.

She stopped, bent over, and picked up a beer can, thrown from some thoughtless litter-bug's car window.

We thought, "Gee, that's nice."

Then the anti-litter lady deftly tossed the can over the shoulder of the road and into the Indian River.

The shoaling of the St. Lucie Inlet brings again the point of a three-two years ago by The Mirror and a group of dedicated people, who went under the name of SLIP (St. Lucie Inlet Preservation).

It was the goal of the group to get the jetty at the St. Lucie Inlet plugged so that sand would not flow through and shoal the inlet as it does now.

The Mirror proved that the small section of concrete slabs that the county moved to the jetty worked. The photo series of The Mirror indicated that the sand was stopped for a half year, and the inlet cleaned itself through the scouring action of the tides.

There were promises that the inlet jetty would be plugged as materials became available. The old concrete slabs from the demolished Palm City Bridge were to be the materials used to plug the jetty.

It was, true, a temporary means to an end, to keep the inlet open, reduce the danger to boating, and bring action that would keep the inlet open until the massive federal project is approved to put in a permanent control over the forces of nature.

Well, the inlet is shoaled.

The jetty plugging is still in limbo, and only the one short section of concrete slabs, a test project, has been completed. Though the test seemed successful, no more slabs were moved to the inlet jetty.

An engineer told us the idea was sound, but the U.S. Corps of Engineers wouldn't say it was a sound idea because the U.S. Corps of Engineers doesn't approve temporary expedients.

The inlet is shoaled. A survey will have to be made for future dredging and boats are endangered by the silted inlet on every day that we await the dredge.

We hate to say "We told you so". But, we told you so.

A cautious, mixed verdict

Both those who applaud and those who are made anxious by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of the Pentagon papers should take notice that the court by no means authorized an unbridled press.

The decision itself was on narrow grounds. Judgment was passed only on the question of whether in this case the government had made its claim of possible damage to national security so clear as to justify "prior restraint."

The court, by a vote of 6-to-3, said that the government had not made a good enough case.

Thus the first attempt in the history of the United States by the executive branch of the government to prevent newspapers from printing what they choose to print was turned back by the judicial branch of the same government.

But the court did not say that the government may never in the future resort to "prior restraint." It left open for the future a set of rules or standards concerning what the government might properly prevent newspapers from publishing. It recognized that prior restraint or precensorship would be perfectly proper even in peacetime against "information that would set in motion a nuclear holocaust" or in wartime against information about war plans and troop movements.

And there is nothing whatever in the decision that frees the press from the normal legal penalties for doing wrong.

The First Amendment to the Constitution prevents precensorship except in the extreme cases which the court now recognizes, but it does not give newspaper publishers and editors immunity from prosecution for wrongdoing.

They are liable for what they print. If they print slander they must pay up or go to jail or both, depending on the case.

If they incite to riot, commit larceny, or in any other way break the law, they are subject to the consequences in courts of law. And if they offend the sense of propriety of the community they will lose advertising and circulation, and disappear from sight, as thousands of newspapers have disappeared.

The press in the United States enjoys a special right and privilege under the Constitution, but it is not above the law. It is not immune from control by government and people. It is not unwatched, unrestrained, and unguarded. Nor has the 6-to-3 verdict in this case reduced in any way the restraints on the press.

On the contrary the verdict includes an implicit invitation to government and press to try to work out a set of rules which will reduce the uncertainty about where the line can safely be drawn between the freedom to print and the right of government to conduct the business of government in reasonable privacy.

Whether a set of rules can be written is another matter. It would be extremely difficult if not impossible. Perhaps the attempt should be made. But the important thing for the moment is that the essential freedom of the press to print within reasonable restraints and limits has been affirmed without any widening of the reasonable restraints and limits.

In truth, the court was conservative in the sense that it conserved by its decision the system which has prevailed in the United States from the foundation.

That system by and large, has worked remarkably well.

We are pleased that it is to continue without substantial change.

CESA's big step

The groundbreaking on the multi-purpose building of CESA, the new cultural, educational and social association's first major step, proves that the people will support projects of value in the community of Port St. Lucie.

Eventually, the cultural center will provide a place for all forms of community activities. It will be tied closely to the new library, completed but awaiting books from the St. Lucie County library association.

But with the groundbreaking comes the most important commitment of the people. It was outlined by CESA president Dr. Evart Stabler, who said, "The people of Port St. Lucie have been generous. But we are going to have to be more generous than the people of Port St. Lucie will be even more generous as we come back again and again to complete this cultural center."

People can do for themselves. They can make their needs known and handle their own projects without government help in many cases. We have always been sold on the idea that the American free enterprise system is the best system, with government doing only that which the people cannot do.

CESA is that kind of outfit, as are the people of Port St. Lucie.

LIFE ....and love it

Problems, problems

Everywhere we look we see problems with government. And government seems to look for problems in many cases.

It is unfortunate that people can't seem to work together in the best interests of those they serve, but that is a problem the elected officials will have to live with, being replaced by other officials with problems as their time comes.

Perhaps that is why so many people are opposed to government, have little faith in it, and either ignore it or fight continually against it.

The City of Ft. Pierce has major problems. Being in the electric utility business is bad enough, and having a plant that is outdated and improperly run is worse, but when you add to all that the failure to properly include replacement of equipment and maintenance in your conduct of operation, you have chaos.

That City (and, I believe, no city should be in the business of selling electricity to citizens. It's just too complex a business, and there is not to be shown a profit to the shareholders, the taxpayers, in the service. It doesn't even break even.

Nothing can beat the free enterprise system.

The City of Stuart has its problems with water. Burdened with having to provide utility areas with city water, the citizens must carry the load through bond issues as the city water system grows by leaps and bounds, overloaded.

City Commissioners are doing their best, but each seem to agree on anything more than a three to two vote, so the system they are saddled with ends up with the commission spending more time on things that happen outside their city limits than with things that are happening within.

It seems incongruous, but that's the way the city problems are developing. Everyone seems to be fighting everyone else, with the City of Stuart the loser in image and the commissioners made the heavies in a play with seemingly no plot. I don't think the citizens of Stuart hired its commissioners to battle outside the city.

The City of Port St. Lucie has problems. The first year that a millage is planned, for a police force, the council finds itself looking down the throat of a mass of new residents in the northern part of the giant city, a mass that outnumbers the country club community that was the founding area of the city.

The people of the country club have been paying for security service from General Development for the past ten years, and taxes to be paid by the city residents would be less than the security fee. But that mass of people in North Port, in the city limits, hasn't been paying that security fee, and isn't too interested in paying for the police force.

With elections coming up next year, and less than a hundred registered voters in the country club area, the balance of power lies in the northern section. One smart thing that the council did was to encourage the formation of a homeowners group up there. Instead of radical opposition the council can look for ward to an organized and intelligent (I hope) appraisal of the problems.

This is one city that is interested in working with the voters, keeping itself organized and viable, and yet providing necessary services to the widespread community. But the problems are there. This year should be the first true test of the strength of the planned-concept city that is the brainchild of General Development.

The Mirror editorially supported the idea that a major water utility be established in the area north of the St. Lucie River and south of White City Road. It would have to be a cooperative effort between St. Lucie and Martin Counties.

With the needs of the Florida Power and Light nuclear power plant as the base, and with the growth of Port St. Lucie expected at over 100,000 in the next twenty years or so, and with Hutchinson Island developing like Topsy, and with Jensen Beach growing like crazy (twenty-percent per year for just the last two years) something needs to be done.

Problems? The county commissions of Martin and St. Lucie, both of whom seem to enjoy ignoring that each other exists, have problems that would make any elected official grow pale. But if there is to be them, maybe they'll go away.

The two commissions can't even seem to get together for dinner, much less to discuss mutual problems in future planning.

Of course, the St. Lucie County Commission feels that the southern part of the county doesn't even exist, unless it is voting time. That, too, will change with the population muscle that is growing up.

So, our elected officials have problems. They will work their way out of them, but in most cases will do so at a higher cost to the taxpayer, or with the loss of the prestige that is so needed in government service.

But, then, we must remember that they reflect our wishes, our desires, and if we do not tell them what we want, support them when we think they are right, and throw them out of office when we think they are wrong, the whole mess ends up our fault.

Stock shocks

I guess at one time in our lives all of us owned a few shares of stock. Or, thought about it. And daydreamed about riches, luxury and the Good Life.

And those who took the plunge and bought a couple of shares of Dutch Company's then spent the rest of their time exulting when it went up a little, and having a nervous breakdown if it dropped half-a-point.

For in spite of what everyone thinks, there is no real way for anyone to predict just what the stock market is going to do at any particular moment.

Although there are some who think they can.

There are those who like to predict market performance on the basis of woman's hemlines.

Really.

They all there wallowing in their own self-assurance, and point to the parallels between the 1966-68 market highs and micro-skirts, and the 1969-70 lows and maxis.

But what these self-styled experts are going to do in this year of the not so hot pants is anyone's guess. But, they'll think of something. And it won't make any sense, either.

"The stock market is 25% financial and 75% psychological." So says investment counsellor Mark Appleman. And he should know, being a partner in a large well-known brokerage house. He's even written a book on the subject where he contends that the ever-whelming majority of investors are neurotic and that those who are not have a decided advantage over the rest. He cites the fact that 80% of all investors refuse to heed their stockbroker's advice. (If you're so smart, how come you're not rich, maybe?) Yet when these same investors wag confidence and reassurance concerning some far-out stock they've bought, they invariably turn to their stockbrokers. For surveys have shown that over 90% of all calls received by stockbrokers are from customers seeking reassurance. And, even then, they may not believe him.

There's a story about a man who was in a hospital isolation ward because of a heart attack, and he had not heard the news about President Kennedy's assassination. But he was restless and wanted to find out how his stocks were doing, so his doctor gave him permission to make just one phone call. To his broker. And here is the conversation that ensued:

"Hello George, this is Dan. Listen, how's DEF doing?"

"89-1/2, down 12."

"Oh. Well, how's ABC?"

"112, down 8."

"What's XYZ? How's GKS?"

"13-1/2, down 4."

"No! How's JKL?"

"167, down 24."

"Good grief! Listen, George, are these just your prices, or are they the same everywhere?"

I like that.

Of course, some investors are nuttier than others. You don't think so? See if any of these hobbies strike a nerve:

Did you ever refuse to buy a certain no-yez-all-yez stock because, years ago, you lost money on it?

Did you ever hesitate to sell a stock at a loss because you didn't want to admit, even to yourself, that you were wrong in the first place?

Did you ever buy stock just because it was cheap, rather than to make money?

Did you ever subsequently sell it for a profit?

Did I tell you about the time I was in Las Vegas, and wherever Sorry, don't want to bore you with tales of other's folly.

For, when to sell, what made ... profit, and when to sell, the stock market is a crap game, period, said:

"In the final analysis, kept for luck, it's all a matter of your insight and your belief. In other words, I don't know who will win, but the stock market is a crap game, and I'll give you place bet."

That's fair dare.

Leif Eriksen Day joins long list

By Wallie Nelsen
Ft. Lauderdale News

We got some news for all you Scandinavians. Leif Eriksen has finally come into his own in the state of Florida, and it is now official that Oct. 9 each year, will be known as Leif Eriksen Day. This was brought about through the efforts of State Senators Charles (Chuck) Weber of Fort Lauderdale and Beth Johnson of Cocoa, State Representatives Joe Gustafson, Fort Lauderdale and Robert Johnson of Sarasota. The resolution passed the legislature June 4.

Congress gave the President authorization in 1964 to proclaim Oct. 9 as Leif Eriksen Day, but it needed state compliance, which we now have. Thank you, Chuck and Joe, and we know all Scandinavians will also be happy about this.

It is pretty well established that Leif Eriksen was the first visitor to the North American continent.

But in our eyes it does not lessen Christopher Columbus' achievement, Chris did something about it when he got here about 300 years later, while Leif ... and raised hell, ... rope. So, there ... enough to boast ... Oct. 1 and ... couple of days ...

Junior football registration has shown increase

JB—Over thirty young people turned out to sign up for football in Jensen Beach as the registration of youth for junior league play got off to a healthy start last weekend.

Registration for the two Jensen football teams will continue through this week, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. daily at Langford Park.

All boys living north of the Roosevelt Bridge are eligible to play on the Jensen teams, must be born between 1956 and 1961, have a birth certificate and be accompanied by a parent to sign on his behalf. Registration and insurance fee is ten dollars.

Maximum weight in the lower division will be 130 pounds, including ten pounds of equipment (boys, then, must weigh 120 or less), and in the upper division of 170 pounds including equipment.

The season will begin on October 9.

JB- The Van Nortwicks are new neighbors in Jensen Beach, now living at 555 Indian River Drive. They are former residents of New Mouth, N.J.

FACULTY ALL-AMERICAN—The Dolphins' starting offensive line for the annual Dolphin-Faculty football game are students and faculty members of St. Joseph's College. Herbert Jones, president of the D & M Home Park Association has been a Association has been a patient in the Kettering Memorial Hospital for the past 3 weeks after undergoing serious surgery. We went to the hospital Sunday on our way back from Pittsburgh, Pa. and he and Thelma both asked that we thank all of those wonderful people who sent him cards and letters.

Herb is getting along nicely now and we hope he will soon be out of the hospital. We s're all praying for his speedy recovery and hope he will be able to return before long.

He will be glad to know what is going on here, so write him at 37 E. Wren Circle, Kettering, Ohio - 45420.

While in Erie, Pa. this summer I talked to Margaret Burrows, Lelia Tate, and also Grace White from Riverside, who many of our people know. The Borrow's are planning to come down soon, but the Tate's don't expect to come back this year. Perry has had a lot of trouble this summer with his legs.

The White's have sold their property and expect to come to Florida to live. Grace is still suffering a lot from arthritis.

I talked to Martha Duffy several times and Jim is going to the hospital for a check up and then they expect to arrive sometime this month.

I had several nice letters from Mrs. Jarrett and she was to enter the hospital Sept. 1st. They are looking forward to getting back soon.

We just arrived Sept. 1st accompanied by our 19 year old granddaughter Kathy Ritenour from Evans City, Pa. and I haven't had much time to gather news, but hope next weeks will be longer.

PATCHING — David Deer, president of Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, was found Sunday on the hot roof of the Chamber building, patching the leaking roof. Chamber officials recently found it would be impossible to repair the roof, and Deer took the patching measures to keep the weather out while Chamber officials decide what to do.

Over 30's

JH—A span of 50 years separated the oldsters from the youngsters in last Friday's Over Thirty League at Langford Park. With not enough over-thirties showing up to play, "Buck" Bolt from 14 to 64 were invited to take part in the fun and exercise games held each week.

The fun-fathers meet at 7:30 p.m. each Friday at the park for games, with Dr. Richard Penick as acting president. Games are expected to be played this week the fourth week of practice.

Bandstand is requested

Stuart— Steve Hunter, a member of the Feats Project Band, appeared before the Martin County Commission Tuesday asking for its assistance in acquiring a bandstand for jam sessions being held on the Stuart Causeway.

Hunter said that the band had to set up its $3,000 worth of equipment on top of a car so it wouldn't get rained in the said. The group hoped to be able to use the stand used in the Sailfish Regatta, but received strong opposition from Commissioner Timer Powers, who said the upkeep of moving the stand would be too costly.

However, the commission offered to help when Hunter told them that Deputy Sheriff Jim Mills and other deputies offered to donate the materials to build a stand.

"I'd like to work with you on it," said Commissioner Frank Aucha, "It's a good idea and I have faith in it."

The band started holding jam sessions two weeks ago on the Jensen Beach Causeway, but had to move to the Stuart Causeway two weeks ago because of complaints by local residents.

"It could save their jams because when we play we're pretty loud," Hunter said. The group has had no complaints while playing on Stuart Causeway, he pointed out.

County to study golf club

Stuart— The Martin County Commission acted to appoint a committee to study the operation and maintenance of the Martin County Golf and Country Club, together with County Attorney Bill Scott on Tuesday.

The action came when County Commissioner Bill Owens told the commission of a phone call he received on Saturday concerning students not being allowed to play on the golf course.

The original lease with the commission is still in effect with the public golf and country club, and has no amendment concerning students playing golf on the course on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The commission has been trying to add an amendment to the lease that students shall be charged $30 annually and may play any time.

The county and golf club has not been able to agree on an amendment covering students. Until such agreement is reached, students will be charged $6 for the right to play on weekends and holidays unless they play under their parents' membership.

Owens told the commission, "Since last November we have been working with the Martin County Golf and Country Club, and it has not been pleasant. We have not been able to agree on much of anything and the description of the membership was a hassle."

After Owens' remarks, Commissioner Paul Bryant suggested that the commission make the study to see what would be the best thing to do.

"The commission is taking some right out for the beginning," said Bryant, "but we do have a problem there that needs attention."

'Round the World' cruisers at Singapore

OB--We are all glad to hear from the Ocean Breeze 'Round the World' party. A letter to Mr. & Mrs. Hugh Burgess from Carole Chapman dated Aug. 22 - crossing the equator.

"It is 9:30 a.m. Sunday and we all dress for breakfast and Sunday service at 10 o'clock.

As soon as church is over we get into sports clothes again. It is very humid now. We are told it will be very hot until we leave Taiwan and I think that will be in about 3 weeks. We are due to arrive in Singapore on a Wednesday, Aug. 25th. It seems to have been a very hot lot of ocean since we left Africa.

I had very little time with my family in Cape Town. I had a very bad cold and had to stay in bed for a day and a half, so had little chance to visit them. I did manage to see two old friends and we flew to Johannesberg. (More about that later).

I have been teaching some of the women beadwork. We expect to buy all the beads we need in Hong Kong."

Love - Carole

Reids attend grand-daughter's wedding

Raymond and Lillian Reid, old time residents of Ocean Breeze, have just recently returned from Cedar Rapids where they attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Patricia Ann Reid to John Huey, Jr. son of Dr. John Huey of Cedar Rapids. Lillian describes the wedding:

"It was a real surprise to us when we were informed that we were to be the honored guests at the wedding. Reason? We were the brides only grandparents and from 'Way Down South'.

As we entered the church I was presented with a beautiful corsage, and Ray a white rose for his lapel. Entering the bakes room we had our first glimpse of the beautiful bride and all her attendants.

We were the first to be ushered down the long aisle followed by the bride's mother. After the ceremony a car was waiting to convey us to the Cedar Rapids Country Club where the reception was held for 300 guests. It was a happy experience to be greeted by so many people we have not seen for years.

On our trip home we made a stop at Winnetka, Illinois and visited friends and relatives and a grandniece Jo Reid, and his family. Our 8th great grandson was born at their home the day that we left.

Lillian concludes that she are glad to be back in Arcwa Dr., Ocean Breeze.

Tyler's return from Calif. and Pacific Northwest

OB--Fred and Hulda Tyler of Vista Drive returned on Aug. 17 from a vacation of more than 3 weeks spent visiting California and touring the Pacific Northwest.

In Los Angeles they visited Fred's sister, Mrs. Arthur Mac Lennan.

Their son Jack came down from San Francisco and drove them to his home for a visit, then they joined a Tauck Tour (arranged by the Jensen Beach Travel Service) for a 12 day motor coach trip through Oregon, Washington, British Columbia, and Alberta, ending in Calgary.

From there they took an overnight trip on the Canadian Pacific Railway to Winnipeg where they boarded a plane for their return to Florida.

Some of the highlights of their trip were; a visit to the Will Rogers State Park in Los Angeles; Hearst's Castle at San Simeon; the rose garden in Portland, Oregon; the Bonneville Dam and fish ladders there; Mount Hood, Lunch in the Space Needle in Seattle; the ferry across Puget Sound to Victoria, B.C. and the beauty of the Buchart Gardens in that city, the ferry across the Georgia Straits to Vancouver and a tour of that city, Harrison Springs where they stayed from there they followed the Trans-Canada Highway along the Fraser River, the Yoho and Kicking Horse National Forest and Glacier National Park. They spent a day at the beautiful Lake Louise and from there they followed the Banff-Jasper Highway to the Jasper National Park and the Columbia Ice Fields and the Icefalls of the Athabasca Glexier. They then travelled to Banff where they stayed for two days. The last stop on the tour was Calgary and after an overnight stop there started for home.

They report that vacation was a delightful one, they are glad to return to Ocean Breeze.

A continuation of Clyde Redinger's letter of last week.

"Leaving Iowa, we spent some time with Jay and Helen Bohannon at Richmond, Mo.

OB--Catherine and Rhonda Compsty flew in from New Iberia, N.S. Aug. 29. Mrs. Rhonda could attend High School. Catherine said their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Robinson brought them home from the W.P.B. airport.

Doreen Veer returned last week from Michigan with her nephew, Bruce Morris, and her sister, Mrs. Maxine Brower. The two have visited the National Forest and Glacier National Park. They spent a day at the beautiful Lake Louise and from there they followed the Banff-Jasper Highway to the Jasper National Park and the Columbia Ice Fields and the Icefalls of the Athabasca Glexier. They then travelled to Banff where they stayed for two days. The last stop on the tour was Calgary and after an overnight stop there started for home.

They report that vacation was a delightful one, they are glad to return to Ocean Breeze.

McDowalls summer in the North

OB--For a busy summer with their family in Detroit, Ethel and Bill McDowell decided they would like to see the states of Mass. and Conn. before returning to OB.

Going by way of Niagara Falls en route to Conn. they stopped in Forestville, Conn. to look up Louis and Elinor Pfersich who were visiting their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Wojick. In addition to the Wojick's three adopted children, they had their own grandchildren from New York City at their home to spend a vacation.

From there they went to the home of Pfersich's son, Louis Jr. who lives in Plainville, Conn.

Leaving Conn. they drove on to Merrimac, Mass. to visit the St. Onges, Martin and Buster, and Marian's sister, Harriet Hubbard. They now live in a beautiful Mobile Home on a large corner lot.

Buster suggested a trip to Bath, Maine, but due to the congested traffic conditions, they did not go. They visited with John and Ann Walsknis, who also winter in OB.

McDowells next stop was with Adm. and Mrs. Dewey Fitzgerald and a dear friend of theirs. They went to Plymouth to see the historical Rock, and the Pres. Kennedy Space Center.

Redingers in Arkansas

A continuation of Clyde Redinger's letter of last week.

"Leaving Iowa, we spent some time with Jay and Helen Bohannon at Richmond, Mo.

They are fine and Jay is anticipating good season. Impossible to tell much? Not for Jay.

Our beloved Petit has fallen on evil times. Mismanagement, neglect, corrupt politics, I believe, seem to be the downfall of this beautiful hotel. Interwoven with Petit's history. In 1928 I came with Dr. Jardine to Bear Cave while we explored mysterious caverns, strange geological wonders and the writings of aborigines on rock walls of the Sevier Canyons. Later he purchased part of the area and presented it as a nucleus for the Arkansas Oral State Park.

Our disappointment was negated by the delight the people who camp here showed the warm welcome of old friends among the Petit Jean People.

Down in the Gulf we stopped across a bridge on an island in the Arkansas River to fish. A lady who was there also fishing, and who we chatted somewhere about the Dardanelle Dam above. Before we realized the fact having never seen it cut off by a tremendous water way a city block wide and it was not very long ago a mere ripple.

So far the fishing is not here and I didn't even get a bite. Perhaps the fish will find them out.

Be seeing you all."

County sets water meet

There will be a special meeting of the Martin County Commission on Friday, Sept. 17, to hear a final report on the initial stages of the comprehensive water and sewage plan for the county.

The report will be aired at 1:30 p.m. by county hired consultants Adair and Brady, engineers, and Smith and Davis Associates, who have prepared the study.

Preliminary report led to a request by Commissioner Frank Wacha for an ordinance requiring small package plants built in the county to be turned over to the county when county water and sewage is installed.

The commission is not indicated as being unanimous in thought on the subject.

Emergency Medical Association formed

Stuart--The Martin County Emergency Medical Association was organized recently, according to the new president, James Dixon.

The purpose of the association is to serve as a clearing house for ideas and courses of action by and between the members. They hope to work together with higher medical associations and with governmental legislative bodies in a common effort toward providing efficient emergency medical care to the sick and injured.

Dixon feels that through this association the emergency squads can become more consistent and universal throughout Martin County. There are six emergency squads in Martin County at the present time, Dixon said.

"The men decided to form the group after we completed the Medical Emergency Technician course at Martin Memorial Hospital," commented Dixon, he added, "We still can use more members in the association."

The next technician course will begin September 27 at Martin Memorial Hospital, according to Dixon. The same night the association will hold its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Civil Defense office in Stuart.

Officers of the newly-formed association are president, James Dixon; vice-president, Frank Renebarg; secretary, Claire Seiker; treasurer, Ann Hardern; and sargeant at arms, Lloyd Baxter.

Members appointed as a board of directors are Joseph Zehr, Ralph Bellegatti, Lester Scherer, Philip Alguzzini, and Calvin Wiggins.

ANYONE FOR TENNIS COURTS?- The dangerous edge of concrete at Langford Park tennis courts point up the need for pouring concrete or asphalt to the fence line. The tall metal poles testify to the progress toward lighting the tennis courts for night play. Work started in one of the projects available for some civic-minded group at Langford Park.

Anyone want a project?

Tennis Courts need paving, more courts

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on projects that civic-minded community groups can take at Langford Park to improve facilities there.)

By DICK CAMPBELL

The concrete edge of the tennis court is about four feet from the fence, making it a danger to tennis players who flock to the tennis courts at Langford Park. The stark, blackened poles that stand watch over the two courts do not yet have lights installed.

Still, people come to play tennis, and the courts are there for the use of the people of Jensen Beach and Rio.

The courts are as much as could be done thus far with the volunteer labor and donated materials that have come the way of Langford Park, and they are an example of what can be prized by local people as a park that the people built.

There is little in tax dollars in the tennis courts, for county Commissioner Frank Wacha believes that if the people want to play tennis, they will organize and get the job done, with volunteer labor and donated materials.

That has been the secret of the success of Langford Park. Volunteers have built and those who can't work have donated to make the park the most complete community recreation facility in Martin County.

To complete the present two courts, concrete, or macadem, must be poured to the fence line. The present marl and gravel fill around the concrete slab makes it dangerous, and increases the risk of a twisted ankle.

"When we get the concrete poured, then we'll take on the lights. We have accomplished light fixtures, wiring and bulbs to light the courts at night. Volunteers have taken the job on, and those who like to play tennis at night will be able to play soon," Wacha said.

The commissioner plans another two courts in back of the present two to the north.

"We'll make those asphalt, and we have the ground already prepared for the second two courts," Wacha said.

It means that the entire volunteer labor-materials job begins again to make the tennis court area large enough to hold clinics and tournaments in the park. It also means another effort to get the materials and labor donated.

The asphalt will have to be laid out, markings put down, a net stretched across, fencing put up around the new courts, and the battle for lighting for night play will begin again.

But it will be done, by some civic group, as tennis buffs are just to be fattened, according to Wacha.

"We had one group that started off. They said to get the poles and they would put up the lights. We got the poles, but somehow the tennis craze seemed to lose interest.

"Now more and more tennis buffs are looking for ways to play at night, especially with the shorter daylight hours. I expect that someone will take on the second lighting project, and with it the second two courts will come fast," Wacha said hopefully.

It has been that way at Langford Park. Somebody will do what is needed out of sheer civic pride, or because they want to play.

Anyone want a project? The tennis courts at Langford Park are just one of many at the park that are available for some group that wants a permanent project of community value. Large and small, the projects are there for the asking. Ask Frank Wacha. He would welcome the help.

STRINGING - Dick Kerber tied the cable into the pole as tennis courts lights took a step nearer completion last weekend at Langford Park.

SETTING UP--Billy Roberts was one of the volunteers who started putting up lights for tennis courts at Langford Park last weekend. Here, he raises reinforcing cable to the pole.

Cleaning up visual pollution: electricity is part of the solution.

What happens to once-faithful flivvers when they're too old for the road? Too often they become junk, great ugly piles of rusting metal. But modern Americans want to live in a beautiful, clean environment.

And electricity is helping.

Electric compactors crush junked cars into almost solid blocks of metal which are melted down and shaped into useful new products. Visual pollution is reduced. And our society's resources are wisely recycled.

At FPL we're busy planning and building to provide the electricity for your needs as well as for the important job of improving the environment. Cleaning the air, cleaning the water, treating sewage, converting the ugly junkpiles: electricity is part of the solution.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Proctor attended the wedding of their grandson, Dennis Proctor of Jensen Beach and Debra Markert of Arlington, Va., at Arlington on Aug. 14. They left here on Aug. 14 and visited with a son and two daughters in Erie, Pa., and University Park, Pa., then came back to Va. and attended the rehearsal dinner given by Dennis' parents on Aug. 27.

The wedding and reception on the 28th was a grand climax to their trip and they came back to D&M tired but very happy.

George returned home with them and after visiting a while there he went on to see his brother, who has been quite ill. He flew back home Aug. 31.

John Wilde, who has been in the hospital for surgery, has returned to his home at Fox River Grove, Ill. We're sure he would like to hear from some of their friends here. His address is Box 11, Fox River Grove, Ill. 60021.

Florida's operating expenses

Tallahassee: The cost of operating Florida's government amounted to $321.4 billion in July, according to Fred O. (Bud) Dickinson Jr., Florida's Comptroller.

State spending was almost $23 million more than Florida's operating cost last July. This was a jump of 29.1 per cent, the comptroller's report showed.

Dickinson reported that salaries for the month increased 15.7 per cent, as the state issued pay checks for a total of $45.4 million.

Welfare assistance increased 25.4 per cent over the amount spent last July, spending this year amounted to $ 12.2 million.

Unemployment compensation amounted to $5.1 million in the 119,221 Floridians receiving such benefits.

To refund employees, a total of 28,342, the state paid $1.7 million in benefits.

Ordinance drawn for utility districts

Stuart- The Martin County Commission moved last week to follow the recommendation of Commissioner Frank Wacha in setting up utility districts in unincorporated areas of Martin County.

After board members agreed with Wacha's recommendation, they instructed A.R. Scott, county attorney, to draw up a resolution establishing utility districts in all the unincorporated areas, create an ordinance requiring utility companies that offer water service to provide sewer hookups as well, and also require future applicants of package sewer plants agree to add the plant into the public system at no additional cost to the public.

The commission hopes to control the water and sewage utility rates in Martin County that are not covered by the State Department of Public Utilities. Later, after the resolutions are drawn up, the commission will hold a public hearing, it was indicated.

Donna Roode enters college as sophomore

Lakeland--Miss Donna Roode, Scottoff, college student, one of Stuart's students from Stuart, will leave for Evansville.

They became sophomores automatically in passing a battery of tests at the college. Dean Lloyd Armstrong said the examinations determine the grade level of college students and not their age or years spent in college.

The test covers four areas, English usage, reading, the humanities, mathematics and science and history.

Donna is the daughter of Stuart and her two brothers, Dennis and Dale, are also students at the college this year.

Venture Out news notes

By HARRY HAUSMAN

Hello again and it sure is good to be back home at Venture Out after a wonderful vacation for the past two months.

With Labor Day weekend over, the kids all back in school again, and everyone back to their regular routine, the summer is just about over.

Fisherman's Boulevard, Snook Drive and Wahoo Road are looking better all the time. All the lawns are green and well kept, with flowers and shrubs in full bloom. It certainly shows that the residents who were here all summer have been working real hard and deserve a vote of thanks for a job well done.

The new mobile homes that have been set up and the landscaping that has been completed sure has made an improvement to the Park.

Pat and Howie Homer recently returned from Long Island after spending several months vacationing up north.

Dot and Andy Gerard returned once again from Maryland, but plan on another vacation before spending the winter at Venture Out.

Bobbie and Bill Ostertag are back again and plan on making Venture Out their permanent residence now.

Selma and Joe Valero have been spending the summer in the Catskill Mountains in N.Y. and plan on an early return this fall to Venture Out.

Dot and Sam Tucker are in Mass.; are also looking forward to getting back to Florida real soon.

Theo and Bruce Slagel are back again from Pa. and are looking forward to an enjoyable winter at Venture Out.

Helen and Roy Williams drove down from N.J., however they are leaving again about the middle of September. Hurry back again so you don't miss all the fun and activities with the mobile home group this winter.

Debbie Blesch arrived recently to stay with her parents, Betty and Charles Blesch. Welcome to Venture Out, Debbie, and we all hope you have a most enjoyable stay with us.

New arrivals in Venture Out Mobile Home Park are Lois and Harold Manning. They were formerly from Ohio, but now call Florida their home. They recently moved into a mobile home on Snook Drive and look forward to a real enjoyable future.

Lois and Harold are the new owners of the Venture Out and Holiday Out store and marina. Best of luck in your new venture and welcome to Venture Out.

Pat and Rick Keller and their children are now residing at Tropical Acres in Jensen Beach. Best of luck and happiness in your new home, Pat and Rick.

We have been informed that the necessary funds have been authorized with approval by Gulf to build the new swimming pool and recreation hall for Venture Out Mobile Home Park. This is good news and we hope construction starts real soon so we can enjoy these facilities.

Linda and Bob Burke from Pa. spent a week with Theo and Bruce Slagel. They enjoyed the ocean swimming and sure hated to leave Venture Out and return home.

On Labor Day the Venture Out group held a lawn party and old fashioned picnic on Wahoo Road between the homes of Ostertag and Gerard.

Everyone brought a covered dish and the cookout of steaks, pork chops, hamburgers and hot dogs was enjoyed by all. All the drinks were individually supplied.

Present from Wahoo Road were the Havinets, Gerards, Ostertags, Autenreiths, and Slagels. From Fisherman's Boulevard were the Smythes, and Williams. Snook Drive residents present were the Blesch's, Homers, Jones', and the Hausmans.

In between showers, lawn darts were played by a number of guests and enjoyed by both contestants and spectators as well. The patio was a convenient spot for conversation and socializing during the downpour.

After a tremendous dinner, music was supplied by Bill Ostertag at the organ

Senior citizens get cemetery lot pitch

By DICK CAMPBELL

Local residents were warned this week of a cemetery lot pitch being made by a Vero Beach cemetery firm offering a "senior citizens award" in which the recipient is supposed to have "won" a cemetery lot.

"I've been to Vero Beach only once to play golf," said George Jeffs, 304 Molim Dr. "I don't even know where they got my name and address."

Jeffs said that he and his wife received a call from the cemetery firm making an appointment to present him with his "senior citizen's award." Jeffs said he asked if there was something to buy involved, but was told that there was nothing to buy.

He asked where the firm had received his name, and was told it was received through a "survey."

"The man said I had won a cemetery plot. When he came he said that they were going to bury people in stacks of three, two caskets wide, or six persons in each plot.

"He also said that I would receive a reduction on my portion of the vault that went over it. Then he said my wife could be buried there and I would receive a reduction if I wanted to trade the lot I won for a plot so that I could be buried with my wife."

Jeffs said there was a special discount offered for cremation and another offer that the funds invested in cemetery lots at the cemetery being transferable to almost any cemetery in the United States if he changed his mind about being buried in the cemetery.

"I want to warn senior citizens all around of this. Some might get caught in this trap," Jeffs said.

The Mirror is investigating the "free-plot" senior citizen award in connection with the Vero Beach Press Journal. Complaints have been filed with the Chamber of Commerce at Jensen Beach and Vero Beach on sales practices of the firm.

Tom Wyatt will head Kiwanis

JB—Tom Wyatt, investigator for the Department of Agriculture, will be installed as president of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Friday evening at installation banquet ceremonies at the Crow's Nest Restaurant.

Final details of the installation were announced at the Monday meeting of the group at Frances Langford's Outrigger restaurant.

Leonard Smith, elected vice-president, will make his installation as he is a pallbearer in Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

To be installed as secretary is Buck Mauldin, and Hank Wade will be installed as treasurer.

The event will begin with a social hour from six to seven p.m., followed by the banquet.

At the Monday meeting, Sr. Thomas Joseph, SSJ, president of St. Joseph College, told the Kiwanians that the five-year-old college was working toward an enrollment of 600 students at capacity. She outlined the programs of the college, calling it a place where students can receive individual help from a faculty she called "a fine dedicated group of people."

The college president said that the college was being "selective" and was "calling the shots" in establishing rules by which students are governed.

"Education can't go hand in hand with activist activity," she said. "We have made that clear to the students."

She added that the students have responded to the way they are being treated, adding that the teaching of ecology includes more than book learning. "We teach them how to live, too," she said.

Sr. Thomas Joseph said that the facilities of the college, and the campus, are open to people for visits for use. She invited the Kiwanians to use the "library, pool, auditorium, or any facility you desire for your activities."

Excellent opportunity

The City of Stuart, in an effort marked by several years of trial and tribulation, has approved a $1.75 million bond issue to produce a modern tertiary treatment sewage and a water system for the area. It is a step forward in the city recognition of its important role in Martin County.

The need for the system is obvious. The timing is perfect. The motive is unrestrained civic responsibility. The city commission is united.

We are pleased and proud to be nearby at a time such as this.

As we write, and the City of Stuart plans its new additions and updating of the system, effluent from the city's sewage plant, high in chemical content, pours on the beaches of the St. Lucie River along the city shoreline.

That effluent, dumping out of a giant pipe just two blocks from the Martin County Courthouse, will stop as soon as the new system is installed.

We believe that the City of Stuart has taken a giant stride forward, and that same city can be a leader in the new idealism of environmental protection in Florida.

The City of Stuart was allowed to dump its effluent, in violation of Florida health laws, on the beach. It was allowed to do so by the Florida Department of Health. The pollution of the river has gone on over the years, with the recognition and benign permission of the health authorities.

But the city recognized the need for a system that would handle the city's growth as well as its present population. With the help of that same health department, but despite its apathetic enforcement of the law, the City of Stuart took the first step toward a cleaner river, and with that a potentially healthier population.

The commission of the city has from time to time been taken to task for an attitude of bickering, division and counter-punching of which there has been no rival in decades. Perhaps that has been in the best interests of the city. Perhaps strength has come from the internal struggles for the minds of the citizenry.

None can doubt that the city commission is not made up of people who have "minds of their own"; nor can anyone doubt that the step taken to bring about adequate, modern sewage treatment and water service is not a giant step in the right direction.

Barbed wire dangers

Luckily, it was a commercial fisherman who caught the coils of barbed wire in his net, Carney Forgy, a Port Salerno fisherman, turned up coils of barbed wire in his nets last week while netting just north of Willoughby Creek.

We say "luckily" because Forgy was not a water-skier falling on the tangled mass of sharp-pointed steel. The damage to his nets was minimal, since he was careful in disengaging the wire from the finely tied knots in the netting.

Forgy thinks that the culprit who placed the barbed wire in the river doesn't want commercial fishermen netting in the river.

Steel can roll, and tides can move the steel from one point of the river to another. The dangers to the man who water-skis in the river mount with each day that a coil remains in the water.

These coils found have not been in the water long. Others that may remain will rust with the time and salt water corrosion, becoming more and more deadly as time passes.

Somehow, the river should be cleared of the barbed wire coils. Action should be taken before someone is badly hurt by the wire.

In the meantime, commercial fishermen and water skiers ply their activities in constant fear.

Whoever put the barbed wire in the river has committed a hateful crime against nature and the people of this area. If found, the person should receive the fullest prosecution of the law.

I forget things

One time I went shopping with my wife, took her into Publix, went down the row of stores, bought a pair of shoes, got in the car and drove home.

All the way home I knew I had forgotten something. As I pulled into the driveway, I suddenly realized that Oma was missing. I drove all the way back, parked the car, and went into the store. She was cheering out.

"Just in time," she said cheerily.

I said nothing.

I just forget things, that's all. I didn't dare tell her. Even when she asked why the car was in a different place, I just mumbled, as I usually do, and drove on.

Once I went out to play golf, and left my clubs in the garage. Often, as I go down to the ballpark for the over-30 fat man's workout, I'll remember as I pull up to the field that I left my baseball glove in the garage. I drive back, pick up the glove, and return to the park.

It has come to the point that my absent mindedness is taken for granted, by me and everyone.

When I pull such a thing, like the time I went to take a picture, arriving at the place only to find that my camera is back at the office on my desk, I just shrug, jump back into the car, and have a pleasant drive back to the office. It has become a way of life with me.

Like going down to Johnny's to ball out the skiff, and forgetting the cut-off plastic milk jug that we bail with, or dwelling that the walk to the Chamber of Commerce meeting from my office will do me some good, and finding when I get there that my note pad is either in the car or in the office.

Now I plan things ahead. It drives some people nuts, but this way I am backed up all around the place.

When I go to bed at night, I stack up all my stuff. My wallet goes first, my note pad on top, my keys, fingernail clipper, and comb go on the left, and my change and lighter on the right. My glasses are set crosswise over the mass.

If anything gets moved in the night, or the next morning, I would leave it in the other place on the dresser for a week before remembering it.

I have a pattern for dressing, and if I miss a part of the routine, I am dead. The telephone rang in the middle of dressing one morning. I answered it, forgetting to remember where I was in the ritual, and went the whole day without a belt. More often than not I'll walk into the office and someone will patiently ask why I have one maroon shoe and one black shoe on, or why the two black shoes are not matching.

I still get funny notes about the time at Tallahassee when I was to go to a dressy dinner and had forgotten my cufflinks. Another time I brought the suit coat to one suit and the pants to another. That is why I carry the mess I carry in my suitcase, back-up stuff for the stuff I forget.

In the past week I made two calls, one to Ransom Tilton and one to Dick Neeson and forgot why I called.

Perhaps the most embarassing thing is to pick up the phone while thinking of something, change the thought in the middle of the call, and when the person answers wonder who I called.

"Who is this?" I would ask. The other end, being careful, would answer, "Who do you want?" So I hang up, and even if I did remember later I wouldn't replace the call for a day so that the person wouldn't think I was the stupid one.

So, I make lists. My lists are famous. It makes me put down what to do, who to call, where to go, what is needed, what to bring, and all that. Then I check off the things that I do as I do them. Sometimes I forget and don't check them off. That, too is embarassing when I make the same call twice.

The reason that this came up, and I have decided to tell all, is that I came in the office this morning and set to work, and I can't find my list. I forgot my belt again, and I need a haircut.

Wage-Price freeze questions and answers

Q. I'll be getting out of the Army in two weeks and returning to my old job. Can I receive the pay increases I would have gotten if I had not been in the service?

A. Yes. Veterans returning to their pre-military employment during the freeze are entitled to all the pay increases that they would have received had they not served in the military. Employees are hired at the pay scale in existence during the 30-day base period of July 16 to August 14.

Q. Is the Internal Revenue Service the only place where you can get information on the wage-price freeze?

A. No. Information on the freeze and assistance with complaints is provided at the 10 Regional Service Centers of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, and the more than 2800 offices of the Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, as well as 360 Internal Revenue Service local service and compliance centers throughout the country.

Q. Are welfare payments covered by the freeze?

A. No. Welfare payments are not covered by the freeze. They are not payments for services rendered and, therefore, are not wages.

Q. I'm a teacher. During the summer I received my master's degree and, as a result, I was to receive a pay increment this fall. Can I still get it?

A. Yes. Pay increments for teachers who receive their master's and other scheduled pay raises dependent upon employees completing certain educational requirements may be paid during the freeze, because these actions are bona fide promotions. The employer, however, must be able to certify that such an agreement was in existence, if the effective date of the teacher's contract is after August 15, the increment must be no more than the amount that was granted last year.

Q. Can my city government increase rates for gas and electricity?

A. No. State or local governments may not increase charges or fees for government-provided services. However, state and local tax rates, and fees for licenses or legal penalties, such as traffic tickets, are not frozen.

Q. Can merchants pass on to consumers the cost of an increase in state or local taxes?

A. No. This is not permitted during the freeze.

Q. What are some food products not under the freeze?

A. Raw agricultural products, such as fresh fruits and vegetables, fresh meat and seafood, honey, and products that retain the physical appearance they possessed when they left the farm are not covered by the freeze. All other agricultural and food products, such as frozen foods, staple meats, and others would be considered processed and subject to the freeze.

Q. The lease on my apartment is about to expire, I know my landlord has raised rents for other tenants in similar apartments. Can he now raise my rent?

A. No. If a tenant's lease expires, his rent may not be raised to the level charged by new tenants in similar units.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I note that in an article about the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce [illegible] state that only one person, Mrs. Price, has ever been awarded an honorary lifetime membership in the Chamber.

You have overlooked the fact that my wife, Oma Whitney and myself, Charles Whitney were given lifetime memberships on March 1, 1968.

These awards were given to us in recognition for helping the now annual Jensen Beach Art Festival.

We have our membership cards signed by our friend, John Fowler.

Yours truly,
Carleton F. Whitney

'More Stock Shocks'

Soon after the ink dried on the column about the stock market a couple of weeks ago, the phone rang.

"Don't you know," the caller said, "that you can buy stocks now through funds that will insure you against loss?"

I had to confess that I didn't.

"Would you like to know more about it?" he said.

I had to confess that I did.

"Are you selling these things, or what," I said.

"No," the caller answered, and hung up. I lit a pipe and tried to think of Other Things.

Anyway, I dug around a little to get some information and I'll pass it along with the idea that it might be of interest.

To you, not to me.

It seems that at least one mutual fund (and I won't mention any names because I'm not trying to promote these things) now offers investors the option of buying insurance against a decline in the value of their holdings.

Really.

Say-how-do-they-do-that?

Well, let's say that you own $3,000 of a fund, okay? And because you're a nervous type who shouldn't have taken the plunge in the first place, you want to make doggone sure that your little nest-egg won't be worth less than that amount in, say, ten years, right?

So you buy insurance. And this will cost you around 180 clams, plus 60 more for "administrative costs" for a total of 240 bucks for the ten years, or about 24 dollars a year. So now you've plunked down the 3 grand for the stocks, plus another $240 for a total of $3240, and so what's the big deal you say.

Well, apparently the big deal is that if, after ten years has passed, your investment isn't worth at least the $3240, the insurance company will pay you the difference.

Isn't that wonderful?

No, it's not, because if you'd taken that 3 grand and invested it in one of the savings institutions paying, say, 5 3/4 percent, and left it there for the same ten years, you would have earned an additional $1785, so that now your little nest egg would be worth $4725. And you wouldn't have to pay extra for insurance, either, saving that additional 240 bucks. So then you might say that your little nest egg was worth a total of $4965 instead of $3240.

Quite a difference.

Of course there are those who will say that a stock investment is bound to appreciate more than 5 3/4 percent a year.

Well, based on the market's recent painful history, maybe it will and maybe it won't.

But for those who might still be interested, it seems that by this fall almost 30 of the more popular mutual funds will be offering this type of insurance against loss to their wary investors. And one of the features that may appeal to some is the fact that you don't have to bother making the insurance payments yourself. They will be made for you, automatically, by the fund, out of dividends and capital-gains distributions.

"But what," you aks, "if there are no dividends or capital-gains distributions?"

Ah.

Then you pay it, dear heart, and that's where the rub comes in.

Another rub that may not be obvious at the start, is the fact that you should not buy the coverage at all unless you plan to keep the fund intact for the full ten years. Otherwise, if you drop out, you'll lose both your coverage, and ALL payments.

Ah, again.

Still interested? Well, if you are, you'll find that you can now buy investment insurance in 36 states including Florida. And the big insurance companies are lobbying now to get authorization to peddle investment insurance in additional states including Texas, California, New York, and Massachusetts. And the insurance boys wouldn't be so gung-ho about this deal if they weren't making quite a few bucks off of it...

Lotsa luck.

SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTED- James Crook, assistant vice-president of the Bank of Stuart, presented a $250 scholarship last week to Ricky Ford, a 1971 graduate of Martin County High School, now a student at Indian River Community College. Last spring the bank presented Gale Clipa with a $250 scholarship to attend IRCC, and recently awarded Diane Sayles of Amityville, N.Y., a $250 scholarship to attend St. Joseph College in Jensen Beach.

Boating course opens with record attendance

JB- A record number of 202 men and women of all ages enrolled in the free boating course of the St. Lucie River Power Squadron, which opened at the Stuart Middle School last Tuesday evening. The course will continue for 11 weeks.

The heavy turnout was nearly double the registration expected, according to Lt. Commander Robert E. Wallace, educational officer in charge of the project.

Commander Wallace said that due to the heavy turnout, the registration would be closed.

Carlo C. Casale, chairman of the Squadron's local board for piloting, under whose auspices the annual course is held, said that plans to care for a larger number of students next year would be set in motion "at once."

The course offers an extra added attraction to local boaters, with the announcement that at the completion of the course, the highest scoring student will receive a free week's outing on one of Waterbird's houseboats, a rental firm located in Jensen Beach.

The boat to be offered is a 23-foot craft, completely equipped.

Schreck-Winebrenner rites held at Community Church

FR- The wedding of Miss Bobbie Lou Winebrenner to Tim Schreck was held Friday, September 3, at the Jensen Beach Community Church.

Rev. Donald E. Johnson officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony, held at 8 p.m. in the evening.

The new Mrs. Schreck is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Winebrenner, Loop Road, Palm City. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. LeBarr Schreck, 223 Linda Drive, Jensen Beach.

The altar was decorated with two baskets of pompom mums and white candelabras on each side.

Violet Chapman, organist, played the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white crisp pique with bishop sleeves, with doyle medallion hand sewn into the three-quarter lenght veil. She carried a white cascade of yellow mergerel daisies on a white Bible.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Sarah Lockwood, who a floor-length gown of apricot, with bishop sleeves, and a yellow veil. She carried a cascade of yellow mergerel daisies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Winebrenner chose a blue knit, A-line dress, highlighted by a blue orchid.

Wright-Baker vows were exchanged

Jill — Miss Sharon Ann Baker became the bride of Orville Lacy Wright in a double ring ceremony Sept. 18 at Jensen Beach Community Church. The Rev. Donald E. Johnson, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Baker of Ridge Road. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Wright of Stuart are parents of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of brown velvet trimmed in beige lace. Her headpiece was of lace, and she carried a nosegay of white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Helen Kay Kleinfeld was matron of honor. Her floor length gown was of maroon with beige lace. Her headpiece was beige, and she carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies.

James K. Bruner served as best man. Ushers were Robert Fenlon and William Beckman.

Mrs. Violet Chapman was organist, playing traditional wedding selections.

Mrs. Baker's gown was of coral chiffon, street length. She had a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a light green sheer street length dress, with a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at Fellowship Hall, with Miss Kathy Elliott, Miss Jackie Wortham, Miss Bonnie Haire and Mrs. Jack Addy serving.

Following a trip through Florida, the newlyweds will be at home in Tampa.

The new Mrs. Wright is a graduate of Martin County High School and Indian River Community College. Wright is also a MCHS graduate. He is a Navy veteran and is now attending the University of South Florida, Tampa.

Rev. Johnson is SMF counselor

Jill — The Rev. Dwight E. Johnson is now a Volunteer Counselor Consultant for the Scientific Marriage Foundation, a charitable educational organization which has served 10,000 newly married persons.

Its founder says, after 18 years of operation, it sees that one out of every two marriages will end in divorce. SMF is an interfaith foundation with its volunteer board members including Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

Any eligible unmarried person of good character is welcome to the counseling, according to Rev. Johnson.

Inlet shifts 300' east

Stuart — The St. Lucie Inlet has shifted three hundred feet to the east of the former channel, according to Army engineers who have been surveying the inlet channel.

The new course proves that a navigable channel is open for boaters who can find it. The mean low water depth of the channel is 5.8 to 6.8 feet, providing enough depth to permit boat traffic.

Buoys will be moved according to the engineer, who said that the discovery of the passage made it possible to hold off dredging of the inlet until November or December. The hopper dredge Merritt is due for maintenance dredging between November 15 and December 15, in time for the annual Stuart Sailfish Tournament December 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Waldo are back home on Sandra Drive after spending the summer at their lake home.

Moodys are new neighbors

Jill — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moody are new neighbors, now living at 1811 Riddle Drive. They have been here for six weeks.

Their former home was in Middletown, N.J., where Moody was a mechanic/buyer with the Jersey Central Power Co. for 8 years.

ENGAGED--Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wyatt of Jensen Beach announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Leilani, to George Apostolopoulos of Stuart. She is a graduate of Martin County High School and he is a local contractor and developer. The wedding will be held Friday, October 22 at [illegible] at Jensen Beach Community Church. No invitations will be sent but all friends are invited to the wedding.

Golf course accepts student fee project

Stuart: Students in or from Martin County will be able to play golf at Martin County Golf and Country Club for a special student fee of thirty dollars, according to terms of an amendment to the county lease with the operators.

The operators balked at the student play, trying to get them to avoid playing on weekends or holidays, but the county was adamant in its position that the students should be able to play at any time.

Commissioner Bill Owens commented at the Tuesday meeting that the golf course board acted "when we talked about taking the golf course over and running it ourselves."

Another amendment under construction sets fees for the play of persons at five dollars per round in summer and seven dollars in winter.

Resident membership fees were set at $150 for a single and $225 for double membership. Non-resident fees are $185 single and $280 double.

There will be a resident discount card available for ten dollars entitling the resident to play thirty times "during the fiscal year."

The county will take final action on the second amendment on September 28.

New jail working

Stuart: The new jail had 54 inmates last week and looks forward to a capacity occupancy according to a report given the county commission by Bill Owens.

Owens said there were a few minor problems, but added that the new jail was working out well, was operating with efficiency, and said that discipline was not a problem at the newest county building.

Deputy Ray Hateley said that there were a few leaks in the building, but that the problems were minor, and should be worked out soon.

Fire Department sponsors school poster contest

The over 600 posters are expected to be entered in a Fire Prevention Week poster contest being sponsored by the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department for children of Jensen Beach School.

The contest is being sponsored in an effort to make the youngsters aware of Fire Prevention Week according to Leo Wilkie, Chairman. The week will be Oct. 4-9.

The contest ends Monday, Sept. 27, at which time the posters will be picked up and judged by the firemen. Prizes will be given in six groups, three dollars first prize, two dollars second prize and one dollar for third prize. All winning posters will be on display in businesses throughout the Jensen Beach area.

Prizes will be presented to the winners by the fire department when it holds one of its fire drills at the school during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-8, Wilkie said.

The public is always welcome to view the facilities of the fire department from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. during the week and from 8 until 12 noon on Saturdays. A special invitation is issued during Fire Prevention Week.

Samaritans seek new members for service on free ambulance

The volunteers are needed to assist the Jensen Beach Ambulance, according to Al Phinney, president.

Applicants should be 21 years of age or older and in good condition. Retired people are needed for the daytime shifts, Phinney said, adding that the membership hopes also to get young people involved in the emergency organization.

A course will be held for interested attendants within the next few weeks. Volunteers are asked to call Mrs. Gene Oliver 287-2068.

on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

A special pageant, produced for the second year, will feature the landing of the Vikings, their encounter with the American Indians, Norwegian folk dancing by the Letkar-ring Dancers of Ft. Lauderdale, and a public dance to folk music. It will begin at 1 p.m., ending at 5:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the Sons of Norway lodges of Florida, from Ft. Lauderdale, Miami, Orlando, and Ft. Pierce-Jensen Beach, the Leif Eriksen Day ceremonies are steeped in the cultural heritage of the Norsemen. Though the official, state proclaimed day is October 9, it is celebrated on the Sunday closest to that day.

Over 500 members of the Sons of Norway, wearing colorful native costumes, will be at the Jensen Beach Causeway for the day of celebration. Dignitaries from the state, and national offices will be present, as will many elected officials.

General Chairman of the day is Richard Campbell, editor of The Mirror, Honorary Chairman is Ralph Evinrude, chairman of the board of Outboard Marine Corporation.

Taxing districts delayed

Stuart- A decision on the approval of taxing districts to align with Martin County voting districts was delayed by the Martin County Commission Tuesday awaiting information to be gathered by the county administrator, county attorney and chairman of the finance committee. Answers to questions will be presented at the next regular meeting of the board.

Only two persons from the public were present at the public hearing which had been advertised. Approval of the changes would allow the levying of taxes, under state statutes, to pay for fire protection, police protection, health and sanitation, street lighting, roads, and other items in each district.

"The real object of the taxing district is that the funds are spent in the taxing district, itself," Commissioner Frank Wacha said. Wacha also pointed out that the tax assessor is entitled to a commission, or fee, and questioned where the money was to come from if the move were approved now.

"A transfer of funds out of existing districts seems to be the answer," Wacha said, adding that the commissioners might have to set up a new budget to do this.

Commissioner William Owens brought up the subject of reapportionment, asking if it should be done at this time in conjunction with the taxing districts change. County Attorney Bill Scott said he will research the question of reapportionment and make a report.

The matter was then tabled until the next meeting of the commission.

Hearing October 14

Health issued sewage permit without water

JB- The Martin County Health Department issued a sewer plant permit to the developer of a nine-story condominium on the Hutchinson Island end of the Jensen Beach Causeway recently, and County Commissioner Frank Wacha wants to know how the permit was issued when there is no water to the site to handle the plant.

This development came on the heels of an announcement by Commission Chairman Dr. Bill Myers that the long awaited public hearing of the Senate and House Health Committees on lax health law enforcement in the area would be on October 14, beginning at 10 a.m. in the county commission meeting room.

Wacha asked that County Administrator Jack Noble and County Zoning Director Tom Higgins contact the State Division of Health to find out "how the sewer package plant was approved, and on what contingency, and report back to this board."

"If it was approved on the contingency of availability of water, then our building permit should be approved on the same contingency," Wacha said, "It's basically impossible to operate without water."

Noble said earlier that the health officials told him that "the developer met the requirements by water being on the island- that was their rationale."

The water line on the island is over a mile east at A-1-A from the site, and there is a utility request on file with the Department of Transportation to gain access to the point from the road, but no utility permit has been issued. The request is from Ecological Utilities, the firm that supplies the island with water, a firm that this week was revealed might be in financial troubles.

Myers later reported to the commission that the health hearing would be held in the commission chambers on October 14, asking that anyone who would like to be heard and present a position and evidence on lax health law enforcement to get in touch with the office of the county administrator for a position on the agenda.

Myers said that Sen. Kenneth Myers, Miami, had notified him of the meeting. The ad hoc Senate committee on health is made up of Kenneth Myers, chairman; Sen. Beth Johnson and Sen. Phil Lewis, West Palm Beach. The House health ad hoc committee is made up of Dr. Richard Hodes, Tampa representative; Rep. Ernest Tubbs, Cocoa Beach, and an unnamed representative.

The hearing is the result of county commission dissatisfaction with the response of the Florida Division of Health to charges of lax health law enforcement by the commission, and a series of charges revealed in The Mirror over a period of three months, beginning last March.

JB- Residents of the local service area of The Jensen Beach Mirror will be able to receive The Mirror by motor route delivery, beginning October 7. Much of the mail delivery of The Mirror is expected to switch over to the Wednesday afternoon route.

Home delivery will be available in Jensen Beach, Rio, Sewall's Point, North River Shores, Palm Lake Park, Beau Rivage, and Walton and Eden.

Circulation rates for home delivery will be the same as in mail circulation, $5 per year and $3 for six months.

New subscribers to The Mirror can fill out the form and enclose a check for the subscription desired.

This is the first time that The Mirror, last year recognized as Florida's Best Weekly Newspaper by the Florida Press Association, has offered home delivery.

Public meeting set for beaches

Stuart--A public meeting to gather information about beach conditions in Martin County will be held at the court house at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, October 6, ac

Wednesday, October 6.

Interested parties are invited to present written statements about erosion, accretion, storm damage and other changes and events, according to William M. Sensabaugh, engineer for the Bureau of Beaches and Shores, Department of Natural Resources. He and James A. Purpura will attend the meeting, as will Dr. Walter R. Stokes of North River Shores.

Sensabaugh has requested documented information and photographs plus surveys showing the location of the mean high water line and other beach features so a decision can be made on a construction setback line along beaches of Martin County.

The Martin County Anglers Club will meet Monday, Oct. 4, at Elliott Museum at 7:30 p.m. Films on salmon fishing in British Columbia, and on Mitchell reels will be shown.

Question of the week

Do you think the number of dwellings on an acre should be limited?

"Yes, I do."
Mary Richardson

"Yes, I think they should be limited all over the state."
W.T. Hammond

"Yes. Stop 'em coming and don't make 'em too high."
Clyde Parsons

"Definitely. We moved to Jensen Beach to get away from the high density areas."
Ruth Earle

Tippy says

If the county commission doesn't take action soon to control beach buggies on Hutchinson Island, there won't be any sand dunes for me and my buddies to come to next Spring. Gosh, they're moving slower than...well, caterpillars.

Cook of the Week begins in Mirror

JB -- All women are expected to cook, at some time in their lives. Some cook because they have to, some because they want to and others because they love to.

In its new "Cook of the Week" feature series starting this week, The Mirror hopes to tempt its readers to try the favorite recipes of friends and neighbors. The reputation of a good cook is hard to hide, and The Mirror has asked local good cooks to share some of their special personal recipes that they just love to cook.

If you have a recipe that fits this category and would like to share it, contact Ruth Bowman at The Mirror, 287-7333 or at her home, 287-4502.

School fire drill is set

JB -- Fire drills are planned for the Jensen Beach School during Fire Prevention Week, October 4-9, according to the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department. Firemen will be on hand to conduct the drill and explain equipment to the students.

Prizes will be awarded at that time for the poster contest which the firemen sponsored at the school last week. Three prizes in each of six groups will be given, three dollars first prize, two dollars second, and one dollar for third prize.

Firemen judged the posters Tuesday night. Winning posters are on display in businesses throughout the Jensen Beach area.

Construction closes front of First Federal building

JB--Front doors of the offices that line the south side of Commercial Street in the First Federal building were closed and locked Monday morning as reconstruction on the stucco finish of the building front began.

Crews of workmen wearing hard-hats clambered over the face of the building, readying it for stucco, and loads of the wet cement began arriving. Red warning saw horses and signs warning of the danger of falling materials were used to close off the entrances to the offices.

Access to the building is from the west side, along side of Joan's Beauty Salon and from the Indian River Drive entrance to the new First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County building.

"We'll try to be out of the front by the end of the week, but even that is doubtful," said Jack Murray, construction supervisor for Nettis Construction, contractors on the job.

The parking lot in the rear of the building was cleaned up for the traffic that will come in the lot for the four businesses located in the building, Joan's Beauty Salon, Jensen Beach Travel, The Mirror, and First Federal's Jensen Beach office are in the building.

The greatest danger, according to Murray, is from falling tools and materials from the new second floor addition that is under construction.

BARRICADE--Sawhorses closed the front of the First Federal Building in Jensen Beach Monday as workmen began readying the front for stucco as the job enters a new phase. All store fronts are closed to the public during this phase, according to the contractor. Patrons must use the back doors.

Free art classes held each Wednesday

Reuter bill extends registration hours

Vero Beach, State Supervisor of Elections Dorothy Gilstrap has endorsed Sen. Cliff Reuter's bill which would allow county supervisors to extend normal voter registration hours during final pre-election weeks.

"I think this is a good bill, and I feel as one of that each supervisor should be given the authority to adapt his office's operation to local needs," Mrs. Gilstrap said.

Under a Vero Beach ordinance, the office of supervisor of registration is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, with additional hours for special elections.

Registration books will be closed Oct. 8 at 5 p.m. and reopened Oct. 25 at 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Nov. 2.

Applications for absentee ballots may be obtained from the office of the supervisor of elections in the courthouse annex in Fort Pierce (287-1916).

Our trip to the Orient

By HARRY AND IDA HAUSMAN

The S.S. Oregon Mail is a 563 foot long, 12,600 ton deluxe mariner class vessel with first class accomodations for 12 passengers. It carries a crew of 50, including 25 officers. Each stateroom has wall to wall carpeting, picture windows, radio and background music, twin beds sitting room area, two large wardrobes and private tile bath. There is a passenger lounge, library, card room, self service bar, attractive dining room, and a laundry equipped with automatic washer and dryer. Feature movies were frequently shown, with games, cards and cocktail parties scheduled almost daily.

After boarding we were informed that the voyage would be delayed until Tuesday, June 29. This gave everyone a good opportunity to meet the rest of the passengers, as well as the captain and crew officers.

The passengers included several retired couples, a retired railroad man, three school teachers, and one student, all of whom were very sociable and congenial.

On Monday, June 28, everyone was up early and after breakfast we spent most of the day watching the action on the docks and the loading of our cargo. For the most our cargo consisted of tallow, skins, steel, lumber, meat, fish, vegetables, and military supplies. Many large containers were also chained down on the forward aft decks of the ship.

Several hours were spent walking around the decks and the flying bridge, getting acquainted with the on-limit and off-limit areas.

After dinner everyone was ready to retire early, for the first night sleeping on ship and looking forward to the start of our cruise.

On Tuesday, June 29, at 8:30 a.m., the ship moved away from the dock, turned around and headed north in Puget Sound. Leaving Fisherman's Wharf behind, we passed the port of Seattle building and the skyline of Seattle began to disappear in the distance.

In the west and to port side, the beautiful Olympic Mountains could be seen in the distance. As the pilot boat left us, we passed West Seattle and Alki Point also on the port side. Magnolia Hill, a very fine residential community, appeared on the starboard side.

Just about that time the Princess Marguerite, a passenger ship, could be seen heading for Victoria, B.C. Several cargo ships passed us heading south in Puget Sound, on their way to the port of Seattle.

Later in the afternoon we passed Port Townsend and Port Angeles where the harbor pilot captain left our ship and we were on our own, heading out to the great North Pacific Ocean. At that time we were able to get our look at the Olympic Mountain range still topped with snow. As we passed through the Strait of Juan de Fuca, the Island of Vancouver stretched along the starboard side with the mountains of B.C. outlined against the sky in the background.

Soon we sailed further into the Pacific and the Island of Vancouver and B.C. disappeared in the distance. So ended the first day at sea and everyone was ready to retire early.

On Wednesday, June 30, everyone was up early, however it was cloudy, but the sea was very calm with practically no movement of the ship except for ward about 20 knots. At 10:15 a.m., we had our first fire drill with life jackets and all. They raised and lowered the life boats (with no one in them) as we stood on deck and watched. At 1 p.m. they took a reading and our location was 51 degrees north latitude, and 135 degrees west longitude (if that means anything) which was a distance of 569 miles that we had traveled from Seattle with temperature of 54 degrees.

Meals on the ship were just out of this world, only they fed us too much and too often. Our first cocktail party at 4 p.m., was enjoyed by all and we had the pleasure of meeting all the officers of the ship.

On Thursday, it was still cloudy and getting colder with a temperature of 45 degrees. The sea was still calm and no roll or pitch of the ship at any time. At 1 p.m. the reading indicated our location to be lat. 53 degrees north, and long. 148 west for a distance of 503 miles from yesterday and a total of 1072 miles traveled so far.

In the afternoon a tour was conducted for the passengers of the chart room, wheelhouse and navigating bridge. It was interesting to see the radar system, how we stayed on course and the plotting of our course every hour of the day. Everything was neat and orderly, so we all felt very confident of the officers and of reaching our destination safely.

The rest of the day was spent reading, playing cards or games, talking and walking around the decks. Nothing much to see except water and there is plenty of it all around. After dinner, movies were shown in the lounge. The picture was nothing to write home about, but we all sat through it.

A year of service

The change in command in the civic works of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club comes at a time when the young group of local businessmen is rich with pride in their accomplishments over the past year.

Tom Wentz is the new president, and he has a notable record of the past year to support his climb up the steps Dixie.

The works of Kiwanis as a civic force in Jensen Beach seem to grow with the two years that the club has been in existence. Then, perhaps more than projects from [illegible] is Kids' Day at the local [illegible] park.

It was Kiwanians who manned the concession booth at the Little League games, and it was Kiwanis on several team uniforms of the young people who played.

The Kiwanis Club visited local churches and other Kiwanis clubs in its continuing effort to take part in community and area activities.

So, the new president has a job cut out for him, just to meet, much less surpass the pace that has been set previously, and congratulate retiring president Bob Smith for his fine year.

Danger in sewer plan

It is possible that the proposed county regional plan might hinder the development of the area with package sewage treatment. Those who would develop look warily on the possibility that the county will take over sewage systems in the future.

There are many possibilities created by the proposal to create a regional setup for county-wide water and sewage. Some of these will tend to the benefit of the people, and contribute to the growth of the county.

Negotiations with the City of Stuart should begin at once so that a cooperative effort in the interests of all the people, with the future expansion of the Stuart plant being financed by the county as a whole since the City residents have already put their money where their sewage is.

There is much to this water-sewage plan for the entire county. We are certain that the county commission and its advisors will look carefully into the aspects of the system offered to the people.

National duplication

The July, 1971, issue of The Reader's Digest contains a most enlightening article by Mr. Irwin Ross, describing President Nixon's plan introduced to Congress recently to streamline the essential functions of the federal government.

To give an idea of how pressing is the need to overhaul the federal establishment, Mr. Ross draws on a few instances of the kind of government waste in finance that is wasting everywhere. He tells how one of our many $5 billion a year, in one case, to help [illegible] of a small Texas community of 200 families that needed a new water supply system. Close investigation, he says, found that two agencies of the federal government could finance it—the Economic Development Administration of the Department of Commerce [illegible] and the Farmers Home Administration of the Agriculture Department. Mr. Ross reports that both agencies "with a spectacular lack of coordination...plunged in, each funding a separate water supply line." The town [illegible] was that only half of the community's 300 families ended up hooked into a water [illegible]. In a similar exhibition of waste and duplication, two vocational-training centers were built by two different federal government agencies within three blocks of each other in Phoenix, Arizona—one at a cost of more than $3.5 million and the other at a cost of $3.7 million. Both are competing to teach marketable skills to the unskilled and unemployed. Instances of this kind of waste are endless, and the cost is enough to make any taxpayer see red.

Writes Mr. Ross: "During the past two decades, the government's yearly budget has grown from $42 billion to well over $200 billion, federal domestic programs have multiplied [illegible] and now number more than 400..." He tells the Administration's reorganization plans "...bear the hallmark" and observes that its main thrust is to organize federal departments around the main purposes of government and to group together similar or allied programs within a single department.

The plan provides for a Department of Natural Resources that "...would bring together all the activities of the federal government involving land use, water resources, energy and mineral resources."

There would be a Department of Human Resources which would combine and coordinate the efforts of a number of other government agencies to promote "...the development of individual potential and family well-being." There would also be a Department of Community Development that would deal with both urban and rural communities. According to The Reader's Digest piece, this department "...would take over HUD, as well as certain Commerce functions. Agriculture's Rural Electrification Commission and rural housing programs, the OEO's Community action program and the urban mass-transit activities of the Department of Transportation, plus other community-oriented elements."

Finally, there would be a Department of Economic Affairs intended to "promote economic growth." This department would absorb functions of the Departments of Commerce, Labor and Agriculture among others. The Digest notes the President's [illegible] reorganization proposals a "radical" to Streamline Government." It is assuredly, half of the other two [illegible] that it would make the bureaucratic hierarchy on its feet foundations. It would affect departments and agencies whose combined personnel total 384,000. Even though the Administration has given assurance that its reorganization plan would not be accomplished by mass firing of government personnel, retirement, resignation or death would seem an attrition factors.

As Mr. Ross concludes: "...the best argument in behalf of bold reorganization is that our present structure is creaking with age and disabilities. Unquestionably, it needs renovation." Many a thoughtful citizen will add an emphatic Amen to that view.

S. Hofer & Sons, Publishers, Hillsboro, Oregon. ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

4-H Week

At agricultural exhibitions all over the country, demonstrations of publicskills in agricultural pursuits are prominently featured. A leader in the encouragement of these skills is the 4-H Club. National 4-H week is to be observed this year from October 3-9. The purpose of the week is, "To expand 4-H, gain greater public support, get more volunteer 4-H leaders, express appreciation to 4-H friends locally and nationally."

Those who have been fortunate enough to attend county or state fairs this year have seen the results of 4-H club work in animal husbandry, home economics and other fields. And each girl between the ages of nine and 19 may become a 4-H member. Under the guidance of a 4-H club leader, he can begin acquiring qualities of responsible citizenship, as well as an understanding of the science of producing the food and fiber upon which life depends.

The emblem of the 4-H speaks for itself: My Head to clearer thinking, My Heart to greater loyalty, My Hands to larger service, My Health to better living, for my club, my community and my country. More than two million youthful members of 4-H clubs stand behind the high goals and principles of 4-H. 4-H Week is the one time of the year when parents and the nation can respond to the young who most carry our civilization and our country forward to a brighter future.

LIVE ....and love it

by Dick Campbell

My brother, Bob

I was standing on the third floor landing, looking down at the postage stamp yard we had for the basement residents. And, there was this two-by-four leaning against the wall.

I picked it up, balanced it carefully, and tossed it lightly out of the window.

"Hey, Bob!" I yelled down, My brother, just turned, looked straight up, and was hit flat across the forehead by the two-by-four.

"Good grief." I said to myself, shocked beyond belief, I wasn't a very good aim, not even with a basketball. I had clobbered my brother.

Bob let out a yelp, blood gushed from his forehead, down his face. He began running up the stairs, and I could hear him pounding up the steps, two at a time, Hushing, rushing, to get me.

It was a small lasting. Everything in the tenement was small, I thought I would run into the house, and lock myself in the bathroom. There was nowhere else to go. Nowhere else to hide.

But then, as luck would have it, Grandpa heard the screams of my brother Bob. Grandpa ran out onto the landing, took one look at me, and I just knew he was going to kill me dead, he started to reach for me.

There I was, my life flashing before my eyes. Grandpa reaching for me, standing between me and the door, and Bob coming up the stairs two at a time. I was never so scared.

Just as his hand reached me, Grandpa saw Bob. So now with his face covered with blood, coming up the final flight of stairs.

"Good God," he bellowed. He turned quickly, rushing Bob into the bathroom to wash the blood off his face.

I sprinted down the several flights of stairs, and I'll swear that I didn't touch a single stair, jumping from landing to landing.

I knew that I could count on backstop Grandpa would kill me with that wife, quarter-inch-thick razor strap he kept hanging in the bathroom. If he didn't, Bob sure would, that I really knew.

There was an alley behind the old Hyde Park Brewery that I knew pretty well. I had sat there with Grandma came home from work. She wasn't understand that I really didn't try to kill my own brother.

Grandma came home about 7:30 p.m. and I met her at the bus stop. She knew I was in trouble when she got off the bus. I never met her at the bus unless I was in trouble.

She brought me a fourteen-pack of Schlitz which makes it pretty. Nothing is as easy as it looks. Everything takes longer than you think it will, and if anything can go wrong, it will.

Pretty familiar. Right? Happens to each of us at least once a day, doesn't it?

Sure.

But did you know that there's another law, which goes ever further and covers a lot of situations not even thought of by Murphy?

Well, there is.

It's called Britton's Law, and I'll bet you're never heard of it.

But it's important.

As an example, it covers the probability that you can throw a burnt match out of your car window and start a major forest fire, but you can use up an entire box of matches and half the Sunday paper without being able to start the charcoal in your barbecue grill.

The law, basically stated, goes like this: "The contradictory of a welcome probability will assert itself whenever such an eventuality is apt to be the most frustrating."

Now, in case you're confused by that, let me state it another way: "The outcome of a given desired probability will be inverse to the degree of desirability."

You can say that again. You can, but I won't. Because, I'm getting sick and tired of it all.

It started many, many years ago when Dr. Francis X. Britton, a distant relative of mine twice removed, began serious work on a phenomenon long known to scientists around the world but so little that little considered a mere curiosity.

Before I continue, I should state that old Francis X. was already internationally famous for something or other but I forget what it was. I also can't remember what he was twice removed for, but it will probably come back to me.

Anyway, after closeting himself in an attic in Rio for nineteen years, old F.X. came out to enunciate his new-famous law. It's really a shame that there wasn't anybody around to hear him but a hound dog and two chickens, and they slept through it. It's too bad because civilization would have been saved many years of frustration. Because, after pronouncing his law to the two chickens and the hound, he proceeded to make a series of predictions that have since been confirmed by illustrious members of the scientific community. Here are some of the better known ones, and see if you don't recognize them:

"Children always have more energy after a hard day's play than they do after a good night's sleep."

"Good parking places are always on the other side of the street."

"A button will pop on a critical part of your wardrobe just before you meet someone important."

"After a raise in salary, you will have less money at the end of the month than you had before."

"The person who buys the most raffle tickets has the least chance of winning."

"A dishwasher will break down the night you give a dinner for fifteen people."

"Marriage is that institution where you take a vow to grow old together...then she lets him go ahead without her."

There were many more of Francis X.'s predictions, but these were a few of the ones that became world famous.

And there's no telling to what further heights of scientific observation he might have reached, had it not been for his untimely demise in 1950. While strolling on the Jensen cut-off road one evening in January, obeying the pedestrian rule of always walking on the left facing traffic, he was struck down from behind by a Hillman-Minx driven by a visiting Englishman.

How sad.

Britton's law

Everyone has, at one time or another, run into "Murphy's Law" which states in part: Nothing is as easy as it looks. Everything takes longer than you think it will, and if anything can go wrong, it will.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

"Nothing kills progress like success, or so it seems. In the old days when the legislators worked for reasonable pay they were progressive and made it possible for industry to lead the world. Now that they are drawing $42,500 a year plus, they seem to be on the defensive, perhaps trying to protect their fabulous pay. Not somehow or other ever since they got their 41 percent pay hike, they have abandoned many important programs, national defense, Russia now is the world's No. 1 power; space program, here, too, Russia has caught up with us; supersonic transports, England, France and Russia are taking this lead from us. I do not know of any field where we lead the parade except in the pay of the national legislators. But, I guess not. I were drawing $42,500 plus a year, I really would not object to being No. 2, maybe even six or seven."

Miner, Markay, Idaho

"The student was trying to display his knowledge of math: 'figures can't lie', he declared. 'For instance, if one man can build a house in twelve days, twelve men can build it in one day.' The teacher interrupted: 'Then 288 men can build it in one hour, 17,280 in one minute, and 1,036,800 in one second'. While the student was still gasping, the teacher went on: 'And if one ship can cross the Atlantic in five days, five ships can cross it in one day. 'Figures can't lie,' can they?'"

Bulletin, Sacramento, Cal.

"...what would happen if the ecologists had their way and new power generating plants of all kinds- coal or nuclear powered, were ruled out in the future...it wouldn't be long before we wouldn't even have the energy supply to operate any of our industries, or even the household items that are considered necessities...there [illegible] a balance between ecology to stay alive, and the [illegible] that we can earn our [illegible] on everything that isn't perfect ecologically. [illegible] ment is great, but we like to eat and live a little somewhat in the manner which we have become accustomed. Personally, I don't mind a little ecology interference as long as [illegible] lights don't go out for want [illegible]

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

On behalf of the St. Lucie River Power Squadron, I should like to express our sincere appreciation for the generous publicity support you extended in connection with our boating course now being conducted at the Stuart Middle School.

Thanks largely to the cooperation we received from communications media and other public-spirited community interests, enrollment in the class has set a record of more than 300 persons. As a result, a significant number of our fellow citizens will learn and practice some of the principles that govern safety of recreational boating.

Emerson wrote: "The true test of civilization is not the census, nor the size of the cities, nor the crops, but the kind of men the country turns out."

So look around your community and see what kind of a civilization we are living in at present.

Mrs. Albert Ambrosch (Bertie) from Ambler, Pa., spent the past week with Ida and Harry Hausman at their mobile home. It was nice to have them with us, enjoying the water and sunshine.

It looks like an error was made in the spelling of Mr. and Mrs. Slagle's name. Sorry about this, Theo and Bruce, but a correction has been made and thanks for bringing it to our attention.

Pete Jones and family visited with Al and Betty Jones for a week recently. Pete resides in Memphis, Tenn. and manages the Sears store in that area.

Congratulations Pat and Rick Keller on the arrival of the new baby born Sept. 15. The baby has been named Clayton, and we wish them all the happiness that goes with it. Both Pat and the baby are home and doing fine.

A recent letter from the Shipmans indicate that they expect to return here sometime in June. We will be looking for you, so hurry back and join the group.

A new tree has been added on Shuck Drive in front of Jesse's home. We understand it is a mango, so keep it growing as we are all waiting to taste the fruit and sit in the shade of the tree.

Rita and Dave Hooker's daughter and family spent several days at their mobile home and enjoyed the sun.

Vita and Axel Autenrieth entertained the Bleeches and Mr. and Mrs. Adrian [illegible] from Indian River [illegible] last week at their mobile home on Rt. 1.

Our trip to the Orient

BY HARRY AND ILA HAUSMAN

The S.S. Oregon Mail is a 535 foot ship, 12,800 ton deluxe mariner class vessel with first class accommodations for 12 passengers. It carries a crew of 56, including 15 officers. Each stateroom has wall to wall carpeting, picture windows, radio and background music, well beds sitting room area, two large wardrobes and private tile bath. There is a passenger lounge, library, card room, well stocked bar, and dining room. The ship is equipped with automatic washer and dryer, weather and ocean reports frequently shown, with games, cards and cocktail parties scheduled almost daily.

After boarding we were informed that the voyage would be delayed until Tuesday, June 29. This gave us time to make a good opportunity to meet the rest of the passengers, as well as the captain and crew officers.

The passengers included several retired couples, a retired army officer, two retired school teachers, and one student all of whom were very nice people to associate with.

On Monday, June 28, everyone was up early and had breakfast on deck. Most of the day watching the activity on the docks and the loading of our cargo. For the most large containers of cotton, cotton linter, [illegible] wood, [illegible] fruit, vegetables, and [illegible] were loaded. A large containers were also stacked down on the fore and aft decks of the ship.

Several times we were walking around the deck and the [illegible] bridge getting acquainted with the officers and with the [illegible] crew.

After dinner everyone was up early and looking forward to the first night sleeping on ship and looking forward to the start of our cruise.

On Tuesday, June 29, at 9:30 a.m. the ship [illegible] away from the dock, cleared Miami and headed out to sea. Our first port of call was Nassau, Bahama Islands. Leaving Florida we were aware of the [illegible] of Seattle began to disappear in the distance.

As the east coast of our state, the beautiful Olympic Mountains could be seen in the distance. As the pilot boat left us, we passed Ocean Island and Alki Point around the point into Puget Sound, Magnolia Hill, a very fine residential community, appeared on the starboard side.

ing around the decks. Nothing much to see except water and there is plenty of it all around. After dinner, movies were shown in the lounge. The pictures was nothing to write home about, but we all sat through it.

Later in the afternoon we passed Port Townsend and Port Angeles where the harbor pilot captain left our ship and we were on our own, heading out to the great North Pacific Ocean. At that time we were able to get our look at the Olympic Mountain range still topped with snow. As we passed through the Strait of Juan de Fuca, the Island of Vancouver stretched along the starboard side with the mountains of B.C. outlined against the sky in the background.

Soon we sailed further into the Pacific and the Island of Vancouver and B.C. disappeared in the distance. So ended the first day at sea and everyone was ready to retire early.

On Wednesday, June 30 everyone was up early, however it was cloudy, but the sea was very calm with practically no movement of the ship except forward about 20 knots. At 10:15 a.m. we had our first view of land with the [illegible] and [illegible]. They [illegible] and entered the [illegible] with no one in them as we sliced [illegible] and [illegible] watched. At 1 p.m. they took a reading and our location was 51 degrees north latitude, and 135 degrees west longitude(if that means anything) which was a distance of 500 miles that we had travelled from Seattle with temperature of 54 degrees.

Meals on the ship were just out of this world, only they fed us too much and too often. Our first meal [illegible] at 8 a.m. was served [illegible] and we had the pleasure of meeting all the officers of the ship.

On Thursday, it was still cloudy and getting colder with a temperature of 50 degrees. The sea was still calm and no rolling motion of the ship at all. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

County to ask city to share signal cost

Stuart--The signal light at the intersection of heavily-traveled U.S. 41 and SR 707 will have to wait for a while longer, according to action taken Tuesday by the Martin County Commission. The matter was tabled until a letter is sent to the City of Stuart asking that it share the cost, on a fifty-fifty basis, of the signallation.

The bid received for the lights was $13,970.

The signallization had been approved by the Department of Transportation, but no commitment date was made for installation. And the DOT will not reimburse the county if it goes ahead with installation now.

"We could have it done in 60 days," Commission Chairman Bill Myers said. But if the city doesn't help with the cost, the county will wait for the state to install, he said.

Cook of the Week

By Ruth Bowman

Kathleen Spencer's Mango Bread

"I'm just taking some of my mango bread out of the oven," Mrs. Kathleen Spencer said after she came to the phone.

"Perfect," I answered. "How about sharing your recipe with Mirror readers?"

"Well, I made it up, really. We have two big mango trees and lots of mangoes, even after sharing with neighbors. So I took a banana bread recipe and experimented with mangoes instead of bananas. Now I have it just the way I want it," Mrs. Spencer said.

She and husband, Henry, who is retired, live on Wright Road, Rio. She has been an officer in the Rio Civic Club since 1952 and is now serving as corresponding secretary and treasurer. She is treasurer of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund and has about 6,000 volunteer hours as a Pink Lady at Martin Memorial Hospital. But she says she has no time for hobbies. "I'm too busy, but I enjoy working with my husband in the yard. That is his hobby."

And this is Kathleen Spencer's Mango Nut Bread, which freezes very well.

1 4 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
2 eggs
1 level teaspoon soda
1 level teaspoon baking powder
1 4 cup buttermilk
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups mangoes (cut in chunks, not mashed)

Grease and flour three small loaf pans. Cream sugar and butter, add eggs, then flour with soda and baking powder added, and buttermilk. Stir in nuts and mangoes last.

Bake in 350 degree oven from 45 to 60 minutes. Test with cake tester. If cake tester comes out dry, it is done. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pans.

Special, personal recipes are welcome in this new feature of The Mirror. If you have one you would like to share, contact me at the office, 287-7333, or my home, 287-4502.

ACT tests set for MCHS students

Stuart--Students at Martin County High School, who are planning to attend college, will have five opportunities to take the ACT Test Battery during the 1971-72 academic year.

The first of five national testing dates will be Saturday morning, Oct. 16. Other dates include Dec. 11, with registration between Oct. 4 and Nov. 15; Feb. 12, register between Nov. 29 and Jan. 31; April 22, with registration Feb. 14 to March 27, and July 15, register between April 10 and June 19.

Last year approximately one million persons took the five-part battery, which is required or recommended for applicants at more than 1900 colleges, universities, agencies and conferences. It is recommended that students take the ACT battery in their junior year or early in their senior year of high school, according to Gipson.

Birthday greetings from the Presidents of U.S.A.

We received a lovely letter from Nonie and Harry Cornwall of D & M and Indian River Drive, from their summer home in Farmington, Mich. A few weeks ago I had in our column that they had celebrated their mother's (Nonie) birthday. Nonie filled me in with some of the bi-ltites and I know you'll all be interested. The real bi-ltite of her celebration was Birthday Greetings from President and Mrs. Nixon. Needless to say, she was very proud and happy that has.

Ruby Dunning from Riverside Park went to Michigan to attend and the honor guests were brother Dew up from Houston, Texas for the occasion. The honor guest Mrs. Maude Liat says she really had a had that day. We are looking forward to her visit down here this winter so she can tell us all about it. Nonie went on to tell us they had spent two days with Herb and Thelma Jones at Kettering, Ohio and Herb is getting along fine. Martin County defeats Okeechobee in 28-7 romp

Stuart--The Martin County Tigers were victorious in a 28-7 romp over an overmatched Okeechobee defense Friday night at Okeechobee. The game saw quarterback Scott Navitsky score twice and complete a pass for another two points, and Chester Matheny score twice, once on a fifty-yard run.

But Martin County had its troubles with fumbles, losing two out of five, and completed only one pass of six, with one interception.

In rushing, it was all Martin County, gaining 263 yards and that was after deducting 150 yards from the total. The penalty-prone Tigers were tapped seventeen times during the game for violations.

Navitsky was piled up seven times in the game as the Tiger offense failed in pass blocking.

The Tigers got off to an early start, getting six points in the opening quarter, fourteen in the second quarter and eight in the third. Chobee scored in the opening quarter on a sixty-three yard pass play, but wasn't able to threaten after that as the Tiger defense held.

Cobras top Rivera with quick td, 21-16

FP--The "Number One" Cobras of Ft. Pierce Central defeated a highly ranked Riviera Beach Suncoast team 21-16 in a well established ground game that began with a 75-yard touchdown on the opening kickoff.

Ronald Argrett took the opener for the lope into the end zone, and followed the score with another, a three-yard sweep, with the game only two minutes old.

Suncoast was tough, but no match for the Cobras, ranked number one in the state and a contender all the way.

YCCS had guest day

Stuart -- Thursday was guest day at the Yacht and Country Club of Stuart. The Club hosted golfers from Vero Beach, Rlomar and John's Island.

Play was low gross, low net and least putts in each class. Jane Grant won low gross with an 80 in class A, Mary Schenholm, 72 low net, and low putts 29, Ginny Delaplaine.

Class B, low gross, Trudy Rorabaugh, 97; low net, tie at 73, Marian Henderson and Jean Dilcher, low putts, Margaret Ullman, 30.

Class C, low gross, Ruth Dilcher, 105; low net, Trude Kennedy, 75; low putts, Margaret Master, 34.

There were two chip-ins, Mary Shade and Ginny Delaplaine.

Carroll loses to Pinecrest

FP--The 33-0 score in the John Carroll High School game with Lithia Pinecrest doesn't reflect the defensive battle of the night. It was a game of attrition, with Pinecrest finally bulling a tired Carroll team in the fourth quarter for high scores.

Carroll couldn't move the ball on the offense, but was sparkling on the defense for three quarters. It was the third loss for the team.

Carroll had eight first downs to ten for Pinecrest, almost matched the team in the air with 31 yards to the Pilots' 34, but lost three fumbles to the Pilot one.

Pinecrest held the Rams through the game and had to wait for the last half of the third quarter to score on a 77-yard drive. The rest of the scores came in the fourth period against a tired defense.

The Rams open their season in the Citrus Conference against LaBelle Friday night.

...Stuart Marine opens; dream come true

...Stuart- Thursday's Grand ...ning of the new Stuart ...Center is a dream ...e for Herman Reitz, ...ck-resident since he was ...Reitz, a product of the ...k school system and ...Beach Junior College, ...ame to the marina to ...work for Earl Hall, then owner in 1956, as an out... ...board mechanic and sales... ...man.

told that the Ecological firm is going bankrupt, not into receivership, according to a letter from the Public Service Utilities Commission received by Commission Chairman Bill Myers. "I think the commission should protect those who are served by this service, and not contribute to its burden by tying more customers onto the water line," Wacha said.

"I think you're going far beyond the position a commission should take," Prewitt said. "Your concern should be about zoning, the building and sanitary codes, not water. If we cannot get relief here, it is our intention to seek relief through the courts. Our 'considered interest' is costing us about $100 a day."

"I don't believe that a water problem is out of our concern," Myers answered.

The Martin County Zoning and Planning Board split 2-2 on its decision at the May 25 meeting, according to zoning director Tom Higgins. However, Lloyd Dutcher, a spectator, said he attended that meeting and said the board decided it had no jurisdiction on the height of new construction. "In an informal poll, the board voted 3 to 1 in favor of the high-rise," Dutcher said.

"We look to the zoning board for advice and recommendations on these matters," Commissioner Paul Bryant said. "Many county residents are opposed to high rises, yet we failed to include this in our zoning laws. The problem here is the height of buildings, not the unit per acre."

County Attorney Bill Scott said the county could not legally withhold issuance of a building permit, "If there is no water supply at the time of occupancy, we can hold up the certificate of occupancy," he said.

Myers said the zoning board and the professional planners have been asked to reevaluate the height of new construction in the county.

Noble was directed to issue a building permit for one nine-story building on Hutchinson Island, as requested by Shaw Associates.

"I wouldn't blame you," Commissioner Frank Wacha said, "but we would still be here."

Commissioner Bill Owens cited two instances where zoning changes had been granted and a time limit set for start of construction. "We are now in court on one case," he said.

The second case, the Warner Creek property of Woodland Shores, is now up for sale with no development.

The request for change in zoning was tabled until the next meeting of the commission.

NEW SECRETARY--Mrs. Helen Richardson, well known civic, community and church worker in the area, started Monday as the new executive secretary of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. She will replace John Power. Mrs. Richardson, a resident of Jensen Beach for 15 years, told The Mirror, "I have never worked before in my life, and I'm having a ball meeting the nicest people. She will be on duty at the Chamber office on Commercial Street Monday through Friday from 9 to 12 and 1 to 4 p.m.

280 units tabled in Jensen Beach

Stuart- The request for a change in zoning from R-2 to R-3 to permit 280 apartment units in Jensen Beach was tabled Tuesday by the Martin County Commission.

Felix Granados, who described himself as a developer, not a speculator, said the complex would be located on 26.2 acres of land in the area of Lake Ave. and the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

To be known as Jensen Villas, the apartments would be built in units of four, two-stories high, on the condominium format. There would be 12 units per acre and a minimum of 50 feet between buildings. A recreation area would be located adjacent to the Lake Ave. entrance.

Granados said he bought the property about four months ago from Kiplinger, contingent on the change of zoning. His decision, he said, was based on the shopping center to be constructed at the Cutoff Road and Savanna Road.

Commissioner Timer Powers asked for a breakdown, per acreage-wise according to buildings, roads, recreation and green areas. However, Granados and his representative Dick Morrison did not have the information available. Powers then suggested that if the zoning change were granted, construction start within a year. Granados objected to the time limit, saying he was following all requirements of the county but would not wish to commit himself within a year.

"I prefer you reject my request, and I can get back my deposit," he said, "I don't want to be a hypocrite, but if somebody offered me $1 million, I would take it and go."

Mirror celebrates tenth anniversary

JH- The Jensen Beach Mirror celebrates its tenth anniversary this week with the largest regular edition of The Mirror in history.

"It wasn't planned that way, it just seemed to happen," said Mirror editor Dick Campbell. The newspaper this week is filled with special sections, announcement anniversary advertisements and The Mirror health series recap in a special section.

Employees of The Mirror will host visitors to the plant in an open house on Saturday from four to six p.m., during which time the visitors will be taken on a tour of the facilities. The public is invited to the open house.

Expected to attend are many newspaper publishers from all over Florida, friends of The Mirror over past years.

This week on the editorial page and page five, The Mirror is printing letters recognizing the tenth anniversary event from all who know the efforts of the newspaper over these years.

The actual anniversary of the founding of The Mirror is September 14. It was on that date in 1961 that The Mirror's first edition hit the streets. Begun with a portable typewriter, in the garage of the owners Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Campbell, the newspaper blossomed into one of the most highly respected weekly newspapers in the state.

In 1968 and again in 1970, The Mirror won the sought after Florida Press Association "Best Weekly Newspaper" trophy. In the past five years The Mirror has won more awards for journalistic excellence that any other Florida newspaper.

The editor of The Mirror served as president of the Florida Press Association in 1968, and has been a director in the association since 1963. Dick Campbell is now a director of the National Newspaper Association, and this year was elected treasurer and a member of the executive committee of the NNA. As a director of that group, he represents Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina on the board.

The Mirror has been honored for community service, a major effort of the newspaper, and for the past three years in the Florida Press Association Better Newspapers Contest has won first place for community service projects.

The Mirror anniversary celebration was delayed this year to coincide with the date of National Newspaper Week.

They were in The Mirror ten years ago

JH- Mirror advertisers of ten years ago are still advertising in The Mirror, and many will be running the original advertisement they had in the first issue of The Mirror this week.

So, let's look for the same prices on many of the items...you can't buy whatever it is for that price today. The advertisers and The Mirror are just reminiscing.

"I'm not playing to my lounge any more," said Ted Wiegand, owner of the Triangle Bar in Stuart. "When I run this ad we had back in the first edition. I hope people won't think I'm still playing there."

The Mirror editor agreed, for he was playing drums in the Triangle Bar then, enjoying a jam session with Wiegand.

Health meeting is on Thursday

Stuart- Stuart will be the focal point of the entire State of Florida on Thursday (today) as the ad hoc committees of the Florida Legislature's House and Senate health committees meet with the Martin County Commission to discuss the future of health service to the county.

With the meeting beginning at ten in the morning, and slated to extend into the afternoon until four, a ten year effort of the Martin County Commission to seek proper health law enforcement, and a one year effort of The Jensen Beach Mirror on the same subject, will reach a climax.

At stake will be the future of the Florida Division of Health, accused by the Martin County Commission and The Mirror of not enforcing Florida's health laws, and in some cases encouraging violation of those laws through improper permitting, or not permitting at all.

Top state officials of the Division of Health, including Dr. Wilson T. Sowder, head of the division, will be on hand for the meeting.

Local businessmen and engineers have reported that they were requested to write letters praising the county health department to Dr. Sowder, or to testify that they have received good service from the Tri-County Health Department. Those letters will be a part of the presentation of health officials to the ad hoc committees, according to information.

Mirror Editor Dick Campbell, who initiated the series of articles that assisted in bringing the lax health law enforcement issue to ahead, said Tuesday he planned to testify, but would be constructive in seeking a way to solve the problem of enforcement.

"I'll let the series speak for itself. We are printing a recap of the articles in The Mirror this week and will use that for the committee information," Campbell said. (See editorial, page 4.)

Armistice celebrated

Stuart- In an impassioned plea to the Martin County Commission Tuesday, Commissioner Bill Owens objected strongly to the proposed national change of date of Veteran's Day and asked that the original Armistice Day date of November 11 be continued here.

The change to October 25, a Monday, is being followed nationwide, according to the U.S. Congress.

So, the commissioners agreed unanimously that even if Martin County is the only county in the world to stick with tradition, Armistice Day ... whoops ... Veteran's Day will be observed here on Thursday, November 11.

Question of the week

What do you think of the diagonal parking on Commercial Street?

"There should be no parking on Commercial Street at all. Additional facilities are needed to provide for off-street parking."

Joe Svec

"Commercial Street should be widened. It is a very congested area for the size of the town. We need off-street parking."

Frances J. Byrnes

"That is the way it has to be, we have no other choice. They should put in a second railroad crossing at Sunview and make both one-way streets."

Joe Yaklich

"I think it is terrible! If they have to park there, it should be parallel."

Chet and Rose Randall were called to Warren, Ohio on Wednesday evening by the serious illness of their son. Chet had been up to see him and just arrived home Wednesday evening when they got the call to come right back. They flew up on Thursday morning.

Eleven ladies enjoyed warm sweet rolls and coffee Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. Then we all got busy doing hobby work, such as knitting, making beads and bracelets, etc. They voted on continuing this kind of meetings for awhile so we spend a very enjoyable social hour.

We had 20 out for our first pot luck dinner on Wednesday evening despite the heavy rain. As usual we had lots to eat of every variety, even to lemon and pumpkin pies. We all enjoyed the sociability of the evening as it was our first general get-together of the fall.

Bill and Stella Marshall have sold their beautiful trailer and gone back to the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri. It was on the advice of their doctor that the hot Florida sun was too hard on Bill's ailing eyes. They said they were sorry to leave as they liked D & M and its people very much. The new owners are Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Snyder of Butler, Pa. They left here Wednesday and expect to be back about December 1st.

We had a nice card from Joe and Bea Penrod last week. Bea's mother has been quite ill and they don't expect to arrive here until about the first of November. We are sorry to hear about Bea's mother and wish her the best of health and a quick recovery.

Cook of the Week

By Ruth Bowman

Clem's Corn Squares with Chicken Gravy

JB- "Everybody who tastes this dish asks for the recipe," said Mrs. Clemmer Curtis of her Asparagus Corn Squares With Chicken Gravy. "This is one of my own recipes but I'm glad to share it," says Clem, who has been serving this to luncheon guests for many years.

The Curtisses, Clem and Ed, have lived on Sandra Drive for about four years, coming from Charlotte, N.C., Ed is retired and came here to pursue his hobby, fishing. Clem says she enjoys everything. She is chairman of the Deacon's Care Committee at Jensen Beach Community Church, is active in other areas of church work, is chairman of the beautification committee of the Jensen Beach Garden Club, co-chairman of the Samaritans' Loan Closet and belongs to a bridge group. In between times she enjoys doing handicrafts, embroidery work and oil painting. And another love is cooking, of course. She has had many recipes published in the Charity League Cook Book and in the Tar Hill, N.C., Federated Women's Club Cook Book.

So, from the kitchen of Clem Curtis comes Asparagus Corn Squares with Chicken Gravy.

1 cup butter or margarine
1 - 14-1 2 oz. can green asparagus
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 - 10-1 2 oz. can condensed cream of chicken soup
3 cups chopped cooked chicken
1 small can pimento cut in 1 2 in. strips
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Package of Flako corn bread mix

Pour butter or margarine over bottom of 12x7x2 inch baking dish. Drain asparagus, reserving 1 2 cup liquid. Arrange asparagus in butter, top with cheese. Prepare Flako corn mix according to directions, spread batter over cheese. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 35 to 40 minutes until lightly browned. Turn out immediately, cut into squares. Meanwhile combine reserved asparagus liquid, soup, chicken and pimentos. Mix well, heat to boiling point, stirring frequently. Add lemon juice and mix well. Serve chicken gravy over corn squares. Serves 6 for dinner, 10 for luncheon.

The Mirror welcomes special personal recipes in this new feature series. If you have a recipe you just love to cook, get in touch with me at The Mirror office, 287-7331, or at my home, 287-4102, and we'll share your recipes with our readers.

DINERS--Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodrich, Mrs. Mary Graff and Mrs. Loretta Barazin enjoyed dinner at Crow's Nest Thursday prior to a short business meeting of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Mirror.

In an era of ever-increasing competition, highly sophisticated equipment and steadily declining home ownership of newspapers, it is indeed inspiring to see what a family with a dream, a typewriter boundless energy, and love and faith in our newspaper business can still achieve.

Personally, I think the 10-year span of the Mirror's birth, growth, community interest, and professional achievement is one of the real newspaper success stories in a state that has perhaps the healthiest, fastest growing, finest press in America.

Osa and Richard Campbell, I salute you.

Sincerely,
Fred Pettijohn
General Manager
Gore Newspapers Company
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

To the Editor:

Congratulations on the 10th anniversary of your newspaper.

That you have survived the vicissitudes of the past decade is full assurance that the Jensen Beach Mirror is strongly entrenched in your community. The services which you have rendered to Jensen Beach and the surrounding area supervise. Ideals are such that they have merited the support of both readers and advertisers.

Cordially,
Theodore A. Serrill
Exec. Vice President
National Newspaper Assoc.
Washington, D.C.

To the Editor:

Congratulations, to you and Osa and all your dedicated personnel on your 10th Anniversary.

The progress you have made has been outstanding.

There are very few complimentary words left, after you have been recognized by your own industry as "Florida's Best Weekly Newspaper."

So -

Best of luck in the years ahead.

Keddie and I will be out of town on the 16th and unable to join you on this festive occassion.

Very truly yours,
Tilley E. Powers
Commissioner
Martin County

To the Editor:

Irene and I will be unable to participate in your Open House activities on Saturday, October 16. I know it will be great fun and we are both disappointed that we will miss it.

You have our sincere best wishes for ten more bigger and better years.

Sincerely,
Paul Brooks, Publisher
Ocala Star-Banner
Ocala, Fla.

To the Editor:

You are certainly to be congratulated on what you have built in Jensen Beach during these ten years. You have every reason to be quite proud.

At the same time you have built the Mirror, I know you have made contributions to the betterment of life in your service area and have so had a hand in building the community.

I hope your readers are aware, too, of the great contributions you have made in work with our state and national newspaper associations.

Sincerely yours,
William Deltenbeck
Publisher
Florida Field Report
Orlando, Fla.

To the Editor:

It was good to receive your Happy 10th Anniversary letter.

It has been a pleasure knowing and working with you in recent years. Hope you have many more years of growth and prosperity.

Sincerely,
W. G. Ebersole, Publisher
Gainesville Sun
Gainesville, Fla.

To the Editor:

Hearty congratulations to you and Osa and your staff on the tenth anniversary of your newspaper.

You have created a prize winning newspaper and at the same time you have some how found time to contribute a great amount of energy in Florida Press Association work. The state's newspaper industry is the better for all of this.

I shall look forward to being with you for the celebration next month.

Sincerely yours,
John J. Schumann, Jr.
Publisher
VeroBeachPress-Journal

To the Editor:

I know that to achieve greatness is a desire most people have within themselves.

You have reached a fairly high plateau by having one of Florida's finest newspapers.

But I must say that you use the most sneaky, underhanded, and despicable means of increasing your circulation.

Three or four days before your paper went to press for the Oct. 7 issue you had one of your "On the street cronies," namely Richard Neeson, call my home and obtain all the pertinent information and names of all the people at our table the night of the Chamber of Commerce dinner. During the phone conversation "Sly Dick" #2 led my wife to believe that the picture you had taken at the dinner was the finest one of your career, and that my wife Shirley was just a "raving beauty."

This, needless to say, did something to her ego and her vanity which is indescribable.

I lost her services around here for at least four full days and I was saddled with all the chores she normally does, cooking, washing, housecleaning, etc., besides my own duties trying to make this a successful venture.

She made countless phone calls to Illinois to inform the "girls" of her new social status.

I will have to pay this bill on a time payment plan spread over about 5 years.

On the morning of Oct. 6, she was up at the crack of dawn (which is a rarity) demanding that I get up and make her breakfast. When the girl from your office called and asked Shirley how many papers we wanted this week, Shirley ordered 250.

Now Richard, 250 papers is a pretty good order for a little operation like mine, but she had use for every one of them.

The night before, she had me stamp and address 225 envelopes to all parts of the U.S. and the Far East, while she reclined in the chair watching TV.

By the time the papers were delivered (I refused to go and sit at The Mirror office at 6 a.m.) the tension was terrific.

When the papers were finally delivered, she took the entire stack into the TV room. I watched her from afar as she said, "Well, I didn't expect it to be on page one this time."

As she turned the pages she exclaimed, "There's Inez and St. Thomas Joseph. It must be on the next page.

"There's Wilkie," and so on through all 16 pages, after another rapid search for the realization hit home.

"It's not in there," she said in disbelief.

"What am I going to tell the girls?" she kept mumbling, and "What are we going to do with 250 Mirrors?"

I told her all was not lost as we could contribute them to the paper drive. She remained in this Limbo for two days despite all the sedatives. To help snap her out of this, I reluctantly told her we could go on a shopping spree in West Palm.

On the way to WPB, the color slowly returned to her face and her coordination improved.

Because of all this expense incurred and the physical and mental damage to my wife I am contacting F. Lee Bailey to see what recourse I have against you and Neeson.

To prevent this from happening to anyone else in the area covered by your publication, I am asking Ralph Nader to check into your operation.

The real kicker to this whole thing, and a picture of your true character, shows up in the fact that it wasn't more than 10 days ago when you were befriended by us on a Sunday night when you ran out of gas.

Sincerely,
Wally Woodrich
Crossroads Cottage Colony

To the Editor:

Everybody's griping about high taxes and increased state spending. In November we get a chance to do something about them... we can vote "NO" to the newest proposed Florida income tax. It's the rare kind of opportunity we get once in a dozen years or so. We believe people will take advantage of it to go to the polls, vote "NO" and tell Tallahassee in no uncertain terms and all politicians, for that matter, how they feel about tax increases to support run-away spending.

We hope you're interested in doing something about it in your editorial columns. We are enclosing our morgue of clippings that have been running throughout the state in opposition to the proposed tax.

Very truly yours,
Van H. Priest, President

Venture Out news notes

by Harry Hausman
283-2988

Old and Helpful Proverbs: Contentment makes the poor rich; discontentment makes the rich poor. How about you, are you content and happy?

Catherine and Hank Higgins spent a few days in Miami visiting with their relatives and celebrated their cousin's birthday recently.

Kay and Bob Smythe spent a week vacationing in their travel trailer around the Ft. Lauderdale area, but are now back home at Venture Out.

Word has been received from Dot and Andy Gerard that their vacation in the travel trailer is going just great. They have been to New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Las Vegas, and now are staying in San Francisco. Happy motoring and a safe trip back.

Ginny and Charlie Koppisch (former neighbors of the Ostertags) from Islip, N.Y., made their first trip to Florida and spent a week at Venture Out with Bobbie and Bill. Hope your visit was a good one, and sorry to see you leave.

WATER VIEW--Shown above is one of the several fine waterways between the fingers of Venture Out, where the residents enjoy boating, fishing, and even swimming at times.

Our trip to the Orient

Wednesday July 7 - We were awaken by the fog horn, with heavy fog all around us. Another fire drill was scheduled for 10:15 a.m. followed by a demonstration of artificial respiration. All went well and several pictures were taken.

The rigging and cranes were checked in preparation for unloading of cargo at the port of Yokohama. At 1 p.m. our location was posted as our location was posted. We had traveled 3682 miles so far, with approximately 608 miles to Yokohama. Temperature had gone up to 56.

Plenty of heavy fog all day and into the night. The moon came out for awhile and then clouded up again. The evening was spent in the card room playing games and cards while refreshments and drinks were served.

Thursday July 8 - We woke to a rough sea, but much warmer with temperature at 75. We ran through the fringe of a storm with some rain and fog with swells between 12 and 14 feet. This was the first time the ship really pitched during our voyage. By noon we ran out of the storm and the sun shown again and it was quite warm on deck.

We have now traveled 4175 miles and have about 150 to go before docking at Yokohama. Based on our present speed and reports from the bridge we should arrive at dock side about 8 p.m. this evening.

Yokohama is the hub of international trade and the leading port city of Japan for over 100 years. It has developed into one of the finest shopping towns since the days of its fishing village beginning.

For sightseers and shoppers, Yokohama offers many places of interest and irresistible curio and fancy shops. Sankeien Garden and Yamashita Park are typically Japanese designated as important cultural assets by the government. Motomachi and Isezakicho streets are the main shopping centers with many antique shops and stores as well as bars and restaurants.

In the Silk Center Building near Yokohama's South Pier is the very educational Silk Museum with all the interesting information about silk from the mulberry bush to the final made-up goods, including ancient costumes and Kimonos.

Many of the haberdasheries and eating houses in Motomachi town cater to foreign customers. There are many places of interest such as the Shomyoji Temple, Sojiji Temple, Children's Land, the zoological gardens and the Yokohama Dreamland, all of which are worthy of a visit regardless of the season.

Yokohama - for the visitor to Japan is a name to remember.

Saturday July 10 - We left Yokohama at 4 p.m., and our ship moved down the coast a short distance to Yokosuki arriving at 6 p.m. We took a cab into the city of Yokosuki and walked around the shopping area. We then took an overhead train to Kamakura to see the Temple and the Great Buddha, however it was closed for the night.

Sunday July 11 - We sailed out of Yokosuki harbor at 8 a.m. heading for Kobe, Japan. Many navy ships and cargo ships were in the bay as we headed out to sea. We ran into fog again before noon and were unable to see Mt. Fuji. The day was spend relaxing.

Monday July 12 - We arrived at the port of Kobe at 8 a.m. After breakfast we toured the city of Kobe and the Pearl factory where we were able to see how pearls are sorted for size, color, etc. and strung and drilled for stringing.

Our tour then took us up Mt. Rokko but the fog closed in and we were unable to see anything from the top of the mountain. We returned through the country and visited a private home of an old family in Japan. It was very impressive to see their way of life. Back to the center of Kobe where we did some shopping.

Back to the ship for dinner and relaxing. Card playing and games were on the agenda for the evening, and then to bed.

St. Andrew Society presents

Highland fling planned in St. Joseph Auditorium

Pipes will skirl, kilts will swing, and drums will roll in the St. Joseph College auditorium Saturday evening, October 16, when the St. Andrew Society of Florida, Inc., presents a program of Scottish music and dancing.

Performers will be alumni of the School of Scottish Arts who work and study together each summer at Lees-MacRae College in Banner Elk, North Carolina, before the annual Scottish Games at nearby Grandfather Mountain. The classes are held for 50 selected students. The ages are usually from 13 to 18, with plenty of 10-year-olds and this summer there was an old man about 50 studying especially dancing," according to George Scott, a senior at Martin County High School, who is responsible for bringing the group to Stuart.

Scott put forward the suggestion of Stuart, home of the St. Andrew Society of Florida, Inc., represented at the games by its president and vice-president, William G. Marchetti and Ralph Bonk, each in full Highland attire designating their respective clans. The Scotts and the Edward L. Swainins are other local members who wear the tartan of their clans.

Some of the principal dancers coming to Stuart for the reunion is Miss Wanda Hoffman, senior at Miami Springs High School, who spent a recent weekend

Zoning change at Sago

Stuart- A zoning change from R-1 to R-3A permitting 12 apartments in Jensen Beach was granted by the Martin County Commission on Tuesday.

The request by Charles F. Carnaghi was for property located near SR 707, between Sago Sands and Riverside Heights on the west side.

The owner will deed 50 feet of his property along SR 707 to the state in exchange for the change in zoning for the 100 feet of property, which will then conform to adjacent zoning.

East PSL delayed for info

Approval of the plat for 600 acres in Martin County called East Port St. Lucie will wait another month for information relative to the water table, according to action of the Martin County Water Management Board last week.

The tract, located between Commercial Street and the county line, just west of Jensen Beach, has been held up before on lack of complete information on the plans for drainage and protection of the Jens a Savannas.

General Development Corporation, developers, announced recently that it planned a dike to protect the savannas from draining west to the St. Lucie River when drainage canals are dug. However, objections of Douglas Arnold, water expert, brought the delay until more specific plans are drawn, information is obtained from federal and state geological surveys and all safeguards of the water table are provided to the board.

Arnolds comments were backed up by Lee Cason, U. S. Soil and Water Conservation.

Fred Vidres, representing GDC, said he would have the information to the members of the board before the next meeting, in November.

TOP SALESMAN- Young salesmen selling the most tickets for the pancake breakfast at Langford Park last Sunday were first, Tom Neeson selling 135 tickets, second, Doug Whipkey, and Brad Jones, third, not pictured. The Jensen Beach Lions Club prepared and served 550 persons who came out in support of the Little Leaguers.

Some progress, much delay in Health attitude to series

BY DICK CAMPBELL

(Editor's note: This is a recap of all the articles, editorials and columns written charging the Tri-County Health Department, and the Florida Division of Health, with lax health law enforcement. The article deals in generalities with the items brought to the attention of the public from March 18 to the present, but response to the Health Department deals only with the investigation of the charges as completed by Dr. William H. Stinger, regional medical consultant for the Division of Health, and reported on May 11 and May 28, 1971.)

There has been much progress, and a great deal of regression in the attitude and actions of the Florida Division of Health and the Tri-County Health Department since the first Mirror article on lax health law enforcement appeared on March 18, 1971.

Since that first article appeared, the direction of the series of revealing articles on lax health law enforcement has moved from bringing about a change in law enforcement on the local tri-county level of health officials to recognizing the need for a complete reevaluation of the entire Florida Division of Health, its purposes, direction and ability to do the job that is assigned through the statutes of Florida, as passed by the Florida Legislature.

Booker Park in Martin County is another example of the Health Department's benign neglect. People sleep in cars, in tents, outhouses are in the rear or nonexistent and nothing moves, it gets worse when you see a 1-lb street is deplorable conditions, and the county's idea of solution of health ... screened.

... little or sanitary facilities. A side trip to the park might be an interesting experience for the entire health committee of the Senate and House.

However, in the case of the Port Salerno privy, the owner built a Mirror reporter on October 2, 1971, that he had no knowledge of making the swap. He simply and ... screen the vent stack, which he had done, ..." until he had read about it in The Mirror.

The owner of the land has torn down the old outhouses and replaced the one in use with new materials, the kind gave no indication that he had plans to install inside plumbing. If he had, he would not have built new outhouses.

Truck stop example of how Health works

THE CHARGE:

2. A cry of foul, Live and Love It, March 25, pointed to the Market Truck Stop at Ft. Pierce as an example of the failure of the health department to act. It was the end of April before action was seen at the site. Dumping of oil in ditches is against the law.

DR. STINGER, MAY 11:

In the March 25, 1971 issue of The Jensen Beach Mirror, an editorial was written regarding a waste disposal problem at the Market Truck Stop in Ft. Pierce. This condition had been reported to the health department by the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control as oil in a ditch in the rear of the property. When the health department investigated, it was found that oil drained from trucks that were being serviced was collected in a 500 gallon tank and sold for salvage. The liquid waste in the ditch was a combination of effluent from the septic tank and grease intercepter resulting from a failure of the subsurface drainfield. Mixed with this effluent was industrial waste water generated by a truck wash rack. The health department contacted the owner, and the problem of disposing of the domestic waste effluent was discussed. The engineering firm of Belndorf and Associates was engaged, and an elevated absorption bed was built to code requirements, Chapter 10D-6.03 (4), (6) and (7). It has been certified by the designing engineer and is now operating. All domestic waste is now being treated in an approved manner. Industrial wastes still constitute a problem. The Department of Air and Water Pollution Control is aware of this situation.

MIRROR RESPONSE:

Dr. Stinger's explanation of the Market Truck Stop incident paints a rosy picture of what was accomplished, but does not tell the manner in which it was handled. Of course, the outcome, once the law was enforced, brought a proper solution to the problem. But how the law got enforced is a matter that is of frightening significance in our health law enforcement.

When the Department of Air and Water Pollution received a complaint about oil pollution of a ditch at the truck stop, Al Cox, local director, passed the complaint on to W. B. Richards. Richards supposedly investigated, and told Cox that there was no violation, though the ditch in back of the truck stop was filled with signs of oil and grease.

Cox had the violation dye-tested and discovered a pollution source. He demanded that Richards act. Only then did Richards use the law to end the violation.

Dr. Stinger seems intent upon ignoring the word "prompt" in health law enforcement. Air and Water Pollution should not have to force the Health Department to do its job.

And why would Richards say there was no violation when there was one?

We fault his method of investigation of the complaint, his failure to find a violation, and his refusal to act until action was demanded.

Copies of letters between the two departments and testimony of Mr. Cox would be an asset to learning the laxity of law enforcement by W. B. Richards.

Health stopped outfall

THE CHARGE:

The May 20, 1971, Jensen Beach Mirror features an article on one additional outfall discovered on the Indian River in St. Lucie County. We visited this site and noted that the health department was taking immediate action to correct the violation. An improved septic tank system was being installed. Dense foliage and unusually steep river banks in this area make it extremely difficult to detect such outfalls.

MIRROR RESPONSE:

We are happy to report that the Health Department took immediate action on The Mirror outfall report. But a Mirror reporter was able to walk down the beach to look for outfalls. Why, the couldn't the health department's inspectors.

The above May 20, 1971 issue of the Jensen Beach Mirror also contains an article in which an unidentified local sanitarian labels in previous report to you as a "whitewash". Since the alleged sanitarian refused to be named and failed to specify the nature of the information that lead him to believe the report was inaccurate, the credibility of the accusation need not be considered. I still contend that the findings support the position that Doctor Miller and his staff have made conscientious efforts to promote and maintain a sound, reasonable environmental health program in Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties. They have accomplished a great deal with minimal expense to the taxpayer and with very little fanfare.

We will continue our surveillance as circumstances warrant.

For the information of the County Commission, the public toilets on the first floor of the county courthouse violate Section 10-D-10.07, 10-D-10.10 and 10-D-10.14 of the Division of Health statutes concerning privacy, ventilation and soap and towels. They also violate occupancy statutes.

THE CHARGE:

15. On February 19, 1970, the Martin County Commission demanded that the health department use the county attorney to prosecute health law violations. To date such service has not been asked by the health department.

DR. STINGER, MAY 11:

Legal assistance has been requested and obtained from the county attorney, the county prosecuting attorney and the Division of Health's attorney. In any case where conventional means of obtaining compliance fails, all available legal resources will be used in prosecution.

Health to PC takes time

THE CHARGE:

24. Bureaucratic health, April 15, editorial. The long, time-consuming route of communications from the office of the Tri-County Health Department in Ft. Pierce, to the office of Air and Water Pollution next door was cited as an example of the ineffectiveness of the so-called "memo of understanding" between the two departments. The report goes from Ft. Pierce to Jacksonville, to Tallahassee, to Ft. Lauderdale, to next door in Ft. Pierce.

DR. STINGER, MAY 28:

It is true that the creation of a separate agency for the control of air and water pollution may have caused further fragmentation of the environmental aspects of public health.

MIRROR RESPONSE:

Dr. Stinger offers no way for the two departments of government, dealing in the public health, to get together. Instead, he admits to the "fragmentation". The Mirror thinks it is high time to stop intra-departmental snobbery and get on with the business of public health.

Swimmers swim in pollution

THE CHARGE:

36. The Manatee Pocket, which empties into the St. Lucie River at Sandsprit Park, has a high pollution rating as tested by Air and Water Pollution staffers. Laws require the county health department to test such waters where there is public bathing.

The county health department has not approved the Manatee Pocket as a bathing area because of physical hazards, i.e., heavy boat traffic. Under these circumstances routine bacteriological sampling is not performed by the health department.

MIRROR RESPONSE:

Sandsprit Park is on the Manatee Pocket. No "No Swimming" signs are on the beaches in that polluted area. No enforcement is there to keep the people out of the water. The Health Department has made no recommendations to the county to post "No Swimming" signs.

Also, though much of the pollution of Manatee Pocket comes from households, the Health Department had done nothing to get a check on disease carriers in control the waste disposal of the households.

Dairies work to clean pollution from rivers

THE CHARGE:

1. Dairies produce a river of manure. March 18, told of specific violations of dairies in Okeechobee County. Dairies dumped cow manure from milking barns into public waterways. The solution suggested as an answer was spraying all such pollutants on the dairy land through the use of "holding ponds". To date, according to officials of Florida Air and Water Pollution, sixteen farms in Okeechobee County have signed up to construct such holding ponds where none had before. Others are expected to sign soon.

DR. STINGER, MAY 11:

Okeechobee Dairy Waste: Dairy waste disposal being questioned in Okeechobee County is an industrial waste problem as stated in the memorandum of Mr. S.A. Berkowitz, the Chief of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, dated October 24, 1966. One of the stipulations in this memorandum which details areas of responsibility for the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control and the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the Division of Health is that all activities concerning the treatment and discharge of industrial wastes are the responsibility of the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control. In February, 1971, dairies in the three counties received letters from Mr. Alton G. Cox, Sub-regional Representative of the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control, stating them action must be taken to control the dairy waste problem. It is my understanding that personnel of the local office of the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control are presently working with the owners to arrive at a workable solution.

DR. STINGER, MAY 28:

A conference with the Regional Sanitary Engineer and review of correspondence with the Department of Air and Water Pollution Control clearly substantiates the fact that authority for the proper disposal of agricultural animal wastes rests with the latter department.

MIRROR RESPONSE:

Upon learning that we were incorrect in placing responsibility for control of effluent from dairy barns in the tri-county area on the Tri-County Health Department, we looked back through our notes. The responsibility we pinpointed came from information provided to us by the Division of Health, through the office of Sen. Beth Johnson.

We had asked Sen. Johnson to obtain a Sanitarian's Manual, the book of rules and responsibilities for Division of Health sanitarians, and a copy of laws governing the Division of Health, which she did for us.

Our information was obtained from a copy of the Sanitarian's Manual, dated 1961, supposedly the latest information available on the responsibilities of sanitarians. The book was given to Sen. Johnson as the latest information, and contained information no longer pertinent to the health department.

That we would be misled in this area of responsibility is the fault of the Division of Health, and how the Division of Health would give incorrect information to a member of the Florida Senate Health, Welfare and Institutions Committee, indicates the regard in which they hold our legislators. Inaccurate, outdated information is not a sign of proper application of the Florida Statutes, much less the keeping of proper manuals.

Also, there was no effort on the part of the Tri-County Health Department to either correct the information in The Mirror article or to turn this obvious violation of the law into a report to the proper agency, Air and Water Pollution or the Department of Agriculture.

Once the Department of Air and Water Pollution (now the Department of Pollution Control) began working on this matter, in the early part of the year, action was taken. The farmers cooperated fully, and in Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties holding ponds or the equivalent have put all dairies in the three county area in compliance or working toward compliance.

All action was on the insistence of Air and Water Pollution for compliance, with the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and county agents.

Though the article photographically pointed to open violation of the law, the Health Department made no move to report the violation to the Pollution Control Department, further underlining the failure of Health to work with Pollution Control.

Legislative panel listens

'Super Agency' might be state enforcement answer

Stuart -- The subject came up again and again as an ad hoc committee of the Florida Legislature listened to complaints of lax health law enforcement in Stuart last week; does Florida need a "super agency" to enforce health laws?

Top officials of the Florida Division of Health appeared at the meeting, and again and again cited the lack of manpower and legal assistance to enforce the laws of the state. In most cases presented as evidence of lax health law enforcement, the officials agreed to some extend with the charge and referred to delay after delay in trying to bring about enforcement through "education," rather than through the courts.

Sen. Kenneth Myers, chairman of the health committee of the Senate, talked with Johnson, Conoa, and Sen. Phil Lewis, West Palm Beach. Myers let it be known he was more interested in finding out how to "stop the buck-passing" through agencies that constantly pass responsibility for lax health law enforcement onto other agencies.

The testimony in the five hour session was begun with a resume to the count by Commission Vice-Chairman Frank Wachta, who fired the opening salvo, handing a copy of a two-year-old resolution asking health law enforcement passed by the county council in the six-member board.

"It took two years to clear up some of the sewage outfalls which we complained of," Wachta complained. The commissioner was the only member of the county commission to attend the meeting called by the county commission last June. Dr. Thomas Myers, chairman of the county commission, was unable to attend due to his patient's workload.

Wachta said that he felt he was a group of dedicated persons trying to serve the county, "...but they have a leader of the leader will not assist them in getting the job done." He cited the lack of funds for violations to be corrected.

The meeting got started at 10 a.m., and was attended by the Senate members and three House health committee members, Rep. Eugene Tubbs, Brevard; Rep. Don Hazelton, West Palm Beach, and Rep. John Thomas, Broward.

Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Jensen Beach Mirror, asked for a new agency to be formed to handle the entire scope of health law enforcement. To be called the Department of Environmental Conservation, the agency would have three divisions, planning, operations and enforcement. Campbell also asked for a special legislative auditing committee to look into the operations of the agency to learn if it was functioning properly.

Citing the failure of the Division of Health to enforce the laws, Campbell placed blame for that failure "directly on the governor."

Asked by Rep. Tubbs "why are we here, since this is an executive department function?" Campbell said that the legislature was his last resort. To Tubbs' questions about the response to pleas for help from the office of the governor, Campbell said he had been shuttled from one governor's aide to another, all of whom seemed to know nothing about the issue.

"Do you feel that this entire problem is the responsibility of the governor?" said Tubbs, "Yes, sir," Campbell answered.

Former County Attorney Dean Tooker called for sectionalizing the health departments, staffing them with engineers, technicians and attorneys, and said, "Hire good personnel and pay them good money."

Rep. Tubbs asked Tooker, "How many cases were successfully prosecuted during your ten year term as county attorney?"

Tooker said, "None that I know of."

The Mirror had, last March, begun a series of articles on lax health law enforcement that, with the complaints of the county commission, led to the health hearing in Stuart last week.

The officials of the Tri-County Health Department filed statements and answered questions of the legislators, as did the state health officials.

Books containing the entire series of Mirror health articles, features, editorials and columns, were given in evidence to the legislators, along with the special recap of all articles printed last week in The Mirror.

Appearing to present statements to the legislators were Al Cox and Paul Kloser, Department of Pollution Control; Bob Reed, Treatment Systems, Inc.; David Gale, city superintendent of water for the City of Stuart; Tom Higgins, county zoning head; Ross Witham, Department of Natural Resources researcher; Rep. Charles Nergard, St. Lucie County; Willard Bowman, Jensen Beach, and Russell Bollen, Jensen Beach.

'Bad people outside'

Frightened mother guards children as police search

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Stuart -- Children played "cowboys and Indians," surrounded by furniture, as they huddled on the living room floor, and a frightened mother sat with a snub-nose .38 caliber revolver in her lap Monday night for several hours as police searched for two escaped convicts.

"I was scared, real scared," said Mrs. Alice Dees, wife of highway patrolman Bob Dees, as she thought of the ordeal, and the safety of her two children, Dawn 5 and B.J., 3.

Highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and Stuart police searched behind the Dees' home in a deserted area between the house and Moore's Dairy for the two convicts who had overpowered deputies taking them back to Martin County jail and escaped.

"The first I heard of it was at 7:30 p.m. over the Florida Highway Patrol monitor. Bob and Jim (Lape) were on turnpike patrol, and they came to search after they learned that the convicts were spotted on Loop Road near our house.

"At 8:30 p.m., Melvin Waldron came by and asked me if I knew about the situation, and he said to make sure that I had the doors locked, and he asked me if I had a gun. I said, 'Yes.'

"They really got them pinned down between nine and ten o'clock. That's when it really started. They were between Moore's Dairy and where we live.

"I tried to keep everything normal, but at nine o'clock the kids became aware of police cars driving around and became frightened. I told them we were going to play cowboys and Indians, and they would sleep on the floor being real quiet so no one would know we were home.

"If any shooting would start, I didn't want them up high enough so that a bullet would hit them. I waited them down on the floor. They had pillows, and I had the overstuffed furniture around them so that if glass flew they wouldn't be hit.

"Then I sat there on the couch, with my snub-nose .38 in my hand, and watched the front door. It was a long hour, from nine to ten, and I made periodic checks of the windows and doors in the house to make sure that everything was still locked.

"Between praying that no one would come through the back and I would have to shoot them, and praying that the guys outside were all right, I sat and waited and listened to the monitor.

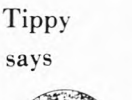
"The kids wanted to know if they were bad men outside. They were concerned about their father, about Melvin and Melvin Waldron, who live next door to us. The Waldrons are also law enforcement officers; one with the sheriff's department and the other a sergeant of Stuart patrolmen.)

"I told them that there were bad men out there who had done something wrong. I said we had to be quiet and play 'Cowboys and Indians,'" Mrs. Dees said. The convicts were apprehended near the entrance to Moore's Dairy, and Mrs. Dees said she first learned they had been caught about five minutes after ten when the parkway monitor reported it to all units in the field.

"It was a great relief to hear that monitor," she sighed.

"I was real scared," she repeated. "Then the first thing the children asked the next morning when they got up was if the men were caught. I told them they were."

Tippy says



For heaven's sakes, don't say "Things could get worse" to Sheriff Roy Baker.

65 miles

Feds okay west for I-95

JB--The western route of I-95 through Martin, St. Lucie and part of Palm Beach County has been approved by the district engineer of the Federal Highway Administration. Next step on the road to I-95 completion is approval of the Washington office of the Secretary of Transportation.

The sixty-five mile route would link Vero Beach and North Palm Beach, offer relief from heavily traveled U.S. 1 and the Florida Turnpike through the four counties.

The route is the one that has been the center of controversy in Martin and St. Lucie counties. It would travel east of the turnpike to a point southwest of Fort Pierce, travel west of the turnpike, skirt Jonathan Dickinson State Park and come back across the turnpike to Palm Beach County to pick up the present end of I-95 at Okeechobee, in Palm Beach Gardens.

The decision clarifies the point that the Florida Turnpike will not be used as a part of the interstate system. Previously, the turnpike carried the temporary designation of I-95 south of Ft. Pierce.

Engineering work will begin on the project as soon as it wins approval in Washington, expected early this week.

Approval will end the battle between environmentalists, who opposed the western route because of potential damage to the estuaries of the St. Lucie River and Loxahatchee River, and developers of Port St. Lucie, who have subdivision lots and developed hundreds of miles of roads over the turnpike, and those who would use the Florida Turnpike exit road for the heavily populated eastern seaboard.

The Martin County Industrial Development Board has asked that the turnpike be freed from the I-95 interstate designation (I-95), changing the route of the turnpike to a westerly road.

Question of the week

Do you think the planning and zoning board is doing as much as they should to ensure proper development of the area?

I don't know. Buck Hendry

No! I don't believe the beaches are being protected. We need more public beaches and I'm worried about disasters condominiums coming in.

Mrs. W. A. Stephenson

I'm afraid the shortage of public beaches is going to be critical in the future. Would seem to me the more beachfront the county can purchase, the better off we'll be. Glenn Bryan

I think they are trying to control it, but these things can't be done over night. Eva Davis

Warner Creek condos will have 700 units

CONDOMINIUM SITE--A new condominium development, to be [illegible] "Beacon 81 Boat Club and Apartments," will be located on a 60-acre tract of land which embraces Warner Creek in the Rio-Jensen Beach area on SR 707. Developer Robert J. Granger recently purchased the property from James Pardieck, Bob Russell and Ronald Nelson and has immediate plans for development.

[illegible]-Knight condominium complex, 200 less [illegible] approved for [illegible], will be built [illegible] creek in Rio by Granger, developer [illegible] Deluxe Conquistador [illegible] Sewall.

Granger announced the [illegible] last week, after purchase of the site for $[illegible],000 from James Pardieck, Bob Russell and Ronny Nelson. He said he plans to begin construction immediately, beating a December deadline for construction set by the Martin County Commission.

The new development will be called Beacon 21 Boat Club and Apartments.

Granger said he plans to build one marina now and a larger one later as he constructs the two-bedroom, two-bath cloister condominiums along the creek. They will be located well back from the creek thus preserving the St. Lucie River and Warner Creek waterways.

"When you have something pretty," Granger said, "you want to preserve it. We will keep a green belt, at least 100 feet back from the banks of the creek and the river, and we plan to create a path that would be a nature walk."

The developer said he would like to have the path under the bridge across Warner Creek on SR 707.

"Have you ever been under there? It is beautiful. We plan to build our first apartments on the west and north side of the road (SR-707). People then could take the nature walk along the creek to the east side.

"We plan to build in four, four unit buildings, all facing one another, with a landscaped area in the center, like a garden, one of the big features is that we plan covered parking for the cars. One covered parking space for each unit," Granger said.

He seemed excited about the concept, and talked about plans for the first marina, built on the site of the present area where pilings remain from a previous marina, just south of the bridge across the creek on SR 707.

"Then we'll build the clubhouse just next to that great stand of oaks on the creek" he said.

Granger said that he selected the name of the new development from the beacon light in the St. Lucie River across from the creek entry.

Cook of the Week

By Ruth Bowman

Sally Stagniunas' Apple Squares

JB--Cooking and sewing are the main hobbies of Mrs. Sally Stagniunas. Sally, husband Joe and their year-old daughter Sandra Lynn have lived at 233 Carroll Court for a year and a half, coming from Cleveland, Ohio. Joe is a salesman with J.C. Penney in West Palm Beach.

"I've been tempted at times to enter some of my recipes in contests," Sally said, "but I never got around to doing it." About five years ago, when Sally was a bride, a friend shared a special Apple Squares recipe with her. "The friend's sister wrote a column in the food section of a newspaper and this recipe was a favorite."

In addition to spending her time cooking, Sally is making maternity clothes. She and Joe are expecting an addition to their family the end of October. As soon as things settle down, she wants to join the Junior Woman's Club. Until then, she is busy at home.

Mirror photographer Dennis Doyle, after taking Sally's picture, returned to the office with a plate piled high with warm Apple Squares. "This is good duty," he said, passing the spicy baked goodies around the office.

Sally's Apple Squares

3 eggs
1 3/4 cups sugar
1 cup oil
2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon soda
1 1/4 teaspoon salt
5 tart apples, pared and diced
1 1/2 cup chopped nuts (optional)

Beat eggs and sugar with electric beater at high speed for 5 minutes or until sugar is dissolved. Add oil, flour, cinnamon, soda and salt and beat at medium speed until well mixed. Mix in diced apples (Sally usually adds another apple, depending on size) and nuts. Batter will be thick.

Spread in ungreased 9 x 13 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Cool in pan, cut in squares, and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Homer for his effort and perseverance in getting the county pest control bogging machine into Venture Out Mobile Home Park. We sure hope they keep it up, as we sure need some relief from those bomb diving rascals and pests.

Lake Manor

BY CORRINE DAVENPORT

We are so happy to be back at Lake Manor, and never has our park looked so beautiful and green.

To Ralph Cramer, again we owe many thanks for his careful tending of our lawns, shrubs and flowers.

Our summer was spent mostly in travel. For the first time in four years we visited all of our five children, our numerous grandchildren and "great-great." There was a delightful three week stay in Denver, a stopover in Milwaukee to see Madeleine and Fred Halfast, and a visit with our son and family in Madison, Wis.

A hurried trip to N.H. to attend a grandson's wedding was followed by a visit to our favorite state of Maine. Back to Mass. for five weeks and the usual hectic packing and home again.

Jan and John Sollenbarker spent their summer visiting family and friends in northern Penna. They report a delightful two weeks camping at Lake Pymatuning. They returned here early in September.

Dorothy and Harry Beamer sold their home in N.J. in July and came back to the park where they plan to make this their year-round home.

Lee and Tad Olson are leaving us at the end of the year to occupy a new home being built for them in New Port Richey on the west coast. The Olsons sold their home in Wis. in late June and have since been at Lake Manor.

Carroll antique cars are featured in Disneyworld

JUPITER — Three cars owned by Rick Carroll, local insurance agent, will be featured in the grand opening television spectacular for Disneyworld next week on NBC.

Acceptance of the three antique automobiles restored by Carroll, a nationally prominent auto restorer, was announced last week. Carroll will have three of 25 cars that will be in the opening parade of Disneyworld, to be filmed for a next Friday, October 30, release on NBC.

Carroll said that he will have a 1907 Maxwell, a 1910 Cutting and a 1912 Simplex in the parade. The 1910 Cutting is the only Cutting in the world and is considered a very rare car.

Attending the filming in Disneyworld next Monday morning will be Mr. and Mrs. Carroll, and their son, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sweet, Jensen Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Nate Linell, Palm Beach. They will ride in the parade.

The three cars will be taken to Disneyworld Sunday for a practice session of the parade, which has 25,000 persons working on the format, according to Carroll. The parade will feature an 1100 piece band.

"We'll have to work all night getting the cars ready, and I still have to shave a car in Miami Saturday," Carroll said.

Escaped nabbed

Stuart — Two prisoners being returned to Martin County Monday for trial on charges of robbery slugged a deputy sheriff in a light plane as it landed at Stuart, took his gun, and led law enforcement officers on a six-hour chase that ended in Palm City.

Terry Norman, 22, and Milton Dotson, 20, both of Alabama, escaped as the light plane landed at Stuart, after holding pilot and Deputy Sheriff Harold Zarcher at gunpoint until the plane rolled to a stop.

The man had slugged Deputy Sheriff Dick McCoy with a fire extinguisher and taken his gun during the landing.

After a six-hour chase, the men were apprehended by Deputy Sheriffs Melvin Waldrop and his brother, Marvin Waldrop, a City of Stuart patrolman, when they caught the men at the home of Dotson's brother on a dairy ranch.

Both men were considered dangerous, with records that included charges of rape, assault, armed robbery and burglary. They were arrested in Decatur, Ga. on a routine check when stolen property was found in the car.

The manhunt included all available units of the Florida Highway Patrol, Martin County Sheriff's Department and City of Stuart Police Department.

Hospital is cleared

Stuart- Martin Memorial Hospital has been cleared by Assistant State Attorney Harold W. Long in the beating death of a woman patient recently. Long questioned hospital officials and personnel including hospital administrator Guy N. Cromwell, Dr. Leon Powell, a pathologist, and Hildegarde Mayer, custodian of hospital records.

The death certificate of Mrs. Margaret Clark, 80, listed three causes of death including beating with a lethal. Her assailant, according to Long, was Maynard B. Slack, 80, Hibiscus Park, who died last Thursday. His death certificate listed emphysema and hardening of the arteries as the causes of death.

Phillip Balestrine

PSC - Phillip C. Balestrine, 63, of 5 Barcelona, Spanish Lakes, died Sunday at Martin Memorial Hospital. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he had lived in the area since April.

He is survived by his wife, Anna M.; a step-son, a step-daughter, and one brother.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at St. Joseph Catholic Church, Stuart. Burial was in All Saints' Cemetery, Jensen Beach.

GOOD EATING—And this is no fish story. Ida and Harry Hausman caught these bites and whiting in the surf last week, off Hutchinson Island at Vanture Out.

Quadruplex denial is given by county

Stuart-- The request for a zoning change in Jensen Beach by Felix Granados came as an abrupt halt at Tuesday's county commission meeting.

Granados, appealing to the commission for the second time, objected strenuously to the one year time limit for the start of construction of 28 quadruplexes just south of the Jensen Beach Cutoff [illegible]. The request for a change from R-2 to R-3 had been approved by the Martin County Zoning Board for the 26.2 acres of land. Commissioners pointed out to Granados, who described himself as "a developer not a speculator", that he had signed the application with the zoning board which stated, "It is further certified that if active participation is not initiated within 12 months the zoning would revert to the original R-2 zoning."

"I didn't know what your policy was in this county," the developer explained, asking that the one year time limit be waived.

"I think this is such a valuable item," Commissioner Frank Wacha told Granados. "This has already been passed by the zoning board."

"At the last count a few years, I would rather have my request denied now," Granados made the motion reconsidered.

"Denied," Wacha said.

While Commission Chairman Bill Myers was calling for a vote, Granados gathered his maps and papers and quickly left the meeting room.

County ignores Veterans Day

Stuart-- It worked. Martin County ignored a national holiday.

Veterans organizations did not gather, and flags did not flutter.

The banks were closed, but county offices were open. The post offices were closed. The stores went to selling. One street another as a [illegible] the tide [illegible] remained a [illegible] today.

It started when County Commissioners Bill Owens and Frank Wacha objected to the changed national holiday, saying that the traditional [illegible] of Armistice Day-Veterans Day [illegible] for them.

The banks went along with the [illegible] November 11 [illegible] the federal observance of [illegible] along with the [illegible] traditional observance of the Veterans of [illegible] One was set for [illegible] and then, when [illegible] struggles of [illegible] veterans will recognize their "buddies," the aged voice will recite "Flanders Field", and veterans of all wars will be honored with patriotic speeches.

Armistice Day-Veterans Day will be celebrated as it has since 1919 in Martin County, on November 11.

Tony Romano

Tony Romano closes seven years Friday

JB-- Tony Romano, pianist-entertainer at Jensen Beach, will make a special engagement at Frances Langford's Outrigger Resort this Friday night. Many local residents, friends of the singer-guitarist, plan to be on hand for the final performance of his stay.

The star of movies, stage, television and radio will open an engagement at the Wigwam in Palm Springs, California, on November 1 and plans to leave with his family on Saturday morning.

Romano, a song writer with over three hundred copyrights, and a list of credits of the entertainment field that spans over thirty years, was first known for [illegible] his movie roles and for his activities in entertaining with the USO [illegible] Troupe during World War Two and the Korean conflict.

The leaving Romano said Tuesday, "There comes a time when a person has to leave beautiful people, and probably won't see those beautiful people again, except in my heart. All I can say to them is 'Thank you for your friendship, Outrigger and my friends."

Johnny Cuzzins, who has played with Tony Romano during the past several years, will head a newly formed trio at the Outrigger Lounge beginning Saturday.

Mirror tests new computer

JB- Field testing of a new typesetting computer began Tuesday afternoon as Richard P. Fleming, systems specialist engineer of Compugraphic Corporation, Wilmington, Mass., began installing the new text-setting device in Mirror offices.

The Mirror is the third of four newspapers in the United States selected to field test the new machine before it is placed on the market.

Small newspapers have had problems in the past adjusting to the cost of the computer-set devices on the market, and the Compugraphic Corporation has been experimenting with the smaller typesetting devices to find an answer to cost and to the specialized production problems of the small newspapers. The officials feel that the new model, called the "Compu-Writer, Photocomposer", will be the answer to small newspaper needs.

Compugraphic Corporation has pioneered the miniaturization of previously large and expensive computers for use in small newspapers.

Display type for Mirror advertisements and headlines is set on the Compugraphic Model 7200. The new Compugraphic will set the body type for news stories and advertisements in sizes that cannot be handled by the display machine.

Let's take their hand out of your pocket!

Somebody's always coming up with a bright new idea to raise money—and usually it comes right out of your pocket.

If you figure it's about time to keep other people's hands out of your pocket—vote "NO" to the Florida income tax amendment on Nov. 2

We don't need any more public plucking. What we DO need is some political payroll cutting, and more people in Government who treat other people's money with as much tender loving care as they do their own.

Blaisdells visit family in Texas

JB--Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Blaisdell of 103 Hickory Ridge Road, Jensen Beach, recently returned from a three-week trip to Waxahachie, Tex., (a suburb of Dallas).

Purpose of the trip, according to Mrs. Blaisdell, was to visit their daughter, and her family, especially the her new granddaughter, Leslie Anne, four months old. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Lightfoot have a son, Kevin, 6, also.

The Blaisdells flew to Texas, Mrs. Blaisdell's first plane trip. "I was scared," she said, "but I had no reason to be. It was a lovely flight, and of course, the new grandbaby is just adorable."

UNUSUAL--Earl G. Escott of the E.E. Honey Ranch on Indian River Drive, Eden, grew this avocado pear in his yard on a nine-year old tree. This is the best one of the crop, and the rest are practically the same size. The seed used when planting the avocado tree came from a tree over 50 years old. Escott says the avocado was intentionally nourished by Mrs. Escott with her "God's gift to woman."

Old and Helpful Proverbs: If you would like to lose a troublesome visitor, lend him money; small favors are returned, middling ones acknowledged and great ones sometimes repaid with ingratitude.

Lee and George Chambers had their grandson from Miami visiting with them over the weekend. Tony Victurelli went fishing with grandad and they came home with six whiting, two croakers, and two spot. Not bad for one afternoon.

Betty and Ed Miller from Gary, Ind., spent two days with Ida and Harry Hausman last week while vacationing in Florida and visiting their children and grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Wallace and Mrs. Robert Elliott from Hialeah visited with Catherine and Hank Higgins over the past weekend.

Don and Sam Tucker just arrived from their summer home in Mass. Welcome back once again to Venture Out and the group is glad to see you both safe and sound.

Theo and Bruce Slagle received a letter from Eloise and Warren Ward of Lewistown, Pa., and they want to be remembered to everyone. They are looking forward to their return to Florida in the near future.

Mid. and Charlie Stroup have asked to be remembered to everyone at Venture Out. They are the couple that stayed with Theo and Bruce Slagle last winter.

Ida and Harry Hausman spent two days in Miami visiting Ida's brother and wife Hollie and John Dean. They went fishing and caught two mackerel, several blue runners and some jacks. It looks like the fishing is just as good right in our own back yard.

Another group went bowling again on Friday morning at Jensen Lanes.

Scores were: Hank Higgins, 117, 107, 177, total, 400, 6-game average, 189; Bruce Slagle, 189, 120, 167, total, 476, 3-game average, 136; Theo Slagle, 107, 103, 88, total, 308, 3-game average, 102; Harry Hausman, 128, 189, 167, total, 484, 6-game average, 161.

The architect's sketch of the new Venture Out swimming pool at Martins and mess deck complex is new to the front office. It looks very interesting and encouraging and we all hope for an early ground breaking and completion of this major project for us at the mobile home park.

Venture Out news notes

Our trip to the Orient

Tuesday, July 13: After breakfast, we started out on a tour of Kyoto, about 75 miles north of Kobe, by way of train. Kyoto was once the capital of Japan, for more than ten centuries. It is often called the cradle of the culture of ancient Japan and today, though the city is modernized, has a population of about one and a half million. It's more than 2,500 shrines and temples scattered throughout, providing virtually unfathomable depths for even the most determined tourists.

Surrounded by mountains, the city was laid out as the capital city on the checkerboard model in 794 when Emperor Kammu moved the capital from Nara.

Kyoto is the city of festivals and during any year there are scores of them. Three of them are internationally famous.

After arriving at Kyoto station we visited Higashi Honganji Temple, which is a monumental example of Japanese Buddhist architecture. It's main hall is the most eye-catching landmark around Kyoto Station. We also visited the Kinkakuji Temple called the Golden Pavilion, dating back to the Muromachi era (1392-1573) and was originally a villa.

We taxied to the International Hotel for lunch and then walked to Nijo Castle which is about 300 years old and quite an interesting place. It was built in 1603 and was the residence of the successive Tokugawa Shoguns (military dictators) until the Imperial Restoration of 1868. The gardens around the castle were very beautiful and well cared for.

We took another taxi to the Imperial Palace, but due to lack of time were unable to spend any time inside the palace. We then returned to Kobe by train and stopped in the department store to do a little more shopping and just made sailing time by cab to the dock. The gangway was raised at 6 p.m. and we were on our way again, heading for Inchon, Korea. As we sailed out into the bay we watched the sunset as it went beyond the distant mountains around Kobe. Another evening was spent playing cards and games before retiring, everyone tired but happy.

Wed., July 14: We woke up to a beautiful warm day with a very calm sea. We passed the southernmost tip of Japan about noon. Everyone was sun bathing and enjoying the sunshine. At 3 p.m. we had another fire drill on deck, attended by all passengers and crew. Our position at 15:30 was approximately 130 degrees east longitude, and 31 degrees north latitude, or 362 miles from Kobe and heading into the East China Sea with temperature about 90 degrees.

We had a briefing about our visit to Korea, Hong Kong and Taiwan. The exchange of money, tours and shopping was also discussed. After dinner we had a movie, which was very good and then to bed.

Thurs., July 15: We woke up again with fog all around us and unable to see the mainland of Korea. Skies cleared around noon and we had a nice day. Saw many cargo ships as we neared Inchon harbor. Arrived and anchored off Inchon about 1 p.m. Motor launches and barges arrived and started unloading our cargo. It was too late to go ashore so we stayed on ship and watched operations. After dinner we all played cards and games as this was the last night aboard ship for a while.

Friday, July 16: Everyone was up early and at 8:30 a.m. the launch arrived to take us in to Inchon. Inchon was nothing to talk about and we were glad we were not staying for long. We all went to the Everett Shipping Office and arrangements made for our bus trip to Seoul. We had a good look at the countryside of Korea on the way and arrived at Seoul before noon.

The capital city of Seoul is a fully modern metropolis. Though quite up-to-date in terms of comfort and convenience Seoul remains the repository of more than 500 years of Korean culture. The Duksoo Palace is an example of Seoul's unique blend of the new and the old. There are many parks, palaces, museums, and temples in or near the city.

We visited several temples and shrines and then drove up to the top of Mt. Nam San overlooking the Han River, where we got a good view of Seoul. We then left for the airport and arrived at about 4 p.m. for our flight to Hong Kong. After a good flight with plenty to eat (in fact too much) we arrived in Hong Kong at 10 p.m. in a heavy downpour of rain and thunderstorm.

A cab took us to the Hong Kong Hotel (very luxurious) and we retired early.

Sat., July 17: We slept in late, and awoke to a cloudy and rainy morning. Decided to do shopping rather than sightseeing. Bought some gifts, clothes and shoes. After lunch we returned to the hotel for a short siesta before dinner. Dinner was at the San Francisco Steak House--real American food for a change.

Sunday, July 18: We woke up late and had breakfast before taking the ferry to Hong Kong Island. Took a ride on the tram to the top of the Peak. Wonderful view of the island, Kowloon and the harbor. After lunch we took a bus tour of the New Territories and well worth the time. We made a complete circle of Kowloon peninsula, through the country-side and towns as far as the Communist China border. We passed many farms, saw water buffalo, fishing villages, mountains, floating restaurants, junks, sampans, and then through a tunnel back to the city.

More next week.

SCHOOL MURAL - About 40 pupils in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades at Jensen Beach School are working on a mural that will be displayed on Tallahassee as part of a fence surrounding the Capitol expansion construction site. Many schools throughout the state are taking part in this "Thin Sawyer Project," submitting murals that, local school children chose an underwater scene with a large sailfish predominating to represent Martin County. The youngsters are working under the guidance of Mrs. Pat Sawyer, local artist.

Why is Pen Money better than Pocket Money?

Pen money—the kind that comes from writing a check—can't be lost.

Pen money can't be stolen, either.

Pen money doesn't need to be spent like pocket money does—so there's a lot more of it around.

Pen money can be traced by cancelled checks—but pocket money, once gone, often leaves no trace at all.

Martin-Boca battle to scoreless finish

Stuart - The Martin County Tigers almost pulled victory out in the last minute of play, trapping the Boca Raton quarterback in the end zone, but the Bobcat leader scrambled over to the one yard line as time ran out and the Tigers and Bobcats settled for a scoreless tie last Friday night in Boca Raton.

The see-saw game, set for Boca, then for Martin County due to racial disturbances, then back to Boca on parent's promises of a safe atmosphere for the game, was a defensive battle all the way.

The Tigers collected six first downs to the Boca seven. They only collected fifty-eight yards rushing, as Boca gained 131, and one pass play netted Martin County nine yards in seven tries, as Boca failed to complete a pass, threw seven, and had one intercepted.

The only Boca threat ended with a fumble on the Tiger five, covered by Billy Barnes.

The Tigers have a free week this week, and sure have a season record of one win, three losses, and one tie.

Trailer burns

OBP - Recently returned Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Van Vleet didn't expect a housewarming when they arrived at their winter home, 5 S. Indian River Drive, Monday. But they got more than they bargained for.

The VanVleets arrived here from Michigan, got unpacked then went out to eat dinner. While they were gone a fire started in their mobile home, causing about $2,500 worth of damages.

Three trucks and eleven men from the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department answered the alarm at 7:15 p.m.

SCORE- Mike White dances across the goal line in the third quarter for a score as Palm City romped to a 26-0 win over Port Salerno in the county pony league last Saturday night.

While the couple was kept busy upstairs showing their home to two of their friends, others silently set up an elaborate buffet in the downstairs family room. When the time came for Rose and Vince to take their visitors on a tour of the downstairs area, they were speechless when they opened the family room door on a well-established party. They were kept busy all afternoon accepting the good wishes and gifts of friends in "This Home That Vince Built."

Skyline residents protest LP gas tank

By DICK CAMPBELL JB The installation of a ... gallon refueling storage tank for propane gas in the industrial area along the F.E.C. Railroad in Jensen Beach has created a storm of protest from residents along Skyline Drive.

A petition has been circulated by residents along the drive and on Tuesday ... signatures had been collected ... according to Edwin Miller, one of those ... working on the project.

The plan, to meet Wednesday night, tonight at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Reed on Skyline Drive, to form an organization to oppose the ... Miller said. He added that residents along Skyline Drive were invited to the meeting.

Miller said that officers will be elected at the meeting for the new organization and that the residents along the drive were planning to take the petition to the county commissioners and ... if they don't stop the permit issuance ... an injunction against.

A building permit was recently issued by Tri-County Gas to install the tank on the ... industrially zoned land. The permit was issued after state ... fire marshal approval of the installation was obtained.

Miller said that the M-1 classification of the industrial area did not allow propane gas storage. He added that the zoning specifically states that it is an M-2 zoning that is required.

Martin County Zoning Director Tom Higgins said Tuesday that the M-1 classification doesn't deny the use of the land for the tank.

"I signed the building permit on this basis," Higgins said. "M-1 allows the uses of B-2 which authorizes retail, wholesale and distributing businesses which Tri-County Gas is. In fact Tri-County Gas has its main plant in the M-1 industrial area in Golden Gate.

"You'd probably have to have a bigger tank than 12,000 gallons to have storage in bulk as the M-2 classification calls for. This is legal and I'll say that at the county commission meeting," Higgins said.

Miller cited the danger of gas leaking, danger to children in the area and said, "the protest on this has been terrific. It's an exposed gas tank, and we're going to stop it."

County approves corporate tax

By Martin County voters overwhelmingly backed the new Florida corporate income tax in a surprising turnout of voters Tuesday.

Four thousand, one hundred and fifty-five cast of 14,316 voters cast ballots in the election.

Voting by precincts was as follows:

Precinct #1, Langford Park, Jensen Beach 609 yes, 292 no; #2, Presbyterian Church, North River Shores, 254 yes, 194 no; #3 Fire House #2, Dewey-Hayes Building, 203 yes, 134 no; #4, Stuart Youth Center, 341 yes, 218 no; #5 Redeemer Lutheran church, 222 yes, 159 no; #6 Fire House, 223 yes, 264 no; #7 Pine Valley Elementary School, 470 yes, 298 no; #8 Port Salerno Fire House, 223 yes, 264 no; #9 Hobe Sound Civic Center, 472 yes, 204 no.

Precinct #9 Indiantown Civic Center, 57 yes, 94 no; #10, Sewall's Point Town Hall, 92 yes, 82 no; #11, East Stuart Civic Center, 50 yes, 46 no; #12, Zack Jacobs Store, Indiantown, 102 yes, 80 no; #13, Booker Park, 41 yes, 33 no; #14, Jensen Beach, 225 yes, 36 no; #15, Rio Civic Center, 154 yes, 65 no; #16 Martin County Agricultural Building, 132 yes, 99 no; #17 South Martin County Fire House, 138 yes, 74 no.

Class of '73 wins in upset

By Mary Jo Neeson

STUART—The Junior Class of Martin County High School emerged victorious after a long, hard battle Friday night at Long Field. The heavily favored Seniors fell under the weight of the three touchdowns scored by Mildred Jacobs.

Mildred got a handoff from quarterback Mary Jo Neeson and ran a quick 8 yards for the first touchdown. 70 yards for the second, and 65 yards for the third on a handoff from Carol Waxler.

Debbie Johnson, Roxanne Fagen and Julie Pyle proved to be invaluable on the Juniors defensive line backed up by Sheila Carr.

Darlene Wright, last year's heroine, proved herself again with runs of 37, 35 and 30 yards, but the '73 defense was waiting for her. The first senior touchdown came with 6:47 left in the first quarter when Pam Kirk ran 11 yards for the score. Quarterback Jackie Crane then passed to Quick Quinn King for the 2 point conversion. Their second score came from a 9 yard run by Beverly Way.

The winning coach was Dick Reed; the losing coach was Weldon Brown.

My only comment: Look Out Class of '74!

Cobras win seventh

STUART, Florida's top ranked high school football team, Ft. Pierce Central, defeated Twin Lakes 38-14 to hold on to its number one honors and garner its seventh straight win of the year.

Terry King carried the ball for 222 yards and scored four touchdowns in the battle that saw Ft. Pierce score in every quarter, dominate the offense with 16 first downs, 387 yards rushing and 36 passing. Twin Lakes could manage only three first downs and scored its 14 points against a second team effort of the Cobras in the closing quarter.

The Cobras play at Forest Hill next Friday.

Association meeting

The D&M Park Association will hold a meeting Wednesday Nov. 1 today at 7 p.m. Please come and help in any way you can to get our activities rolling. Hall gets face lifting

A group of the women in our park met at the hall Tuesday morning for rolls and coffee dressed in their work clothes. After breakfast, screens came down, curtains came down and a general cleaning of ceiling, walls, screens, windows and floors began. Then we hung beautiful new fiberglass curtains, and Marvin told us to leave chairs outside and he would have the floor painted, which was started Thursday morning. It will be a pleasure to hold our meetings and dinners in such a nice bright room.

Cook of the Week

By Ruth Bowman

Marie Klein's fish roll-ups

Mrs. Marie Klein's choice for this week's Cook of the Week is a special recipe this week for preparing fish.

"Sandwiched between my first and second fish," she said when interviewed in her cheerful, sunlit home in Palm Grove Estates, on Hibiscus Drive, "and that's pretty," she smiled, "this recipe is a change from the regular fried fish and it's very simple." Mrs. Klein, who has lived on Jensen Beach since she retired, got the recipe from a Spanish friend when the Kleins visited in the Dominican Republic. She and her husband have a childhood sweethearts affair, getting to this country about 1924. They lived in New York, then started moving further south. Mr. Hubert Klein enjoys the fishing. Mrs. Klein has a married daughter in Montclair, N.J., four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She says if puzzles intrigue her, and this is her favorite hobby, that I don't have a birthday, that's beating it," she said. She has been a puzzle addict since she was the puzzles because I need one right, but still does a great deal of reading.

Fillets of trout are cuts of fish. Roll up fillets and fasten with toothpicks. Spoon the following dressing on top.

Fry 2 fillets out 2 slices of white bread in small frying pan in chopped onion which has been sauted golden in margarine or butter. Season with tomato juice, salt and pepper to taste. Set in heavy fry pan in with with butter, cover tightly, and cook for 10-12 minutes. Medium or fresh about 15 minutes under broiler with medium heat, but do not turn the fish.

It's the tomato juice that gives good flavor and keeps the fish moist.

Leading citizens in a four county area representing Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee are heading a fund drive for the expansion of the Student Center at Indian River Community College. To date $ 000 has been received with $354,986 more to go Displaying the picture of the 13,500 square foot expansion are Charles S. Miley, former board of trustees chairman of the Endowment Corporation; Alma Lee Loy, Vero Beach county commissioner; Hoyt C. Murphy, St. Lucie County; Robert Fenton, Martin County committee chairman and Ira M. McAlpin, St. Lucie County.

Each county, $90,000

IRCC to begin drive for $360,000 student hall

FT Plans for a 13,500 square foot expansion to the Indian River Community College Student Center were announced Monday by college president Dr. Herman A. Hesse. Leading citizens in the four counts area, Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee, will head the fund drive to raise $360,000 in pledges by the first of the year.

The committees for the Indian River Endowment Corporation.

Each county will have to raise $90,000 for the classroom expansion, which will have its largest room named for the county donating the most money. To date Martin and Indian River Counties have donated money. Martin with $5k from the Jensen Beach Lions Club and Indian River with $5,000 from an individual brings the total to $10k with $364,954 still to go.

The pledges can be payable over a three year period ending in February, 1973. Dr. Hesse said. "If we know we have the $360,000 pledges in January, we can ask for bids soon and start construction by summer."

"This might seem like a lot of money," Hesse pointed out, "but it should be accessible considering the service we give the four counties."

Dr. Hesse told members of the Endowment Corporation and the press. Several years ago the board of trustees raised money for the auditorium and at that time any square footage built by private funds were taken away from state funds. But in 1970 the State Legislature stopped appropriations for student center construction so now we can use private funds without having any state funds taken away.

At present the college has 3,173 students enrolled, compared to 1,701 in 1968. Dr. Hesse said. "We know we have the problem during the day when students come from other counties and need a place to go between classes. Many of our students eat breakfast, lunch and dinner here. The present student center can't seat fifty percent of the students during the peak hours.

We owe our students who attend the college more than that," Dr. Hesse said.

This fall semester Indian River Community College has enrolled 84 students from Palm Beach, 72 from Okeechobee, 235 from Martin, 457 from Indian River and 804 from St. Lucie Counties.

Population density is editor's concern

JB: High rises are not the main topic of concern of the people. The concern is population density." Mirror Editor Dick Campbell told the Jensen Beach Kiwanis on Monday.

Campbell pointed to the population of petitions opposing the construction of high rises on Hutchinson Island as an emotional opposition to the influx of people into the community. The people are not so much opposed to the high rises as the filling of the island with families living the nine-story high style slated for the eastern section of Jensen Beach Causeway, Campbell said that if the buildings were constructed under the plan there would be a golf course, a sandering, through buildings with plenty of open space.

If the buildings were held to four stories, the number of dwellings would be more than slated, the golf course eliminated, and just a minimal amount of green space for grass and trees around the buildings.

"Cut the building height in half again, and you'll have a wall to wall houses, with little or no grass, Campbell explained.

From this, we see that the concern of the people is not how high a building is but with how many families are allowed on the property. Thus, again, we get back to population density.

Campbell suggested that the people go to their county commissioners to seek the population density they wanted not only on the island, but throughout the county.

The commissioners have neglected their responsibilities by putting off the decision on density for this period of time, he said.

But most of all, we must remove all this emotion from our appeal. The county will listen to fact based upon potential traffic on that two-lane road to the island, based upon increased traffic and taxes due to the future need for four-laning roads, or another bridge across the Indian River, but the commission will not listen to emotional outbursts based upon glittering generalities."

The editor asked that all Kiwanians press for a county policy on population density control, and asked that they inform citizens about the need for a more factual approach to the problems created by the "fantastic growth the area is experiencing."

Planning goals seek plan ideals

A list of nine long-range goals have been sent to Roy F. Cowell, Martin County's master planner, the result of research by the Martin County Commission and the planning and zoning board.

The goals:

1 Low density restrictions controlled high rise development. Four to ten stories maximum over four stories must be approved, as the number of stories increases the percentage of ground coverage by structures decreases. The maximum density should not be more than 15 apartment units per acre.

2 Expansion of industrial development--the proper amount of land for industrial growth to be protected in proper and logical locations, with the proper relationship to all other uses.

3 Expansion of commercial facilities the proper amount of land for commercial facilities reflected by the proposed need by other land uses in the plan.

4 Balanced economy - stress the seeking of light industry. Suggest asking Industrial Resources Development Board. Have the ability to encourage a balance between our predominantly retired population and a sound diversified working force to try and keep the young people of Martin County in Martin County through a variety of businesses industries, and services which offer an opportunity to them.

5 Preservation of agricultural land-reduce the pressures to take agriculture land for development and division by speculation into many ownerships.

6 High level of public services-lower capital costs for providing services because facilities and functions will be anticipated and programmed and budgeted early.

7 Adequate circulation-reduce highway capital and maintenance costs to public with a controlled and planned growth pattern.

8 High quality recreation facilities and scenic open space-provide opportunities to program capital costs, controls that would require the dedication of open space or where appropriate require the building of private facilities to serve a given development placed under a homeowners association to assure facility upkeep, special consideration toward the access and use of the oceanfront and beaches.

9 Maintain high level of educational facilities - properly located facilities in phase with residential development.

Higgins said the committee would like the planner to meet with and receive opinions on these goals from various local organizations.

Extensive damage

Northeaster undercuts Jensen causeway slab, firemen's pit

By DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH-On August 12, 1971 The Mirror revealed erosion of the Jensen Beach Causeway that endangered the firemen's barbeque pit and the slab of the Jensen Chamber of Commerce pavilion.

The article reported Unless action is taken before fall and winter storms the long firemen's barbeque pit stretching the length of the pavilion may be in position for under cutting by the river tidal action.

The article also mentioned the Jensen Chamber pavilion slab is hanging loose its soil filled base undermined by the storms and tidal action of the Indian River.

Last Saturday the Firemen's barbeque pit cracked open falling half way into the Indian River tidal area of the causeway and the slab of the Chamber of Commerce pavilion broke off completely falling crazily to the beach.

Both were destroyed by the torrential rains and the high tides of the Indian River that were experienced last week.

The County ends the closer as the barbecue pits and pavilions were used continuously for picnics special events and tourist gathering places for Jensen Beach.

Erosion of the causeway and the danger to already completed facilities much of them donated by local civic organizations was reported last January by The Mirror. The Martin County Commission reacted by installing 255 feet of seawall saving the county restrooms and the Jensen Beach fishing pier.

But the move was not enough and erosion continued. The cry for help of The Mirror in August was ignored by the commission.

The high tides of fall lifting sand from the causeway and washing it out into the Indian River took their toll and the gale force northeaster blew the waves and rain into the north shore of the unprotected area of the causeway causing approximately ten feet of erosion.

Besides the man made facilities that make the causeways a popular picnicking area for all residents even visiting campers from as far south as Miami the trees that hold soil along the causeways have been left up in the air by the erosion.

The Australian pines are standing on their roots the sand soil washed away. Previous stands of pines were killed by the erosion and the washing action of the river.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha said in August that the county was planning to complete the bulkheading of the causeway. Wacha said Monday that the county would take action on Tuesday on its fall damage to the causeway.

TREES AWASH The Jensen Beach Causeway erosion has endangered the line of Australian pines on the north side of the causeway. High tides and the northeastern winds over the past weekend have cut away at least ten feet of the causeway. Emergency action is needed to save the pine trees.

STROYED. The firemen's barbecue pit scene of many community events since it was ilt to the county over five years ago, broke apart last weekend as heavy seas rushed und the unfinished seawall and washed soil out from the foundation. Another pit of ina stone was also washed into the river as erosion continues on the Jensen Beach useway.

UNDERCUT ROAD Heavy rains almost washed out SR 707 near Commercial Street last weekend. A call to the sheriff's office brought no action so local residents placed a construction sawhorse alongside the road to warn drivers of the danger and county road crews filled in the hole within an hour of the call.

5,000 sign to oppose high rises

JENSEN BEACH-Efforts to have the Martin County Commission outlaw high rise buildings on Hutchinson Island and throughout the county gained support this week as more than [illegible] were collected in the petition drive according to John Hesburn vice president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Hesburn reported Monday night that he has found the people decidedly opposed to high rises on the island or in the county.

Noting the present family lines on the island Hesburn said that high rises could fill the island with families who actually like the roads as many as 300 families from each high rise.

Developers are there to make money and nothing else Hesburn said to directors of the Chamber. When they are finished they will say Bye-bye suckers and leave. That's the way they are.

[illegible] names were reported acquired in Jensen Beach with the rest collected by John Leedy and George Ewing in Stuart, according to Heyburn, who plans to present the petitions to a meeting of the planning and zoning board on Nov. 18.

UF annual meeting will be Friday

N. BEACH. The [illegible] meeting and election [illegible] of the Jensen [illegible] United Fund will be [illegible] Friday at 8 p.m. [illegible] Park Field House according to Mrs. Ransom Tilton United Fund president.

All members of the board of directors area captains and participating agencies representatives are invited to attend the meeting to plan the 1972 drive of the all for one one for all campaign.

Mrs. Tilton said Monday that she didn't know when the drive would be held but estimated that it would be some time in February as last years drive was held at that time and was successful.

Lake Manor Park News

By Corinne Davenport

The girls numbering twenty six got together last Monday morning for a most enjoyable coffee hour and business meeting.

A discussion was held regarding the many needs of kitchen equipment. It was decided that each of us bring to the next meeting any surplus things we no longer use towels cleaning cloths, cutlery especially large serving spoons salt and pepper shakers just anything. An inventory will be taken and necessary purchases will then be made.

A schedule of social activities was drawn up as follows:

Monday Card playing at the club house 7:30 p.m. Come and play the game of your choice everyone invited.

Tuesday A morning coffee on the first Tuesday of each month at 10 a.m.

Wednesday Hobby classes 1 p.m. Movies once a month the first to be shown on Nov. 17th at 7:30 p.m. These are given by courtesy of Indian River Community College so lets show our appreciation by a large turn out.

Thursday Beginners Bridge lessons 2-4 p.m. Jen Bollenbecher instructor. It is fun try it!

Friday Bingo 7:30 p.m.

On December 10th at 10 a.m. we will substitute our monthly coffee for the usual Christmas cookie party. Each woman in the park will be contacted in regard to this by one of the following committee members:

Lee Van Curs, Ellen Nugent, Dot Reamer and Minnie Leuter.

* * * *

There was so much enthusiasm at the first bridge lesson many asked can't we do this oftener than once a week? Looking over the above activities, it was a little hard to see where there would be any available time. In fact one remark we heard was, when are we ever going to do our housework?

* * * *

Fern and Ed Hill will leave on Wednesday for their home in Columbus Ohio. They will be back in January for three months to enjoy their new 12 x 8 mobile recently installed in the west end of the park. We'll be happy to see them.

Week end guests of the Hills were Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson of Ohio.

A warm welcome to our new residents Mr. and Mrs. Margaret Elken and her daughter Elinar and Professor and Mrs. Cobb. The Elkens have purchased the Orefice home and come from Port Washington, Long Island.

The Cobb's are from State College Penna. and we hope to interview them later this week.

* * * *

Ethel and Clair Brewer have returned from their home in Lakewood, Ohio where they spent most of the summer.

After leaving Lake Manor in May they travelled westward to New Orleans and had a delightful sight seeing stay for several days, then to Takio, Missouri, to visit their son, Clair Jr. and his family. They had a joyful reunion with all of their great grandchildren. So glad to have you back.

* * * *

Jen and Frank Robertson were happily surprised last week by old friends from Riverhead, Long Island. They were Mrs. M. MacKay, Mr. Walter McFarlan and Mr. Stanley Binkowski.

Several hours were spent in pleasant reminiscing and Jen gave her guests a tour of our own beautiful park.

* * * *

Helen and Paul Ebrahm spent their summer at their home in Binghamton, New York and came back to Lake Manor two weeks ago. Last spring the Ebrahms purchased the former Klimmek mobile.

* * * *

Ev and Bill Borseth just returned from their home in Grand Marais, Minnesota, report a very cold summer there. They told us there was scarcely a day when furnace heat was not needed. Grand Marais is on Lake Superior.

* * * *

We have an alligator in the lake a large one. He comes and goes at will, but we always know when he is in residence for the ducks are not in the water. They are on the bank or under the picnic table (apparently) calm, but wary. It is quite a sight to see them on the lake swimming in and out among the gorgeous pink and white pond lilies.

It is more of a sight to seed the alligator half way out of the water, placidly eating bread thrown to him by one of his friends here in Lake Manor. He is a good topic of conversation, but most dog owners wish he would go far away and stay there.

* * * *

So much interest was shown in last weeks story of the Cherokee Indians in North Carolina we thought more could be told about them.

After the Revolution the Cherokees found they had lost to the white man their hunting grounds in Virginia and West Virginia. They had been driven out of South Carolina.

Their lands once embracing nearly 50,000 square miles had been reduced to a few hundred.

Many of the old generations were drifting westward but a new generation had grown up. Daily contact with white settlers and missionaries succeeded in spreading a doctrine of peace and brotherhood. They were learning new farming methods they began to cultivate the valleys of North Georgia and eastern Tennessee and in North Carolina they planted crops. About 1810 the great Cherokee genius, Sequoyah produced an alphabet a strange mixture of symbols representing the various sounds of the language the only written language of any American Indian tribe.

During the war of 1813 the Cherokees joined with General Andrew Jackson as further proof of their friendship and desire for peace. Only a few years later a handful of male contents were flattered into signing a treaty which ceded the entire Cherokee country to the government for less than 50 cents an acre in return for lands in Oklahoma.

Andrew Jackson who was by then President of the United States ordered the Cherokees to be moved west.

A mass exodus was carried out but some of the Indians had been able to obtain legal rights to their lands. Others went into hiding.

These people have become highly intelligent citizens, active in the life of their communities. They publish their own newspaper, conduct their own schools and churches and operate an outstanding craftsmen shop.

* * * *

Doris Tucker offered us an interesting item in regard to another similar annual event given in an outdoor amphitheatre in Boone North Carolina.

A play called Horn of the West depicting the life of Daniel Boone attracts thousands of visitors each summer.

* * * *

Don't forget to visit the Bookmobile this Thursday November 11th at 7:40 p.m.

THANK YOU

Jennie and Frank Robertson wish to express sincere gratitude to their neighbors for the helpful assistance and concern during Frank's illness. They are happy to report a favorable diagnosis at this time.

HALLOWE'EN IS GREAT!--That's one opinion that is not necessarily shared by Scott Ewing, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ewing. Scott was one of many participants at the Hallowe'en Carnival held at Jensen Beach on that Saturday afternoon.

FIFTH GRADE- Sarah Lord was the prettiest, Chuck Van Dien the most original and Brian Kahl had the funniest costume in the fifth grade group at Jensen Beach School's Hallowe'en Carnival Saturday.

SIXTH GRADERS--There was a tie for most original between Melissa Stalker and Beth Whitney, center above. Jay Hassinger, left, was the funniest, and Rhonda Brock prettiest.

Involvement is the key to Walter Redit retirement

By ALICE HICKEY

Retirement and involvement are one and the same if you care about people and your community.

Walter Redit is one who does. He is involved, so involved he finds little or no time for his favorite hobbies of boating and gardening.

While strolling over his yard he pointed to a bed of beautiful gladioli as well as newly spaded area he had prepared for tomato plants.

"I enjoy gardening," he said, but I guess I might be too busy. It seems as though I have to force myself to get things done.

Those who know Redit will find that statement hard to believe.

Considering himself retired, Walter Redit is president of the Jensen Beach Lions Club for five years, a director and past president of the Jensen Beach Samaritans Association, a member of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, 1st Vice president of the Martin County Chapter of the Association of Retired Federal Employees, member of the Martin County Taxpayers and a member of the Anglers Club.

He is also a member of the Air Force Association, Reserve Officers Association and American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers.

Commenting on how he became so involved with civic activities Redit said, "It is simple. You meet people who make suggestions and if you are interested in your community you just naturally become involved.

One of the major problems in our country today is that people don't seem to take an interest in the other fellow and try to help him out.

Actually anything I have become interested in since my retirement is an outgrowth of years serving in the public relations field," he said.

Redit's concern for the other fellow is evidenced by his active participation in the Samaritans and the Lions Club.

Working in these two organizations gives me a real opportunity to help others when they need it most," he said.

Aside from serving on the board of directors for the Samaritans he is one of the attendants on duty at least two days every week and sometimes more.

The Samaritans, a Volunteer ambulance group serving area residents, maintain a stand-by crew of two attendants and one driver at all times.

Redit has been a member of the Jensen Beach Lions Club for five years. For the past three years he has held the office of secretary.

Concern over the community in which he lives led Redit to becoming an associate member of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

"I am very interested in the development of our community," he commented. Everyone should show an interest.

We are faced today with a desperate situation here in Martin County, and to narrow it down even more right here in Jensen Beach. With the canals and rivers being the main attraction of the area it is of the utmost importance that an over all master plan be completed immediately to control the growth of the area.

The cemented beach fronts with their high rises cannot gain for themselves. The additional requirements placed on the county to provide adequate roads to handle the traffic, water supply, sewage systems and adequate school facilities all cost money.

Redit feels controlled progress is a necessity.

Organizations must work together to attain this before it is too late," he said. We don't want to be just another county with 25 miles of street-to-street concrete beach front topped with towering high rises and no public beaches for our people to enjoy.

As an associate member of the Chamber of Commerce Redit is serving on both the Beautification Committee and the Water Protection Committee.

The Martin County Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees also claims a considerable amount of Redit's time.

He retired after 37 years in government service as a research mechanical engineer with the Department of Agriculture. He is also a Lt. Colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

In the NARFE organization Redit wears two hats. One as 1st vice president and the second as the program chairman.

As program chairman he is responsible for lining up speakers and arranging the programs for their monthly meetings.

Just recently he was instrumental in encouraging over a 50 per cent enlistment of NARFE members in the Defensive Driving Course which was made available thru the National Safety Council.

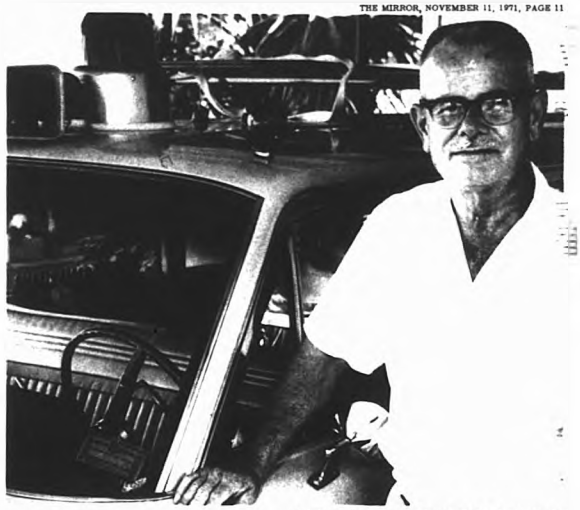
This was a four week course, 2 hours per week and was under the instruction of Sgt. Billy O'Brien of the Florida Highway Patrol. The purpose of the course was not only to learn safe driving techniques but to be more able to anticipate what the other drivers might do and to become more familiar with the state regulations.

According to Redit members found the course to be very beneficial.

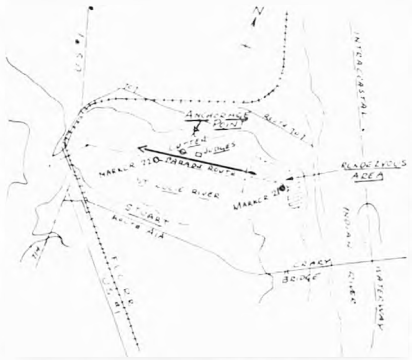
Due to a heavy schedule and the obligation I feel for the Samaritans, the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce I do not intend to hold an office in NARFE next year," Redit stated. "I just don't seem to have the time to do the job to my own satisfaction.

Mrs. Redit commenting on her husband's activities said, "I just hold the fort down and answer the phone. I'm glad to be able to help him, but I do hope he doesn't get into anything more at least for awhile.

I can understand people when they make remarks about not having anything to do. Redit commented. I really do feel sorry for them because there is so much opportunity to work for their community and for themselves.



REDIT WORKS Walter Redit is one of the many retired volunteers who serve the community. He is a volunteer ambulance driver in the Jensen Beach Samaritan free ambulance among other activities and is properly qualified and trained in first aid for attendants.



BOAT TIE Boats will rendezvous at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the area at right near marker 21 for the parade and blessing of boats during planned Coast Guard appreciation day activities. The parade of boats will travel west to marker 17.

New computer doubles output, easy to work

By DICK CAMPBELL
JENSEN BEACH—When Mrs. Wilda Dailey arrived to set type at The Mirror office on Sunday night she received her first instruction on the new Compu Writer Photosetter. In ten minutes she was setting news on the computer.

This illustrates the ease and simplicity of the newest computer on the market to installed several weeks ago in the office of The Jensen Beach Mirror for field testing. The Mirror was chosen to field test the new computer by Compugraphic Corp. one of the leading computer companies in graphic arts.

Following the ten minute check out on the computer Mrs. Dailey set several paragraphs of news and the results were developed in the Kodak Ektamatic Processor. Several mistakes in the typesetting were noted and the copy was reset proper keys on the typewriter like keyboard were struck and the results again processed.

From then on Mrs. Dailey was setting news matter for The Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie Mirrors having mastered ... a half hour a highly technical piece of typesetting machinery.

It is true that technical matters such as multiple column widths, bold face type and other refinements of the computer were not learned at that time but probably 90 per cent of The Mirror's production is now column typesetting and the refinements will come with time.

Three Mirror typesetters can already do the refinements, which allows The Mirror to have type faces never before available with the newspaper's limited equipment.

Mrs. Ruth Bowman, society editor of The Mirror, has highest praise for the new computer. She likes the ease with which the gears and fonts of type are changed. She also finds the keyboard faster than a conventional typewriter keyboard, but with more keys.

Tabulation on the Compu Writer is difficult, according to Mrs. Bowman, who says that such a refined machine should have input keys for easier tabulation of tides, weather and bowling scores.

"I personally think that the computer is tremendous," said Mrs. Bowman. "I not only enjoy working on it, but also I look forward to typesetting each day."

Mrs. Geri Lennard echoes the comments of Mrs. Bowman and thinks that the tabulation is a thing "that must get easier as we get used to the machine. It just can't be as difficult as it seems," she says.

Mrs. Geri Lennard echoes the comments of Mrs. Bowman and thinks that the tabulation is a thing "that must get easier as we get used to the machine. It just can't be as difficult as it seems," she says.

For straight copy "it's fantastic," she said.

FILM TAPE—Installing a film strip in the new electronic computer that is being field tested by The Mirror, Geri Lennard, typesetter, learns how to change type size on the computer. The new device will improve the type selection and readability of The Mirror.

INSTALLATION—Richard P. Fleming, systems specialist for Compugraphic Corporation, shows the new Compu Writer Photocomposer to typesetters Ruth Bowman and Geri Lennard. Fleming installed the new computer in The Mirror two weeks ago. It is a new device in at is not yet released by Compugraphic and is being field tested by four newspapers in the United States.

COUNTING BALLOTS—David Deci, president, and John Heyburn, vice-president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce counted ballots on the newly devised director election last Saturday afternoon. All present directors were returned to office in the election.

Chamber elects

JENSEN BEACH. The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce announced Monday night that all incumbents were elected to one-year terms of office on the board of directors.

Seven write-in votes for seven different candidates were polled in the accounting of votes on Saturday afternoon at the Chamber office after the first mail vote of the newly organized Chamber.

The individual votes did not affect the overall voting with 37 members voting in the mail ballot out of 125 members.

Members elected included Mrs. Faye Gay, Mrs. Eva Caulder, Walter Woodrich, Richard Campbell, Don Wilkie, Jon Chesky, Richard Sexson, Hamilton Wade, Virginia Van Dren and John Heyburn. David Deci, president of the Chamber, is automatically a member of the 1972 board.

The election is part of a new Chamber election process that was approved as part of a reorganization of the Chamber that has taken place over the past two years. The election is provided for in a mail ballot of the members. With 37 votes, the participation of the members is still greater than previously, according to President Deci, who told the board of directors Monday night that in the past as few as 13 had elected the officers and directors at meetings.

The board this year will select the officers from their number or from specially appointed persons.

In other business, the Chamber heard that 25,000 1972 fishing and resort guides were received by the Chamber and were ready for distribution. Rich Seeger, guide chairman, said I am very happy, very satisfied with the guide.

LEARNED that condemned buildings or buildings that should be condemned can be reported to the county building department in the office of the County Administrator in Stuart.

AGREED to pay for the paint to be used by the Stuart Methodist Church youth group to paint the pavilion on Jensen Beach Causeway.

Zoning crowd expected

STUART: A large crowd is expected to attend the Martin County Planning and Zoning Board public hearing Thursday night at Martin County Courthouse when the zoning board takes up changes in regulations concerning population density.

Spurred on by a massive response to a petition opposing the construction of high rises on Hutchinson Island, local residents are expected to attend overflowing the small commission meeting room where the meeting will be held.

The main issue seems to be the height of buildings and one of the proposed changes will limit buildings to four stories except on special cases where the height can go to five stories or one hundred feet.

Petitioners opposing the high rises claim that they have gathered over 5,000 signatures according to petition sponsors who said that the petitions are valid and have been circulated in Jensen Beach.

Another issue to come up at the meeting will be the sign ordinance which would require that all billboards be removed from the prospects of the Federal government are going to ask a public hearing on the matter and that all signs be removed by 1975.

County charter discussion set

STUART: Florida legislators who represent Martin County will be asked to sit down and talk about a possible charter commission for the county in the near future. The Martin County Commission took the action in preparation of a possible charter commission being established by the next legislature.

Political implications were striking in the discussion. The law states that the legislators would name the commission based upon recommendations of the county commissioners but caused the question of just how much to consider the recommendations.

Fran Myers suggested that each commissioner submit names of three for the commission. Commissioner Bill Sayers said that all commissioners should agree unanimously on each commissioner's selection.

Dr. William G. Myers, commission chairman and a physician, suggested that anyone appointed to the charter study should be one who was not active in the political affairs of the county government.

Myers said, "Such a study must necessarily and very often be critical of county government." He said, "People don't want to appoint people to serve but want to appoint a private citizen."

Commissioner Frank Wagner said that the charter study should be "a thorough study of the charter, what's in it, what's not in it, what's good and what's bad."

Wagner said, "I think we should appoint an able group of people who will study the charter and come back with a report to the commission."

Parents, rumors add woes to Murray 9th

STUART: These rumors are frightening, we said Principal Bill Murray of Murray Junior High School in response to reports of the Monday and Tuesday disturbances at Murray Junior High.

By Tuesday, the rumors had started to be circulated that there would be a big fight between the Murray and Jensen Beach students after the football game. Parents were called by their children and informed that there would be a big fight after the game. Some parents called the police and asked if the situation could be checked out. The police and were told by Lieut. Norman Lewis that there was no need.

Norman said that after the evening football game was over, he talked to the principals of both schools and there was no indication that there would be a fight. Norman said that he was told by the principals that there would be no fight.

Murray said that the rumors were started by a few students who were angry at the decision of the football coaches to bench them for disciplinary reasons.

What does Thanksgiving mean? Eat your food....

BY FRITZ BURKEY
Age 8

Editor's note: This is a story written for Mrs. Edith Jankunis, third grade class at Jensen Beach Elementary School. It tells a story as only an eight year old can tell it.

We had a few fights on Monday between individuals shoving and pushing. Some students from Indiantown didn't want to go to class because they said they didn't feel safe. Some returned to Indiantown. Another said

On Tuesday, parents from Indiantown followed the buses to school and then sat in the car. After school, the Well, when you're older you will understand. Some day. Then she called everyone to the table.

As we were eating I was still thinking about why the holidays.

Why aren't you eating? mother asked.

Well, I'm thinking about Thanksgiving.

You'd better eat thinking doesn't go with eating. So eat. Then Mother said, Ask your father about it later.

When we had finished eating, I asked Dad the same thing.

Well, Thanksgiving celebrated.

Well, why don't you find out for yourself. Look in the encyclopedia, Dad said.

Well, why didn't I think of that, I wondered.

After I had looked in the encyclopedia it said, that when White Men had made friends with the Indians they had a big feast, and that's what it is all about.

When I had gone to bed I was still thinking, it's fun to look in the encyclopedia.

Apostolopoulos-Wyatt vows are exchanged

JENSEN BEACH—Miss Catherine Leilani Wyatt became the bride of George Apostolopoulos at a 7 p.m. ceremony on October 23 at Jensen Beach Community Church. The Rev. Donald E. Johnson officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wyatt of Palm Ave., Jensen Beach. The groom is a resident of California Ave., Stuart.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white floor length gown of Sata Peau fashioned along Empire lines with long bishop sleeves and standup neckline. Venice lace trimmed the neckline, the front of gown, sleeves and the chapel length train. A tiered illusion veil was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls, lace and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations.

Her traditional something old was a hand-tatted handkerchief which had been carried by her mother, grandmother and great grandmother at their weddings.

Miss Brenda Sutton of Stuart was maid of honor. She wore a willow green floor length gown featuring a high neckline, bishop sleeves and A-line skirt. Ivory lace trimmed the neckline and sleeves. A matching headpiece with veil completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

The church was decorated with various sizes of white mums, candelabra and palms. Mrs. Violet Chapman was organist, playing traditional wedding music.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wyatt chose a lime green silk shantung dress with silver leaf embroidery. Her corsage was of green carnations.

Costa Apostolopoulos served his father as best man. Ushers were Danny Priore, Vince Bocchino and Bob Bryant.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Brandon, the bride's grandparents from Winston Salem, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brandon, Greensboro, N.C.; Mrs. Eva Wyatt, the bride's grandmother, of Jacksonville; Kiki Morris, the groom's sister, of Farmington, N.H.; Mrs. Sophie Roullard of Farmington, N.H., sister of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Massey, Dade City, and Mrs. Don Weitzel, Miami.

For her wedding trip to New York City, Mrs. Apostolopoulos chose a jacket ensemble of tan and brown with brown accessories. Her corsage was of salmon colored roses.

The newlyweds are at home at California Ave., Stuart.

Lake Manor Park News

By Corinne Davenport

The first business meeting of Lake Manor was held on November 8th at the club house.

A silent prayer was observed for Paul Combs who passed away in May.

A flag was presented by his widow Marge to replace the tattered one we now have.

Officers for 1971-72 were elected as follows:

Bill Davenport, president. Mildred Mullon, Secretary Treasurer. Executive Committee: John Bollenbacher, Henry Steinborn, Jack Bell, Clair Brewer. Social Committee: Corinne Davenport, Jen Bollenbocher, Dot Beamer, Ethel Bullock, Gladys Oakes. Bingo Committee: Gene Krakaur, John Bollenbocher, Ken Dubuque, Glenn Oakes, Fred Balfanz, Harry Beamer.

It was encouraging to seed more interest shown this year in forming a Shuffleboard Club. Frank Meisse was chosen president, Lee Tucker will serve as Secretary-Treasurer.

The first Round Robin will be held at 1 p.m. on November 15th. Let's have a good turn out.

+ + + +

Anyone interested in forming an Art Class this year should contact Mildred Mullon. We already know of Mildren's talent so please share yours with her.

+ + + +

We're happy to have Ethel and Andy Bullock with us again.

They have sold their large home in Battle Creek, Mich. and have bought a smaller one where they plan to spend six months of the year.

+ + + +

Five tables were in play at the club house Tuesday night. Bridge and pinochle were enjoyed and we hope more will join in the fun at our regular Monday night event. This past week's card night postponed to Tuesday because of the scheduled business meeting on Monday.

+ + + +

Elsie and Stan Cobb are newcomers to the park this year and we extend to them a warm welcome.

They are residents of State College, Pa. where Mr. Cobb was a professor of Agronomy. He has been retired for several years and he and Elsie have wintered for the past three years on Indian River Drive and Ocean Breeze.

The Cobbs are parents of a son who is with the DuPont Company in Martinsville, Va. a daughter in Allendale, New Jersey, and are grand parents of five.

+ + + +

Margaret and Virgil Lowe spent most of the summer at their home in Blue Point, Long Island. Virgil says he worked hard on repairs and additions and was happy to get back to Lake Manor so that he can rest. The Lowes enjoyed a trip to Cape Cod and a visit to Margaret's son in Sterling Forest, Long Island.

+ + + +

We are heppy to hear that Charles Brinsley is making a slow but satisfactory recovery from serious complications following surgery. We hope he will soon be able to be out and around again.

+ + + +

Bingo was enjoyed by many last week. Glenn Cushee and Fred Balfanz were in charge. It was their first experience in running the game and everything went smoothly.

For reasons known only to those of us who were there it was agreed that John Bollenbocher be up there calling numbers next week.

+ + + +

There will be 30 movies this year as previously announced. Indian River Community College, who provides this service, hopes in 1972 that funds will be made available so that these monthly entertainments may again be brought to various groups who enjoy them so much.

+ + + +

Jen and Frank Robertson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrell, recently of Park City, Fort Lauderdale. Plans were discussed for a return visit to their new home at Lake Placid, Florida before the holidays.

+ + + +

Jen Robertson celebrated her birthday on Nov. 8th. with a dinner at Simonson's Seafood Restaurant in Fort Pierce. Her husband Frank, son Frank Jr. his wife Elsie and grandchildren Lynn and Keith presented gifts and felicitations.

+ + + +

There is still time to join the Thursday afternoon Beginners Bridge lessons, although there will be none until after the holidays. The next date is Dec. 2nd.

+ + + +

Doris and Max Burdine were among last weeks arrivals.

The spent all of their summer at their cottage on Lake Scott, Mich. taking time out only to attend the Tri-State Square Dance Festival at Notre Dame and a Round Dance Workshop at Indianapolis.

The Burdines are enthusiastic and talented dancers.

+ + + +

Its been impossible to get around to everyone this week, but we promise a visit in the next few days.

+ + + +

After a happy summer at their home in Patchogue, Long Island, Liz and Gene Krakaur say they are so glad to be back at Lake Manor.

Their two sons and a daughter all live near by and they had the joy of greeting a new grand-daughter, Stacey Elizabeth.

Unfortunately, their trip South was marred by a bad accident just outside of Orangeburg, South Carolina. A Mackj Cement truck hit the rear of their car, damaging it beyond reasonable repair. Liz and Gene were not injured, for which we are all most grateful.

+ + + +

Mrs. Lydia Yoder and Mr. James Bulgard were married on November 10th at the Trinity United Methodist Church by the Rev. Neil M. Gunsalus. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Olson.

Lake Manor friends and neighbors extend their best wishes to the newly married couple.

+ + + +

Many residents of the park gathered at eleven in the morning on Veterans Day, November 11th to raise the new flag honoring the late Paul Combs.

Heads were bowed in silent prayer and all joined in a salute to the flag.

Annual church fair will be Friday

JENSEN BEACH–The annual Fall Fair of the Jensen Beach Community Church will be this Friday, Nov. 19. The day-long event, sponsored by the Ladies Aid Circle of the WCF will end with a pancake supper from 4:30 to 7 p.m. served by the Men's Fellowship.

Booths will include hand made articles and aprons, boutique, Christmas gifts and trimmings, jewelry, Christmas and every day cards and stationery, a bake and food sale, hand-dressed dolls, toys, blood pressure, white elephant, plants and flowers. And Madam Lillie will be on hand to tell fortunes.

Members of the Friendship Circle will serve refreshments throughout the day.

Many ladies have worked all summer making articles and have met weekly for three months in workshop sessions getting ready for the fair.

ASSIGNED: Airman Stanley R. Nickle, son of Mrs. Betty Nickle of Indiantown and Robert Nickle of Stuart, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., and has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo. for training in the munitions and weapons maintenance field. He is a 1971 graduate of Martin County High School.

Maritime art display at Elliott Museum

JENSEN BEACH–Representational maritime paintings by Bruce Elliott Roberts of Miami open the season at Martin County Historical Society's Elliott Museum. The exhibition is on view through December.

The art gallery at the Museum on Hutchinson Island is open to the public free during regular visiting hours 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Interested especially in history and the sea, Roberts, his wife and five children live aboard a 45 foot gaff-rigged ketch, now berthed at Dinner Key but long accustomed to the waters of the Caribbean.

Before their present home, the Calypso Queen, the family lived aboard an 80 foot sailing craft of 150 tons.

Susan Tilton in "Porgy & Bess"

JENSEN BEACH – Miss Susan Tilton daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Tilton recently took part in a presentation of "Porgy and Bess" at Converse School of Music in Spartanburg, S.C. Her mother attended the program and told The Mirror, "It was the greatest musical program I have ever heard." Mrs. Tilton said a complete symphony orchestra composed of students and some faculty members, took part, as did an 80-voice high school chorus.

Miss Tilton is a secondyear student at Converse.

Mrs. Padina Price of Jensen Beach received word from her daughter Mrs. Robert A. Miller of Spartanburg, that she had attended the performance.

Susan Tilton was a soloist and sang beautifully, Mrs. Miller wrote. "I know that all who know her in Jensen will be very pleased to know that she was well received. She wore a pretty blue velvet long dress and wore her hair up in back in a large bun. She looked lovely."

Hazel Heritage visits Florida West Coast

JENSEN BEACH–A five day visit to the west coast of Florida was enjoyed recently by Mrs. Hazel Heritage of Sunview Road.

Mrs. Heritage attended the American Legion Square Post reunion of members who have moved to Florida. The meeting was in St. Petersburg, she told The Mirror.

One of the high spots was a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Fischer who were winter residents of Jensen Beach in 1968 and 1969, and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Artz.

Mrs. Artz was president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce several years ago. "They are happily located," Mrs. Heritage said, adding that they send their regards to their many friends here. "Mrs. Artz is able to ride a bicycle," Mrs. Heritage added.

Retired electrical contractor is a live wire at 82

By SUE HICKEY

Jeannette Arthur Hamilton is unbelievable. 82 years old. Unbelievable, that is, when you see his tall vigorous figure striding briskly around his beautifully landscaped yard.

He admits to spending an average of five to eight hours a day to keep in that yard well groomed. His lot is 150' x 134' and filled with flowers, shrubs and a variety of palms his favorite trees.

At one time I thought of hiring part time help in the yard but when they only started to cut the grass, the easiest part of maintaining it, I continued to do it all myself.

Hamilton said "I like to understand people who regardless of the wages, refuse to roll up the shirt sleeves, bend the back a little and do a real day's work. It seems as though nowadays too many people are looking for too much compensation for too little work."

His attitude towards idleness is easily understandable. Arthur Hamilton is a self made man.

Born in a West Virginia coal mining area and one of eleven children, he went to work in the mines at the age of twelve. An enthusiastic baseball player, he had the opportunity of learning the electrical trade in exchange for pitching and managing a team at the age of 22.

When this opportunity was presented he accepted it, studied hard and worked long hours. He thrived on the theory that there is plenty of room at the top if you are not afraid of work.

At the time I was playing and managing that team in Clarksburg, West Virginia, Lefty Groves, now a baseball hall of famer was bat boy on an opposing team, Hamilton recollected.

His theory paid off big dividends. Today Hamilton is the small town boy who retired after 44 years in the electrical business as the owner and president of the largest electrical contracting firm of its kind in the state of Florida, Hamilton Electric, Inc., in West Palm Beach.

The Hamilton's move to Florida in 1925 had been a necessity. Mrs. Hamilton, in ill health at the time, was advised by her physician to seek a warmer climate.

That move, Hamilton said, was beneficial in many ways. Last August, Genevieve and I celebrated our 56th wedding anniversary.

Retirement at the age of 70 for Hamilton meant only a change of activities, but not his activeness.

Moving to Jensen Beach in 1960, he had drawn his own house plans, supervised all the construction, and did all the electrical work himself.

An avid sports fan to this day, it was only natural his first civic involvement in the community would revolve around the Langford Park Association. He served on the board of directors for a number of years and has been president of the association for the past six years.

We had a king-sized problem at that time in trying to raise sufficient funds to keep the ball rolling, Hamilton said. The land had been donated to the people of Jensen Beach by Frances Langford and John Hall for a recreational park, with the stipulation a minimum of $1,000 of improvements be made annually.

We had hoped a membership drive in the association would be the answer to raising the necessary funds, but there were not enough interested people in the community to pay the one dollar annual fee.

It was at this point that Hamilton, then president of the association and working with the directors, was instrumental in getting the park turned over to the county for maintenance.

Pony league baseball started in Jensen Beach with Arthur Hamilton as the first coach.

Out of the five years I coached that team, we won three pennants, a second place and the fifth year we had a play off for first.

Hamilton recalled.

He had remembered every detail of that play off game.

That was a game to remember, he said. It was short several players due to vacations, and we had filled in our team with little leaguers and still managed to hold them down for 13 innings before losing out.

When asked if he still enjoys watching baseball games, Hamilton replied, That depends on where you are at the time. An old baseball player never enjoys watching a game from the stands. You see we ole hitters can't seem to learn to keep our mouths shut. We become too much a part of the game and the first thing you know we are shouting orders.

I find the best way is to watch the games on television in my own living room, where I can coach the whole thing from my armchair without any interference.

Playing an important role in the organization of the Jensen Beach Shuffleboard Club, Hamilton served as the first president.

The shuffleboard courts at the park are maintained solely by its members, he said. They have lined the courts and done their own carpentry and electrical work. They also erected a building to house the equipment and even more recently, enclosed the area with a chain link fence.

All members of the club pay annual dues as well as a park fee to cover maintenance and improvements.

Hamilton is an enthusiastic advocate of the Martin County Senior Activities Club, and he is currently serving as president of the group. His formula for a long life, 'Busy yourself and live longer', has a direct tie-in with the organization.

Our area is filled with retired persons, Hamilton said. Many of these people have found their retirement to be a very disillusioning and lonely experience. They have moved here from communities where they have lived and worked all their lives, leaving friends and neighbors behind. Much attention is focused towards finding activities for the youth of the area, while the seniors are left to find their own social contacts.

We hope that through our recently organized Senior Activities group we can eliminate this plague of lonliness. Any resident of Martin County 55 years of age or older is eligible to join the organization for a very nominal registration fee, Hamilton said.

Members enjoy arts and crafts classes, playing cards and various other games, dancing, speakers and entertainment. There are scheduled tours available to members throughout the year.

Hamilton urges all interested citizens to attend the meetings held every Wednesday afternoon at the Stuart Youth Center.

Mrs. Hamilton, commenting on her husband's activities, said, "I don't really approve of him working so hard all of the time, but if he wants to do it, it's up to him."

The Hamilton's home on Arch Street in Jensen Beach is indicative of the fact that both he and his wife enjoy working in and around it. A lover of antiques would be enchanted with the old fashioned parlor in their home, which Mrs. Hamilton refers to as her sanctuary.

SHOWPLACE.... Arthur Hamilton spends much of his time in keeping his yard the showplace it is.

On Oct. 7 Mrs. Walker and her niece, Miss Nolan, flew from Baltimore to Honolulu for a two weeks vacation, then back to Los Angeles. The people want a high level of services and a low cost of those services. If you spread out the cost over 60,000 people you can't keep the county debt free.

Cowell added that I-95 was another conflict. He pointed out that he would favor I-95 to the west of the Florida Turnpike if the county wanted to maintain its natural beauty.

Any roadway that is built will bring more people. To say that the people here want to go somewhere else can be answered by saying if the area is so beautiful why would they want to go somewhere else.

"We will recommend the westerly route" Cowell said. "But we'll try to give both sides."

Cowell mentioned that the high rise fight presently being conducted in the county was based in part on "scare tactics."

One person approached another asking him to sign the petition saying he should sign if he was against sky scrapers.

W CHAMBER OFFICERS–New officers of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce were ed by newly-installed directors at Monday night's meeting. Dave Deci is president. John ours, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Van Dien, secretary, and Richard Neeson is treasurer.

INSTALLER–County Commissioner Frank Wacha, a past president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, installed the new board of directors of the Chamber last week at a banquet at the Crow's Nest. Wacha was introduced by Chamber President Dave Deci. Installed as one year directors for 1972 were Walter Woodrich, Faye Gay, Richard Neeson, Don Wilkie, Eva Caulder, Jon Chicks, John Heyburn, Ham Wade, Virginia Van Dien and Dick Campbell.

Same officers

Chamber reelects Deci

JENSEN BEACH–Dave Deci, outgoing president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, became the incoming president Monday night as the board of directors elected the same slate of officers as served last year into their posts.

Citing the many plans that have been instituted in the seven month term of the rump-year of the present administration, and the opportunity of those plans through the next year, the directors voted unanimously to return the present officers to their posts.

Elected vice president was John Heyburn, secretary Virginia Van Dien and treasurer Richard Neeson. The executive committee of the Chamber was also selected and will be the officers plus Richard Campbell a director as the fifth member. Helen Richardson was returned to office as executive director.

The directors voted to keep their meeting night the second Monday of each month, and voted to retain the present dues structure.

Plans for a membership drive were discussed in the short board meeting, lasting only one hour. The board agreed to set up a drive using the entire board of directors as a committee of the whole.

Insurance increased for firemen

STUART–Martin County volunteer firemen and their auxiliaries will be entitled to more insurance coverage if injured or killed while on duty according to a move by the Martin County Commission Tuesday.

A request to advertise for bids presented by County Commissioner Elmer Powers was approved unanimously. Bids will be returned Dec. 6 at 10 a.m.

The expanded insurance policy for firemen is badly needed, Chairman Bill Myers said. The proposed expansion will increase accident, death and dismemberment coverage to $20,000 from the present $10,000, have a weekly indemnity period of 104 weeks, increase total disability factor from $50 to $100 a week, give accidental medical expenses of $2,000 with the first $25 deductible, include heart and circulatory failure coverage for firemen up to 60 years of age and include coverage of all junior firemen and auxiliary members.

The premium is expected to be less than $2,000 annually, Powers said.

Inlet plans lower county participation to $800,000

STUART–Martin County's delayed the St. Lucie Inlet project for six years and came up the winner with local participation under a recalculation revealed Corps of Engineers plan at $800,000.

That would be a savings of almost two million dollars.

The entire cost of the new plan will be $8.4 million and the Martin County contribution share is $800,000. Under the old plan Martin County would have had to pay the majority of the cost or $2.5 million.

County Commissioner Frank Wacha, who was present at the corps meeting in the Knowlton Monday, expressed enthusiasm about the new plan and added the corps officials when they could start digging.

The lowered figure to the north was based upon some 4.2 miles of beach front donated by public use on Jupiter Island and to the south side of the inlet.

The new plan features a jetty with a west on the north side and a jetty topped by a fishing walk on the south side. The new north jetty would extend out and then southeast to cut off the northwesterly blows that have filled the inlet with sand previously.

The south jetty would also at least about 1,200 feet and be located about 300 feet south of the present tip of Jupiter Island.

The channel would be 300 feet deep and wider than presently. There would be a sand impoundment area next to the west.

A public hearing on the plan is expected in January, according to Col. Avery Fulcher, district engineer.

Nixon visited Jupiter

ROBE SOUND–President Richard Nixon visited Martin County last Friday night according to sources in exclusive Jupiter Island.

Nixon supposedly on his way to the White House, stopped off at Jupiter Island for dinner with friends. The hush hush event brought denials from officials contacted at the island but Nixon was reported having dinner at the exclusive Jupiter Island Club on that night.

Question of the week

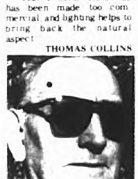
Would you like to see Christmas lighting in Jensen Beach?

Yes, I think Christmas has been made too commercial and lighting helps to bring back the natural aspect.

THOMAS COLLINS

I sure would. The Cause was display is lovely, but we do need Commercial Street decorations as well.

HARRIET BERNARD



"I sure would. It would be pretty and after all the town is growing. Jensen looked dead last year without them."

JOSEPH CULLEN

I think so, it makes it more Christmas.

ROSEMARY KENNEY

Santa is slated for Jensen

JENSEN BEACH–Santa Claus will be coming to Jensen Beach on Sunday night, December 19. And there will be Christmas lighting in the Commercial Street shopping district for the holiday shopping season.

Guy Dolce, who is well known as the Rooftop Santa will bring his chimney to Jensen Beach place it atop the Torow Building and throw candy and gum to children from 7 to 8 p.m. on the night of December 19.

Dolce operates Guy's Paint Store in the shopping center and every year plays Santa to thousands of children in Ft. Pierce. He is booked again through the season operating from the Sears town Shopping Center but will make a trip to Jensen for his Santa show.

At a meeting held last Saturday morning, the Commercial Street merchants decided to decorate their own store buildings with the lights that formerly were used across Commercial Street. New requirements for street cross-lighting made it impossible to string the lights across the street again, so the merchants along Commercial will be asked to use the strings of lights to decorate their buildings.

Also a Christmas star will be constructed atop the Ricou Building. Working on the project will be Frank Torow, Walter Woodrich and Chuck Tilton.

Attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Torow, Sincerely Yours Dolce, Guy's Paint, Glenn Bryan, Bryan's Pharmacy, Charles Groome, Jensen Flooring, Jay Hunter, Lil Saints, Carol Pittman, Capricorn, Chuck Tilton, J&J Rentals, Walter Woodrich, Crossroads Cottages, Richard Neeson, and Richard Campbell.

St. Joseph advisory board officers set

JENSEN BEACH–Reorganization of St. Joseph College administrative advisory board continued last week with the election of new officers.

Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror was elected vice president of the group. Mrs. Joyce King was elected secretary and Mrs. W.C. Shepard was elected treasurer. The president, elected earlier this year is Ken Swearingen, executive of the Bank of Stuart.

The new officers, with Sr. Thomas Joseph, president of the college, will make up the executive committee of the advisory board.

The board began its reorganization this year, planning a more active role in helping the local two-year college grow in the community.

Also established at the meeting was a new division of the advisory board, called the advisory board patrons, a group that offer support to the college, but due to business commitments cannot take an active role in the affairs of the administrative advisory board.

Stop gap measure

Density issue in interim decision

By RUTH BOWMAN

ART—The recently ...ted nine-story high ...rise being constructed on Hutchinson Island at the Jensen Beach Causeway will probably stand like a lonely sentinel in Martin County according to proposed amendments to the zoning code passed Thursday night by the Martin County Advisory Zoning Board. The five-man board unanimously recommended restrictions on any construction over four stories. The move followed a three-hour discussion in the commissioners meeting room packed wall to wall with interested residents. Others jammed the hallways and stairwells of the court house.

Adopted recommendations to be referred to the Martin County Commission include no approval of building permit applications for over four stories up to ten without the approval of both the zoning board and the commission after holding a public hearing, a density limit of 15 units per acre, a five foot per story setback on all sides, limit ground coverage of multi-family buildings to 30 percent of the site for four stories and 25 percent for ten stories and add ten feet to yard requirements for multi-story residential construction.

Chairman Paul Siefker explained that the presentation of amendments was a stopgap measure strictly a "hold" or interim move so the zoning does not get out of hand while awaiting the new county master plan which is expected in six to eight months, he said. He explained that at present Hutchinson Island has no zoning restrictions on height or density and anything could be built.

Petitions were presented to the board signed by 6,238 persons opposing high rises. John Heyburn, vice president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce presented a petition of 1,186 names. He was applauded when he said, "The people have asked for a referendum vote. He asked that the nine-story building permit be rescinded stating that "If developers have their way, they will bulldoze the island from one end to the other. There can be 150,000 people out on the island," he warned.

Others expressing opinions included architect Peter Jefferson. With no restrictions on the island, anybody could come in and build 40 to 50 density and up to 30 or more stories, he said. He said density calculations should include private water areas and pointed to Anglers Cove as having 40 units when it could have had 80 with 10 units per acre.

George Ewing, speaking for the Martin County Alliance said, "If we don't protect the dunes we are in trouble." He called county zoning a budge podge and said that legally permits can be withheld while zoning changes are in progress. He read a list of suggestions for the board to follow.

Brian Poston, president of the Stuart Board of Realtors, read a lengthy letter on which he said the Realtors strongly oppose blanket height restrictions when they apply to all multi-family classifications. He said the restrictions would include private water areas and pointed to Anglers Cove as having 40 units when it could have had 80 with 10 units per acre.

He said the restrictions would include private water areas and pointed to Anglers Cove as having 40 units when it could have had 80 with 10 units per acre.

Mrs. Jane F. Cobb, president of the Garden Club in Stuart called for "living green" laws not only for beauty but for the ecological future principles for man's existence.

Lucien Thomas of Cedar Point suggested that the airport be moved.

John Leedy, presenting a petition with 4,386 names, said, "Ten story construction is out of the question," adding that the beaches and oceans should belong to the public.

Will Bowman called attention to the already congested roads. "If you're going to have a fire you had better have it at night because it's getting tough to get through in the daytime," warned the volunteer fireman. Gentlemen our future is in your hands. I hope you save us."

Hugh Furman a three-month resident of Port Sewall after living seven years in Fort Lauderdale said "If they want high rises let them go inland." Referring to a previous speaker's remarks about set-backs Furman said, "I'd like to give him a set-back about ten miles west." He asked for a general election decision and was applauded by the crowd.

Dennis Hudson representing the ecology class at Martin County High School presented a petition with 681 student signatures opposing high rises. "With proper zoning regulations the county can grow and prosper," he predicted.

Former County Commissioner Bill Hussey referred to the Special Acts of Legislature which say the commission may perform any actions of the common interest of the county. "I hesitate to use the word moratorium but legally the commission can declare a moratorium on construction if urged the board not to grant building permits until the master plan is received.

K. C. Lindsey felt that density was the most important thing there came access to the ocean. Density control should apply to trailer parks as well, he suggested. Does anybody have an idea what the density of Ocean Breeze Park is," he asked.

Hutchinson Island developer Lloyd Dutcher informed the board that Hutchinson Island Property Owners think their zoning should be separate. He said the owners prefer high buildings with more green space. We believe in controlling heights by increasing set backs. He suggested improving public beaches and development of the west side of A-1-A area for public parks.

Robert Hall Jensen Beach asked for an ordinance prohibiting high rises until the professional plan is adopted. This is what most of the people in Martin County want," he said.

"I'm almost 70 and it doesn't matter to me what you do. Port Salerno commercial fisherman Carl Hazen said. Turning to the high school ecology students present, he charged the board with "Make plans for these youngsters to go to the beach and fish and swim and have a good time."

Tom Higgins zoning director who had read the proposed amendments concluded with a "proposed four story 40-feet height without going before any board. 15 units per acre. Developer could go to 10 stories 100-feet with approval of both boards after advertising for public hearing. Set-backs increase with each additional story above two," he explained.

Board member Walter Crowell said, "This is a sticky problem. At present we do not have any restrictions anything could go and we are absolutely powerless at present." In answer to a question from the audience "Are you ignoring the wishes of the 7,000 signers?" Crowell answered "We are mindful of the petitions and we are trying to protect you."

Frank Forsberg board member asked county attorney Bill Scott. "Are we in order to plan a moratorium of any sort to prevent high rises?" Scott answered, "This is a form of moratorium. It restricts development of Hutchinson Island which at present has no restrictions." Motioning for adoption of the amendments, Forsberg told the crowd "I suggest you accept this so-called moratorium."

Appealing for public confidence board member Dr. Ralph Hiatt said, "We have been working on this for six months. We are offering a limit of four stories 15 units density and set-backs. We have the teeth to control it until we get the master plan. This would be something to work with." Board member John Kiernan concurred.

Jefferson spoke again saying, "These gentlemen offer an intelligent view point." Ewing reminding the audience "You know where I stand" said he thought the plan should be adopted. "I see their point if this is adopted they have some zoning to hold down the development of Hutchinson Island," he said Heyburn agreed.

"If it's for four stories I say God bless you," John McQuagg said.

By then the audience seemed to realize that the zoning board was offering a reasonable solution to a "sticky problem." "Pass it" "We agree" and "I'm in favor" could be heard throughout the room.

The motion passed unanimously.

As the audience rose to leave the room, Russ Crowell representing Brevard Engineering Co. long range master planners who had been present throughout the meeting spoke for the first time. He thanked the public and the board for their interest and said, "What has been done tonight is going to assist my firm greatly in producing a comprehensive plan for Martin County which will have sense when it is produced.

Cook of the Week

By Ruth Bowman

Trudy's Cheese Sticks

JENSEN BEACH-Mrs. Trudy Chihasz has a good recipe for Cheese Sticks which she is sharing with us this week. With all the super cookies, fruit cake and rich food usually served at this time of year, the Cheese Sticks will be an interesting change.

Trudy and husband Attila live at 10-11ah Drive, Ocean Breeze Park. Originally from Philadelphia, Pa., they have lived in Florida 22 years, coming here from Syracuse. They have three daughters, two in Tennessee and one in North Carolina.

Cooking is my favorite hobby," Trudy said, "square pattern and ballroom dancing. Bridge is another love and I like to cook in my little kitchen here in the trailer," she said. She is a member of the Jensen Beach Women's Association and the auxiliary of VFW Barracks 804.

The Cheese Sticks are nice to serve with soup or hot cocoa after a little fast-game bridge, Trudy suggests.

½ cup margarine
½ cups sharp cheese grated. Press down a little to measure
½ teaspoon red pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups flour
Cream shortening and cheese. Salt pepper, salt and flour together and add to cheese mixture. Chill at least ½ hour. Roll out and cut to any shape desired, or make into small pretzels. Place on chilled cookie sheets. Bake 350 degrees about 12 minutes.

We've had several persons offer unlisted cookbook recipes for "CALAMONDIN MARMALADE," but we're still looking for one which is tried and true. Does anyone have a good recipe for the tallahassean fruit available and delicious as the season is here for both. And, if you have a special personal recipe that you just love to cook, and would like to share it with Mirror readers, please call me at the office 287-2331 or at my home 287-4502.

ROOMFULL OF CREATIONS. . . many hours of delicate work go into the handmade 'Creations by Irma' The Florida room of the Walter's home has been coverted into a workshop and display area for her originals.

Something from nothing

Nimble fingers, never idle, keep creating a life for Irma Walters

BY ALICE HICKEY

A living example of perpetual motion Irma Walters arrived at the time holds of hand made creations into her retirement years.

Perhaps I have never grown up, she said, but I wanted to make certain my retirement years did not turn into years of stagnation.

For 22 years prior to their retirement Irma Walters and her husband Russ owned and operated a summer resort on the shores of Hamlin Lake in Ludington Michigan. There Mrs. Walters had a gift shop where she sold her own creations ranging from children's stuffed toys and nature plaques to the most delicate lace work and decorative holiday ornaments.

During the season she often took charge of the arts and crafts classes for the various groups staying at the resort.

As far back as I can remember I have always been interested in arts and crafts of all kinds said Mrs Walters. My love has been a source of hobbies.

Irma Walter's fingers are nimble and her hands are seldom idle. She manages to spend several hours a day working on the various projects.

In this type of work one idea can grow into many outlets. Mrs Walters said.

The fun is to create with your own ideas.

She takes great pride in what she does and gets the most pleasure out of creating something from scraps bits and pieces that others would undoubtedly discard.

So far she is able to make something from practically nothing is a real challenge to me, she commented.

Mrs. Walters instructed a class in shell craft at Holiday Inn for over a year. She also works with leathercraft and is interested in needlepoint.

Some of her more unusual creations include a six foot stuffed snow man used as a door stopper for a gift shop.

Another was furnishing a doll house with furniture made of lima seed beads. Restoring an antique doll and replacing the clothing with that of the era which she made was still another.

I suppose the most unusual of all was the time I made a two story dragon to adorn the front of a restaurant called the Drag Inn said Mrs. Walters.

I have done those things because I enjoyed them she said. The price an article brings is never justified when you consider the time that has gone into making it.

The Walters had sold their business in 1967 to retire.

During the years we had the resort Russ and I traveled extensively through the southern states in the winter months. Mrs Walters said. We were boating and fishing enthusiasts. We wanted to retire in a small town and have a warm climate year around. Jensen Beach offered all these things. It was our Utopia.

The Florida room of the Walter's home was converted into a workshop. Used cloth, thread and fibers to create all the necessary materials for her unique creations. Along one wall is a shelf on which there is an elaborate display of the finished products. Many of her creations are displayed at a local gift shop while the others are used for filling orders by mail.

For several years Irma and Russ Walters enjoyed an active retirement. They did everything together. He helped with the wood working for her hobby shop and she enjoyed spending time helping him in the yard and garden. They spent many hours together in their boat cruising the waterways and fishing.

Today the unused dust covered boat still parked with fishing poles and equipment stands idle as the lonely patch as fragile reminders of happier days.

In 1970 as with all Kdens a serpent had appeared. To Russ Walters it was in the form of a paralyzing stroke suffered while they were visiting their son in Berea Kentucky.

With her husband hospitalized for an undetermined length of time and face saving the need for round care Irma Walters focused her attention toward becoming a nurse and a therapist.

The doctors gave little encouragement as far as a complete recovery was concerned. Mrs Walters said I had to learn as much as I could in the quickest time possible.

Undaunted by lack of experience she volunteered her services at the hospital. She spent approximately 15 hours a day working in that hospital at anything she could to be of help and to learn.

After three months the doctors were convinced Irma Walters was quite capable of caring for her husband at home with the necessary nursing and therapy.

The Walters returned to Stuart by plane where they were met and brought home by ambulance.

I have every waking hour of the day planned for Russ she said. Through the Jensen Beach Lions Club and Dr. Penuck, we were able to get the talking books. This program has been marvelous for him. He also enjoys certain television programs and every afternoon I take him out in the wheelchair for a walk. He looks forward to the time spent with the neighbors who have been kind and considerate.

Aside from caring for her husband Irma Walters does [illegible]

[illegible] to the vegetable garden. And I thought I was busy for the flowers trees and shrubs she said. Every afternoon I wheel Russ out into the yard in an effort to stimulate his interest.

Through the long months Mrs. Walters faith has never faltered. Even though the doctors offer little hopes of continued improvement in her husband's condition Irma Walters is certain there will be brighter days ahead for both.

Today a life time of hobbies now serves as the best therapy in the world to help get my mind off my handicap Mrs. Walters said.

Local shooting hours for native game are from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset

The season for hunting snipe and woodcock will open statewide one-half hour before sunrise on Saturday November 20 and the season for duck and coot hunting will open on Thanksgiving Day November 25.

Hunters are reminded by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to review a current summary of hunting regulations for information on bag limits, shooting hours and hunting rules. A summary of rules and regulations for hunting and fishing may be obtained from the office of all County Judges or license agents or from the Commission at Tallahassee, Panama City, Lake City, Ocala, Lakeland and West Palm Beach.

The Commission also encourages sportsmen to wear blaze orange hunting garments when hunting deer and small game.

Courtesy is asked

TALLAHASSEE The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission state all sports men should adhered to a basic rule of respect for landowners and their property. Sincel most hunting in Florida is on private land all sportsmen should remember that the key to the future of hunting is held by the landowner.

1. Always ask permission to hunt on private property. Do not rely on the law but ask first. Some [illegible]

VFW to have new home

STUART A new home is in sight for the VFW Post [illegible] of Jensen Beach according to Jim Tabert Tuesday morning by the Martin County Commission. A zoning change from R-2 to R-3 was granted for a two acre parcel of ground located on NE 7th St. Savanna Road the planning commission of a [illegible]

The request was made by Frank Bradford who helped organize the local VFW several years ago.

We have a chance to buy these five acres for $8,000 Bradford said. He explained that the tract is located on the east side of the road south of Tropical Acres Mobile Home Gardens. Just beyond the five acres is an area zoned for an industrial park.

We will be putting up only one building on the property for the present and in the back we plan a park for the kids of Jensen Beach he said.

Jim Higgins zoning director had the commission that the request for a zoning change had been approved by the county staff. And I concur. He said there was no opposition at the public hearing held by the zoning board.

I'm in favor of it said county Commissioner Frank Warha. I am a member proudly of the Post but I would appreciate it if a fellow board member would make the motion. In that way no one could say I have a conflict of interest.

Commissioner Bill Owens moved the request be granted. The other three commissioners voted Aye with Warha abstaining.

Sincerely Yours

Edith's Mustard Pickles

JENSEN BEACH The "best" mustard pickles I have ever tasted are made by Mrs. Edith Hilton, Seven Lakes Road. She agreed to share her MUSTARD PICKLE recipe with readers. Here it is. If the ingredients sound like a lot of pickles, try to find a neighbor to share the work, cost and finished product.

[illegible] Mrs. Hilton said. "I've been canning them for years. I've given away hundreds of jars. Everyone likes them. Some people even like them better than mine. I've had Southern friends tell me they're the best they've ever had. Northerners love them, too. I've had Yankees tell me they're the best they've ever had."

First National Bank Introduces Another First . . .

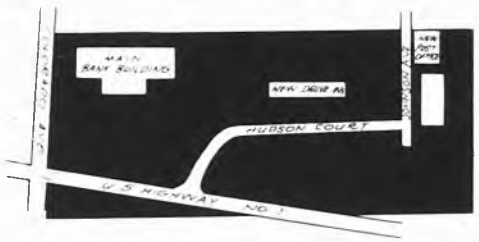
$360,000.00 EXPANSION . . . .

It is with a great deal of pride and excitement that the First National Bank announces plans to begin construction on an entirely new drive in banking system. The $360,000 expansion will include ten new automated drive in stations under cover for all weather protection. This particular system is one of the first of its type to be installed in the Southeastern United States.

Only through the confidence and trust of its many customers is the bank able to plan for this type of growth, allowing it to keep one step ahead of this area's financial needs.

The momentum which is generated by the entire First National Bank staff and customers has placed this bank in the top fifteen hundred banks in the United States. For these reasons First National has taken the necessary steps to assure its customers the fastest, most convenient and efficient type of drive in banking available in this country.

Included in the expansion will be a new 24 hour depository accessible without leaving your auto and offering "bank vault" safety. Also 140 new parking spaces will be constructed.



Location of new drive in facilities in relation to bank building

New Visual Auto Teller

The Diebold Visual Auto Teller III was designed to give the customer fast, efficient and convenient service. This new system will serve the individual customer more quickly and easily by having the deposit carrier reach for the customer and not the other way around. This functional system makes drive in banking much faster and enjoyable.

Mehling retirement is active civic involvement

By ALICE HICKEY
JENSEN BEACH Retirement is what you make of it. It can be porch sittin' and complaining years or interesting and happy years. It all depends on the individual.

Joe Mehling of Jensen Beach currently is serving on the board of directors of one organization, secretary of another and a member of the others in addition to his daily work. One day a week he considers himself retired.

Joe's 42 years service with the New York Telephone Company. Mehling and his wife Marion moved here from North Merrick, Long Island, New York in 1965. They had vacationed in Florida for five years prior to that and each time they considered up in Jensen Beach.

Joe had worked in [illegible] for 30 years.

When asked Mrs. Mehling if she was spending their days in the garden in Jensen Beach. She are from India [illegible] and are in [illegible] related to Mrs Hazel [illegible].

"Conservation is very much a part of my hobbies and my life. I was Long Island native. They dredged the bays and river and filled them in. They dug canals where there was not fish. Islands ride rise and fall to keep them clean and you could not breathe on those areas. Over population is a terrible thing. It is definitely not progress."

Being conservation minded is one of the first people Mehling met here was Bob Hall who at the time was serving on the board of directors for the Izaak Walton League. He became interested in the league and later became president.

Presently, Mehling is serving as the state director of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton League. He, along with his wife, attends all business meetings of the Florida state Division of the league, representing the Martin County chapters. These meetings are held in various parts of the state, August, December and the annual convention usually held in May.

Another interest of Mehling's is the Martin County Senior Activities Club. As secretary, this demands much of his time.

Never satisfied with the status quo, Mehling seems to look for ways to be of more service as an example, he learned of the desperate need for a neat of fish file in this area. Many senior citizens in the county, reside alone. There have been cases of the past where the person himself was quite well known and yet when the need arose due to accident or death no one seemed to know how to locate the next of kin.

Mehling took it upon himself to organize such a file. He has offered his cooperation in working with the Martin County Sheriff's Department and the Jensen Beach and Stuart Chambers of Commerce should the need arise.

An early riser, every Tuesday, Mehling has a leisurely breakfast and allows himself plenty of time for the morning paper before reporting for work at Martin Memorial Hospital at 8:15. As a member of the hospital auxiliary, he works in central supply. There, volunteer workers take care of the hospital linens, pack gauze bandages and serve as messengers when necessary.

The staff at the hospital jokingly refers to him as a "Hot Lady." Mehling laughed. Actually we are there to do a patient's then ask us for help in any way we can," he said.

As involved as he is, Mehling finds the time to do all those odd jobs around the house.

Likewise gardening isn't much for he does all the planting here in the early with the seasons being extended look a little while to learn how to care for plants here in the south but I attended the lectures at the Agricultural Center on all phases of gardening planting insecticides etc and they were very beneficial."

In addition to the offices Mehling now holds he is a past president of the Jensen Beach Community Church's Men's Brotherhood a member of the Martin County Taxpayers Association the Stuart Sailfish Club and the Martin County Conservation Alliance.

Recuperating from a heart attack last year Bert Mehling says he has slowed down considerably.

"I am willing to help with any project or organization but I do not intend to hold any more offices. The responsibility that goes with them if the job is to be done well is too great," he said.

Asked the opinion of her husband's very busy schedule Mrs. Mehling replied "If he enjoys it I enjoy it. The only exception is the sports programs on television. While Bert is engrossed in a baseball or football game I either buss myself in another part of the house or go out for an afternoon of shopping."

Bert Mehling's formula for a long and interesting life is "Keep active." He added "However a lot of the credit for a good life goes to my wife who has always been beside me in all my ventures. She has never objected to anything I have wanted."

His advice to others who want something to do and a more active life is simply to express a willingness to participate and you will find plenty of worthwhile work to do.

GETTING READY . . . Mehling is careful to select just the right plug for a nice catch.

Our trip to Denmark

By MARY FITZGERALD

EDUCATION

Copenhagen, center of the city of Copenhagen, a great lighted fountain tells the temperature and above atop the fountain a small enclosure a statue of a girl riding a It appears when days are cold. She carries an umbrella when raindrops are falling on your head.

Buses are marked with numbers and when one wishes to board a bus he merely looks for the correct number on the signal post or Parkering for warns just that no parking allowed.

There are everywhere much advertising. It was particularly attracted to a sky lighted sign. The lighted sign read Ikkold and Ikkold By Flur American Laughable" Not funny as compared with many of our own garish advertising.

Vending machines are in abundance along the streets. One can buy fruit, assorted nuts, grapes, apples, candy bars, cartons of milk, some kind of cigarettes, packs of peanuts, sugar, butterines, stock and almost any item you can name that can be inserted into the small machines.

I was with the voluble Ingrid took us to the statue of the Little Mermaid located in Copenhagen on the edge of the Baltic Sea this young maiden is pictured on many Danish stationery supplies. Almost everyone approached with this damsel set few knew its romantic background however Smitty told it very sweetly.

Long, long ago a lovely mermaid was in love with a handsome prince however while he had two fine legs she had but a fish tail which did nothing to foster the romance. Tearfully she consulted a witch a common practice in those days begging for assistance.

Well my dear said the wicked witch I will give you two shapely legs on one condition. Gladly the little lady consented to anything just so she could be with her fascinating lover. Then continued the witch with your two legs you may walk but with every step you take you must tread on sharp knives.

This did not deter the young mermaid who willingly agreed to the punishment suffering constant agony for the privilege of standing beside her prince. Of course the romance flourished into marriage and the omens of this story I have known to part.

When I drove to the Gefion Fountains and here also Mr Smith had his fable.

Long ago a Danish princess fed maids in rows with a fascinating Greek goddess. She was not inclined to bestow her favors on the monarch however so in order to win her love he promised to give to her all the land she could plow during a single night. She was a frail looking beauty and he felt quite safe in believing she would plow only a small section of land. But she was really a greedy girl at heart and that night she used her magic spell turning her four sons into huge oxen. With their combined force and great strength they plowed the entire city of Copenhagen.

The various fountains are a memorial to this folk. Trafalgar Square are a tremendous tourist attraction and no wonder with water pouring in great bowling sprays over and around the fountains. Hundreds of tourists visit the fountains daily and photographers have a field day here snapping pictures to their heart's content.

As I said to the Torlang brewery completed our tour. Here we had a personal guide to follow the preparation of beer from selected hops to finished beverage.

Many women are employed in the breweries particularly as inspectors as it is claimed women's eyes are keener than men's in detecting deficiencies. Our guide and he looked like a young blond Viking to illustrate the capacity of this large plant stated that if a person drank ten glasses of beer each day of his life beginning from the hour of his birth it would take him well over 100 years to consume the amount of beer bottled in a single day.

Our afternoon was devoted to shopping and shopping is indeed a pleasant experience. One is tempted almost beyond one's resistance by the beautiful hand made sweaters, lovely gift items, fabulous jewelry so different and so very attractive. The clerk at the hotel informed me that jewelry displayed in the hotel is sold almost as fast as the cases can be filled. And that wonderful crystal and fine Danish blue china.

Almost without exception the clerks speak English and are most helpful and patient. Money presents a problem though it is not too difficult if one considers five seven or eight kroner as the present rate of exchange. In the dollar though it changes almost daily. Therefore if an article is marked 175 kroner the price will be $25. Frequently cashiers in shops empty their purses on the counter and the various coins and paper money are displayed. Then it merits much study making note and explaining carefully just how much is being taken.

We visited a department store one day and walk though acute indigestion as the fare was so full. Food is wonderful in Denmark but one must be discriminating or continued diet of delicious Danish pastry so the overly plump. While this pastry melts delicately on the tongue each morsel mouthful is loaded with calories. Whipped cream is piled high on everything and bakers' confections are a gourmet's delight. An artist would be in seventh heaven painting the various goodies set forth in the cafe' confectionaries. These delicious creations of fruit pastries cakes and other mouth watering delights.

Morgan ate too fast and regretted unfortunately on the English sauce by the waiter. The statement "continental smoking a strict tobacco that cures the burning taste."

There might interested in the leading material and we studied several book shops. Children's books especially attracted me. I would Duck Little Hood Riding Hood Winnie the Bear Charlie Brown all delightful. followed that the above in Danish. I couldn't resist buying several small books in Danish and in Swedish. Another souvenir I might note, was

WED. Miss Dawn Kathleen Pounder became the bride of Roger D. Byrd, Jr. on Friday, Nov. 20 at the First United Methodist Church of Stuart. The Rev. Vlad E. Sharff, pastor officiated at the candlelight service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Louis Pounder of Sea Gate Harbor Mr. and Mrs. Byrd, Jr. of Ft. Pierce are the parents of the groom.

STUART The Martin County Tigers outrushed and passed out punted and outfumbled the Jupiter Warriors and went to lose 14-6 in the season finale that saw the Tigers end the year with a disappointing 3-5-2 record.

The Tigers got now first blood to the Jupiter eight. The Tigers rushed 15 cards and passed 112 yards to Jupiter's 53 and 65. The Tigers had to punt only four times averaging 38 yards a punt Jupiter punting nine times with an average of only 12 yards a kick.

ERODING ENDANGERED: Two Jensen Beach Causeways were in danger of collapsing, as indicated in the photos above today. The brave couple at the rear of this photo were picnicking on the causeways under the pavilion. The county has delayed construction of protective seawall, waiting for bids, as the river tides wash away more and more fill from the causeways.

Felony charges set for eight students

STUART—Eight of the 23 students originally arrested in an early dawn drug raid at St. Joseph College will be charged with felony violations of the law, State Attorney John Brennan announced last week.

Citing the problem of identifying the ownership of the drugs, the remaining cases were said to not have evidence sufficient enough to make felony charges stand.

Those charged by Brennan with the felony crime of illegal possession of drugs and paraphenalia are St. Joseph College students Bruce Bonauto, J.W. Rath, Gregory Fedders, John Cofley, Debbie Mead, Bruce Halpin, Roland Obey and Joseph Zickmund.

Jackie Hartsell, the new director of recreational activities of Venture Out, met with residents of the trailer park and mobile home park to discuss plans for the new recreation hall and/or club house, and the type of recreational programs we all desire to participate in and support.

Rick Keller, manager of Venture Out, outlined the present and future plans for the recreation hall. He also asked for suggestions and recommendations for additional facilities over and above their proposed plans.

It was pointed out that the plans were in three steps. The swimming pool, phase 1, would be completed by the end of December. Phase 2, the outside of the recreation hall, is to be started as soon as phase 1 is finished; phase 3 will be started after 1 and 2 have been completed which would include the refinishing of the interior of the recreation hall with all necessary facilities.

D & M Mobile Home Park News

BY
MARGUERITE RITENOUR

This was the third week straight that we had 24 ladies for our hobby meeting. At 9 o'clock we had rolls and coffee followed by a business meeting. Then we held several hours of busy workshop.

About 30 were out for Bingo Tuesday night. Nonie Cross did the calling and Mabel Keefer called the numbers back.

The Duffys each won several games and Jim shared the jackpot with Marjorie Cowell, who had also won before. Marjorie gets so excited when she wins, she never says Bingo, she always says That's it.

Mrs. Hogue and Frank Moran won a couple games each too.

Orville and Cona Conrad purchased Charles Bartlams mobile home recently and only had to move across the street. We're so glad they stayed in our park.

Three or four of our ladies started going to ceramics class in Rio several weeks ago. The more started and now seven or eight are going.

They are beginning to bring their finished products home and they are beautiful, everything from praying hands, pheasants, roosters, vases, horses, dogs and elephants.

Mr. and Mrs. Cordon Borchert of Rio called on the Charles Kansers one day recently.

• • •

Mrs. Conrad Dahl of Saskatchewan, Canada and Rio trailer court visited with the Rilenours last Wednesday.

John and Bess Gillett from Ottawa, Ont., Canada are back again but are now on Spot Avenue.

Henry and Lillie Breckelsbaus from Michigan have finally arrived back for the winter.

Joe and Bea Penrod from Fayetteville, W. Va. have arrived, having been held back by the serious illness of Bea's mother.

A.K. Hedburg of Michigan has arrived and is now on trailer spot F.

• • •

The blood pressure nurse will be in our hall Wednesday, December 15th at 2:30.

• • •

Martha Duffy has been on the sick list this past week. Hurry up and get out Martha, we miss you.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Maes of Indiana are living in the Van Wanzeles mobile home now.

Guy and Dollie Bracken of Rio had dinner with Marvin and Jane Winninger last Wednesday evening.

The Brackens lived in our park before they purchased a home in Rio.

Mrs. Jarrell writes that she was to visit the doctor on Dec. 3 and hoped that would be her last appointment, so they could get back down here.

Retirement offers opportunity to full time store management

By JUDY BICKEY

When Rosamond Chambers retired she went into volunteering. Without pay she voluntarily manages a Community Special Street store grossing $12,000 a month.

Before her retirement Mrs. Chambers had worked 13 years for the Kiplingers Washington Agency, a public affairs firm in Washington, D.C.

Prior to moving here from Falls Church, Va., Rosamond Chambers and her husband Sterling had vacationed many times in Jensen Beach at the Bay Tree Lodge. The lodge owned and maintained by Kiphngers is open the year round for employees to enjoy an annual Florida vacation.

We both loved the area and arranged an early retirement so we could move here. We purchased a lot on Ocean View Circle and had our home built in 1964 she said.

But you know Mrs. Chambers commented the early long dreamed of retirement is now always what one may think. After all I can't play bridge every day, much as I like the game.

I had always envied talented people with their hobbies and long before my retirement I had a desire to be able to do something worthwhile in my own way, something that would benefit people and something I too could be proud of she said.

The Jensen Beach Community Church's Thrift Shop gave Mrs. Chambers that opportunity. Learning of the need for someone to operate the shop Mrs. Chambers volunteered her services.

For the past three years she has been solely responsible for the management of the Thrift Shop. She serves as bookkeeper, manager and recruiter for other volunteer workers to assist as well as a solicitor for useable items. Until last year when a van was donated for the church Rosamond Chambers used her personal car to provide a free pick-up and delivery service for items donated to or purchased from the shop. When articles are too heavy for her to handle she enlists the aid of her husband.

I am sure people must think of me as being a real scrounge at times Mrs. Chambers laughingly commented. Whenever I see someone moving in or out in the community I always stop by and tell them about the Thrift Shop explain it's functions and of course I am happy to pick up any useable items for the shop.

The Thrift Shop is a seven days a week job for Rosamond Chambers. A couple of hours on Sunday seem to provide the best time for a little cleaning and the sorting and pricing of items. She admits to an average of over thirty hours a week spent in the shop.

When asked why she stays so involved with this work she replied I guess it's because I am selfish. You see it's work at the Thrift Shop has served as the greatest therapy in the world for me and the others who work with me. We all have a feeling of accomplishment in what we have been able to do here. The shop could not be the success it is today if it were not for the many others who have also volunteered their time.

Other interests of Mrs. Chambers include the Jensen Beach Garden Club and the Church Aid Circle. Each year she takes part in the Christmas bazaar workshop a project of the Church Aid Circle.

She has been an active member in the Garden Club for the past several years. She has served on the Ways and Means Committee in the past and has often given card parties in her home to benefit the club.

As a matter of fact I believe I am third vice president of the Garden Club this year but I don't know why. I really can't tell a potato from a petunia she laughed.

I do enjoy weeding around the house but my weeds have to await cool weather. Fortunately my husband enjoys yard work the year round.

With her busy schedule Mrs. Chambers still finds time for playing bridge grooming her poodle Folly, light reading and fishing.

Every now and then I plan hooks and go to the surf for a few hours fishing with Sterling she said. The Chambers enjoy fishing and unlike some fishing enthusiasts they enjoy cooking and eating their catch. Just the other day they caught five pompano.

As for housework Mrs. Chambers comment was Yuk. I do it only because it is a necessity. I dislike all housework and I suppose the reason is because I don't have a system. I should be ashamed to have a housekeeper but if I could find one I would grab her in a minute.

A real zesty person herself Mrs. Chambers finds it hard to understand how people can become bored with life and complain of nothing to do.

There is so much good that can be done by all of us if we would. There is always something to do and if you can't find it create it she said.

Why don't these same people ever think to take a few cookies or a piece of fresh fish to a neighbor and visit awhile. Also the need for car pools in our area is great. Get together and form one to run errands or help to transport someone without a car to and from a grocers store once in awhile.

Mrs. Chambers practices what she preaches. She never seems to be too busy to run a little errand for someone and it is not at all an uncommon sight to see her bobbing in and out around the neighborhood passing the time of day with a neighbor.

You'd be surprised just how good it makes you feel she said.

Her secret for happiness seems to be Do a good deed whenever possible and more important don't publicize it.

Rosamond and Sterling Chambers must share in the responsibility for the rapid growth of the Jensen area. During the years since they have been coming here many friends have bought land and moved or plan to move here after their retirement.

These are all people who have visited and vacationed with Sterling and me through the years. We shared our paradise area with them and they liked it as much as we do Mrs. Chambers said.

FUN TIME... Folly, the Chambers' pet poodle, looks forward to her trips to the beach, for an afternoon of fun and frolic.

Local teams didn't fare too well in the tournament. Host team Frances Langford's Outrigger lost its first two games, winning elimination from the rest of the tourney. The Outriggers lost first to Bigham Insulation, Fort Lauderdale, 13-6.

It was a game that the score doesn't indicate. Bigham jumped off to a first inning lead of 7-0. In the bottom of the first, The Outrigger jumped back with a run. Both teams got one run in the second and Bigham got one in the third to tie it up, 8-8.

The Outrigger got two runs in the fourth, making it 3-1 and then held. Bigham scoreless in two innings picking up one more run in the sixth inning to make the score 4-3.

It looked like the game was locked safely away but Bigham took advantage of a few Outrigger miscues and scored three runs in the top of the seventh to tie it all up. In the top of the eighth, the lost left in on the Outriggers as Bigham scored seven big runs. Final score in the game was Bigham 13, The Outrigger, 6.

The second Outrigger game was a replay of the first with the locals jumping out ahead 4-0 in the first inning. In the bottom of the third, Quarterdeck Lounge of Petersburg scored three held the Outrigger scoreless until the seventh inning and tied it up in the bottom of the seventh, 4-4.

Thrown into extra innings, the Outrigger scored one and gave one up in the eighth, miscued in the ninth and Quarterdeck scored one in the bottom of the inning to win the game 6-5.

The Union 76 team from Stuart also lost its opening two games to be eliminated from the tourney.

The state champions, Satellite Beach Longhorns were eliminated late in the contest by Bigham Insulation, 21-7, after having earlier defeated Bigham, 24-14.

RUNNER-UP: Bob Stigell, manager of Alray Tire, accepts the second place trophy from host Ralph Evinrude, sponsor of Frances Langford's Outrigger Christmas Tournament. The award was made Sunday night at Langford Park, Jensen Beach, following the two-day slow pitch softball competition.

LEADING RUN: Dick Reed slapped a single in the eighth inning of the Outrigger's second game with the score tied 4-4, to drive in the first of the two runs that proved enough as the Quarterdeck Lounge team came back to tie it again in the bottom of the eighth and go on to win in the bottom of the ninth.

TEACHERS TO AID BATTEY FUND

JENSEN BEACH—The elementary school teachers of Martin County are selling chances on a ladies and a man's watch to benefit the Rasmond Battey Hospital Fund.

The watches were donated by Frank Lombardo of New York City, who has followed Rasmond's plight in local newspapers.

Drawing for the watches will be done by Rasmond himself at the Jensen Beach Christmas celebration on Saturday, December 18 at Langford Park.

For information on where to buy tickets, call Amy Goldbeck at the Jensen Beach Elementary School, 283-1661.

Medicare adds to load

New doctors prove need for more GPs in Jensen Beach

By ERIK CAMPBELL

It took Dr Richard Penick four years in practice in the Jensen Beach area before he had enough caseload to have fifteen patients in Martin Memorial Hospital at the same time Dr Jose Chang with several months of practice in Jensen Beach had that many recently.

Chang newly moved into the Skyline Professional Center has built almost a full patient load, and last week saw 45 persons in his office on one day. Dr Darrell Mars initial a veteran, has his own patient load under control seeing twenty per day.

Dr Jim Minick with just two weeks past since he moved into his new offices in the Simmons Building in South Jensen Beach is slowly getting a well developed list of patients and is up to 35 patients per day in the less short weeks he has been open.

Chang and Minick are two doctors brought to Jensen Beach in a successful effort by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce to meet the medical needs of the communities. But are the two general practitioners enough? Veteran GP Dr Penick thinks not.

We can still use two more and Martin County is going to need at least one new GP every two months to keep up with the backlog of people who do not have regular family doctors and with the phenomenal growth of the area Penick said last week.

Doctors in the United States have an average clientele of 1500 persons per doctor Penick checking his records discovered he had 4,300 on his books as active meaning he saw them regularly during the year. He has several thousand more that are inactive meaning he hasn't seen them for over a year.

Penick sees 200 patients each week on an average and says he could be seeing only about one hundred.

Though Florida has an average of 700 persons for each doctor the number of specialists persons who deal in specific areas and do not handle the day to day health needs of the people make up a great percentage of the number GPs are few and the demand is growing according to Penick.

The need to properly take care of the patients he is serving has caused Penick to refuse new patients something he has done for the past two years. He also has refused to take new patients from outside the Jensen Beach Port St Lucie area for the past five years.

Now the GPs in Stuart have begun refusing new patients Penick said noting that there hasn't been but one or two GPs that have come to Stuart in seven years.

This has caused the emergency ward at Martin Memorial Hospital to become a clinic. Doctors refer those they cannot take to the emergency ward. The people go there get treated and go home without a regular family doctor to see them and take care of the after emergency care.

This is good for emergencies but it doesn't take care of the continuing needs of the patients. There is no follow up treatment and no place for permanent records of these people Penick said. He said that the common medical treatment needs of sprains broken bones colds and other day to day problems of citizens are left without proper care by a family physician.

Blame for the overload on doctors is placed partially on the growth of Medicare and a false sense that the patient must get in the sixty dollars worth of medical bills so that they can get a so-called refund from the government sponsored health program.

The average person visited the doctor about twice a year and older folks about four or five times a year before Medicare. Now they run to the doctor's services to try to get a Medicare refund. They don't seem to realize that it is still costing them that amount that and more of them don't need to go to the doctor enough to run up the totals dollars Penick pointed out.

He said that he has turned over his waiting list of new patients to the new doctors in the area and admitted turning down twelve new patients referred to new doctors in the first two days of last week.

The specialists work a regular day Penick said pointing to the load on GPs as being a detriment to getting young doctors to move into the general medicine field.

The average day of Penick begins at 7:30 a.m. when he goes to Martin Memorial Hospital to see his patients. He goes to his office at 9:30 a.m. and with a half-hour off for lunch works until 5:30 p.m. seeing patients in three examination rooms. He ends the day going back to the hospital if he has an especially ill person who needs the extra care.

About four nights a week Penick has to visit a patient just out of the hospital at home or is called to a home on an emergency. In many cases a telephone call can do the trick, for the doctor remembers the needs of his patients and is able to meet them by telling them what to do or calling a prescription for them to a local drug store.

The population of Jensen Beach is 6,000. Doubling the load from the national average the four doctors now in Jensen could handle the population with a strain, and if a lot of people stay well according to Penick not more doctors will be needed.

One of the answers is the newly approved para-medical assistant that will allow doctors to have qualified helpers, possibly those returning medics who served in the armed forces. But state health department red tape is holding this up.

Penick submitted a name for a medical assistant after learning that the state legislature had passed a bill allowing the licensing of such medical assistants. He received a letter back from the state health department telling him the department was not ready to handle such applications and he would be notified when it was. That was last Spring and Penick has yet to hear from the health department.

The doctor crisis recognized by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce earlier this year at the urging of Dr Penick has been solved for the moment. Two new doctors are well on their way to well established practices.

But tomorrow is near and Penick's warning of the past proven true and solved by civic minded Chamber officials rings clear that another doctor is needed for the Jensen Beach area.

According to the Jensen Beach Fire Department, the gas and electricity had been turned off for some time.

Arthur Auspaker of 20 SW Saints Acres Road reported the fire at 4:15 a.m. Auspaker, whose property is adjacent to the Lewis home [illegible] kitchen early Monday morning to see what the noise was and saw the house next door ablaze through his kitchen window.

Trinity women have annual party

JENSEN BEACH—Holy Communion will be celebrated at Trinity United Methodist Church of Jensen Beach at the 7:30 p.m. evening worship service on Sunday night.

Rev. William Anderman, a retired United Methodist minister from the Philadelphia Conference will bring the communion meditation and will assist Rev. Saul M. Hanselman, pastor of the church in administering the communion.

Family members and friends of the church's shut-ins were attended the annual Birthday Party for Jesus held in Fellowship Hall December 7. Mrs. Ernest Baker, president, presided over the business meeting.

The hall was decorated with greens and many candles, the candle being the central theme of the program. Mrs. Horace Donley read "800 Years of Service by the Humble Candle."

Twenty members read scripture verses pertaining to candles and light. After the hymn Mrs. Harold Woodruff gave "The Symbol of the Candle" and led the women in lighting their personal candles from the Christ Candle and presenting their pledges.

The group then circled the birthday cake made by Mrs. Ernest McGuinness and sang "The Christmas Birthday Song." The afternoon ended with refreshments and carol singing. Additional members of the committee were Mrs. Jewell M. Bale and Mrs. Christian Peterson.

The Naomi Circle will meet in Fellowship Hall on Monday, December 20 at 7:30 p.m. Hostesses are Ann Buck, Ora Walton and Ruth Townsend.

D & M Mobile Home Park News

BY
MARGUERITE RITENOUR

It had a very good turn out for our Association meeting Wednesday evening. New officers were elected and they are Hattie Johnson President, John Stetler Vice President and Mrs. Donald Worrell Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. Johnson appointed Alma Kramer chairman of flower fund and 4 couples to take charge of the pot luck dinners from January to May. They were Chet and Rose Randall, Ray and Nellie Barr, Harry and Alice Eastlack and Orville and Elma Tindall. Nettie Crossett and Nettie Keefer will take care of Bingo games. Bud Keefer announced that he and Chet Randall had shopped around to try to get ambulance service for our park and they made arrangements with the Samaritans Ambulance service of Jensen Beach. There are certain reservations that we must abide by. We must have a list, name and vehicle available in our park and are offered a donation each year for the service. If anyone has to use the service it will be up to them if they feel like making a small contribution themselves. We are not to call ambulance if it is at all possible to get to the hospital any other way. If you call ambulance have a neighbor call someone out at the gate with a flashlight to leave driver know where to go. We feel the men have done a good service to our park and we thank Bud and Chet for their efforts. Mr. Johnson thanked Marguerite Ritenour for a job well done in reporting the news of D & M Mobile Home Park.

We had 26 out for Hobby Meeting on Tuesday morning and had a nice work shop following business meeting and breakfast of rolls and coffee. Esther Gentry and Mona Wendt were hostesses.

The Bingo crowd is getting larger each Monday night. Nonie Crossett and Nettie Keefer will be running the game this next year as they did last Monday evening. Marjorie Lowell won a game and remembering just in time called thats it Bingo. Marguerite Ritenour won the Outside gesture frame and Al Hatfield the jackpot. One game had 4 winners.

'Deeds are better things than words are'

By ALICE HICKEY

JENSEN BEACH—On his retirement, Gene Oliver of Jensen Beach traded in a 9 hour a day job for a 24 hour a day job. Not one 24 hour a day job, but two.

Retirement for Oliver has meant holding the office of secretary for the Jensen Beach Fire Department, which he has done for the past three years, serving as a volunteer fireman, being a member of the fireworks committee and also a member of the Samaritans, a volunteer ambulance group serving area residents.

When asked how he became so involved, he replied "I just joined the fire department."

Employed by Civil Service for 33 ½ years, he retired as supervisor of the Arlington Post Office in Arlington, Virginia in 1966.

A widower, Oliver had done little planning for the retirement years. "I just looked forward to getting out of the good ole post office" he said. "I had thought of possibly traveling and perhaps doing a little fishing."

He did both. He traveled to Florida and his first real catch was made in the state of Georgia, where he married his friend of many years, Mrs. Merle Funk.

The duties of a local fireman are many and varied. Aside from being a fire fighter, his activities may include being a first aider, a chief cook and bottle washer, an organizer, a traffic policeman, a maintenance man, a popcorn vendor, a concession stand manager or a contest judge.

He may also find himself assisting the Easter Bunny in hiding eggs for the annual egg hunt at Langford Park, or dressed up in his ears on the middle of a rummage sale held to benefit the Little League baseball teams.

Gene Oliver has played an important role in most of these activities during the past five years.

Oliver's second 24 hour-a-day duty is with the Jensen Beach Samaritans. He is a driver for the organization and has accepted an every Sunday stand-by duty.

A point made very clear by Oliver was, "My first obligation is as a fireman. I assist with the Samaritans only when it doesn't interfere with the fire department activities."

I know," said Mrs. Oliver, "his fireman's uniform always hangs on our closet door."

Two years ago, due to the serious illness of a full time driver and the lack of sufficient qualified volunteers, the area was faced with a grave situation: the possible loss of ambulance service. At that time, Mrs. Oliver was instrumental in the re-organization of the Samaritans.

Every volunteer must be a qualified first aider.

So that interested persons could qualify, the Olivers' home was opened for these first aid courses which Mrs. Oliver instructed. She is now vice president of the Samaritans and has charge of the scheduling of all drivers and assistants. Without Gene's help, I wouldn't have been able to have done this," she said.

A visitor to the Oliver household on Linda Drive is made immediately aware of their hosts duties by the presence of a electron in their living room. The electron is a radio receiver for incoming emergency calls from the Civil Defense headquarters or the fire department.

The interruption of an evening of bridge is not at all unusual. A voice speaks from the electron and either Gene Oliver dons a fireman's uniform and dashes from the house or Mrs. Oliver quickly dispatches an ambulance.

Another interest of Oliver's is working with the fireworks committee.

The Washington Fireworks display is not a bit better than the one we have right here on the Jensen Beach Causeway," he said.

We are indeed fortunate to have a man like Boom Boom Yurilla to head the project."

The volunteer committee spends approximately 4 months of the year working on the ground displays for the Fourth of July.

The majority of the work is done within the last two or three months," Oliver said.

It all depends on the number of volunteers that show up to work.

This is only part of the Gene Oliver retirement story, though. The rest of it might more aptly be described by the following quote from Longfellow. "Deeds are better things than words are, actions mightier than boasting."

Oliver's cup of tea. He is a modest man, a man who sincerely thinks good deeds are things which should be done automatically and there should absolutely be no mention made of them.

It's really no big deal, he says after all a little kindness doesn't cost you anything. The good feeling you derive from helping anyone if you can is reason enough to have tried.

His hobbies include working with a stamp collection he started in 1912, fishing and swimming when the water is warm enough.

Shooting pool and playing bridge are my favorite pastimes," he said, "but I don't know why. I learned to play pool late in life and I don't think my pool games have really improved since the first time I tried but I thoroughly enjoy both."

Housework at the Oliver's is shared, and he is not at all embarrassed about it. "Since we are both retired, I see why shouldn't the work be shared," he said.

Yard work around our house is done because it is necessary," Oliver admits. That was one time I used strength. I did little painting and therefore the trimming

JENSEN BEACH: Major General Donald W. Graham was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his outstanding leadership as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff, Systems and Logistics, Headquarters USAF.

General John C. Meyer, Air Force Vice Chief of Staff presented the award to General Graham at a retirement Pentagon ceremony in Washington D.C. this week.

General Graham was cited for his executive leadership, firm direction of logistics programs and the initiation of new logistics programs which resulted in significant advances in the management of the Air Force logistics system.

General Graham was born in San Francisco Calif. on August 5, 1915. Upon completion of high school at Oakland Calif. he entered the University of California and received his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering in 1938. In 1952 he received a master's degree in business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration where he was graduated with honors and named a Baker Scholar.

In addition to successfully completed military courses at the Air War College and the Air War College in 1956.

Immediately after World War II he served a four year period on the Air Staff in Procurement and Production section of the Air Materiel Command at Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio. During this period, he served as chief of each of the four branches and eventually as section chief responsible for procurement and production of all types of aircraft.

Upon his graduation from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration in 1952 Graham was assigned to the Office of the Assistant for Materiel Program Control, Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel Headquarters USAF and served as Deputy Chief and then Chief of the current program branch and as Chief of the Fiscal Control Division. From 1953 to 1955 he served as Executive Officer to the Under Secretary of the Air Force and then for the Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Materiel.

In 1955 he was assigned to Elmendorf AFB Alaska as Deputy Commander of the 10th Air Division charged with air defense of the southern portion of Alaska. In Phase III of the 1956 Fighter Weapons Meet he succeeded in winning high individual scoring honors as well as the high team captain award.

He entered the Air War College in 1956 and after graduation was assigned to the Aeronautical Systems Center as Director of Tactical and Support Systems Air Materiel Command now Air Force Logistics Command Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio.

In July 1960 Graham was selected to be the initial commander of the Central Contract Management Region Wright Patterson AFB which was under the Air Materiel Command and provided field management for U.S. Air Force contracts and other agency assigned contracts within the central third of the United States. In July 1962 he was assigned as Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel Military Air Transport Service Scott AFB Ill. In addition to his normal duties, he was responsible for the procurement of all long range airlift.

He assumed command of the 21st Air Force in June 1963. He became Deputy Chief of Staff Maintenance Engineering Air Force Logistics Command Wright Patterson AFB Ohio in August 1967.

In August 1969 Graham was assigned as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff Systems and Logistics Headquarters USAF Washington D.C. where he served until his retirement December 1 after 32 years of military service.

His military decorations include the Distinguished Service Medal, Silver Star, Legion of Merit with one oak leaf cluster, Distinguished Flying Cross with one oak leaf cluster, Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters, Air Force Commendation Medal, and Croix de Guerre with Palm.

Graham is married to the former Dorothy Wray Reesman and they have three children a daughter Cathrine E. and twin sons Ralph B. and Bruce W.

The Grahams now make their home in Sewall's Point.

CONGRATULATIONS: General John C. Meyer, Air Force Vice Chief of Staff, congratulates Major General Donald W. Graham after presenting him with the Distinguished Service Medal at a retirement ceremony in the Pentagon. General Graham, who earned the Silver Star for gallantry in action while serving as a P-51 fighter pilot in World War II, now makes his home in Jensen Beach.

Moratorium stands on modular homes

STUART: Martin County commissioners on Tuesday refused to remove a moratorium on factory built homes as requested by Dave Gillette. Speaking for Gillette was late for the meeting Bill Ayres explained that he planned to construct units on Sth St.

"For a quality home constructed it conforms to the requirements of the Building Code is welcoming and does not look like a trailer."

Commissioner Bill Scott said he had written to Gillette asking for an explanation on the state regulations governing the industry and received no reply. He was learned that mobile home regulations are being compiled by the state and will be completed by Commissioner Frank Wa... pointed to a Gillette mobile home in Rustic Acres that complied with Southern Building Code regulations but not with those set down by the Martin County Commission. But we made the changes and Gillette has dropped that particular model from his line, Ayres said.

"I am in no way shape or form in favor of modular homes in Martin County," Commissioner Bill Owens said heatedly. "Don't get too involved with investments in them as long as I am on the board. The modular home industry had one of the best lobbyists ever to get this law passed, he continued. All we're doing is wasting time discussing this. It's ridiculous."

I'm opposed to Mr. Owens statements, County Commission Chairman Bill Myers said. I think there has to be this lower cost type housing. This county does not have to be all Taj Mahals.

We've all been about mobile homes but there's nothing else for people to go to, Myers said.

Commissioners agreed to take no action at this time awaiting a decision by the state on regulations covering factory built housing.

Frank Woodrich keeps sense of humor though handicapped

By DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH As Florida approaches Christmas the people rush around from store to store to get their Yuletide goodies, decorating their Christmas trees and homes for the holidays. They take their mobility for granted.

But Frank Woodrich, 24, can't rush around. It is difficult for him to stand much less move. Yet in his own way the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodrich, owners of Crossroads Cottages in Jensen Beach, is planning his hustle and bustle in his mind, and is just as active as those who rush from store to store.

A victim of rheumatoid arthritis, Woodrich has learned to live with his handicap and the operations and the artificial hip.

"I have so many scars criss-crossing my body, I'm beginning to take on the appearance of a road map," he said recently.

It all started when he was 16 with a swelling of his right knee. He was in the hospital for a while, the swelling went down, and he returned to normal. Then as a freshman at the University of Illinois, the swelling returned and in December 1966 he had his first operation. The "synovectomy" removed diseased lining around his knee.

In February of 1967 they operated on his left knee.

Frank Woodrich had to change schools, and squeezed as many hours of study for credit as he could in between the now frequent operations. He attended Elmhurst College in Illinois.

In December of 1968 the disease had spread to his hips, and another operation was needed. In May, 1970 an artificial hip was put in, and the operations continued.

Last December, he had more operations on his knees, and knows now that he will have to have another artificial hip if he hopes to get around on the ever-present crutches.

Woodrich is taking a five-year program at the University of South Florida in Tampa, to attain a master's degree in, of all things, rehabilitation counseling. His quest is rehabilitation of the man, someone with a handicap who has conquered the problem and wants to show others how to do the same.

"I think of my arthritis as a ruthless, unscrupulous opponent that posed a very real threat to my mental and physical health," he says.

"In time I was able to adjust to the pain, discomfort, sleepless nights. But the mental anxiety was the hardest.

"I found I was embarrassed by the fact that I walked on crutches. My disability was threatening my life, sapping my energy, forcing me to make deliberate and calculating plans, and robbing me of my social life and active health friends.

"Throughout the conversation, bits of humor jumped in, and Woodrich told of thinking about becoming a pharmacist.

"After all," he said, "I was taking fifteen to twenty pills a day, one known antiepileptic, one an anti-depressant, one an anti-gout, and who knows, I get in on the profits.

"The greatest fear comes from his family, who receive credit with making life much easier for him, and endangering his health by encouraging such wonderful food that I live in constant fear of gout adding to my problems.

"I have learned to cope with my problem and would like to help others overcome their handicaps.

"Woodrich credits Mrs. Carla Parrish, Ft. Pierce caseworker for the Florida Division of Vocational Rehabilitation with helping him with understanding and encouragement and financial assistance with his studies.

"There have been many very dear friends who have worked hard to convince me that being disabled, Frank Woodrich is a very wonderful thing to be," he said leaning back in the chair by his desk.

"Every one of us is handicapped in some way. I feel that those who are handicapped with alcoholism, bigotry and racism are far more disadvantaged than I'll ever be. Their disabilities prevent them from discovering each individual person as an abundant unique source of warmth, love," he said.

Frank Woodrich has made his peace with God. Seeing him walking on crutches might evoke pathos, but knowing he brings pride and inspiration. The mountain is conquered, all the while Woodrich is a man

HE STUDIES Frank Woodrich, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodrich, is a student at University of South Florida and is seeking a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling.

PARADE WITHIN A PARADE. The Port Salerno Elementary School's entry in the annual Martin County Christmas parade was a parade within a parade with the youngest soldiers following the gaily decorated float. This entry won one of the first place permanent trophies awarded by the First National Bank in Stuart on Saturday's parade.

Christmas parade was greatest ever

STUART Warm weather sunshine skies and an array of spectators greeted Santa Claus as the Christmas parade held Saturday in Stuart. The Christmas theme of the parade ranged from cartoon characters to real-life floats bringing the official beginning of the Christmas season to Martin County.

Although there was no martial aspect of the parade was lacking but blaring sirens of police and fire apparatus siren recorded music and the left-right-left of children's marching units helped to fill the voids between the marching bands of Martin County High School Murray Smith and Stuart Middle School.

Tyrees have holiday guests

Guests of the Dwight Tyrees over the Christmas Holidays will be Mrs. Jane Dixon and girls, Robin and Christie. Janes mother and father in law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dixon of Ashe arrived by car on Dec. 10th from Des Moines, Iowa. They will be joined later by Ed Dixon Jr. Jane's husband and their son Brian and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ridgeway, and their son Michael who will be flying in on Dec. 16th. The visitors will be staying in the Henderson Mobile Home while in the Park. It looks like a gay Christmas for the Tyrees.

Personals

Irma and Charles Farr had their son Bob and his wife visit over the past weekend. They live in Clearwater, Florida.

As Cubs was one of the four members of the Stuart Sailfish Club to be named as an observer at the Sailfish Tournament held Dec. 10 thru 13. Others from the park were Al Wicks, Alden Burnham and Larry Moore. All boats participating left from the Seafarer Inn pier.

It was a great shock to the many friends and former neighbors of Sarah Hoadley to hear that she had passed away in the early summer in a Nursing Home in Syracuse, New York.

Not having heard from her good friend for a long time Mary Neese called the home of Sarah's son and was shocked to learn of her death. Having lived next door to Sarah and her husband for a number of years I feel it is a fitting tribute to say. She asked so little and gave so much.

Gertrude and Bill Coch rane who bought the former Rita Raper trailer two seasons ago are back. They come from Campbellford Ontario. Since Bill has been ill during the summer his brother in law and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fiorentell drove there for them and return to their home in Florida a few days later. Bill tells us he is improving in health since getting back to the park. Keep it up Bill and you'll be back to normal by spring.

Two of the happiest people on the park are present are Andy and Clara Pickard. Their son Joe and wife Hazel of Ventura, Calif. had made arrangements with Joe's sister Mary Larson to meet them in Tampa. It took some doing but they managed to arrive there at the same time with Mary coming from Chicago. Their uncle Joe Gabler of Tampa drove them further on to visit their parents. It was plain to see that nothing could have made this couple happier than a visit from their kids. They will be staying until Dec. 12th when they will leave for their respective homes.

A note from Karl and Bessie Theilig with parts of interest to their friends as well as the Phillips.

We're feeling especially happy that George and Jane Phillips are here and they expect some of their family down for a big celebration so we will be sharing kins. Although we were happy to have seen and visited with them this summer, I had a lovely trip out to Dallas to visit Ted and Ruth Lampell. Then in September we drove to visit Helen in North Dakota and be with her family. Also Theilig's came back home to Karl's sister came from Germany to visit. It was an exciting time. Sister Lenn did not speak English and I know very little German and Karl had not been in conversation with it for many years. But otherwise we managed.

The Theiligs have been winter residents of the park for many years and their children grew up and went to school in Jensen. Also their daughters first son was very ill as a baby and at one time it was thought he would never be able to live a normal life. He is now a healthy happy boy.

So all you who know the family well this will be happy as well as interesting news.

Sages travel 13,000 miles in summer

OCEAN BREEZE PARK Bertie and Milton Sage whose permanent home is on S. 6th worked the state of Pennsylvania this summer for the Woodall Publishing Co. Knowing the great distances they would have to travel and to also keep an appointment in Columbus Ohio where Milton was to be the speaker at the Ohio Mobile Home Owners yearly convention before they started on their summer's work they left here March 31 with their car and travel trailer.

After so many miles and so much concentrated work they felt a little relaxation was due them so with five months work accomplished they charted their vacation route and after reporting at the head office of the company in Chicago Sages who used to live in Napa Cal. thought that would be a good starting point. They parked the trailer in Napa and after visiting with friends and their youngest son who lives in Oakland they left on a two days trip to Hawaii the home of their oldest son and his family.

Arriving back in Napa they headed in their trailer for Klamath where for the next five weeks Milton fished for salmon while Bertie among other things pecked and canned wild blackberries for jam and canned the freshly caught salmon.

It was while they were in Klamath the Sages were joined by Milton Parke formerly of O.B. and Betty and George Ryder who live on 5th Ave. O.B. Both of the men caught their limit of salmon too. Bertie's father lives in Klamath Cal. so a visit with him was a must.

The Sages then moved on to Victorville Cal. in the High Desert to attend the Airstream Rally and again met with the Ryders. They then set their sights for Florida stopping at Havasu City, Ariz. to see London Bridge. While spending the night in Mesa Ariz. they met Harold and Micky Schlaffer a couple who at one time were Ocean Breezers. As Sages were leaving Tucson going east a car and trailer came by. It was Harry and Ann Bartle another couple from the park, so the latter given in memory of their friend Carl Zinc who passed away recently. the gift of a used wheelchair Joe McNamara, a former resident of the Sara living at Cedar Pointe. The ambulance bonds are very grateful for your gifts

Our trip to Hawaii

By Ethel McDowell

Our well planned AARP trip to Hawaii, the 50th state of the union and perhaps one of the most beautiful and of course the most glamorous.

We arrived at the Island of Hawaii on October 5th in the city of Hilo which is known as the Orchid or Volcano Island. Although it rained we looked forward with keen delight to the tours and sights to be seen.

The following day we visited the Volcano National Park where we saw lush jungles of great tree ferns and towering bamboos. Our lunch was at the Volcano House located on the rim of Kilauea crater. Here is the home of the Fire Goddess, Madame Pele.

After lunch we drove to Thurston's Lava tube which is a cave left from one of the active volcanos.

We visited Rainbow Falls with its colorful and ever changing rainbow vistas. We passed Banyan Tree Drive a Japanese Park, Sanpan Fishing Fleets and Orchid Anthurium Nurseries. We saw natives making leis and floral arrangements and we admired the finished products. Our host was Bally Keimiu, owner of the hotel and his family are entertainers.

Next day on to Kona along the Hamakua coast line on the north side of the big island. We passed the Parker Ranch, the world's second largest Hereford cattle ranch.

Another memorable tour was to the Isle of Maui, driving to the Iao Valley, between gorgeous cliffs and seeing the needle, a fern covered spire rising 1200 feet into the Valley air.

Kauai was another lovely spot. This trip included a ride on the Lahaina Railroad, a six mile ride past Pioneer Sugar Mill plantations, fields of sugar cane and royal Mauai coconut groves.

Fortunately for us it was Aloha Week in Hawaii and we saw the King and Queen with their court.

One afternoon we went for a delightful riverboat cruise up the Wailua River to the fern grotto which is full of overhanging ferns and where we heard the popular Wedding Song. Here also we bought koa seeds to bring home as flower leis.

Honolulu was not forgotten. Here we saw the national cemetery, Mt. Tantalus. Here Ernie Pyle is buried and hundreds of those brave lads killed in the Pacific area.

At the Polynesian Cultural center we saw many colorful displays of Polynesian arts and crafts. This spot was operated under the Mormon College and students act as hostesses, guides, dancers, etc. to assist them through college.

Sunday we went to Pearl Harbor this cruise takes you to the spot where lies the great battleships Arizona and Utah.

My memory cannot recall all the trips or the many sights enjoyed. As we boarded the plane for home it seemed as if there were calling us to hurry back and it has been said that once one visits Hawaii one can never recover from its thrilling beauty.

THE COUPLES MAKING THIS TRIP FROM THE PARK WERE: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Knop, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bartel and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Piersick.

Holiday out-lines

By BETTY TAYLOR
283-4624

Road-grimy cars and trailers are bring more snowbirds to us from the north every day. Some are vacationers in for the Christmas season, but many new arrivals and old friends are back for the winter. Welcome to all.

• • •

Our recreation co-ordinator Mrs. Marsetta Brockel bank is scheduling many activities this year including parties and classes. The Christmas party was an unqualified success. Evelyn Faust was in charge of the gifts for migrant children. song sheets were stenciled by Liz Faust and mimeographed by Evvie Smith and B. Taylor, and decorations for the rec hall were made by the craft class.

• • •

Evelyn and Marv Smith received congratulations on their 25th wedding anniversary which was celebrated with dinner at the Outrigger and on Dec. 12 a surprise dinner party was held at B Taylor's trailer honoring them. Carolynn and James Allen of Palm City, contributed a decorated anniversary cake and two freezers of homemade ice cream and Mary Cammack's mother-in-law made a coconut cake.

Doc Birkbeck received congratulations on his birthday last week.

Every Sunday our board president, Boyce Belt and various board members are at the rec hall to meet with anyone who wishes to ask questions or offer suggestions.

We have two recently married couples in the park. congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. A. Thomas Scott of Cape Elizabeth, Me., and to Curtis and Muriel Chase of Randolph, Mass.

Introduction of the bowling pin has created new interest in our shuffleboard contests. Sessions are held at 1 p.m. each day to prepare for the tournaments scheduled for the second week in January. Officers this year are Leo O'Neill, prexy; Fred Kiefaber, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer Olive Taylor.

When you can't locate Nora and Bert Turner, look on the river. That's where you usually can find them sailing in their Flying Dutchman. Jr. Bert showed nature study slides recently, followed by slides from western U.S.

Beginners square dancing is a new activity in the park. Members of the group meet Thursday evenings.

• • •

Edna and Joe Doc Vansant have arrived from Rehoboth Beach, Del. Edna had an accident to her foot this fall and her friends are happy to see her walking so well.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill A. Friend, of Arlington, Va. are staying on Lot 30 for a month.

• • •

We welcome to the park new lot owners Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Pascoe, 317 Kalamazoo, Mich. and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Howard, 334 from Haugen, Wis.

• • •

Some residents have left us to spend the holidays at home. Gone for a while are The Leo O'Neills to Allen Park, Mich. They return Jan. 4. Granville and Myrtle Jones have gone to Charlotte, N.C. to visit an ailing relative and spend the holidays. James and Jessie Regan, 333, have left for Weston, Mass. Jean and Ralph Taylor, who rent a lot here each winter, have gone home to Plymouth, Mich. To spend the holidays with their children. Marcia and Everett Rupert have gone to Lake, Michigan. Their home burned to the ground while they were here last winter, but this Christmas will be spent in a lovely new home built this summer.

Bingo continues a favorite Saturday evening sport. Winner of the coverall jackpot last week was Gert Long.

• • •

It's good to see Tel and Charles Deutchman, Evan and Bill Starr, and Harriet and Dick DuBlon back in the park. The DuBlons covered 13,000 miles this summer in their trailer.

• • •

Fran Wode's popular exercise class for the ladies is in full swing. Not so the short-lived class for the men. I understand only three men attended, then there were two, then there was one, and then none. Can it be that our park residents are such grand specimens that they really don't need exercise? Come on now, fellas.

Park manager Marvin Smith has promised some trailer hints and maintenance suggestions from time to time. His first is not to be too upset if your water purifier doesn't give you much water through the faucet. Some cartridges will not last over a month here because of calcium and sand stopping up the purifier. With regular usage cartridge life should be about a month.

When the water is reduced to a dribble, it is time to change. Also, it's hot down here, so don't forget to put water in your battery regularly. Warped cells can result from water levels getting below the cells. This will short the battery. If your battery is hot and boils the water out, it is a sign that your univolt is overcharging.

The Stuart Bicknells welcome their son, James, for a holiday visit. Also hosting a son for the holidays are Alice and Jim Elder. Their son, Bob, has been sailing in the Bahamas.

Since this is my first column, I haven't gathered much news about the various activities now going on in the park. Hope to do better in the future. Please call me with any news items you'd like to see in this column. See you next week.

The articles were distributed recently by Mrs. Scott and Mrs. McMaster, social workers. They distributed the items at Indiantown and Joan Cassens of Salerno assisted in that area.

Needy families whose names begin with A to K are asked to call for their Christmas baskets on Thurs. day, Dec. 23, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Those whose names start with J to Z are asked to call on Friday, Dec. 24, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. at the Salvation Army Center, located in the old Lyric Theatre building on Flagler St.

Each family must present the letter they have received from the Salvation Army.

The canned goods appeal in the schools was very successful, according to Edwin Dasson, local service unit chairman. High school students gathered 3,500 cans, he said.

Mrs. Morris introduced 2 new members to us Mrs. Charles MacAllister and Mrs. Berghild Songdahl Allen. A short business meeting Mrs. Fred Morris and Mrs. Arthur C. Mills acted as judges for the arrangements for the home. The winners of those for the living room were made by Mrs. Leon C. Older. Mrs. Sterling Chambers, Mrs. Arthur Mills and Mrs. Fred Morris. The winners for the dining room were Mrs. J. Lee Taylor, Mrs. Clifford Greenland, Mrs. Charles Munch and Mrs. Fred Morris. Lake Manor Park News

By Corinne Davenport

Ninety six attended the Christmas Pot Luck dinner on December 13th. Much credit goes to the committee consisting of Sylvia Sman, Madelen Ballanz, Helen Crosten, Edna Eastman and Elinor Elben. It takes a bit of planning to get that number in the club house but everyone was served promptly and the food as usual was delicious. We're glad to find one thing that Lake Manor residents have in common, they all like to eat.

Following the dinner Martha Miller and Jean Fischer presented their ever popular skit. They are Ocean Breeze neighbors and we thenak them for coming.

Many stayed for dancing, presentation of gifts and to enjoy this opportunity to be together.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hoke and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cramer. Other family visitors and new residents were introduced by Chairman Bill Davenport.

Reluctant farewells were said to Mildred and Ed James who are leaving to make their home in Deming, New Mexico to Susie and Dale Butler who are moving to Venice, Florida and to Lee and Tan Olson who are soon to occupy their new home in New Port Richey.

We shall certainly miss them but wish them much happiness. Jean Fischer and Martha Miller presented their gifts.

The Shuffers weekly Round Robin was played December 13th. There are six newcomers. Bringing the membership to thirty two.

It is gratifying to see so many taking an interest in this game and a compliment to Agnes and Frank Mensse who have worked so hard to bring this about.

Three game winners last week were Fred Ballanz, Frank Mensse and Harry Heatley.

Don't forget the movies on January 4th, 7:30 p.m.

The next business meeting will be held at the club house on January 13th at 7:30 p.m. Let's have a good turn out as there are several important items to be discussed.

The January Pot Luck will be on the 20th at 6 p.m. The following committee will serve:

Jan Robertson, Liz Krakau, Margaret Jones, Flora Cobb, and Ethel Bullock.

Our best wishes to Judy Cline and Norman Brissette whose marriage took place on January 21st in Alexandria, Tennessee.

Norman is the son of Charles Brissette of Lake Manor and Judy is a teacher at Martin County High School. She has been a park resident here since it was opened. The couple will reside here for the present.

Major and Mrs. Robert Milligan and Kathryn Jet with and Michelle from Woodridge, Virginia are visiting her parents Zeta and Lee Tucker.

House guests of the Fickets are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammaster of Lancaster, Penn.

Spending the Christmas holidays with Ethel and Carl Brewer are their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brewer and their children, Douglas, David and Janice from Burke's Street, Ohio.

Betty and Louis Zwahlen will spend Christmas Eve with their daughter and husband Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Baumgartner in Central Florida. They will be joined by Mr. Baumgartner parents from Miami who are spending a vacation in Florida. Louis Spends Christmas Day at home visiting with all the family. This has been a pleasant vacation which the Zwahlens have enjoyed with their daughter, sister and brother.

Betty and Louis Zwahlen celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary and Christmas Day with their daughter and family in Palm Beach.

Ethel and Ben Pickle left early in December for their home in Indiana with relatives and friends in that area.

Bea Bradeen will have an Christmas guests her daughter and family Mr and Mrs. Gordon Pritchard, Sharri and Diane from Warren, Ohio and her son, Richard Masters and friend from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Robert Mather is the new owner of the former Hill mobile at the upper part of the park.

A native of West Virginia Mr. Mather travels all over the country following construction from Union Hall, West Palm Beach. He says he is not ready to retire but did feel an urge to have a permanent home to which to

Life is still a challenge at 90

By ALICE HICKEY

Life presents a series of challenges to each of us. Raymond Reid, who will be 91 years of age December 21, not only accepts any challenge presented to him but goes in search of more.

Perhaps the greatest of all is the ever present challenge to do anything his years seem to driving to and from Iowa each year. When we get to be his age we're not quite what we used to be even if we do think so.

Raymond Reid is also a wit. A formula for a long life was no problem for him to answer.

It is very simple, he said. You just pick parents who have enjoyed a long life. That's all it takes. My father used to be 97.

Talking with Raymond Reid convinces one there is no apparent end to his talents. A partial list of such talents include being a lyrical professional photographer, oil painter, licensed radio ham operator, author, Montana homesteader and [illegible] businessman with [illegible] being a successful business man, operating for many [illegible] business since 1920.

Reid and his wife Lillian are both members of the Martin County Senior Citizens Activities Club. He has been elected to serve on the board of directors for a term of three years.

When the group expressed a desire for their own clubhouse, Reid promptly went to Tulsa and adapted them to the use of the local group. The Martin County Senior Citizens Activities Club, Raymond Reid [illegible] to be the president of the local club now.

One of the most recent [illegible] Raymond Reid [illegible] is the publication of his book, "Reminiscences of Raymond Reid." The book is a collection of [illegible] which he has written over the years. It is [illegible] and adapted from [illegible] and [illegible] Montana [illegible] Africa.

Reid's many [illegible] are [illegible] of Raymond Reid's life. In the [illegible] he [illegible] and [illegible] Montana [illegible] homesteaded.

Advanced in age, [illegible] competency of [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Reid [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Cook of the Week

BY RUTH BOWMAN

Sweet-Sour Meat Balls

JENSEN BEACH Mrs. Lucille Tyree of Ocean Breeze Park is sharing a combination of recipes with us this week. We had planned on her delicious SWEET-SOUR MEAT BALLS recipe, she had obtained from a niece in Virginia. Then Mrs. Tyree mentioned a family Eggless Milkless Butterless Cake.

How about giving us both of them. I asked. Then all we have to do is cook some rice or noodles, make a salad, and dinner will be ready.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Tyree are from Des Moines, Iowa, and have lived here since 1960. They have two daughters, Margie in Texas and Janie in Iowa, and three grandchildren. "I love to sew, I love to cook and I love housekeeping," Mrs. Tyree said. She also enjoys riding her three wheel bicycle and recently has taken up shuffling.

SWEET-SOUR MEAT BALLS

4 or 5 slices soft bread
1 cup milk
2 eggs beaten
1 teaspoon salt, little pepper

Soak bread in milk. Squeeze out milk. Mix all together, form into balls and roll in flour. Fry in deep fat. Drain on paper towel.

Sauce: Mix 1 cup sugar, one third cup vinegar, one third cup tomato sauce, another cup sugar, and one tablespoon flour. Stir until thickened. Pour over meat balls. Serve over rice or noodles.

Eggless Milkless Butterless Cake

Two cups sugar, 2 cups water, 2 cups raisins, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 2 teaspoons nutmeg, 2 cups shortening, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons soda, 2 cups flour.

Bake 50 minutes at 350 degrees. Frost with caramel icing.

CHAIRMEN--County Commissioner Frank Wacha right is presented with the gavel as the new chairman of the commission by outgoing chairman Dr. William G. Myers. Looking on at left is newly elected vice chairman Commissioner Elmer Powers.

Wacha is elected chairman

STUART--Frank A. Wacha was elected chairman of the Martin County Commission during a meeting held at the commission's annual organizational session on January 4. Wacha has been chairman before, once serving six years as the chairman of the county board. Elected vice chairman was Elmer Powers.

The two were nominated by Commissioner Bill Owens at the session. It is indeed an honor to nominate these two gentlemen. The election unanimous.

Owens praised the work of outgoing commission chairman Dr. William G. Myers over the past four years, saying it was a pleasure to serve with him.

Myers, rising to hand the gavel of office to Wacha, told the commissioners he enjoyed serving them for the past four years, but felt it was time for someone else to take over the office.

Myers stated he hated the thought of leaving the commission, but felt that with the new four year terms, it was time for someone else to take over the office

Commission approves

15 units per acre, four stories are interim plan

STUART An interim plan zoning for Martin County after grudging approval of conservationists and property owners and the compromise allows the county a stop-gap amendment to use until a master plan is completed.

A public hearing attended by over 200 density-conscious residents at the Stuart Woman's Club, resulted in the county commission acceptance of density of fifteen units per acre, and height limitations of four stories without approval and two stories with commission approval.

A ban was placed upon construction within twenty-five feet of the high point of ocean dunes unless the commission unanimously approved the project.

The interim measure is sure to hold until the master plan is prepared and is out the usual argument in the density fight that has raged for over a year in the county.

Master planner Ros Cowell told those at the meeting that the density problem in Martin County was far from resolved indicating that it would take public support of the proposed plan for its presentation to the county next Spring to bring about other than density based upon what the county wants to be.

Cowell indicated earlier that he would present several alternatives making certain that the political climate of the plan acceptance would be met with one or another alternative.

Public services were high on the list of objections to high density with the sub-standard county road from Jensen Beach to the southerly tip of Hutchinson Island being used to explain the position of a fifteen-unit per acre density affording the possibility of almost 10,000 units being built on the island top.

In the past Commissioners Frank Wacha has objected to high density on the island due to the two-lane bridges and potential traffic congestion, and due to the lack of proper water supplies to the island.

Local groups have recommended as little as five units per acre as high as 25 units per acre as he density for the county.

TOUCHDOWN David Milan roared through the Palm City line to score six points for the Jensen Beach Midget football team last Saturday night. Milan scored three touchdowns and Warren Maloney scored one of the game which was Jensen defeat Palm City 20-0.

Hypocrites abound

The Fourth Estate wears many hats, from the massive metropolitan media of the New York Times, Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle and Chicago Tribune to the little bitty bleatings of the Jensen Beach (Fla) Mirror, the Fayette County (Iowa) Union, the Murray (Utah) Eagle and the Sapulpa (Okla) Herald We must include the states in the names of smaller newspapers as they are not known too well outside their home town coverage areas

The base of those businesses is the first amendments to the Constitution, guaranteeing freedom of the press, and that base is interpreted in many ways, to many ends

We have battled for that first amendment fighting any method of government intervention into that right and have entered into the grey areas of open public meetings advertising and circulation taxes and any form of government attempts to control the press through either law or taxation

We do so with a free spirit believing that the slightest government control can lead to further government control And, control of the free press is control of the people's minds

As the Fourth Estate is both small and large newspapers, the defenders of the faith gather in protective societies, of which there are two of major proportions the American Newspaper Publisher's Association, and the National Newspaper Association

ANPA represents the metropolitan giants and NNA represents the 7,000 small newspapers in the nation

In the December 18 issue of Editor and Publisher spokesman for the big newspapers an editorial decried the request by small newspapers for the traditional exemption from government control under the Phase II guidelines we believe the public interest and the free press principle will be served best without special treatment for news media exempting them from a business regulation that is supposed to apply to everyone the editorial concluded

How the highly regarded E&P editors could have justified such a stand is incomprehensible

It was E&P that supported special legislation first called "the failing newspaper bill" later retitled "the newspaper preservation act" that would exempt metropolitan newspapers from anti-trust suits for illegal competitive practices

We as small newspapers sitting under the umbrella of massive metropolitan market saturation, opposed such favoritism on grounds that to ask for such special favor was to open the door for future controls of our newspapers by Congress

We wanted no special legislation giving favor to newspapers

It is the same with Phase II We want no special laws governing the operation of our newspapers If we violate the anti-trust laws, we should be punished for that violation but anti-trust is a long way from economic guidelines wherein the government can control our publications

Large newspapers have regiments of lawyers and tax accountants to handle their various appeals to the bureaucratic boards who would handle the Phase II guidelines Small newspapers find it difficult to be able to afford someone to fill out the forms for the government that we already have to do without adding more in the forms of appeals to more boards under Phase II

We feel that our larger brothers in the Fourth Estate are being somewhat hypocritical in their support of Phase II guidelines for newspapers, after crying for special exemption for themselves under anti-trust laws

And we know that the editors of E&P must have swallowed hard before they printed their Exemption eliminated editorial

A wise move

The decision of General Development Corporation to join in the research and study of effects of development upon the Jensen Savannas was a wise move which we heartily applaud along with the company delay in asking approval of the East Port St Lucie plat

This might be a landmark move, heralding a future concern of all developers for the effects of their building upon the environment and offer guidance to the Martin and St Lucie County Commissions that will save money for the taxpayers and offer a safer course for building in South Florida

GDC previously took such a step, but it was a unilateral one The study of the effects of development upon the North Fork of the St Lucie River by the University of Miami and the resultant decision of GDC's President Fred Roach not to touch the natural beauty of the pristine river was done without government help and support

We know that Commissioner Frank Wacha, a watchdog of county financing will welcome the financial and technical support of GDC in this study which will affect the future water supply of the people

We hope that both county commissions cooperate in the study as the savannas stretch across the county line and what affects one county will certainly affect another

Wasting vital strength

The United States could now be on the way to paying for the antitechnology binge of recent years In the opinion of a leader in both aerospace and commercial manufacturing, the chief operating executive of NOrth American Rockwell Corporation we are now fighting an eleventh hour battle for survival

Safter last year more than a quarter of a million persons have left the aerospace industry, and at least one out of every five was either an engineer or a scientist The forces of antitechnology, that have undermined the space program, have also undermined technological advances in other areas

Our growth as a nation is a history of technical innovation Engineers and scientists have been the key element in creating the most productive and the most successful nation in the world In spite of this we are turning our backs on technological progress at the very time otherde nations are forging ahead A consultant to President Nixon has warned that this disparity in technical effort may have begun to be reflected in our trade with Europe and Japan Import of high technology products from Europe is increasing at a 20 percent rate while the rate of export growth of similar products from the United States averaged only nine percent

The North American Rockwell executive Robert Anderson stresses that "It is not incidental that aerospace unemployment the U S decline in research both military and civilian our drooping balance of trade, and the potential loss of U S technical superiority are occurring simultaneously

Disbanding the country s scientific resources in favor of politically appealing programs to improve the condition of the poor, the aged and the disadvantaged is as foolish as a man drawing on vital reserves of strength to chase a desert mirage Only a strong nation can serve the best interests of these people Above all else, it is of utmost urgency to preserve intact the source of America s strength the space and technology oriented industries which are the foundation of our progress, productive capacity and security as a nation

Positive action

Two philosophies of environmentalism or ecological preservation have taken shape One places a heavy emphasis on negative action In substance it would simply curtail human activity and reduce our lives to a substandard existence The other philosophy envisions new and improved ways of doing things and of using the Earth s resources

A good illustration of the latter philosophy is described in a New York Times feature on timber harvesting methods being developed by the forest industry to satisfy both ecologists and the need for more profitable timber harvesting practices An official of a large timber products concern declares that it is possible to clearcut a forest in an aesthetic manner that will not give the harvested area the looks of Iwo Jima

The Times piece reported on a cooperative undertaking of this company and the federal government in the Teton National Forest in Wyoming The undertaking is an experimental logging operation on four tracts of timberland Ingenious machines were built for the experiment With this special equipment developed by the forest products industry waste is virtually eliminated An impact on forest environment is held to a minimum and two or three years are gained in reseeding operations One machine reduces the entire tree tops branches and leaves to chips

This is an example of the kind of preservation and use-of resources embodied in the positive environmental philosophy of moving ahead rather than backward It is the only philosophy that can meet both people s needs and conservation needs

GREETINGS OF THE NEW YEAR

Smooth sailing for a successful year is one of our many best wishes to you.

Dick Campbell

A year of writing

After a year of writing a column each week it is interesting to go back over what you say, and many things gain in perspective as time goes through its paces

The year opened with a column bemoaning the loss of the Dolphin playoff game to Oakland The last line in the column read Next year things will be different After watching the Dolphin-Kansas City game I feel like I should go into the prediction business

Several times during the year I complained about the long meetings of the county commission As time passed the meetings became shorter but just as Dr Myers learned how to rush things up he goes out of the chairman s chair

The end of January I wrote of the need to "renew" downtown Jensen Beach, solve parking problems and reroute traffic As we start a new year we still need to do the same

Several times during the year it was raining that got the needle, but the year passed without a look at a comprehensive plan for zoning and traffic coming out of the zoning board

The columns of opinion concerning the health department from the bottom to the top echelon were filled with anger over the fact that health officials would not even admit that a problem existed until the county commission demanded a hearing on answers to the charges of The Mirror in a health series This is where the anger belonged on the editorial page

Of course, my moments of embarrassed pleasure I shared such as the time I lost a button from my coat at a reception given by President Nixon in Washington the time I ran out of gas on the mini-bike, and especially when I wrote the wrong information on daylight savings time and Ralph Evinrude almost missed his plane because of it!

Spending several days in Tallahassee during the legislative session proved to be quite rewarding, widening my scope and understanding of the state government I wrote about

Of course, my efforts at cooking discoveries made by mistakes and the recipes I suggested, led to increased sales of Alka-Seltzer and the establishment of our "Cook of the Week" feature so that some good cooking could be enjoyed by our readers

Throughout the year I wrote of the public right to know and found the Government in the Sunshine Law was working well was accepted by honest lawmakers and government officials and after this year of challenge, find that the people are in the best position ever to gain access to information about their business government

In one column I suggested that the ambulance problem might be solved by having all deputies trained to handle first aid, and that all patrol cars be stretcher-equipped station wagons I also suggested in another effort that the civil court dockets be cleared of minor cases through the New York plan of having binding arbitration by a panel of three lawyers No results

The effort at being a carpenter showed I'd better stick to newspapers and I revealed a new way to win at the dogs I remembered to write about how forgetful I was and several weeks later wrote of how I forgot to get gas, borrowed several gallons from Wally Woodrich and ran out of gas again I still haven't paid him back the gas I forget to do it

The lady who lost her car brought a laugh from those who have been in similar positions, and many joined in my protest of the University of Florida "lay-down" football team shooting for a record for John Reaves

Wrapping up my year of columns I gave my annual Christmas gifts spoofing the wonderful natures of people I know both public and private The most telling comment I had was from one who said "I'm going to write a letter to the editor asking why you use a photo that is ten years old on your column

Bill Britton

Thoughts on a new year

It is that moment in time That small second in the rush of the ages when we wait Wait out the last hours left in a year growing old and tired with what might have been It is the time when we look Look ahead to a new start in a new year with great expectation and perhaps just a little fear It is the magic moment when we pause on our daily treadmill to hope what we might become in the reflected light of what we have been

It is a time for reflection, and perhaps a resolution or two It is a time for thoughts deep and revealing Let me share a few with you

Go into the new year placidly amid the noise and haste and remember what peace there may be in silence Speak your truths quietly and clearly and listen to others even the dull and ignorant, for they, too have their story

Avoid loud and aggressive persons for they are vexations to the spirit But do not compare yourself with others for you may become vain and bitter for there will always be greater or lesser persons than yourself Enjoy your own achievements as well as your plans

Keep interested in your own career however humble for it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time Exercise caution in your business affairs, for the world is full of trickery But don't let this blind you to what virtue there is, for many persons strive for high ideals and everywhere life is full of heroism

Old and Helpful Proverbs

The Great Wall is a very easy one but we all like the to suffer.

Things are really starting to move along in our new Recreation Hall at last. The boiler heard it up and now everyone find out what's going on and get all the announcements first hand. A piano an antique record player ping pong badminton and several other games have been added. We are all waiting for the new tables and chairs so that cards, bingo pot luck dinners and other activities can be organized for the entire group.

Regular weekly activities will be starting in January 1972 that is Exercise classes fishing tournaments pot luck suppers movies bingo bridge and many others will all be on the agenda.

Tentative plans are being started for chartered affairs also in January for trips to places such as Disney World flights to the Islands of Bahama Nassau etc. as well as other places you may suggest. Travel films will be shown in the Rec Hall preceding these activities.

How about a Rock Festival not the kind you are thinking of. This is to gather rocks on the beach for a future rock garden at Venture Out Beach and picnic grove area.

Mr and Mrs Lenard Chace from Middleboro Mass visited with Dot and Sam Durkee recently. We hope you had a real nice time and enjoyed your stay at Venture Out.

While your correspondent is away up north enjoying the ice and snow and you are all enjoying the sunshine keep gathering some news for me of what's going on around Venture Out so that when we return there will be plenty to go to press.

In the meantime we want to wish everyone a very Happy New Year and hope 1972 is the best yet. So until later God Bless you all.

Venture Out news

SUNSHINE—Enjoying the Florida sunshine outside the Venture Out recreation hall are Ernest Ravinet, Herman Heins, Auto Autenreith, Howie Homer and Bruce Slagle, relaxing and having a bull session discussing the state of the Union.

Lake Manor Park News

By Corinne Davenport

A very loud crash at 2:30 a.m. on Tuesday caused most of us at this end of the park to jump out of bed, don slippers and robes and dash outdoors. Two young lads were gazing at their upturned car apparently unhurt but surprised. Their story was that they had fallen asleep and awakened just in time to see the power pole. That and the north gate to the park were demolished but the boys had managed to steer out of their car as grand as new. Electric power was cut off for about an hour and a half and we commend the night sheriff and the power company for their prompt arrival at the scene of the accident.

The two day winds certainly left a desolate look to our flowers and shrubs but as someone asked "Wouldn't you rather have that than a blizzard?" We would.

* * * *

In spite of it being a busy Christmas week the shuffleboards were out to play their weekly round robin. We congratulate Jerry Bollendacher for being the only three game winner.

* * * *

Two new members were welcomed to the club, Kate and Charles Bernales.

* * * *

Guests of Elsie and Stan Wade for the Christmas holidays were their daughter Priscilla and husband John Winship, their children Larry Carol and Bill of Allendale New Jersey.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Whittemore of Deerfield Beach were Christmas guests of Doris and Lee Tucker.

* * * *

Christmas visitors at the home of Lee and Tan Olson were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Westveld of Zephyrhills Florida.

Susie and Dale Butler were Christmas hosts to their children Mr. and Mrs. Norman Butler Kathy and Steve of Brevard, Indiana.

A Prayer for Christmas and all the Year: Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who seek for a world of reason and understanding, that the greed that lies in every mans heart may die, his day be magnified that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them, that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses, that the true spirit of this Christmas season, its joy, its beauty, its hope and above all its abiding faith may live among us, that the blessing of Peach be ours, the peace to build and grow to live in harmony and sympathy with others and to plan for the future with confidence.

Herbert and Thelma Jones are back. Everyone in the park was pleased Tuesday 21st of December to have the Jones' home again with us for the winter. They flew down on Tuesday and their daughter Helen and son in law Jerry Hager drove Jones car and the Hagers car down and arrived Thursday afternoon. They were accompanied by their son Brian and daughter Leslie.

They will visit with the Jones over the Christmas Holidays.

* * * *

The Ritenours entertained the Jones, Broullettes and Alma Kramer for dinner on Tuesday evening.

* * * *

The Jones home has been like grand central station ever since they came back and we are very glad that Herbie has recovered from his surgery last August to be back with us. Thelma and Herbie both need to rest up for awhile as they have been under severe strain for four months.

* * * *

The Hobby Meeting attendance was down a little on Tuesday as everyone has been busy getting ready for the holidays. Altho many grandma dots and more beads, bracelets and afghans were being made it was decided that this year the meetings will be for members of the park only and their house guests. We purchased a new 45 rpm 10 tray, free frigidaire since last meeting and it was in place and in very use.

* * * *

The same basic reason for the smaller crowd at Bingo Monday night was given. The games were pretty well divided but Mildred Stinnett won the jack pot.

* * * *

The movie about Switzerland will be shown January 11th at 7:30 by Jim Whipple world traveler sponsored by Indian River Community college.

* * * *

Bob and Juanita Broullette purchased the ne 50 x 12 Mobile Home from the Wininger Brothers and have moved into it. Don and Lois Wininger had lived in it for about a week while their 24 x 52 mobile home was placed on a lot and made ready for occupancy. Our park is beautiful with the new sign and all the Christmas lights on most of the homes.

* * * *

Many of our folks here have family visitors for over the holidays. As I can I will name them for you and after they are from next week.

* * * *

Alfred and Gertrude Mayer and Alma Kramer have gone to Virginia to spend the holidays.

* * * *

Al and Phyllis Ramses are happy over the holidays that their son Jack, who is in the Merchant Marines is home with them for the Holiday season.

Holiday out-lines

By BETTY TAYLOR
RE-4883

Our park is bursting at the seams with vacationers filling every vacant lot. Dec. 28 is prize day for best decorated trailer and/or lot and a nighttime walk showed hard work put in toward the prize. Winners will be reported next week.

* * *

This year strolling carolers led by Mr. Wright serenaded residents. Some brought instruments along to give depth to the singing.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. J.A. Vansant had Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holler of Windmill Village. The Hollers are also lot owners in our park.

* * *

The Holiday Dinner has set some sort of record for pot luck dinners. In fact, this year it has been sort of a can you top this one kind of thing. Decorations were by Martha Lewis and Helen Sidwell. Ila Taylor's handy helpers included Jim Elder and James Lewis at the door. Evelyn Faust drawing table numbers and Alice Elder, Mabel Hendrickson and Mary and Mark Sumner general factotums. Dot Blair at the organ. Bill Henrichsen and Neil Tussing accompanying and Mr. Wright leading us. carols were sung.

* * *

Bingo was held Thursday instead of Saturday evening because of Christmas. Last week's coverall winner was Gert Shaeter.

* * *

Linda and Thomas Hall and their daughter Cindy of Lexington, Ky. are staying with us for three weeks. Good to have them back again this year.

* * *

Friends of Don Feeling will be glad to hear he is gradually improving after surgery.

Linda and Allen Korn along with Traci Lynn are staying for the season again this year. You'll see Al whizzing around the park helping manager Smith or spelling off the lifeguard.

Item: Membership in the Bent Coathanger Society is expanding fast. Those interested contact Art Nagy or Ev Rupert. To the uninitiated, usually any odd acting person walking back and forth, then yelling "Here it is", will turn out to be a member of the BCS, and is not to be reported to custodians of the local funny farm.

Rescue two from surf

JENSEN BEACH–Lifeguards and a volunteer rescued two swimmers from the pounding surf and dangerous undertow Sunday morning after which the guards closed the beach to swimming.

A new tow line recently purchased for undertow situations was used in both cases one a swimmer who was caught in the current and couldn't make it to shore Henry Clements, 19, Sea gate Harbor swam to the victim but was unable to pull him in to shore. Another guard Mike Pauly 19 swam out with the line and Mike's brother Ricky 18, and Gerrit Mayer 23 of Jensen Beach pulled them to shore.

Minutes later Bob Schmidt 19 a holiday visitor at Crossroads Cottages heard James Lawrence 19 Jensen Beach shout for help and swam to him. Lawrence had caught his foot in the rocks.

Schmidt, a strong swimmer who had learned life saving on his way to becoming an eagle scout on Hudson, Ohio couldn't fight the surf and undertow, and shouted for help. Lawrence got a leg cramp and was in pain. Mayer swam to the two and all were dragged to the beach with the new tow line.

The tow lines were used again on Monday when several rafts were swept up near by the undertow.

Jack Goldsmith head lifeguard said that there were over 500 people at the beach Monday and all the swimmers were in the same spot about 150 yards south of the seawall ending and by cards out into the water where the recent storms have changed the underwater terrain leaving a deep hole with strong currents.

Cooks to retire from OB News December 30

Tom and Nellie Cook regret to inform our readers that we are retiring and leaving our Ocean Breeze Page December 30th 1971.

We appreciate your cooperation and that of the Ocean Breeze Management and Staff which have made our work a pleasure rather than a duty. During our associations with you we have made many very good friends friendships we will treasure for years to come.

The Mirror Staff have been very co-operative and we also value them as friends. Due mainly to health problems we find it impossible to carry on our newspaper work any longer but our sincere wish is that someone will take over where we left off and make the Ocean Breeze Page an even more popular one.

The Jensen Beach Mirror than it has been in the past.

Wishing you all a Merry and Healthful 1972
